Saga of Vermont's Most Colorful Tradition Makes Horatio Alger Look Like a Piker

We are presenting in this article a history of the first thorough exact history of [illegible] Like most parts of the [illegible] should be credited to [illegible] complete account [illegible] was a college [illegible] carried in the second [illegible] dance number [illegible] published through the [illegible] and other periodicals [illegible] searched and [illegible] articles [illegible] present Cynic [illegible] runs the history up to

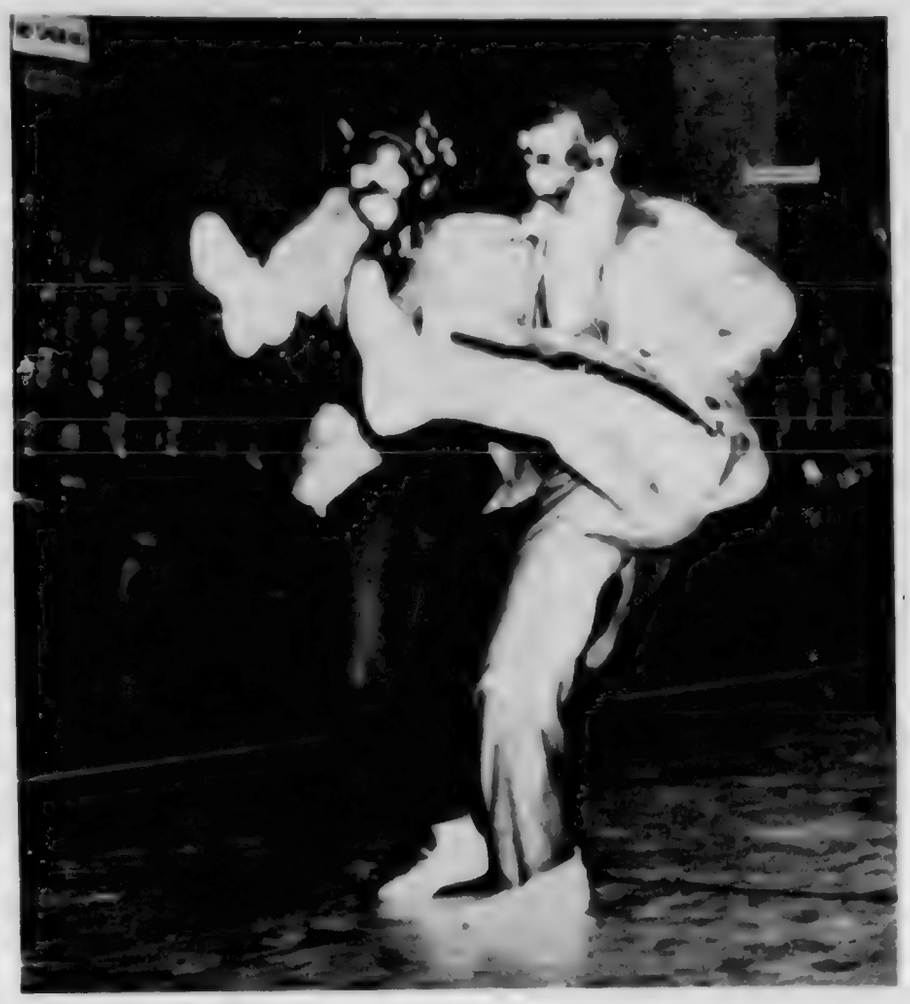
For reasons [illegible] to us, the dance did not mate[illegible] This was the spark that ignited [illegible] student, Frederick T. Sharpe, who [illegible] and of his classmates conceived [illegible] idea of Kake Walk. Sharpe was [illegible] characterized by one writer as a "Genius [illegible] bordering clownish." We, the students [illegible] University, humbly salute him for [illegible] an event which has become a [illegible] tradition, and in all probability will [illegible] to be such.



Crude But Merry

[illegible] of them were made in the well-[illegible] Hash House" the Friday noon [illegible] the performance of Saturday eve[illegible] Today we find directors working [illegible] parties planning for this event. [illegible] following morning there appeared on [illegible] bulletin board a poster reading "Kake [illegible] at the Drill Hall Tonight. Every[illegible] welcome." Gray-bearded academi[illegible] looked with a suspicious eye on the [illegible] coming event. From available ac[illegible] many attended. The affair was [illegible] informal, there being no attempt [illegible] dress. The entertainment consisted of [illegible] the Virginia Reel and other simi[illegible] dances to the accompaniment of a [illegible] orchestra.

[illegible] following year, Kake Walk was [illegible] built above the chapel in the [illegible] One McCarthy, the proprietor [illegible] these establishments," is said [illegible] donated a keg of beer. The treas[illegible] was jealously guarded and hidden in [illegible] place above the loft.

A masquerade took place following the short, but spirited and spicy skits. Ladies of the faculty were conspicuous by their absence at these "prehistoric Kake Walks."

There is no written account of what took place after the performance, but from the stories of the stove and other furnishings having been thrown through the windows and the stained walls of the chapel below the loft, caused by beer which in some way had trickled down through the rafters, it becomes reasonable for us to believe that McCarthy's donation was consumed in part. Ted Randall, then editor of the Cynic, was summoned to the office of "Prexy" and told that he must demonstrate with the students editorially for their lack of decorum. Randall, embarrassed, confessed that he had been an accessory in the orgy and felt that it would be improper, if not altogether pointless, to upbraid others. The president, amused, but sensing a lot of humor in the situation, replied, "Well, you can condemn property damage, can you not."

Authenticity Questioned

The details of these first accounts of Kake Walk have in all probability been enlarged upon and thus it becomes a matter of conjecture as to their authenticity concerning, especially, the keg of beer and all that it implies.

As a result of the second Kake Walk, Professor Barbour, then dean of engineering, with other faculty members, outlawed Kake Walk as an activity undeserving to college students.

Two years elapsed before another presentation took place. Kake Walk was held in the Armory and Old Opera House from 1896 to 1904. During this time, the program consisted largely of minstrel shows, takeoffs on timely topics and satires on personalities of the faculty.

The mid-winter of 1904 finds the event taking place in the University gymnasium where it was held up until 1938. Although "walking to do kake" was a feature introduced as early as 1897, it did not receive prominence until about 1904. Couples dressed in fantastic costumes paraded up and down the well-known paths in the gymnasium to the stirring music of "Cotton Babes." The prize for the winning couple came from the kitchen of the Marshall Hall House in Cake, a donation from the cook. Classes rather than fraternities competed in the stunts. A few years after 1904, judges were picked from neighboring towns to choose the winners of the skits and of the "walking" contest.

A change came with the rise of the Greek letter fraternities and they became the competing parties. In searching the history of Kake Walk, it is amazing to note the resourcefulness of individuals in creating startling and breath-taking feats in their stunts. A dummy thrown from the rafters, trailed by a spotlight, thrilled the audience to the extent that screams of horror were heard as the dummy dropped to the floor with a dull thud.

Quality Improves

As years passed, the quality of the kake walking itself became improved up to the point of a highly refined art, until to the present day it represents a display of zest and precision that is delightful to behold. In keeping with the development which took place each year, a ruling was instituted that each stunt must be timed. In detail, this procedure consisted of each fraternity hanging on to the floor their properties and setting them up in darkness, presenting their skit and again removing their properties in darkness, all to be completed in a given amount of time. No more, no less. This requirement lasts up to the present day. It is obvious, I am sure, that accomplishing the feat requires a maximum of efficiency and boundless practice. This fact alone is one of the attributes of Kake Walk which makes it a stirring spectacle.

From 1910 to 1923 and as records seem to show, a "Grand Parade" was held at the beginning of the performance. Unlike the attitude associated with the circus parade, that having seen one you have seen all, these "Grand Parades" represented the height of originality. It is almost phenomenal as one scans the pictorial history of these parades to see ingenious devices and contraptions that would bring laughter even to the grimmest individual character. "Custard Pirates." In one of these characterizations during one Lenten season, a mat, lay on a hospital stretcher labeled "Lay Fighter—Lent." The stretcher bore the caption "Offered, dead but not buried." A seven-footed centipede "Dr. Vodstead" by name stood by inserting a bottle into the head of Bolshevism. In 1922, an issue of the Cynic, the college paper, was dedicated to Kake Walk. Printed in red ink, we see glaring accounts of the faculty complaints concerning the Vermont Club Rollers in a Kake Walk skit and in an advertisement in the College Book Store in "Kake Walk Neckties" at "Kake Brew" at considerable price and then again there is an account in the will of Victor O. Stalnecker, giving the University fifty dozen rubbles with postal gum to gentle members, including the colored and "a certain professor." His estate was headed by the auction. All the news that's fit to print and much that isn't!

King Crowned in 1934

In 1934 the idea of having a king rule over the Kake Walk festivities was introduced. This proved to be very popular with the student body and the experiment this time launched a modern campaign on the campus. There were only three contestants that first year, the slogan of the Nudist Party, who backed one of the candidates was "Students, we ask you only to bear with us." The lucky king chose as queen by tossing dice.

The reason for Kake Walk's growth both in size and popularity should no doubt be laid to the fact that nearly every year since the commencement innovations have been added to the program. Some of these innovations have been retained and are now a very integral part of the whole mardi gras. Yet despite changes and improvement, one thing stand out, the original presentation of stunts and kake walking has remained essentially unchanged throughout its forty-four years.

I should like to mention the year and the name of several of the outstanding changes that have been made in past times.

From Armory to Gym

In 1904, as has been mentioned above, the scene of events was moved from the state Armory to the University gymnasium. It was held there until 1938 when it was shifted to the Memorial Auditorium because of the advantage in seating capacity. The year 1908 marked a big change in the Kake Walk prizes. Previously, the only awards had been cakes, but in that year the Kappa fraternity stunt cup started the idea of presenting cups in addition to the cakes. Today two cups are given for the best walkers and the best stunt, two cakes are distributed, one of the most recent recipient being the fraternal K. O. T. C. band which congregated for the walkers with that catchy, unforgettable tune of "Cotton Babes."

The grand march of very early days became in 1910 the "Parade" which gave individuals and groups the opportunity of imitating eccentricities of professors, politicians and other characters of public interest or of showing by means of allegorical or comic representation current events. After 1923 the Parade was a part of Kake Walk only occasionally. 1937 was its last year, and finally today it's counterpart may be seen in the parade of characters at the intermission of the Masquerade Ball.

In 1912 the so-called "Sub-freshman Week" was originated. Boys from secondary schools of the state were invited as guests of the University at Kake Walk time. They were entertained and lodged at the fraternity houses and received meals in old Commons Hall. In 1914 twenty-six girls from the Alpha Chi Sorority entered as a team of walkers. (First women couple since 1934.) On great signboards was the appeal made to alumni, parents and friends outside Burlington and the state special trains were run from metropolitan areas, an alumni breakfast was held, guide showed visitors about the campus, photographers from naturally known magazine were present and the sororities and fraternities held open house "during afternoon of the big week-end." Three prizes were offered this year for the three cleverest costumes at the Masquerade and five prizes were offered for the best candid camera shot of Kake Walk. Princess Cynic-ette assumed position as "Cotton Babe," selected at the Kake Walk but I am not sure that this custom did not originate until 1938. In addition to the lady, was idea of a half hour mass meeting at which the candidates for the royal crown could make speeches to their assistic galaxy, a half hour of radio time over WCAX was allowed the hapless contestants the night before election.

In 1939 changing was introduced into the kake walking as several couples also the number of black-faced feminine ushers was increased to forty. In 1940 larger appropriations ($400) were allowed the

Close Game Marked By High Scoring Play Of Killick, Kaufman

Panthers Come Right Along

Capt. Red White of Vermont opened the game with a field and Ed McGarry of the Panthers followed it right up with Middlebury's first score. Here, the Panthers found the range and sitting through the Catamounts defense with ease jumped out to a 13 to 5 lead in the next 10 minutes of play.

Fred Lapham and McGarry were doing the most at the scoring and the Cats couldn't break through the tight Middlebury defense. But when the Vermont reserves took over the Panthers found it tougher going against the fresh players, and Vermont slowly began to close the gap in the score.

Cats Trail at Half at 17-20

At the half the Cats were trailing 17 to 20. With the first team back in the game and playing ball the way it should, Middlebury stayed with the state collegiate champions for the first half the way but when the Virginia Five got going the Cats fired home with ease.

Larry Killick

Field Night for Killick

Larry had a field night in topping the scoring for the game. He threw in eight field baskets and two fouls for 18 points, besides setting up many of the other Vermont baskets. Kaufman was second for the night with 11 points, all but three of them coming in the final last half spurt staged by Vermont. Red White was close behind with nine points.

Fred Lapham's sensational shooting from far out was some of the best seen in McGillcage this season. He netted the Panthers six field goals, all from outside, while McGarry contributed 11 points, including 3 great foul shots. Ed Kaye and Wally Ouimette were right behind him with seven points apiece, accounting for the rest of Middlebury's scoring.

Kake Walk "Chiselers" at Work

Faculty Recalls

Thus the Saturday production would have the benefit of Friday's experience.

Professor Carpenter: The first one I saw was about twenty years ago. I didn't expect to see very much then, but was impressed by the smoothness of production considering the small amount of time. I don't know of any other institution that puts on anything like it. The stunts have improved in the last few years since 1930. The elimination feature was a good idea which helped to streamline the program.

Professor Tupper: On November 19, 1896, in the cage under the Old Chapel, a man from the far South saw what he thinks was the first Kake Walk of the University. A year later an even blacker walk was staged for town as well as gown in the Armory, and the blackening process has gone on annually ever since. A southerner seeing creatures so coal black displayed on Vermont ground feels that the world has turned upside down. It is not taking coals to Newcastle, but bringing Newcastle to the coals.

Dean Simpson: Tradition has it that the first Kake Walk originated in the fertile brain of a distant relative of mine, Fred Sharp, who was a brilliant student but much more famous for the initiative and originality which he devoted to schemes for thwarting the college authorities. I can remember, as a little girl, hearing Fred recount his exploits as inventor and director of the Kake Walk held, I believe, behind blacked out windows in the cellar of the Old Mill.

In my undergraduate days I attended Kake Walk only once and I've never seen a better one. Maybe that was because it was my first.

In 1919 I traveled from Morrisville to Waterbury by a horse-drawn stage on a very cold day in order to attend Kake Walk which, by that time, had begun to show signs of streamlining. Kake Walk is a Vermont institution, not perhaps a reflection of our best intellectual and histrionic effort but very useful as an excuse for a holiday and an occasion when we welcome our friends back to the campus.

Father Doesn't Owe Sonny An Education

Phtladelphia, Pa.—(ACP)—Father doesn't owe sonny a college education, according to a ruling of Pennsylvania's State Superior Court.

Setting a legal precedent for Pennsylvania, the tribunal, upon appeal of Morgan T. Binney, Glendolen, Pa., reversed a lower court order that he pay his son $1,500 a year for "campus" support.

Getting away from the jive talk, Sam and his band can be categorized as follows: theirs is a danceable group which plays tempos in good taste, is pleasing to hear, and even more pleasing to dance to.

All of which brings us to the end gates. As old Satchmo, known in the common parlance as Louis Armstrong, would say, "Come on, Sam, make me feel it, man!" Yes, yes, Satch, I hear you talkin'.

The judges who have read the copy for it have enthusiastically rated it as excellent. It will not be in competition with the fraternity skits.

Thus one can see from the brief list of facts above that Kake Walk has by no means been a cut-and-dried affair; rather an opportunity for originality and new ideas has always been and will surely continue to be present. Problems which have been confronted one year are usually dealt with in the following year or years. In 1938 the question of keeping the tone of the stunts up to par arose. By 1940 this was solved by granting the competing fraternities a sufficiently large sum of money for their expenses. This is only one of the many examples of this which might be given.

CYNIC Mirrors History

It is interesting to trace the history of Kake Walk through its publicity in the CYNIC's columns. In 1893, the year which introduced Kake Walk, the CYNIC devoted eight lines to an article about it, in which it was stated that "faculty and ladies were conspicuous by their absence." In 1894 fourteen lines were magnanimously given to a "past" on the event. It was fast becoming a popular subject for the press. In 1897 the CYNIC mentioned that $165 was realized from the gala affair; in 1900 there appeared a five-line article heralding the coming event and a ten-line article after it commenting on its success. In 1901 three editorials were written in defense of Kake Walk, which seemed to danger of becoming defunct, and that year's presentation was given a full column report! Records seem to show that in 1922 the CYNIC first dedicated an entire issue to U. V. M.'s "Mid-winter Frolic."

Kake Walk has gone through four principal transitions. First, it was a private affair which took place in the "drill hall," after that it became a public affair and was held in the armory (this phase was called the armory days), next the stunts gradually came into being, and finally we have our present elaborate function. It has changed from simple frolic to a huge entertainment, requiring months of planning and weeks of careful preparation, and from hastily formed acts by a heterogeneous group of students, through class skits, to the highly organized and smoothly produced Greek-letter fraternity stunts. And the extravagant Masquerade of today has risen from a fancy dress ball about which the 1895 Ariel has this to say: "Three squeaking fiddles, a melodeon, and a trombone of brasse furnished the toon. The merry was the musik as they played, and joyous was the dance

Three Motives

It seems to me that Kake Walk has three great motives: it has been the good will part of the students in [illegible] contact [illegible] that it [illegible] makes possible the pantheon hockey trip and a host of great and respected traditions besides which it does [illegible] and disseminate news. Its significance to the alumni body [illegible] unexpected. Kake Walk affords them the opportunity of returning to their alma mater at spring time. However, on the presence of the alumni at the workings a time when they may get with the undergraduates a time when they may behold the vast processes of the college in action. I think that a plan perhaps on a smaller scale similar to that in 1938 when special trains were put from metropolitan areas and when guides were ready to point out parts of the campus should be considered when future Kake Walks are discussed. I also think it may be an excellent stimulus to student spirit to offer prizes for the best candid camera shots of Kake Walk as was done in 1938. The short mass meetings which gave all of the voters a chance to hear and see their candidates for the thrones should if at all possible be re-subscribed to. Perhaps these ideas have been abandoned for reasons of which I am not aware. It seems that something similar to the old sub-freshman idea might be considered, too, at some future date. The innovation to be tested this year, that of having an all girl stunt, adds a neat feminine touch to the affair! We prophesy (and not too cautiously, either) that this idea will survive and that the excited roaring crowd of spectators will recognize that "something new's been added."

From the Kake Walk of December 19, 1893, to the Kake Walk of February 21, 1942, winds a long and colorful path but not entirely an easy one. The unique affair has become deep-rooted now. In each year's event the tempo of the campus is reflected and the true spirit of Vermont is there as well. Thus we, who are about to witness the forty-fifth Kake Walk, salute a grand and glorious tradition!

The Vermont Cynic

The Official Student Newspaper of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College

VOL. 60 FEBRUARY 24, 1942 NO. 8

"In the Beginning Was the Word"

With this issue of the CYNIC we turn over the editorial column[s] paper to a new staff. It may be an age-old tradition for college [edi]tors to summarize hopefully the principles they have stood for and the [aims] they have tried to bring about. But it seems rather pointless to [us] time now to repeat again ideas that received little or no attention [at] a time when they were burning campus issues.

Almost every person on this campus—faculty, students, administration—has some inkling of the weaknesses of this institution. We saw it our duty as the campus newspaper to constantly point out these bad spots and suggest ways and means of removing them. Successfully or unsuccessfully we have stuck to that policy throughout the year. And some seed on stony ground, and some seed—but the crop was exceeding thin.

Ideas are not playthings to be juggled with in an idle hour or a happy-go-lucky bull session. Ideas are the preliminary to constructive action. But in the beautifully sterile atmosphere of the University of Vermont ideas like pathetic sparrows beat their wings weakly in the void awhile and then fall to rise no more.

1. We need more school spirit.
2. In order to have school spirit, we need leaders.
3. So we get the leaders.
4. Then there are no followers.
5. Then there are disillusioned leaders.
6. Then there are no leaders.
7. We need more school spirit.

Rome was not built in a day. Nor Vermont in a year. But the Romans did not wait for an Orpheus to tootle the stones in place. In any constructive achievement there is first the idea, then the word, then the action. The University of Vermont has some ideas!

This week the Security Fund drive begins right here on the campus. If successful, the campaign will free the University from financial worries. We would like to believe that the solution of our economic problems is also the solution of our cultural and social problems. But the latter problems commenced in the happy days before the financial debacle of the University and will, undoubtedly, continue into the palmy days of financial rehabilitation, unless

Classes To Hold May Reunions

A month ahead of regular schedule, twenty-one classes of the University of Vermont alumni will hold reunions this year May 15, 16, 17 and 18 at the 130th Commencement of the institution. With all the colleges of the University on an accelerated war program four weeks have been cut from the second semester by shortening Easter vacation and the final examination period.

The classes of 1892, 1897 and 1877 will be the oldest groups back to this year's Commencement which will mark the beginning of a new era in the 151 year old University, both in service for the Vermont Knight's Head during wartime and in other ways.

Now returning for reunions on the seventh of May will be the classes of 1892, 1893, 1894, 1895, 1896, 1897, 1902, 1912, 1913, 1914, 1915, 1917, 1922, 1931, 1932, 1933, 1934, 1941.

The plans, announced by Mrs. Isabelle Y. Gallup, secretary of the Alumni Council, are as follows: Friday, May 15, as Class Day; May 16 as Alumni Day; Sunday, May 17 Baccalaureate; and May 18 as Commencement.

University of Texas To Sponsor WPA Group

Prof. And Student Views On Support Of Security Fund

PROFESSOR LONG: It is seldom given to students to contribute directly to the welfare and continued existence of their university. The opportunity afforded by the campus drive of the Security Fund for each member of the student body to make a contribution, large or small, as he may see fit, grants him the privilege of participating actively in the University's vital struggle for a new and yet more worthy life.

DOCTOR TARTAR: I'm all for it. They're going about it in a good way in using the campaign inside the University as a talking point outside. It's just like an insurance man telling a person that his friend bought some, too.

PROFESSOR DEAN: Yes, I think the students should support it. Every student can afford to give something to the Security Fund and, after all, students will have a pride in their University that will make them feel that they are a part of it. They should feel not that they owe it to the University to support the fund, but that they want to support it as a matter of personal pride in their University.

PROFESSOR EVANS: It IS important that the Security Fund should have the support of the entire student body. What counts is not so much the amount of the contribution as the unanimity of the response. Here is a great cause. Let us all support it!

BOB GOSS: I don't see why every student on campus can't support the drive. Every student should be at the banquet Thursday evening, there being no reason why they shouldn't be except an obvious lack of spirit. There's something wrong if we're not all there Thursday night.

GEORGE LITTLE: I'm all for it

DUDLEY DAVIS: It's a great idea that the students should have a part in a campaign which has been looked upon as a matter for merely the alumni. It's big business, but each student can contribute in his own small way.

ROG. HUNTING: I think the best thing the students can do to support the U. V. M. Security Fund is to turn out for the hard luck dinner Thursday and show that they are behind President Millis.

WAYNE DUDLEY: I think it should be supported. The students should feel in themselves a responsibility to see that the University pulls through this all right.

CLARENCE AKLEY: The Security Fund definitely must be supported. The school can't go on without it, and if the students don't support it, it's going to be that much harder to get the alumni to support it. It all amounts to a test of one's loyalty to the school.

Spinach Debunkers To Be Debunked

Austin, Texas—(ACP)—Spinach debunkers of recent years may soon learn that the time for their own debunking is at hand.

University of Texas scientists have developed from fresh spinach a new and important vitamin, which may prove to be one of the essentials of normal development of the human body.

The vitamin is known as "folic acid," and the scientists believe that when it is purified it will prove valuable in medicine. It is known to play a fundamental part in the life processes of plants, animals and human beings.

The name "folic," derived from the Latin "folium," meaning "green leaf," was chosen after the acid was developed from four tons of spinach. It is said to rank in importance with pantothenic acid, so-called "acid of life."

CORRECTION—The name of Leonard S. Berman '42, was omitted from the report of students on the dean's list submitted by Dean Eckhard. This name should have been entered in the list of 85-9 averages

Victory Book Total Passes 1000 Mark

But Many More Recent Books Are Yet Needed

Over 1,000 books have been collected to date in Burlington's Victory Book Campaign according to Miss Frederica Northrop of the Billings Library, University of Vermont, local campaign chairman.

About 600 of these books, stated Miss Northrop, were collected at the city library and some 300 at the University library, the balance coming from other collection points.

"Burlington is doing well," said Miss Northrop, "but we all must do better if we want to reach our state quota of 10,000 volumes."

The local books will be gathered by University trucks if receiving stations will notify Miss Northrop at the Billings Library when they have enough to warrant a collection. They are being deposited in the USO library at the Community Y, where they are being sorted and listed.

"We could use more of the recent books," the USO reported. "The boys like modern adventure, western, detective and love stories. We are also asked for non-fiction books, such as travel, biography, history and science. So far only a limited number of these have come in."

Several shelves of the books have already been arranged and are being made available to service men.

3000 See Teps Win Kake Walk; Phi Sig's Skit First

Girls Present Novel Skit As Exhibition; Ice-Sculpturing Awards Made At Same Time

Phi Sigma Delta's "Devil May Care" won the Briggs Cup for the prize stunt and Cliff Joseph '43 and Charles Itzkowitz '42 gave a splendid exhibition of walking to do kake to win the Preston Cup for Tau Epsilon Phi at the forty-fifth annual Kake Walk before a record crowd of over three thousand Saturday night. Phi Delta Theta was awarded the Hill Cup for the outstanding ice sculpture, a huge layer cake with the figure of a kake walker on it.

Delta Psi was runner-up with their stunt, "Unfinished Business," to receive the Boulder Cup. Their kake walkers brought home the Haves and Carney Cup for second place. They were M. H. Small '42 and C. P. Smith '45. Honorable mention for ice sculpturing also went to the Delts for their defense stamp cake with the "Buy U. S. A. for U. V. M." slogan.

Honorable Mention

Delta Delta Delta received honorable mention also for their ice sculpture.

Kappa Sigma received honorable mention for their novel skit, "Horsin' Around with Orson" or "Wagon Reels."

Professor Long made the award of prizes and cakes. Cakes also went to the three directors of Kake Walk, J. L. Costello, F. P. Logan, and M. J. Reynolds, to the Queen, Sis Lynch, Joe Lechnyr and the R. O. T. C. band; and Lyn Eimer, the head of the inter-sorority skit.

Walkers for Phi Delta Theta, Jack Williams '43 and R. Lockwood '44, received honorable mention for their performance.

Under the reign of King Clarence Akley and Queen Sis Lynch an inter-sorority skit was introduced to the Kake Walk program. "How Green Was My Grass or Cows With the Drag," acted out entirely by coeds and showing U. V. M. without men, vied favorably with the men's skits. The innovation was well received and showed promise of becoming a permanent feature of the program in future years.

The R O T C band under Joe Lechnyr was prominent during the evening, giving out sweet and swing and playing the traditional "Cotton Babes" for the kake walkers. The boys well deserved the large cake which they were awarded.

Other Skits

Other skits on the evening's program were "Fuzza Fuming" or "My Day by Dean Speedy" given by the T E P's and "Soup to Nuts" by the A T O's.

John Costello, co-director of Kake Walk, was master of ceremonies for the evening. Judges for the stunts were His Excellency, Gov. William H. Wills, Mrs. C. Allen Middlebrook, and Mr. Sanford Cobb.

Dean George F. Eckhard, Dean Mary Jean Simpson, Mr. George L. Millikan, and Mr. James Carney judged the ice sculpture.

Judges of the kake walking were Professor Jordan, Professor Ladd, and Mr. Sabin C. Abell.

Other walkers for the kake were: C. Smith '45 and B. Barry '44 for Kappa Sigma; L. Harris '43 and L. Paul '45 for Phi Sigma Delta; N. C. Aiken '45 and J. P. Hoyt '43 for Sigma Nu, and S. Moore '45 and F. G. Hewitt '45 for Sigma Phi.

Kake walkers were judged on position, knee action, toe position, smoothness, grace, costumes, novelty, and steps. The stunts were judged on the basis of originality, teamwork, delivery, properties, costumes, audience appeal, and time.

Cats Romp Over Trinity In Season's Final, 39-23

Capt. White and Killick Sparks Mates; Vermont Record Eleven Wins and Five Losses

The Vermont quintet concluded its most successful season in twenty years this past Saturday at the Memorial Auditorium when a ragged Trinity outfit handed the Catamounts a 39-23 win. The victory gave the Cats a record of eleven triumphs and five defeats for the 1941-42 year.

Playing before an annual Kake Walk crowd that included many alumni famous in their own day, the Vermonters, led by Capt. Red White, completely outclassed the basketeers from Hartford, Conn. At times the game was exceedingly sloppy with lay-up shots missed and passes thrown wild, but the crowd didn't seem to mind this, for the sparkling performances of Captain White and Sophomore Larry Killick overcame the flaws in the contest.

Although the Episcopalians crept up to within two points of the Cats at half time, their threat ceased with the commencement of the second half; and for some fifteen odd minutes their shooting eyes must have been blinded when the scoreboard read 32-17 in favor of Vermont.

Every Vermont man saw action in the Cats' second consecutive win since bowing to undefeated Rochester on the recent New York trip.

Killick did not start to flick in his beautiful swish shots until the second half, thus it remained for Bob Doherty and Red White to pop them in from beyond the foul line in the early minutes of the game. Larry demonstrated his uncanny eye by pushing in three beauties in a row as the last half rolled around. Diminutive Milt Kaufman registered also to put the Cats far out in front and giving them the ball game without too much effort.

The "Kipper" couldn't find the range and had to be content with only three foul shots during the afternoon, as Sophi Killick garnered scoring honors with a total of fourteen points.

What started off to be a poor season for Coach Evans ended in his best at Vermont. We find that the five losses suffered by the Green and Gold were at the hands of teams outside the Catamount class. Dartmouth tops the Ivy League, Rochester ranks among the top teams in the country as does Springfield, and Williams and M. I. T. had more than a fair season in their schedule.

It was the second basketball state title for Vermont in the last two years, as they romped off with the crown, emerging victorious in all six league contests.

Announcement has been made that two University of Vermont graduates in the class of '41, Ensign Frank B. Olson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Olson of Burlington, and Ensign Frederick W. Nye, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Nye of Barton, were graduated from the Air Corps Advanced Flying school at Brooks Field, Texas, on February 20. Having received the silver wings and gold bar of a U. S. army pilot officer, these two men are now awaiting assignment to a permanent tactical unit. They have completed an intensive ten weeks course at Brooks, including seventy hours of actual flight training and 188 hours of ground school instruction. Having mastered the technique of day and night interception problems and advanced formation instrument and cross-country flying, they are now prepared to play an important active role in the aerial defense of America.

Professor Aiken Writes On Teaching

A. F. Aiken, associate professor of English at the University of Vermont, has an article in The News Letter published by the National English Association. In his article Professor Aiken outlines the functions of an English department in a college.

Dividing the field of English into two major subdivisions, Professor Aiken calls them expressing and reading. Under these divisions he has outlined two purposes for each.

Expression, he says, is used to include both writing and speaking. Expression, seeks primarily according to Professor Aiken to arrive at a reasonably correct and clear expression of thoughts and beyond this its purpose may be to achieve a forceful presentation, or to gain the higher levels of literary art.

Reading, also is primarily a tool skill, essential to all walks of life. His purpose, he claims, broadens outward to meet a higher purpose of appreciation of literature similar to a love of music or art.

Professor Aiken outlines the teaching of an English department in advanced work where English literature becomes a field of study in which the material is, as he says, "the permanent record of the mind of the race. In this respect it (English literature) is comparable to history, and indeed inseparable from it."

The winning stunt, "Devil May Care," depicted the creation of the devil and his cohorts. "Hitler and his pals" being brought down to destruction with the triumph of democracy. The second-place stunt, "Unfinished Business," predicted victory for U. V. M. in its Security Fund campaign.

To carry on Kake Walk next year three directors were named: Edwin Blakely '43, Wilfred Benoit '43, and Joseph Corbett '43. Because of uncertain conditions two alternates were chosen, Dudley Davis '43 and Robert White '44.

Co-eds as pickaninny ushers added to the atmosphere of Kake Walk.

Such a blaze of frolic and fun, the most spectacular of Kake Walks passed into history.

Five co-eds have enrolled in the engineering division at Iowa State College.

New Cynic Staff Takes Over Paper

Banquet Speeches Ended Duties of Past Editors

Last Wednesday evening the retiring senior staff of the CYNIC formally gave over its command to the new senior staff. The occasion was celebrated by a buffet supper held in the small dining room on the second floor of the Waterman Building. Ulvio Bardossi '42, the retiring editor, was toastmaster and Mr. Millikan represented the faculty. Professor Dean, regular adviser to the CYNIC staff, was unable to attend.

Dr. Richard Stohr To Give Concert

Dr. Wilhelm Raab of Med. College to Assist

A concert-lecture of unusual appeal will be given Sunday, March 1 at four o'clock, in the Fleming Museum. Dr. Richard Stöhr, Viennese composer and theorist, now of St. Michael's College, will play his own and other piano compositions, with informal discussion between numbers. He will be assisted by Dr. Wilhelm Raab of the U. V. M. Medical College faculty, who is a violinist and owner of the Schubert manuscripts recently discovered and identified with the aid of Doctor Stöhr and Professor Bennett.

Doctor Stöhr is perhaps best known in musical circles for his thoretical works which include textbooks on harmony, counterpoint, musical form and modulation. But he is also a composer of rare gift and individuality. The richness of musical coloring and effectiveness of his tone painting are especially notable in his choral works. In his chamber music and orchestral works, Doctor Stöhr combines a complete mastery of the technic of counterpoint and modern instrumentation with an unusual wealth of original melodic material. He has contributed to almost all fields of music including opera, oratorio, cantata, chorus, symphony, suite, fantasy, concerto, sonata, string quartet, etc.

Born in Vienna in 1874, Doctor Stöhr showed early interest and talent in music, but was persuaded by his family to study medicine; he graduated from the University of Vienna as doctor of medicine. It was not until 1898 that he resumed his musical studies at the Vienna Conservatory. In 1904 he became professor of harmony and musical form at the Vienna

Lenten Services To Be Held Throughout Season

All students should take advantage of the Lenten services being held in the Ira Allen Chapel throughout the Lenten season. These Lenten services are held every Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday in 15 minute periods from 12:25 to 12:40. Five minutes is devoted to organ music which is followed by the Lenten service which on Monday is conducted by a member of V. C. A., on Tuesday by a Y. W. C. A. member, and on Thursdays and Friday by members of the faculty. Wednesday's regular chapel hour will be held as usual from 10 to 10:30.

Air Raid Drill To Bring War To U.V.M. Campus

This Afternoon at 5:30 Burlington Will Be Attacked By "Enemy"

"Get ready for an air raid drill," warned Mayor Piper.

At 5:30 p.m. or shortly thereafter or [illegible] afternoon a drill "hour for an air raid will be conducted on Burlington. With public cooperation the drill minus only the airplanes and blackout, will put the Queen City through all the evolutions [illegible] which would ordinarily be undertaken in a real air raid.

The test or "walk-through" as the mayor has termed it involves all residents of the city almost as much as it will the night scheduled. 5,000 volunteer civilian defense workers, air raid wardens, fire and police auxiliaries, emergency service squads, even the gas, water and electric utilities, medical and ambulance services, Boy Scout messengers and others to man their respective stations.

Public Will Know It

A series of short blasts on mill whistles and sirens, constant ringing of bells, church chimes, will sound the alarm. Police car sirens and the fire department public address system will also be heard.

By that time, the civilian defense volunteers who have been in training the last two months for just such an emergency will be on their way to take up their assigned posts.

The civilian defense control center in the police station will have swung into action minutes earlier, just as soon as the system of colored lights recently installed flashes the "alert." Telephone calls will summon the civilian defense department heads, notify the mills, churches and others in the alarm signal system and start the machinery for notification of civilian defense volunteers to "man your posts!"

Park Cars on Side Streets

"We want to make this walk-through just as realistic as possible," declared the mayor. "It will be good training for everyone just in case. Its success requires the cooperation of every citizen in the city. When the air raid signal sounds the alarm, cars should be driven off the main streets onto side streets and parked. Anyone on the street should walk home if he can get there in a few minutes. In any event, the streets should be clear of people and cars. They will be needed by the police and fire departments."

Research Club Admits Women

After thirty-seven years of exclusive male membership, the Research Club of the University of Vermont has finally broken down its walls and allowed the women faculty members to join them.

Founded in 1905 under the presidency of Dr. Lyman Allen for the purpose of promoting and encouraging study and research in medical and allied sciences, the club was made up entirely of medical faculty. After seven years, Prof. Samuel Bassett, head of the Greek department, made the first impression on the Research Club that men of letters could be researchers, too, and was elected to membership. Prof. Evan Thomas of the engineering mathematics department was also voted to membership at the same meeting.

And now the women have come in. According to the original by-laws, each member must participate in some meeting during the year. With the new members, several new fields of study will be presented to the male minds.

Kappa Phi Kappa Has Guest Night

Prof. Nuquist Speaks On Town Government

Fifteen members and guests met in the Education offices Tuesday night at eight o'clock for the annual guest night of Kappa Phi Kappa, honorary educational fraternity. Professor Nuquist of the Political Science department was the guest speaker and his subject was Vermont town government. Vermont town government is nearer to true democratic principles of government than of any other form. It is that form in which every citizen, man and woman, can have his say about how the money which he pays in taxes is to be spent. It does have many fallacies, however, and Professor Nuquist is one of the leaders in improving town government in Vermont and in improving the quality of the annual reports which each Vermont town is required by law to make. Various phases of government were discussed, and the enthusiastic response kept the meeting going long after it was scheduled to close. Alpha Gamma chaper is grateful to Professor Nuquist for the valuable program which he provided.

C. V. Akley '42 and A. F. Amee '43 each spoke briefly, telling something of the beginning of the Vermont chapter, of the valuable association and inspiration which the members gather from the faculty sponsor, Professor Douglass, and of the programs which are being planned for the rest of the year.

The next meeting will be held Wednesday, March 11, and it is expected that initiation of new members will take place at that time.

U. V. M. Students Elect Officers This Monday

The election for U. V. M. students, the newly established Student Government on the campus, will take place Monday, March 2, in the Book Store.

The nominations for the four officers will be made by a special nominating committee consisting of the four deans and members of Boulder Society. Any additional nomination can be made by petition signed by 150 students.

Nominations for the ten executive committee members has to be made by petition which will have to be signed by at least 100 students.

All petitions should be handed to Clarence Akley '42 or John Spasyk '42 as soon as possible.

R. O. T. C. Ski Corps Provided With New Uniforms and Battle Equipment

The University of Vermont Reserve Officers' Training Corps has the unique distinction of having the only trained, uniformed, and equipped ski troops, so far as is known, among the universities of the country. The University of Wisconsin has a cramped ski troops which, however are not uniformed or as highly trained as those at U. V. M., nor have they the equipment with which the local R. O. T. C. ski troops are provided.

The use of ski troops in modern warfare is the newest of developments. They compare with a parachute battalion or shock troops. Their usefulness was first vividly portrayed to the world in the modern war between Finland, Russia, and Germany. Therefore, everything connected with their use is in a comparatively experimental stage. The ski troops have found themselves faced by the interesting task of working out new methods, strategy, tactics, and, in fact, all phases of military science have had to be attacked from an entirely new angle.

Nor does it take just any kind of skiing to be a member of the ski troops. Under conditions of the greatest variety possible it has been found necessary to augment the Vermonters born with constant practice in order to bring them to the necessary level of endurance and skill. Similar units, even great mobility and many conditions required by modern warfare must all be encountered in practice by the R. O. T. C. ski troops.

Two afternoons a week, the observer may watch the skiing portion of the basic R. O. T. C. course proceeding on the slopes of Centennial Field. Then, on Saturday and Sunday, the Phillips Ski Hut, providing skiing under ideal conditions and on all those days every man who is a member of [illegible] R. O. T. C. ski troops is there. The entire training program has centered [illegible] the ski troops will face, under actual conditions, a group of men picked to combat them in war games planned by the military department. These men who will oppose them, will be volunteers from the four classes of the R. O. T. C. course. The ski troops will be further augmented by the arrival in their ranks, by the end of this month, of the members of the U. V. M. ski team, who have been too busy with ski meets, up to this time, to participate with the ski troops.

The war games planned will be complete with umpires, signal flags, flanking maneuvers, and other actual conditions of battle. It is further hoped to procure blank ammunition for the guns and field pieces to be used.

The members of the R. O. T. C. ski troops who will take part in these planned maneuvers are: R. Paterson '42, H. Wood '42, L. Harrington '43, R. M. Leach '43, M. Stevens '43, H. G. Twitchell '43, F. Boardman '44, A. Mongeon '44, F. Kaliman '42, J. Aseltine '44, C. P. Smith '45, R. E. Waldo '44, R. Swift '43, E. F. St. Marx, Jr. '44, G. B. Ruble '45, R. Page '45, C. A. Plumley '45, D. Phillips '45, D. W. Morgan '44, W. R. Merrison '45, M. McLean '44, F. George '44, K. M. Evans '45, H. K. Drury, Jr. '45, R. Cairns '44, H. F. Crossley, Jr. '44, D. G. O'Brien '45, and F. Miller '44.

Pilgrim Fellowship

Dr. J. Rhett A. Mudd is to be the speaker at the next meeting of Pilgrim Fellowship Sunday, March 1 at 7:30 at 10 South Prospect Ave. This is an unusual opportunity and it is hoped that many will take advantage of this opportunity. There will be a basketball game, refreshments, and entertainment. Everyone is welcome. See you at the Manse!

Red Goss, Harry Parker, Howie Vreeland, Butch Early, Al Warden, Dick Grosvenor, and Moose Savin are still around to shoulder the field events with possible reinforcement from last year's crack frosh aggregation.

The long distances should be adequately taken care of by the ever-winning Webster brothers, Charlie and Fred, Norm Stoddard, Ernie St. Mary, and Bud Hoyt.

Prospective newcomers are Bart Barry and Bish McGill, frosh hurdlers a year ago, and Johnny Reed in the dashes.

Archie Post is very much concerned with his indoor schedule, for this will show whether his key men still maintain their former ability. Because of a late start the participation in the Boston relays has been called off.

There will be a regular meeting of the Independents, Monday night, March 2, at 7.30, in the Fleming Museum. Colonel Daley, personal acquaintance of General MacArthur, will relate some interesting facts about the Philippines. There are many activities left to complete this year. Active participation is essential to make these a success. All Independent men on the campus are invited to attend, not only this meeting, but future meetings.

Catamounts End Court Season

Cats Annex Second State Championship

The Vermont basketeers of 1941-42 have passed in review and have left a dazzling record of eleven victories and five defeats. This year the Vermont hoopsters annexed their second successive state title as they galloped home with the crown, being victorious in all of their six state contests.

What was predicted to be a poor season for Coach Fuzzy Evans ended in his best at Vermont. The five losses suffered by the Green and Gold were at the hands of teams outside the Catamount class. Such teams as Dartmouth and Rochester are regarded as top teams in the country, while Springfield, Williams, and M. I. T. are no mean opponents for any team.

Credit must be given to Coach Evans. Although his material lacked the height of championship collegiate teams, Fuzzy worked his boys along slowly but progressively.

Previous to the Christmas vacation the team won two out of five contests, beating Hartwick and Tufts College while losing to Dartmouth, Williams and M. I. T. The boys then hit the win column four successive times, beating Norwich University, St. Michael's College, Middlebury College and then again St. Michael's in that order before being down by that high-scoring Springfield team. But this setback did not stall the winning ways of the team for they took the remaining four out of five games on the schedule, losing only to undefeated Rochester by the slight margin of ten points. In the last game of the season, in which they smashed Trinity College by the score of 39-23 before a gala Kake Walk crowd, Vermont displayed its typical brand of ball.

Getting off to their customary slow start in the first period, the boys found the range early in the second period and flicked the net consistently with field goals which soon turned the contest into a rout.

There were many factors which accounted for the winning combination of this year's team. There are mainly the team play which the boys displayed on the court, the great playing of Larry Killick in his scoring and passing, the fine work of Capt. Red White and Bob Doherty in the back court, the smart playing of Dick Kipp who improved with every game, the scrap and fight with which Milt Kaufman played, and the relief duty of Bob Carlson and Paul Pullinen who carried the brunt of the reserves.

With the passing of this basketball season there also passes the names of Capt. Red White, Bob Carlson, Dick Kipp, and Paul Pullinen from future Vermont basketball line-ups.

We'll miss them.

Catamount Sextet Sinks St. Michael's In First Victory Of Campaign

Capt. Stephen and Bundy Tally Vermont Scores In Close Contest

By Paul Mason

After driving seven and three-quarters minutes of overtime period, the University of Vermont hockey team battled its way to a 3-2 victory over the sextet from St. Michael's afternoon before squeaking out a ... The win, coupled with the Green and Gold hoopsters' triumph over Trinity, helped make the Kake Walk series end an even more successful one.

After a scoreless first period, the victory-hungry Cat skaters proceeded to garner themselves what seemed to be a rather comfortable lead, for with 14 minutes gone of that period, Captain Jim Stephen, a demon all afternoon, took a pass from Whit Switzer and rifled home the first goal of the day. Shortly after this marker was scored, Stephen broke away down the ice, sifted through the Purple defense, and shot a neat pass to Fred Bundy, who rammed it past the Saints' goalie, and the score was Vermont 2, St. Michael's 0.

After this flurry, however, Vermont seemed content to let St. Mike's come to them with the puck, which the Mikemen were not loath to do. The net result of this tactical error was that Paul Martel and Poirier flipped in two fast goals almost before you could say "Winooski Park," and the count was 2-2.

It was at this crucial juncture in the third chukker that Bundy came through. Taking a pass from Stephen again he skated into a maelstrom of Purple defense men, faked goalie Doc Thabault out of position and slammed the puck into the far corner of the cage for what proved to be the winning tally.

Despite a bit of confusion at the end of the game, when St. Michael's scored what would have been the tying goal on a solo dash by Bob Stickel, the timekeeper ruled that time had been up before the goal was scored, and the Green and Gold puck-chasers emerged from the contest with their first victory tucked neatly away, the final score reading Vermont 3, St. Michael's 2.

The summary:

Rifle Team Wins Four Out Of Five

L. A. Weaver, Jr. of Starksboro, a junior at the University of Vermont, has to date the highest individual score in the seventeen-college rifle team in New England. John H. Pratt, Jr. of Clarendon, has fourth place and Gordon Manson of Burlington has sixth.

Winning four out of five telegraphic matches in the past six weeks, the University of Vermont's rifle team has lost only to Coast Guard Academy by 11 points. The team took over Wentworth 1367-1309, Northeastern 1367-1294, Bowdoin 1367-1332. Bulletins indicating a Vermont win over Yale and Lowell Textile have been received by Lieut. R. J. M. Eyfe, Jr., in charge of the rifle team, although he says he has not yet received the scores. A telegraphic match with the University of Dayton was also taken by U. V. M., 1370-1320.

Firing against the Burlington Rifle and Pistol Club, the Vermont team took its first shoulder-to-shoulder match with them by 15 points.

The rifle team will leave Friday for a shoulder-to-shoulder match against Boston University Saturday morning. The team consists of John Pratt, captain; J. H. Tennien, Pittsford, manager; L. A. Weaver; Gordon Manson; G. J. Holden, Jr., Burlington; H. E. Crossley, Jr., Burlington; R. E. Waldo, Burlington; R. L. Swift, Fair Haven; W. P. Leamy, Fair Haven; and R. P. Story, Rutland.

Frosh vs. Indians In Return Tilt

Tonight Coach Sherm Fogg's rolling frosh will attempt to halt Cathedral High School's Little Indians at 7.00 on the Memorial Auditorium court.

Indians Seek Revenge

The school boys have been pinned back once by the frosh by a 22-19 score in their first game of the season. Since then, they have been defeated but once and have shown surprising strength, mowing down all recent high school opposition and incidentally salting away the Northern League championship.

Frosh Much Stronger

The Kittens have been coming along rapidly of late, and with the addition of Frank Ecklund and Norm Beaulieu, both who give the 45's that much-needed height, the yearlings may upset the dope.

Final for Kittens

This contest will close the season for the Kittens who have taken five contests in nine starts to date.

The line-ups:

'45		Cathedral H. S.
Spylios	r.f.	Akey
Beaulieu	l.f.	Brown
Ecklund	c.	Barone
Lapointe	r.g.	Coffey
Neil	l.g.	Evelti

as simulated problems in various parts of the city are worked out during the half hour test drill."

Get Family Together

Final instructions for the test drill are being given the air raid wardens, fire and police auxiliaries and others this week. "Every civilian defense volunteer should be ready to take his post no matter whether he's at home or at work. Every home owner and tenant should be ready, too. The attic should have been cleaned out to lessen the fire hazard, and a pail of sand, shovel and hose made handy along with a pump and pail of water. The family should be gotten together in what has been decided as the safest room in the house. In a real raid the gas should be shut off."

H. Dean Pearl, director of the air raid warden service, in explaining some additional phases of the proposed test drill said that hypothetical damage to power lines or water mains would be reported to the control center by the fire, police and warden services during the test. A report of a burning building might ...

U.V.M. Graduates Figure In Far East

News Reports Mention St. John '14, Crane '39

Two University of Vermont graduates were recently mentioned in news reports coming out of the Far East. Lieut.-Col. Adrian St. John '14, head of the American military mission in Rangoon, is one and Dr. James E. Crane, Med. '39, son of Dr. Ralph W. Crane of Stamford, Conn., is the other.

Colonel St. John was reported in route to Mandalay in an armored car, indicating completion of the last demolition of a few lease-lend supplies and immobile equipment on Rangoon's docks.

Colonel St. John had the herculean task, it was reported in the New York Herald-Tribune of February 27, of moving northward on the Burma Road thousands of tons of supplies accumulated over the course of months at Rangoon, and Allied observers agreed he had surpassed expectations. Some hundred trucks unassembled for lack of time in a General Motors plant, were major items destroyed, the report stated.

Dr. "Jim" Crane, an aviation enthusiast while in college, is flight surgeon to both Supreme Commander Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell and his assistant, Lieut. Gen. George H. Brett. He is in a picture appearing in the New York Herald-Tribune of February 26, attending a meeting of Allied leaders with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in Chungking, China, to map grand strategy of the war in the Pacific.

U.V.M. Debaters To Meet Drew U.

The University of Vermont debating team will meet a team from Brothers' College of Drew University, Madison, N. J., on Thursday evening, March 5. The debate will be held at 7.45 in the south conference room, Room 240, in the Waterman Building. The topic discussed will be "Resolved, that the federal government should regulate by law all labor unions in the United States." Vermont will uphold the affirmative. This will be an Oregon style debate in which each side is allowed ten minutes for presenting their main arguments, followed by seven minutes of cross-examination, with rebuttal speeches of five minutes for both the negative and the affirmative. The decision will be rendered by a critic judge.

Speakers for Vermont will be chosen from members of the varsity squad which includes Julius Cohen, Daan Zwick, Fulvio Bardossi, Robert Norton, John Felopulos and Abraham Swartz.

TENNIS—Varsity candidates report in Gym at 4.00 p.m., Wednesday, March 4.—B. RYNOWECER, Manager.

Kick-Off "Banquet" Gives Evidence Of Campus Enthusiasm

Freshman Art Students Turn Out Multitude Of Security Posters

They couldn't have skidded another person into the University of Vermont's Waterman cafeteria last Thursday night with the best bear grease ever tried. The students at U. V. M. and their faculty all sat down together for the first time and they really meant business. The occasion was the Kick-off Dinner which gave the first impetus to the drive which will carry the University out of the sea of red ink and the doldrums of just-keeping-afloat.

What they were sitting down to was beans, lots of baked beans, two hundred pounds of 'em dry weight. It was a poor man's supper. But everyone was looking forward to the banquet which will celebrate the end of the poverty streak. That will come when the drive is over, when the salary cuts are restored and the reorganized University is again able to function in every part.

The Students

That the students are behind the drive was evidenced by the enthusiasm displayed as the curtain rolled up on the big show. Everywhere were students helping to prepare the big dining room and student lounge to hold 1,200 guests, polishing bushels of apples, drawing posters and placards. The Kake Walk queen was working with reporters from CYNIC, track men, football players. Among them were girls and boys who never seem to make team or committees but whose main interest is books. They were all there before the drive began and they are all there now that it is under way.

On Display

On display in the University Book Store are posters created by the freshman art students who have in six short months found the spirit that is really Vermont and have seen the necessity for the University's raising the money to keep going.

One of the posters is an open-back watch, showing the intricate interlocking gearing, calling for lubrication to keep U. V. M. ticking. Another shows a thin, old catamount holding a bag, and smiling as the horn of plenty filled by alumni pours a golden stream into it. Another presents a half dozen stick figures of Vermont students going about their regular activities in a storm of pennies from heaven, with the caption asking for more than pennies.

Thetas Initiate Eleven Members

Lambda chapter of Kappa Alpha Theta initiated eleven members on Saturday, February 28. The initiation banquet was held in the faculty dining room at the Waterman Building, with Mrs. Paul K. Freneh as toastmistress.

Those girls who were initiated are Margery S. Anthony '45, Englewood, N. J.; Gertrude B. Austin '45, Brattleboro; Ruth A. Carlson '45, Ruth K. Jordan '45, Harriet D. Pearl '45 and Janice Preston '45, all of Burlington; Elizabeth M. Dahlgren '45, Bristol, Conn.; Shirley T. Hibbard '45, New Britain, Conn.; Frances Ingalls '45, Pelham Manor, N. Y.; Esther G. Munroe '45, Montpelier; Jean E. Smith '45, Forest Hills, Long Island, N. Y.

U.V.M. Debaters Take Middlebury

The Lawrence Prize Is Won Sixth Time

Friday evening in the auditorium of Fleming Museum, U. V. M. won the annual Edwin Winship Lawrence prize debate from Middlebury by a 3-0 decision. This is the sixth consecutive year that U. V. M. has won this debate.

The question discussed was, Resolved: That the United States and the British Commonwealth of Nations should form an alliance immediately after the termination of the present war for the purpose of maintaining world peace. The affirmative was upheld by John Calhoun, John Unterecker, and Charles Pressman, representatives of Middlebury, while the negative was maintained by Fulvio Bardossi, Daan Zwick and Julius Cohen of the University of Vermont.

Fifty dollars in prize money was awarded to the three most proficient speakers. The first prize of twenty-five dollars went to Julius Cohen of Vermont. John Unterecker of Middlebury won the second prize of fifteen dollars and another Middlebury representative, Charles Pressman, won the third prize of ten dollars. The judges who rated the individual speakers were Mrs. Harold J. Arthur, Rev. H. O. Sisson and Mr. Armand LaFlame, coach of debating at Essex Junction High School.

The judges who determined the outcome of the debate were Attorney Frederick Fayette, Mr. John Hylan, principal of Vergennes High School and Mr. Orval Dahl, former coach of debating at St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minn.

The speakers appeared in formal attire in accordance with the long tradition of this debate. Mr. Merrill D. Powers is coach of the Vermont debaters and Mr. Perley C. Perkins is coach of the Middlebury team. Professor Dean presided as chairman of this debate.

Sugar Party To Be Given Saturday

Maple sugar on snow will be the treat offered by the Agricultural College Saturday night in the men's gym at the annual Sugar Party given in Dean Hills' honor.

The food which will be served by the home economic students will include raised doughnuts and pickles in addition to the hot syrup served on large pans of snow. All you can eat is the promise!

The program which will follow will have Prof. P. R. Miller as toastmaster. In addition to the main speaker, Dean-elect J. E. Carrigan, future dean of the Agricultural College, there will be Gov. Wm. H. Wills and Dean J. L. Hills, who will present the various awards which the agricultural students have won in the past year. The evening festivities will be terminated with dancing.

A. C. Smith '42 and Hilda Paquette '42 are general chairmen.

There will be a SCRIBES meeting this Wednesday, March 4, at 7.30 p.m., in the Fleming Museum. Everybody is welcome to attend.

Aviation School At Burl. Airport

New Course May Soon Have Enrollment of 160

A government-sponsored school in advanced pilot training operated by Northeast Airlines moved in on the Burlington Airport over the week-end, and will probably be maintained here for the duration of the war at least, if present negotiations with the city are successful. Its students are headed for army and ferry commands, it is understood.

The school, which now has an enrollment of eighty students and approximately twenty-five instructors, was ordered out of the East Boston Airport by the army interceptor command and the Civil Aeronautics Authority, due to a congestion of traffic and the importance of that airport in coastal defense. These were the reasons given by those associated with the school at the local airport recently, although there was a reluctance on the part of airline officials and city officials to comment in detail until a final conference between them was held.

"The Northeast Airlines is giving instruction in instrument flying at the Burlington Airport," acknowledged Willett S. Foster, chairman of the airport commission.

"Blind flying" tests were in progress over this area as the young pilots continued their training without interruption.

Pupils May Number 100

Transfer of the school embraces plans for the construction by the Northeast Airlines of another hangar at the airport as well as expansion of other facilities there.

Ten classrooms, either in the Waterman Building or in the Old Mill, will be made available by the University of Vermont to the school for its ground courses and technical training, said I. Munn Boardman, airport commissioner. More classroom space may be needed as the school expands, he added.

Have 25 Instructors

While there are now eighty students taking the advanced flying course under the direction of twenty-five instructors, the size of the school may be doubled within a short time, Boardman pointed out.

Seven "link chain trainers" will be used in the ground work, according to present plans. The first one has already been crated and shipped to Burlington, Board-

Forward Together!

The campaign Fund has finally begun its activities on the campus. For months we knew that we would be approached on this matter and to find ourselves and give it a hand. The good times connected with its inception. We have to show the state we have to prove to our alumni and friends that interesting and why we are. Universities are interested in higher education that we are willing to sacrifice so that [illegible] of our hours and cares to help.

It is time when all over the world universities of higher learning are closed down, when books of knowledge are torn to pieces by bursting bombs and burned by flaming hate we have the necessity and duty in education. Could we do that and better than by backing to support of our school which is so much in danger of being closed down. We cannot afford today to lose a single penny voluntarily. We who are fighting for freedom of expression must not allow a few thousand dollars to deprive us of an opportunity to learn how to express ourselves.

We all know how easy it is to get the money. There are many ways and means for us to do our part. Everyone of us should be willing to give up a few cents a day saved by restricting unnecessary expenses. All of us would be only too glad to attend V-8 dances Saturday nights at the Waterman building at a moderate price of admission (30-40 cents per couple). Fraternities and sororities could cooperate by giving bridge parties for the benefit of the Security Fund or by bestowing I. S. A. for U. V. M. favors upon their chosen at formal dances. There is no limit of what we could do. We can easily raise among our student body $[illegible] before the semester is over.

Once again it is up to us. Once again the challenge is put before us. Do we intend to be awakened? Do we want to help. We must not say, "let the next fellow do the job for us". Each one of us has to do his part and only then our school has the right to be saved. Our institution will have achieved nothing if it has not instilled in every one of us a craving for some education (for at least 1 percent education and 99 percent pleasures). We repeat and hope that these words will reach out not only to you, but to all our friends all over the country. This University has only then a claim to exist if we want to have it: if we, the students, want to study in its halls; if the faculty gives us their knowledge gladly and eagerly. That is the reason the security drive has begun among us. We are expected to show to the nation outside that we care to be here, that we intend to stay here to our last cent. This determination, this desire to continue where other classes have left off can only be made plain by our financial sacrifices. And we do not deserve any help if we do not try to help first through action of our own.

After our finances are secured and only after that, we shall come back to Fulton Bardossi's challenge of "educational security." Having been successful in the more immediate more dangerous enterprise, we shall tackle the educational problem and equipped with a new strength which develops from fighting successfully against odds—and a new interest in the tasks which have to be done around us, we shall reap another victory.

We must show the dictators and their satellites that only brute force can close our schools and not a mere $[illegible] a sum, which is so small compared with the money we spend daily in our fight for freedom of education.

There will be a meeting of the International Relations Club at Southwick, Thursday, March 5, at 7.30 p.m. Papers on "World Federation" will be read by Hortense Leduc and Malcolm Mickler '45. This will be an important meeting and all members are urged to attend.

Campus Comment

To the Editor of the Cynic:

Out of all the turmoil in the world today it hardly seems possible that there is still a group of men and women free to share and work for a common ideal. Last night I saw the future of U. V. M. insured in the hearts of those who attended the poverty supper.

We who live in an insecure world have had our doubts about our Alma Mater may put them aside as we work together. For each of us here there is a duty no matter how small it may be.

For a hundred and fifty years the University of Vermont has had embedded deep within the glory of our Green Mountains the stirring loyalty of those who have gone before us. Today in a crisis we cannot and will not let their hopes of future years down.

Our nation is going through hard times but so too is our school. In helping it we will uphold the traditions and spirit of a great cause. There are few places left in the world today where such hopes are still enshrined. Yet I am confident that the spirit which is U. V. M. will not perish on the campus. Friday night I saw it 1,200 strong.

BARBARA DUNBAR, '43.

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

With the Security Fund campaign well under way and with the proceeds from two successful "vic" dances already contributed to the drive, what happened last Saturday night? Why didn't some active campus society sponsor another in the well-started series of ten-cent benefit dances. With the semester's social activities cut to a minimum as it is, it seems that someone let a golden opportunity slip by: a three-fold opportunity to (1) help the Security Drive, (2) give the students good entertainment at a moderate charge, and (3) allow the people on the campus a chance to get together, to share their enthusiasm, to "weld their spirits" as it were. Those 1,200 students and faculty who heard Fulvio Bardossi's realistic yet inspiring talk at the all-campus supper will know what I mean. Anyway, I should like to say to the dozen societies on the hill: let's not let it happen again, eh?

Town Girls Get More Campus Life

"But I don't want to live at home while I'm attending college."

Many a town girl has uttered that objection, and the members of Student Union, women's governing body of the campus of the University of Vermont are trying to give to the town girls as much of the campus life as possible.

On Wednesday evening, March 11 Student Union will entertain all town girls at supper in the Southwick Room. During the meal, the noise and confusion and rapid conversation of the co-eds in the dormitory dining hall will be let loose and the traditional restraints which are a part of the college dining table will be removed.

The supper will be followed by a short meeting of all on-campus girls whom Student Union regulations govern. These girls, who do not come under these regulations, have been invited to attend the meeting and take part in the discussion.

Attendance at mass meetings is compulsory for all women under Student Union. At the meetings, rules and regulations are discussed, changed, added to or discarded. Organization leaders speak to the girls on defense activities, Red Cross, Y. W. C. A. work, women's sports and other phases of campus life. The meetings are generally ended with singing and games.

Independents Win Basketball Crown

Trip Sigma Nu, 33-24, In Interfrat Playoff

Friday February 27 the Independents beat Sigma Nu for the basketball championship to the tune of 33-24. The game was marked by fast playing and furious action, especially during the last quarter in which the Sigma Nus tried to put on a last-minute rally to pull the game out of the fire.

The Independents began auspiciously and at the end of the first half led 17-8. The second half started with a rush and Sigma Nu pulled up within five points of the leaders but the defense and superior offense of the Independents was a little too much for them.

Fitzsimmons starred for the Independents with 12 points and was high scorer of the game. He was closely followed by Bob Bloomer of Sigma Nu who knocked off 10 digits. Special credit must also be given to Bob who sustained a nose injury, and was temporarily put out of action. However, he returned after a short time out to spark his mates in their last ditch attempts.

Sports Slants

By Phil Robinson

The guy said that compulsory physical education would be just what this campus needed.

It sounded like great stuff, that one statement, but when he went further to say that they oughtta turn out every morning at 7.30 for mass calisthenics, well, now there was an entirely different situation.

So we said that he'd better go on to explain his point, 7.30 being an ungodly hour for any man to pull out from under the covers.

So he says, "I don't mean just the students, but the faculty as well. They need the benefit of mass calisthenics as much if not more than the students. And then, of course, there are those students who think gym is an awful burden that could use that early morning setup to good advantage."

Well, as we said before, about this time the proposition sounded a little better, or else the coffee had worked its charm, and so we said go on.

"Well," the guy says, "the best way to run it would be to have some senior student, and some other gents who were fairly athletically inclined, to put everybody through their paces. You'd be surprised what a hell of a lot of good such things would do."

We went on to discuss the international situation between gulps of coffee, and we nearly had the entire problem solved, when the ugly head of physical education reared. It came about by somebody saying that people didn't know half the score about this war, and were merely waiting for it all to come out in the wash.

"Now that's just the trouble," said our esteemed companion, "everybody is taking it for granted that the democracies are going to win in the end, so they aren't doing anything about it, I mean physically. That's where this physical education slant comes in, see?"

Well, it didn't much matter whether we did see or not, the guy was disposed to talk longer, but the bell rang so we picked up our smoker's hack and shuffled aimlessly towards our next class.

Cat Baseball Candidates Assemble under Gardner

Prospect Bright As Four Veteran Pitchers Return

Larry Gardner, Baseball Coach

For all those people who have been wishing that the snow vanish and the cold abate we have good news. Baseball is just around the corner and even at this early date gloves are being taken out of dusty resting places and are being worked and made ready for use.

The first official practice of the U. V. M. baseball season of 1942 is scheduled to take place Monday March 2 by Coach Larry Gardner. All this week, however early candidates have been lumbering up in the cage, throwing and catching and generally becoming up their muscles.

Coach Gardner has promised a good season this year for his boys. "The schedule may be shorter than last year's" said Larry "and we'll have to do plenty of hustling, but the boys will be right in there plugging away."

Many of last year's team has been lost due to graduation and the armed forces of Uncle Sam. The field has lost the most regulars. In the outfield Frankie Taylor's presence will be sorely missed. In the infield Beauchemin at first, Sullivan at second and Smith at catcher will all be hard to replace.

The regulars coming back are Johnny Spasyk, second base, Hazen Wood, third base, Sig Sysko, outfield, Bob Doherty, outfield, and among the regular pitchers are Akeley (3, 5), Carlson (5, 1), Alberghini (2, 1) and Al Shaw (2, 5).

Larry has many favorable prospects to fill in this year. These are Russ West and Bill Conrad who did work last year at shortstop, Joe Corbett, and among those frosh coming up there are Killick, Clairmont, Conti, Eddy, Urie, Thomas and Krupp.

New Hampshire Win Norwich Carnival

Vt. Team Fails in All Events; Finishes Last

By taking second place in both the cross-country race and the jumping to give him first in the combined, Al Merrill led the University of New Hampshire ski team to an impressive victory Saturday over five rivals in a meet held as the feature event of Norwich University's twenty-second annual winter carnival.

Middlebury finished in second place, followed by Norwich, Williams, Dartmouth and Vermont.

Townsend Wins Cross-Country

Middlebury's Ira Townsend won the cross-country, and Bob Sawyer of Norwich was top man in the jumping. The Middlebury skiers did so well in both events that they climbed to second place in the team standing, from the cellar position in which they found themselves after yesterday's opening events, the downhill and slalom. Norwich was on top at that time with a three-tenths of a point lead over New Hampshire.

The summary:

Cross-Country

1. Ira Townsend, Middlebury, 48:17.
2. Allison Merrill, New Hampshire, 51:15.
3. David Brown, Williams, 52:05.
4. Allan Beck, Norwich, 52:39.
5. Robert Sheehan, Middlebury, 53:46.
6. Steven Keough, New Hampshire, 54:46.
7. Peter McKee, Middlebury, 55:44.
8. Kenneth Moore, Williams, 56:28.
9. William Hawkes, Middlebury, 56:33.
10. John Chives, Dartmouth, 56:58.

Team scores: Middlebury, 96.4; New Hampshire, 93.1; Williams, 89.8; Norwich, 88.9; Dartmouth, 87.2; Vermont, 84.8.

Jumping

1. Robert Sawyer, Norwich, 218.5.
2. Allison Merrill, New Hampshire, 210.8.
3. Philip Dunham, Middlebury, 207.8.
4. Ralph Townsend, New Hampshire, 205.8.
5. Steven Keough, New Hampshire, 205.2.
6. Eric Brown, Williams, 199.7.
7. Robert Sheehan, Middlebury, 199.9.
8. David Brown, Williams, 194.4.
9. Samuel Schneider, Williams, 191.9.
10. Clifford Hendrix, Middlebury, 190.4.

Team totals: New Hampshire, 97.5; Middlebury, 93.7; Norwich, 92.8; Williams, 91.8; Dartmouth, 83.4; Vermont, 68.1.

Vassar Seniors Not Delving in Matrimony

Poughkeepsie, N. Y. (ACP)—Cupid's bow is hitting fewer Vassar graduates.

The college reports that only twenty-eight of the June graduates are engaged or married. Last year's class was smaller by thirteen, but forty-six of the young women were engaged or married in the corresponding length of time.

Cross-Country and Jumping Combined

1. Allison Merrill, New Hampshire, 424.6
2. Ira Townsend, Middlebury, 403.7
3. David Brown, Williams, 399.9
4. Robert Sheehan, Middlebury, 392.5
5. Steven Keough, New Hampshire, 389.7
6. Ralph Townsend, New Hampshire, 369.3.
7. William Peck, Norwich, 343.6
8. Allan Beck, Norwich, 328.5.
9. William Moore, Williams, 326.9
10. Hans Hussey, Dartmouth, 322.8

Team totals: New Hampshire, 963., Middlebury, 961; Williams, 84.5; Dartmouth, 75.4; Norwich, 73.8; Vermont, 65.8.

Total Team Scores

1. New Hampshire, 580.2
2. Middlebury, 556.3.
3. Norwich, 548.2.
4. Williams, 542.7
5. Dartmouth, 520.6

Student Health Service Rules

1. The Student Health Service is prepared to make emergency house calls and meet any student for consultation at office hours. For medical care, those students who are financially able to employ their own physician are encouraged to do so.

2. Men students who are able to be up and about and wish to see the health service doctors should report to the Health Service Office at the Waterman building at the following hours:

1.2.45-1.45 Monday through Friday. No male students admitted after 1.45.

3. Appointments may be made by phone for students who work and therefore are unable to report at the regular hours.

4. In case a student is confined to bed by illness, the same should be reported, by phone the same morning to the operator at 5000. In case of minor illnesses such as head colds, we will not plan to make routine calls. If the illness is prolonged or severe, we will do so when not attended by a private physician.

5. In case of emergency, the operator at 5000 will contact us.

6. For emergencies on week-ends and nights, call 5164-W.

7. All medical excuses will be issued by the Health Service, and will not be issued unless the illness is reported the same day. This may be done by phone.

8. Students who are cared for by their own physician should bring an excuse from him to the Health Service Office.

Summer Art Course Announces Faculty

Herbert Barnett and Barse Miller to Teach

Herbert Barnett, director of the Worcester Art Museum, will do his painting and teaching this summer under the shadow of Mount Mansfield on the campus of the University of Vermont. Elizabeth V. Colburn, head of the art department at Vermont, in announcing the faculty and plans for the regular summer session of her department, said that Mr. Barnett will teach life drawing in oil from the full length figure, portraits and figure composition.

Barse Miller will again leave his California base and bring with him to Vermont the defense work to which he has been commissioned and add to it his Vermont landscape classes in water color.

Eugene Myers will also return to Vermont to conduct his workshop, especially designed for teachers of art, in which each teacher carries on his own project, largely determined by the needs of his school. These vary from puppet shows to plaster casts to play costuming.

C. R. Simmons Killed In Airplane Crash

Clarence Raymond Simmons, a graduate of the University of Vermont in the class of 1939, died in an airplane crash at Kelly Field, Texas, February 12, 1942. Mr. Simmons is the first U. V. M. alumnus to have been killed in this war. He graduated from Randolph Field, Texas, and specialized in pursuit planes. He received his commission of Lieutenant and also his wings at the advanced base at Victoria, Texas. Since receiving his commission he has been an instructor at Kelly Field.

Elections To Take Place March 16

Twenty-Four Nominated For Executive Committee

Under the new U. V. M. Student Government, which will be put in operation before the end of this month, the students of the University will have, for the first time, an opportunity to govern themselves in a manner which they have approved, and are at present engaged in the primary steps necessary for its establishment.

Nominations to an executive council of ten members are made by a petition bearing the signatures of at least 100 students. Up until Thursday noon 24 petitions had been received for these ten offices by either Boulder or Mortar Board, the two agencies set by the Constitution as eligible to receive such nominations in preparation for a general student election.

Nomination of Officers

In addition, nominations to the offices of president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer are made by a Nominations Committee consisting of the Dean of Women, the three deans of the undergraduate colleges, and three members each from Boulder and Mortar Board, to be chosen within their groups. Boulder has selected R. Carlson, J. Spasyk, and R. Hunting and Mortar Board, Barbara M. Gallagher, Joanna J. Metcalf, and Helen M. Witham. This Nominating Committee will meet this afternoon to nominate for the four offices. Additional nominations to these offices may be made by petitions signed by 150 students.

Executive Committee

The Executive Committee is to be composed of ten members, which shall have four juniors, four sophomores, and two freshmen plus the four officers ex-officio. The following are the nominations for the council which have been received thus far.

Class of '43, A. F. Amee, W. H. Davis, W. G. Dudley, W. N. Harvey, June W. Hoffman, E. B. Mott, Jr., Alice M. Needham, Patricia S. Page, D. M. Zwick, H. C. Vreeland, and W. A. Roeder.

Class of '44, Carolyn D. Brown, Ita M. Casey, J. P. Corliss, Barbara M. Hall, J. Katz, L. F. Killick, Jr., and Marilyn L. Einer.

Class of '45, Priscilla Clark, G. S. Cochrane, G. R. Corbosiero, H. D. Frank, Shirley Needham, and H. D. Pearl.

All students are requested to watch the bulletin boards for the nominations for president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer. Elections will be held Monday, March 16.

Editor's Note—The questions and answers below will give the student representative an idea how to handle their duties. It will also show all students what is expected from them.

Question 1—Must the Student Representative contact all of the members of a Sorority?

Answer—No. The student representative designated to represent the Sorority House should contact only those people who live at the house.

Question 2—Who will contact the other Sorority members?

Answer—Those members who live in dormitories will be contacted by the Student Representative of that dormitory. Those Sorority members living in organized off-campus houses will be reached by the Student Representative of that off campus house.

Question 3—Will the totals of the gifts from each Sorority be available?

Answer—Yes.

Question 4—Will the Fraternities function on the same basis as the Sororities?

Answer—No. The Fraternity Houses will be handled the complete file on their group. The Fraternity House can then choose their other representative to contact those members who do not live at the house. Their list will include all members, regardless of where those members may reside.

Question 5—How will the dormitory women be contacted?

Answer—By the Student Representative in that dormitory. That Student Representative will contact ALL RESIDENTS of that dormitory.

The Student Representative is urged to select as many assistants as are necessary to make the contact work efficient and smooth.

Question 6—How will the dormitory men be contacted?

Answer—The Fraternity men living in Converse will be contacted by their Fraternity Student Representative. Other residents will be contacted by Mr. L. H. Ballou and his assistants.

Question 7—Will all of the residents of the University houses for women be handled by a Student Representative for that house?

Answer—Yes.

Question 8—Who will contact men and women students living in private homes in Burlington which are not organized?

Answer—A list of Student Representatives is being made up for this purpose. Each Representative-at-large will handle from ten to twelve contacts.

Question 9—Who will contact students

Mr. Orville Dahl Has Much Experience In Handling Campaigns Successfully

The University of Vermont Security Fund Drive has as its associate director, Orville Dahl, whose background previous to his connections here at the University might well serve as an inspiration to college students all over the country. Of greatest interest are Mr. Dahl's amazing versatility and the unexcelled opportunity afforded by the range of his activities to observe and work with collegiate problems from many different angles.

Mr. Dahl's reputation might well have preceded him here. Born in Duluth, Minn., he attended Duluth Junior College, where he was president of the student body, took part actively in both debating and oratory, and edited the school newspaper. Upon graduation he was awarded the American Legion Medal. Later attending St. Olaf College, Mr. Dahl worked his way through financially in addition to a scholastic scholarship, earned ten varsity latters (in track, basketball, and football), was a member of Blue Key Honorary Society, a member of Pi Kappa Delta, national debating society, and in addition was a member of the championship debating team, and a champion orator himself. Mr. Dahl was appointed in his senior year to the position of Assistant Dean of Men at St. Olaf.

Coached Debating Team

Mr. Dahl's work has been divided into three categories since his graduation. The first classification is that of an academic career. In 1935 he was appointed to the faculty of St. Olaf in the Departments of Speech and History. In 1939 he was made an assistant professor. His debating team annexed the debating championship of the Pi Kappa Delta, which includes 160 universities and colleges. In 1936, furthermore, the St. Olaf orator won the national oratorical championship. Taking his graduate work at the University of Minnesota, Mr. Dahl furthered his studies in speech and education. The finale to the academic side of Mr. Dahl's work and accomplishments is the fact that he has served as president of the Minnesota Intercollegiate Forensic Association.

The second phase of Mr. Dahl's interests concerns itself with public relations. Immediately after graduation from St. Olaf he was made one of the public relations men for that institution and has also

Bookstore Puts Out Campaign Item

The rousing big dinner of February 26 shows the spirit of the University of Vermont which lies underneath all its apparent native reserve. The University Store has on sale one item to keep that spirit alive and evident to the world in general. That is the Campaign stationery especially printed with the campaign slogan "Forward Together."

This box contains twenty-four sheets of paper and twenty-four envelopes, upon which has also been printed "University of Vermont, Burlington, Vermont." This box sells for 19 cents. There is a limited supply, so it behooves a loyal student to get his and her box as soon as possible.

No One But Us

In his concise message Forward Together, issued by the Security Fund [illegible] well use as start-[illegible]

[illegible] Security Fund campaign [illegible] the University, and how can it most receive the impetus needed to make it run into the ground. We can set an example. We can contribute money. That large individual sums, perhaps, but 1,200 of us working together can make an impressive and useful total. That means all of us. A few of us gathered in the Commons are just a group of people, but who asked improvement in our numbers at the "army supper"? Giving may mean a sacrifice here and there. But that's going. Go for a walk instead of to the movies. Your unused Red Hands. As President Mills said, "The time for us is now, so put hands and heart forward together."

[illegible] Mills. It is not only a question of tomorrow, but I am sure that that problem will be solved—it is a larger one. A greater devotion that is needed devotion that will bring a more common feeling of friends and an abiding faith in that philosophy of life for which a great University lives.

[illegible] we are part of a greater whole, rather than stars in [illegible] to be prepared and work together for the common good, rather than for ourselves as one particular little clique, when we realize that education is more than learning enough to pass exams, when we all understand that a University is more than a degree and a certain number of credits and yet to get a complete [illegible] of student life [illegible] we have done that much we will know we have gone forward together.

Does this seem like a hard job? Well it is. American today is learning that we are a part of a greater whole. Learning it the hard way. Many an ex-freshman had found out that this is not a country club. A little too late. Many a senior [illegible] graduation that there is more to a college than assignments and tests, teachers and buildings.

All this means that we must start now, while we are at Vermont. We had a taste of the spirit at the army supper. We liked it. Let's ask for more.

That's just it. We're not at [illegible] back and ask for more. Who will give it to us? No one else will do the job for us! We've got to get it ourselves, by hard work, by working and thinking together.

Security Fund Results

The student phase of the U. V. M. Security Fund campaign has been in existence exactly eight days. It began one week ago last night with a "hard luck" dinner-rally attended by 1,200, which netted the fund $800. At that time it was announced that the 20 percent of the faculty which had been approached by that time had already contributed the sum of $8,300.

The campaign has developed along very concrete lines since that time of pledges, promises and plans eight days ago. The faculty have now raised their contribution figure to $12,000. The student body, through their canvassing representatives in dormitories, fraternities, sororities, and private homes have raised $895 contributed totally from the students' pockets. In addition, quite a percentage of the student results have been handed in.

To date the grand total contributed here on the University campus to the U. V. M. Security Fund is $12,895. Let's keep the heat on!

Fifty Students On Aggie Dean's List

Fifty students in the College of Agriculture at the University of Vermont are cited on the dean's list for high scholarship standing during the first semester of the current college year.

Thirty-two of the high ranking students are girls, taking the home economics course, and eighteen are boys, taking the straight agricultural course. Twenty-three are juniors and seniors and twenty-seven are freshmen and sophomores.

Heading the list are six students with an average mark of 92.5 or above. They are Joyce Kenyon, Richmond; Jacob Katz, New York City; Ione E. Lacy, Burlington; Ruth A. Holmes, Burlington; Shirley E. Needham, Boston, Mass.; Lois E. Pestle, Waitsfield.

Fourteen received an average grade of 90 or above. They are Hilda I. Paquette, Craftsbury, Hester C. Rice, Derby Line; Ray I. Pestle, Waitsfield; Faith K. Prior, Vergennes; Irene M. Quimby, Barnet; Russell F. Carpenter, Burlington; Robert Fitzsimmons, West Rutland; Richard C. Lunna, Newport Center; Robert O. Sinclair, Johnson; Norma I. Charest, Barre; Alice S. Dyer, Richford; Fred C. Webster Randolph; Phyllis M. Hardy Brattleboro, Frances L. Saladino, Ely.

Thirty other students earned an average mark of 85 or better.

Of the entire 50 high ranking students, who represent about one-quarter of the agricultural college, all but nine are from Vermont communities, mostly the smaller towns of the state and have their own particular interest in seeing that the University is made financially secure as a result of its current drive. Many such students are themselves liberally contributing, often at personal sacrifices, to the Security Fund.

Making Out Pledges

Question [illegible] students make out pledges.

Answer—All students who indicate that they will make a gift to the Security Fund should make out a pledge.

Question 11—Can students pledge for the period of time outlined on the pledge?

Answer—Yes. All students are urged to pledge over the period of time arranged for in the three quarterly payments falling this October 1942, February 1943, and June 1943.

Question 12—When should the first stamp albums be in?

Answer—All students should have their first album filled by May 1, 1942.

When they make out their pledges, indicate that the first album will be in by May 1, 1942.

Use the space "Or as follows" for this purpose. Fill into this space the words "$5.00 stamp album by May 1, 1942, balance as indicated."

Question 13—Should the duplicate copy of the pledges be detached from the "My Gift" booklet?

Answer—Yes, and returned to the Security Fund office by the Student Representative.

Question 14—When should the Student Representatives bring the pledges to the Security Fund office?

Answer—The pledges should be brought in during the week of February 28 through March 7.

Question 15—If any student is not in a position to determine his pledge in that time, what shall we do?

Answer—Follow up on the pledge, and return to the Security Fund when possible.

Question 16—How long will the organization of Student Representatives continue to function?

Answer—Until May 15, 1942. At that time the Security Fund will be transferred to the office of Mr. Proctor Page, and the pledges will be followed up from that source.

During the period from February 26 until May 15 the Student Representatives are urged to cooperate with the Security Fund by checking continually with the students contacted.

Question 17—When the stamp albums are filled and turned in to the Student Representatives, what should the Representatives do?

Answer—Fill in the forms provided, and return the stamp album with the form to the Security Fund Office.

served as secretary and treasurer of the Alumni Association of St. Olaf, an organization counting about 11,500 [illegible] In addition, Mr. Dahl is also a member of the Central Republican Speakers Bureau of Minnesota.

Relative of DiMaggio

The final portion of this very interesting career is contact and campaign [illegible] corresponding to that at which Mr. Dahl is at present engaged upon here at the University of Vermont. His first campaign was a drive for a scholarship fund at Duluth Junior College. He next assisted in an effort to raise $300,000 for St. Olaf College, which campaign went over the top. This achievement was followed in 1938 by the feat of assisting with a $1,400,000 campaign for the Norwegian Lutheran Church. Last fall he directed the Culver-Stockton College Endowment Fund for $150,000.

After gradually expanding into other equally successful ventures, Mr. Dahl joined the administration staff of the U. V. M. (starting after Christmas this year) to assist in our own campaign for $400,000, the sum needed to modernize and rehabilitate the University. In connection with the U. V. M. Security Fund campaign, Mr. Dahl, whose chief interest is in the field of college administration, has this to say: "I looked forward with a great deal of anticipation to assisting the University of Vermont in this campaign and I have come to personally feel that this is a campaign 'deserving of your whole support.'"

In passing it might be added that DiMaggio and Mr. Dahl are not brothers or sisters, making them brothers-in-law.

[illegible] into the bowling alleys on a shady afternoon and there we find [illegible] own Archie Post, whom faithful readers (you, too, Mom) will [illegible] as the subject of last issue's discussion. Now Archie is feeling [illegible] out of the spare he just makes which bolsters his score something [illegible]

[illegible] why do you not see Larry Gardner, and do a better job this time? [illegible] result with ease, observing immediately that here is the chance to [illegible] a good thing, for Larry is in charge of our volleyball class in which [illegible] a few cuts on account of the sleep we are not getting lately. We [illegible]p, Archie, and cop a sneak right off for the gym where we find Larry [illegible]me tax, a faculty meeting, and baseball practice.

[illegible] persuading for Larry to see it our way, but finally he consents to [illegible] We get to talking about one Tyrus Raymond Cobb, whom Larry [illegible] greatest ballplayer of all time.

[illegible]mont tenets, it seems, is to keep in perfect condition at all times, in [illegible] This rule of Cobb's has more than a little to do with his successes [illegible] Modern ball players fall short of Cobb's mark in persistence and [illegible] Larry opines. When Ty felt that his baserunning and sliding, for [illegible] not up to par, he would spend days at a time in perfecting these points. [illegible]-weariness, many's the time Cobb would leave the field, and, to the despair [illegible] climb into the stands and have it out with a fan who had been criticizing [illegible] Flatbush manner. Larry cites an incident which typifies Cobb: [illegible] the minors. Cobb's head is several sizes too big for his hat. Of conse- [illegible] a fight with Johnny Smith, backstop of the Detroit club, who is a [illegible] enters baseball. Smitty makes a sad mess of the rookie outfielder, [illegible]. So Ty swears vengeance, goes out and takes a few boxing lessons [illegible] he has it out with Smith again, and again comes out second best. This [illegible] several years, and Cobb always winds up on the locker room floor. [illegible] gets plenty of stuff into his left jab and does quite a job on the [illegible], not quite the man he used to be. After dusting off his knuckles Ty [illegible] "Say you &*?$((?, it was worth it!" Which shows you just what kind of a [illegible] Cobb is.

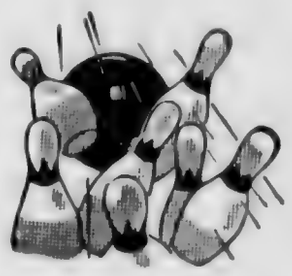
[illegible] one of the few third basemen Ty Cobb would not bunt against. "To be [illegible] baseman," says Larry "just keep your eyes open and your head up." Larry [illegible] day that when Ty bunts, he bites his upper lip. He checks on this, and [illegible] that lip, except when he fakes a bunt. So when Ty bites that lip, Larry [illegible] dope to first, and that is that. Sounds simple, but that's the sort of stuff [illegible] World Series.

[illegible]ssing of World Series, Larry's teams were never Series losers, and he has [illegible] them. We get to talking about the Series of 1920, between Our Bums [illegible] Larry covers the hot corner for the Indians in those days. The [illegible] bothered quite a bit by Burleigh Grimes' spit ball, until one of the Indians [illegible] Petey Kilduff, Dodger second sacker, tips the outfield when the spitter is [illegible] by tossing some dirt between his legs. So next day the weeping is loud and [illegible] banks of the Gowanus. Another fluke which lost the Series for Brooklyn [illegible] freakish triple play. Petey Kilduff and Otto Miller are on second and first, [illegible] Clarence Mitchell replacing Grimes poles one over second base. Wambs- [illegible] Pirate keystoner, spears the liner, and steps on the bag doubling Kilduff. [illegible] around for more, and sure enough, there is Otto Miller, just standing [illegible] Wambsganss tags him, and World Series history is made, just like that. It is [illegible] unassisted double play ever made in a World Series, before or since.

[illegible] Larry glances at his watch and remembers the Faculty meeting. "Sorry [illegible] now. Drop around some time soon, will you?" We say sure, and thank [illegible] Larry.

Intramural Relays Take Place Friday

Strong Field Expected To Better Former Marks



The annual Intramural relays will take place on March 13, 16 and 18, followed by the Intertraternity Indoor track meet on March 20 and 23. Intramural director, Coach Archie Post, reminds all participants to begin workouts immediately and states that all runners in a 440 distance or greater must have at least six workouts to qualify.

Last year's relay saw some fast competition with the Phi Delts taking first, followed closely by the Delts and SAE's.

The indoor track meet brings out record running, jumping, hurdling and weight throwing. Phi Delta Theta emerged victorious in the 1941 meet, taking first in the broad jump, high jump, high hurdles, 880 yard run and the pole vault.

Edward O'Connell, who took first in the 440-yard dash last year, will be back to run for the SAE's. The Phi Delts still have the veterans Johnny Spasyk and Bert Mott to aim for supremacy in the hurdles, jumps and short distances. The ATO's will probably show strength in the weights with Zan Warden and Chris Bicoulis. The Independents, who took both the mile and the shot in 1941 still have Freddie Webster to better his time of 4:59.5. Sigma Phi possesses a good hurdler in Jo Allen and a good 440 sprinter in Stud Jacobs.

With an exceptionally strong field anticipated, it is expected that several long standing records may be broken.

Bowling Them Over

Come one and all you rabid bowling fiends and lend an ear to hear "Pop" tell about the way the U. V. M. Girls beat a powerful women's team from the Ethan Allen Club by 72 pins. The U. V. M. girls had a total pinfall of 1,461 against 1,389 for their opponents.

Mary Quinn, one of the school's outstanding women bowlers, had a total of 316 pins for the three-game match.

"Pop's" U. V. M. Boys lost their match to the Arena 150 Club. This was a nip and tuck match all the way and could have been anyone's game up to the last box. The Arena 150 Club had a total pinfall of 1,744 against a 1,684.

Ed Boyden, star bowler af the evening, was top man with a total of 379 pins for the three-game match.

The matches which are planned for this week are: U. V. M. Girls vs. Burlington Independent Ladies, U. V. M. Boys against a strong local team which hasn't been decided upon as this goes to press. The public is invited to witness these matches.

Tri Delts Stamp Table Very Successful in Sales

"Defense Defeats Dictatorship," the catchy slogan the Tri Delts are featuring in their defense stamp table project in the Waterman Building has caught on.

In less than a week, student spare change has bought three government bonds, and it is estimated that 80 percent of that will find its way into the Security Fund. Gratifying has been the student response, and constant testimony to school spirit is given in the triumphant gesture of accomplishment which accompanies the insertion of another stamp in the "Forward Together" Book.

Organizer and administrator of this first sorority project for defense on the Vermont campus is Harriet Ann Parker '42, Springfield.

Lent to Be Discussed

Rev. David Reid will discuss "Lent" this coming Sunday evening at 7.30. Refreshments will be served after his talk followed by a period of singing and good fellowship. Come and meet your friends again.

Scrubs, Needed for Coming Sports Program

Come on you lazy sophomores! Earn your numerals or an assistant manageralship by scrubbing the various spring sports. Baseball, track and tennis managers report a lack of scrubs.

Scrubs get a vital experience in sports so come out and do your bit.

Baseball scrubs should report to Mgr. Fred Logan. Track scrubs to Mgr. P. Czachor. Tennis scrubs to Mgr. B. Rynowecer.

Clairmont Wins Free Throw Title

Tommy Clairmont emerged victorious in the annual Free Throw Tournament held last Thursday afternoon. Clairmont netted 41 out of a possible 50 baskets, beating Bob Doherty's and Bill Conrad's 40.

It was a nip and tuck affair right down to the last basket in which either contestant might have emerged the victor. Those who witnessed the event marvelled at these talented point-getters. Tossing the ball with an underhand motion, Clairmont displayed himself brilliantly, swishing them in with constant rapidity.

It was no three-man contest, however, for Scotty Basch and Rus West were in there pitching in the first half, but both weakened in the stretch, tying for fourth place with 38 tallies.

U. V. M. Sharpshooters Lead in New England

L. A. Weaver, Jr., of Starksboro, a junior at the University of Vermont, has to date the highest individual score in the 17-college rifle team in New England. John H. Pratt, Jr., of Clarendon, has fourth place and Gordon Manson, Burlington, has sixth.

Pilgrim Fellowship

The members of Pilgrim Fellowship have been invited to atttend the annual Alpha Chi Omega Musicale, Sunday evening, March 8 at eight o'clock at the Chapter House. A silver tea for the benefit of Alpha Chi Omega's Home for Shell-shocked Children in England will follow the Musicale.

Let's all get together for a musical evening!

Varsity Tennis Practice Daily

The prospect in varsity tennis does not present a bright picture this year. Of the entire last year's team only two veterans are left; Sam Fott '42 and Bill West '43. Professor Carpenter, the coach, looks toward these men as the nucleus for a powerful team. He is stressing many important points, secretary secretes which he hopes will get the men in perfect form by the first match.

Men's Faculty Club To Meet on Saturday

The regular meeting of the Men's Faculty Club of the University of Vermont will be held on Saturday, March 7, at [illegible] in the Faculty Lounge of the Waterman Building. The speaker will be the Rev. Vedder Van Dyck, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Vermont.

Summer Art Course

Isabel Clark Mills of the regular art staff will conduct classes in applied art and art appreciation. Professor Colburn will again take her classes along all the trails from Mansfield to Champlain to catch shoreline, village streets and mountain brooks in her pastel and crayon sketching groups.

Art students returning to Vermont this summer will find the art projects gathered for the first time under one roof in the building formerly occupied by the engineering college. At present undergoing a metamorphosis at the hands of art students and faculty, this building, designed eighty years ago to house the first art center on the campus, is being turned again to one of its original purposes. The third floor art gallery is being made into a large sky-lighted studio with huge windows overlooking the Winooski Valley and Mount Philo. Because the University of Vermont is concentrating on saving money for its own Security Fund, the students have volunteered and are carrying out most of the reclamation work.

There will be a meeting of all Cynic scrubs and any other new people who are interested in scrubbing Cynic, Tuesday, at 4.30 p.m., in the Cynic office.

Sugar Party to Honor Dean Hills Long Services to the University

Saturday evening, March 7, another in the long line of testimonials is to be held for Dean Hills of the Agriculture College. The Sugar Party at the gymnasium is to be held again in his honor.

In 1938, in recognition and appreciation of his fifty years of service, the students of the Agriculture College gave a maple sugar party in honor of their beloved dean. The affair was a great success; over 400 people—both students and faculty—ate plentifully of a menu consisting of maple sugar on snow, doughnuts, coffee and pickles. Dean Hills gave a paper titled "Looking Forward—Not Backward." One of the other highlights of the program was a sugar-eating contest staged by several agricultural students. The proceeds of this most enjoyable affair went to the Agricultural Alumni Association Loan Fund, founded by the Alumni of the Agricultural College in 1937 for the purpose of helping the needy students of that institution. It was decided that proceeds from future Sugar Parties would also go to this fund.

Campus Quiz

The next Sugar Party was held in March, 1939. The supper was again a great success; everyone ate his fill. After the supper prominent guests made speeches lauding Dean Hills. A feature of the evening was a campus quiz between a team of agricultural students and a team of home economics students. The party was under the joint sponsorship of the Agricultural Club, the Home Economics Club, the University Chapter of the Future Farmers of America, and Alpha Zeta, honorary agricultural fraternity.

Dr. H. A. Kemp, dean of the Medical College, was the guest speaker at the 1940 Sugar Party. The committee provided a short and snappy entertainment. A highlight of the entertainment was the presentation of shadow pantomimes depicting scenes in the life of a college dean. There was dancing until 12 o'clock to the music of a "Vic." A program of singing also helped make the party a huge success.

Dean Hills' Cup

Several hundred students, faculty members, alumni and townspeople gathered in the University gymnasium to attend last year's Sugar Party. The guest speaker of the evening was Gov. William H. Wills, who praised the Agricultural College and complimented Dean Hills on the way he has built up the school. Then a large loving cup was presented to Dean Hills from "his loyal friends," members of the Vermont Dairy Plant Operators' and Managers' Association. This cup is now known as the Dean J. L. Hills Cup and is to be awarded for "Annual Recognition to the Best University of Vermont Student Judge of All Dairy Products."

This year marks the retirement of Dean Hills as Dean of the Agricultural College. Fifty-five years of service to the University by a single man is a truly enviable record. It is, certainly to his credit that Dean Hills has stayed on for so many years, and has passed on to incoming classes that valuable teaching which experience only can impart.

The Sugar Party is an affair that everyone should try to attend, for it is in honor of a truly fine gentleman who deserves the gratitude of all of his students.

Successful Sing Calls For More

Tag Day to Be Held To Bring Bigger Sings

One of the most successful campus sings ever held on the Vermont campus took place Friday evening at 7.30 when U. V. M. students filled to capacity the student lounge in the Waterman Building.

Due to the absence of Prof. George Millikan, Phil Robinson '45 directed the singing and was responsible for the success of the evening.

Alfred Amee '43 spoke briefly about the tag day that the Campus Sing directors are sponsoring and which will be carried on throughout the week. The continuation of offering refreshments and introducing added attractions at future sings depends upon the success of this drive. The amount of your contribution is optional but by buying a tag you can assure yourself and everyone else of more extensive sings.

The candy kisses that were dispersed throughout the enthusiastic crowd last Friday evening were donated by the sponsors, Prof. George Millikan, Prof. Benjamin Ladd, Marjorie Abell '43 and Alfred Amee '43.

REMEMBER GOLD KEY SMOKER!

You Frosh whose last initials are between "L" and "Z" don't want to miss out on the big get-together this coming March 11, when Gold Key sponsors its last bull session of the academic year with entertainment, school celebrities and, last but not least, refreshments as added attractions.

Time: 7.30 p.m.

Place: South lounge of the Waterman Building.

Watch for article on Gold Key in Tuesday's issue. Keep March 11 in mind!

Students Nominated For Officers Of New U.V.M. Government

Seventeen Students Put Up as Candidates by Nominating Committee

At a meeting last Friday afternoon of the nominating committee for the officers of the new U. V. M. Student Government, consisting of the dean of women, the three deans of the undergraduate colleges and three members each from Boulder and Mortar Board, the following nominations were made:

For president: J. E. Corbett '43, J. P. Goss '43, W. A. Roeder '43 and H. E. Thurber '43.

For vice-president: Helena Anderson '43, Janet Dike '43, M. R. Kaufman '43 and O. F. Swift '43.

For treasurer: Julia B. Fletcher '44, Helene A. Levesque '44, J. H. Tennien '43 and R. F. White '44.

For secretary: Alison M. Carr '44, Penelope S. Easton '44, Marilyn L. Eimer '44 and Margaret N. Fake '44.

The additional nomination of R. L. Norton '44 for the executive committee.

IRC Discusses World Federation

At a meeting of the International Relations Club last Thursday evening the subject of "World Federation" was discussed and papers on the subject were read. Hortense E. Leduc '43 discussed the subject from the preliminary viewpoint, taking the Anglo-American alliance as a basis. Malcolm Mickler '45 finished the discussion of the topic with his paper on a general world federation.

On Wednesday, March 18, the I. R. C. will be the hosts to a group from Middlebury College. Prof. Waldo H. Heinrichs of Middlebury and Prof. Paul D. Evans of U. V. M. will be the speakers. Before the meeting members will be served supper in the Waterman cafeteria.

Plans have also been made for an open meeting in the near future with a discussion on "Military Strategy: Offensive and Defensive" to be the feature. Who the speaker will be is yet to be announced.

University Women Outsmart The Men

University Average 77.1; Women 77.94

The average Campus Jill is not about a year smarter than the average College Joe when it comes to hitting the books and knocking down the grades, according to last semester's showing by the students at the University of Vermont.

The grand average for the entire University, based on the results of the last semester grading, is 77.01. The class averages 10 point yearly rise with freshmen having the lowest average and seniors the highest. The peculiar thing about the semester's set of norms is that freshman women have a slightly higher average than the sophomore men, the sophomore women are even with the junior men, and the junior women match the senior men, leaving the senior women unsurpassed.

Figuring the marks from a different angle, it was found that women belonging to sororities made the highest marks and fraternity men made the lowest. For the women's grades were so good that they were able to carry the men to an average which showed that students belonging either to a fraternity or a sorority earn higher marks than students who remain independent.

The independent men pull down better looking reports than the fraternity men, but their independent sisters are two and a half points ahead of them.

Sigma Gamma leads the list of sororities with an average of 83.77. Alpha Chi Omega and Pi Beta Phi follow them. Of the eighteen fraternal groups including the group which is non-fraternity and is called the Independents, two fraternities, Phi Sigma Delta and Delta Psi, appear in the first half of the list above the University average.

Special students and post-graduate students hit grades similar to those of the juniors.

In spite of the fact college men were outsmarted by the women, they can point with pride to the record which shows that of the six U. V. M. students having averages of 95 or above, five of them are men.

Mortar Board Dance at Cafeteria March 14

The senior women's honorary society, Mortar Board, will hold its annual semi-formal spring dance, next Saturday, March 14, from 8.00 to 12.00 in the cafeteria of the Waterman Building to the music of the Catamounts. The women will have the privilege of choosing their partners and buying the tickets ($1.10 at the Book Store) and what is even more important, the opportunity to help in our security drive, for all proceeds will go for this purpose. Prof. and Mrs. J. H. Perry will be the chaperones.

Dean Hills' Sugar Party Attended By Capacity Crowd Sat.

John Thomas Memorial Award Presented to Robert Carlson, '42

Dean Hills' sugar party given yesterday celebrating the Vermont tradition of maple sugar and maple syrup on snow was held in the gym on Saturday night, March ... There was a capacity crowd present, some people even had to be turned away.

While Vermonters drank coffee, ate doughnuts pickles and then formed taffy on snow, Dean Hills, retiring dean of agriculture, welcomed everyone and Dean-elect J. E. Carrigan also spoke. D. P. Dana '42, chairman, had obtained P. B. Mueller, professor of agronomy, as toastmaster.

During the program Dean Hills presented the John Thomas Award to Robert Carlson '42.

After the tables, the cakes and the pails had been cleared away, dancing was held until twelve o'clock.

This party is the first presentation of the home economics and agricultural students and it seems to appropriate at the fifty years of service which Dean J. L. Hills has devoted to the University of the College of Agriculture.

Mr. Dana was in charge of the affair, assisted by Miss Hills, Dr. Doolittle and general chairman of the women.

Six Students Get Summa Cum Laude

One Woman Among Them; 12 With 92.5

Six students among the 664 men and women in the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Vermont attained a summa cum laude rating during the last semester according to the scholarship list just released from the office of Dean Elijah Swift.

Five men and one woman achieved the honor. They were Fulvio Bardossi of Barre and Barbara R. Bishop of Springfield for the seniors, L. M. Jones of Swanton and W. A. Pierce of Lyndonville for the juniors, J. O. Corliss of St. Albans for the sophomores, and H. D. Frank of Burlington for the freshmen. Each of the six students obtained an average grade of 95 or better.

Twelve students with an average of "A" or better but below 95, are rated magna cum laude. They are: Lorna V. Black, Burlington; W. W. Stoianoff, Ludlow; and A. Joyce Woodruff, Jericho, of the senior class; H. N. Browne, Burlington; M. J. Cannon, Rutland; Helen A. McLean, Jamaica; O. F. Swift, Burlington, of the juniors; S. Bernarsky, Burlington, and Elizabeth A. Richards, Woodstock, of the sophomores; Rose T. Eisman, Jersey City, N. J.; Ruth Jordan, Burlington; and Beatrice M. Thompson, West Hartford, freshmen.

Fifty-five students made a cum laude record, reaching an average between 90 and 92.5, and 80 made a B average placing them between 85 and 89. Three special students also made a B average. One elementary education student, Ruth M. Mongeon of Winooski, won magna cum laude rank, seven rated cum laude and twenty-four hit a B average.

Bardossi, one of the six summa cum laude students, has been editor of the campus newspaper and a student leader in the security fund campaign to put the University on a sound financial footing.

There will be a meeting of the Newman Club on March 23. Watch the CYNIC for further details.

L. H. Bremer Manager of U. V. M. Security Drive Has Had Varied Career

"The campaign manager is a Hoosier from Indiana," declared Mr. L. H. Bremer, with one of his ready smiles. Mr. Bremer is the campaign manager of the U. V. M. Security Fund Drive, his present working quarters being the Security Fund Office in the Waterman Building.

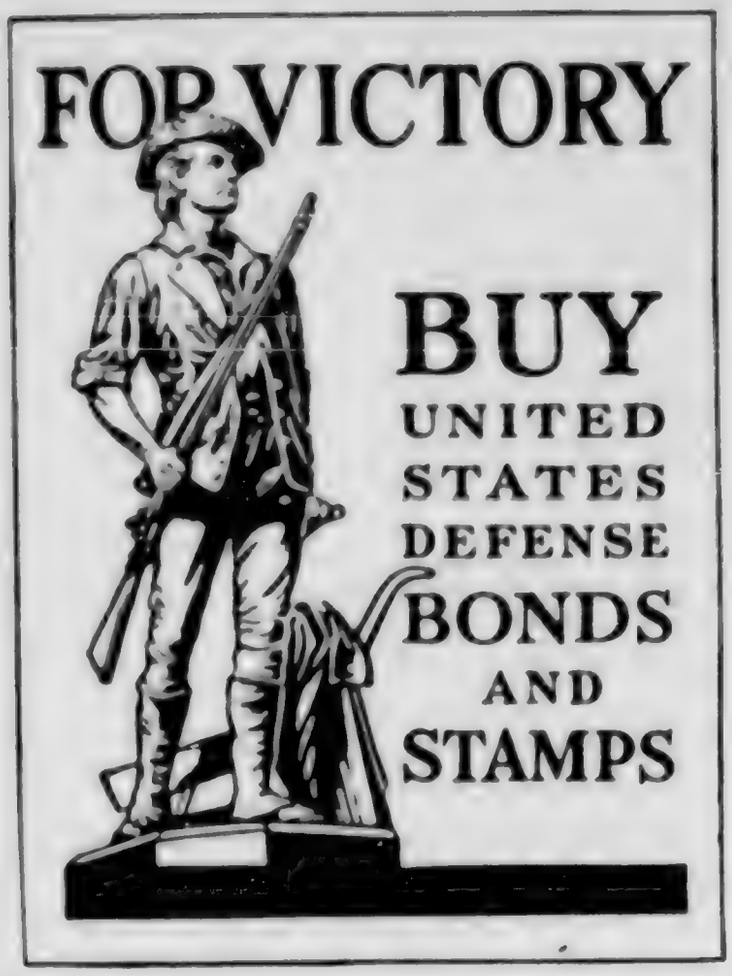
Mr. Bremer did his undergraduate work at the Indiana State Teachers College and his graduate work at Wayne University in Detroit, Mich. As a lad, he joined the U. S. Army and served for three years in the Hawaiian Islands with the 8th Field Artillery, at Schofield Barracks. At that time the 8th Field Artillery was made up of the 6th and 7th. This will be of interest to Vermonters as the 6th Field Artillery is the one now stationed at Fort Ethan Allen.

School Master

"So you see," said Mr. Bremer, "I feel quite at home hearing about dropping bombs on Pearl Harbor."

Mr. Bremer began his professional career as a master of the Pennington School for Boys in Pennington, N. J. Later he taught in the public schools of Detroit, Mich. Then he became connected with the American City Bureau of Chicago, Ill., "with which organization I have had the pleasure of campaigning from San Diego, Calif., to Burlington, Vt.," as the campaign manager himself expressed it. This bureau is an organization of fund-raising consultants dealing with purely civic or semi-civic enterprises. Mr. Bremer has been directly associated with fund-raising campaigns in colleges and other organizations all over the United States.

Likes Vermonters



In regard to the CYNIC's favorite question, "What do you think of Vermont?" Mr. Bremer had an enthusiastic response:

"Your campaign manager likes Vermont and Vermonters very much and that's one hundred percent true!" he declared. "It is my conviction based on the way students, faculty, alumni, and friends of the University have undertaken the work so far, we are going to have a campaign result by June 1 of this year which will be a real victory for everyone who has taken part in the effort."

To Be or Not to Be Thoughts on Physical Education

[illegible] and raw materials it will be comparatively easy to obtain those weapons in years to [illegible]

[illegible] and will [illegible] the intended work-out.

Wars cannot be won with such an attitude. Wars of today cannot be won by beginning to prepare when the danger faces us in its immediate reality. Our manpower cannot be developed if we begin our basic training after we have been drafted.

You know when the Germans, the Italians, the Japanese begin training their men? They start when they are seven years old. They are physically fit, they are soldiers before they even enter the army. We do not intend to say here that this is the right thing to do. But we do want to emphasize that we have to do something too, that we have to meet them on an equal footing when we finally face them on the battlefield. Then it is too late to cry that we cannot keep our eyes open because of long marches, that we cannot fight on because of poor physique. Then it is too late, and it might not only mean our own destruction—which means so little in this greater world—but the destruction of our nation—our civilization.

They gave us voluntary physical education. They gave us the right to choose between "being" and "not being." They expected, however, that there would be only one way for us to go. They were sure of that.

Our brothers are dying today all over the world to give us some more time to arm, some more time to prepare for the final battle. They expect us to make proper use of that time. That is what they are dying for. That is what makes their death not valueless. How can we in the face of all this, go on dancing, go on not caring? Bombers blast away at Java and Rangoon; the Japanese navy kills many at Amsterdam; MacArthur's army suffers, but battles on, and we—.

Can we not show our will to help by at least preparing our physical strength for the real test? The only thing we can do at the present moment.

We blamed the politicians, we blamed Hitler, we blamed every scapegoat available. That is useless now, however. [illegible] instances cannot make us win the war, but only our will to fill the gaps, to do our part tenfold.

"To be or not to be—that is the question." A question which can only be answered by our actions. Realize our fate—the world's fate is at stake, it [illegible]

Easter Seal Sale Opens March 10; Help For Crippled

Dr. A. Bradley Soule Jr. president of the Vermont Association for the Crippled today formally announced the opening of the annual sale of Easter Seals in the State of Vermont.

Proceeds from the sale, which is carried on throughout the nation during the weeks preceding Easter, will be used to enhance the program for crippled children and adults.

"Enough response to our appeal has been obtained in the past this year we are facing an emergency situation," said Doctor Soule. "Both the present and the future impose upon us a dual responsibility—that of carrying on for the crippled we have with us and preparing for the [illegible] handicaps that are to come."

Doctor Soule explained that our program of physical restoration of the crippled and their vocational rehabilitation is a present necessity because of the nation's need for the productive capacities of all its people.

The prospect that volunteer efforts in this direction may require drastic expansion because of the impact of the war is no less real because it is unpleasant," he said. "The country is now facing the problem of the permanently disabled soldier. While government planning to meet this problem is already under way, the experience and facilities of the volunteer organizations which for years have been financed by Easter seals will be urgently required."

Doctor Soule pointed out that in its broader aspects, the program for the nation's physically handicapped had not yet scratched the surface.

Orchids to the late basketball team. This outfit landed, statistically, among the best Vermont fives in the last twenty years. Succeeding ten times in fifteen tries, our boys compiled a neat [illegible] and were usually able to move out of their [illegible] conquerors.

[illegible] was at his best here. [illegible] the gaping dearth of [illegible] coach forged a pocket-[illegible] and lined it with [illegible] cunning. No, this [illegible] rugged team. In fact, [illegible] was perhaps the only [illegible] wouldn't look out of [illegible] boy scout suit. But, [illegible] our heroes became [illegible] more than one occa-

Eye-catching items in [illegible] include the clean sweep of [illegible] series and the signal conquests of Tufts and Trinity. Skaters End First Season

Cats Nip St. Michael's, Bow Twice to Panthers

By Phil Kenyon

It has been many moons since a hockey club on the Hill could bang up its pads, helmets and mufflers and call it an official season but that's what the 1941-42 edition of Green and Gold pucksters had done.

A season of three games has been recorded in the athletic ledgers of U. V. M. by this time, and the teamen were still reflecting on their successful meeting with St. Micheal's some two weeks ago.

From the point of games won and lost the Catamounts turned in no prepossessing record, but the fact that hockey had at last entrenched itself was enough to excite enthusiasts of the frigid game to a lot better.

Vermont opened the season taking the short end of a 3-2 count from Middlebury. The Middmen, not satisfied in letting the meagre one-point win suffice, combined speed and weight to plaster an 8-2 defeat on the Green and Gold in their second meeting. Stinging from these two, the Vermont men produced a snappy attack at Winooski Park just two weeks back to eke out a 3-2 victory over the Mikemen.

The initiation of an ice club at U. V. M. came after four years of work by Jim Stephens, captain and hard-skating center of the crew. Jim, who boasts some experience with local semi-pro clubs besides a turn at the game up in his native Canada, shouted for the addition of hockey way back when he entered as a freshman. With the assistance of Dr. Howard Prentice, head of the physical education department, the equipment was brought out from under the mothballs and the lads went to work in earnest.

Prentice tutored the skaters during the early part of the season until Dr. Jim Marvin took up the duties. Prior to Prentice's reign the icemen set up their own plays and figured out their own strategy.

Come June, graduation will only take two of the veterans in addition to Stephen. They are Sig Sisko, who played a lot of center, alternating with Stephen, and Jim Duckworth, one of the big guns in the defense department.

It is undoubtedly a fact that Dave Tuholski will be back in as goalie next winter, while Bish McGill, Stu Evans and Bob Lockwood will be the mainstays on the defense. Whit Switzer, the lone freshman to don the colors for the Green and Gold, played some bang-up hockey in the wing slot, and with Ed O'Connell, Fred Bundy and Bob White will be the nucleus for '43's forward wall.

SCHOOL CAGERS OPEN TOURNEY

The annual State class A high school basketball tournament opens at the Memorial Auditorium, Friday. The first round schedule:

Cathedral vs. Rutland.
Springfield vs. Montpelier.
Brattleboro vs. Mt. St. Joseph's.
Burlington vs. St. Albans

Cathedral, northern champion, and Springfield, southern titlist, have been installed as co-favorites. The Little Indians narrowly edged out Springfield in a non-league encounter early in the season. The downstaters ran away with their pennant race and won the southern tourney impressively. Burlington High is also conceded a good chance for the crown.

Handball King Defends Crown

The boys put on their gloves last week and started the little black ball bouncing again as the intramural four-wall handball tournament got under way. Defending singles champion, B. Rynoweecer '42 and the defending doubles kings, R. Warsaw '44 and S. Fieber '44, have some stiff opposition in the new material playing in the tourney this year. The tournament, however, still in its first round, has shown no surprise developments as yet, and possible fireworks seem destined for a future date.

Overshadowing all other events for the next two weeks are the interfraternity relays and track meet, the former to start on Friday, March 13, and to continue through the next week, while the meet begins on the next Friday and continues over that week-end. Four-man teams will be entered in the relays, the first and last men to trek the quarter mile and the second and third men to dash the 220-yard course. The track meet will feature the mile, 880-, 440- and 220-yard distances, hurdling, broad jumping, high jumping, and shot-putting. The Phi Delts, Independents and A. T. O's are presenting strong, experienced teams, but the meet promises to be of the thrill variety if only because upsets are not uncommon in track meets, and a dark horse might earn itself one of the top three places.

Huard and Leavy Bolster Veteran Four As Gardner Prepares for Batting Drills

By Jimmy Dougherty

For a little more than a week already the Lettermen at Vermont baseball team has been practicing under the supervision of Coach Lewis Gardner in the cage of the Gymnasium.

Lefty has been head baseball mentor at Vermont for the past fifteen years and in that time he has put on the field some good ball clubs. A few other years the Cats also turned out great nines. In 1936 Coach Gardner's team was so well-balanced in college baseball circles that he was chosen to take charge of an all-star squad of amateur baseball players made up of college players to play against a representative of major league baseball.

Because it rained a lot during the early part of April last year, no outdoor practice sessions were held to speak of, and the boys were unable to get outside to work until the day of their departure for the southland in April. That is, unless they have some favorable weather and the sun does Centennial Field sufficiently enough to allow the boys to get some outdoor work in. But three weeks or three months that matters little to Larry because he can turn out a good team despite the time limit. And this will be proved in Annapolis on April 4 when the Cats open their 1942 baseball season against them boys, the Navy. The midshipmen boast a good team this year and will undoubtedly push Vermont to their utmost. Win or lose this opening game will be a tough one and both teams will be going out to get each other.

Following the Navy game the Cats encounter Villanova, Lehigh and finish their southern jaunt with the Army. Each of these three teams is strong, but from past records the Cats are even money to come out on top.

This week of practice has been nothing more than a general all-around loosening up and warming up—a preliminary to the heavy work and digging the boys will have to do between now and that Navy game. Thus far the team has come along in fine style. The four veteran pitchers, Carlson, Akley, Shaw and Albergini, are now beginning to throw at half speed, striving for control and putting finishing touches on curves, drops and the rest of their repertoire. Added to this pitching staff are two newcomers, Sted Huard, who used to pitch for Winooski and the freshmen last year, and Jack Leavy, who used to twirl them for his former alma mater, Columbia Prep. Both these boys have shown marked improvement during the past few days and will no doubt do some work on the hill for Vermont this year.

Although actual batting practice has not as yet started, the rest of the squad has been receiving drill in fielding in the form of grounders off Larry's bat. The boys are yet a wee bit shy of perfection but still they show lots of pepper and speed when those balls come flying at them.

This week drills will definitely become more intense and by the end of the week the boys will have gone through batting practice and will be in fine mettle for the ensuing tough schedule which lies before them.

Clarence Akley, veteran Vermont right hander.

Track Squad Trains For First Indoor Meet

Under the diligent guidance of Coach Archie Post and aided by Capt. Bert Mott, the Vermont tracksters are looking forward to a successful season barring injuries from early season workouts. The first scheduled indoor meet is at Middlebury, March 28, and will consist of dashes, sprint and mile relays, plus a medley relay.

Girl Ski Team Ends Schedule

As the skiing season comes to a close, the women's ski team can look back on a busy winter of practice and competition on Mt. Mansfield. Under the instruction of the Sepp Ruschp Ski School, Barbara Burns '43, Julia Fletcher '44, Kay Brown '44 and Harriet Pearl '45 traveled to Stowe each Monday and Wednesday to ski the Lord, Ski Meister, and Nose Dive trails. Many invitations were received by the team to participate in intercollegiate meets here in the East. Due to the lack of transportation facilities, the team had to be content with centering its efforts on making a good showing in the Women's Intercollegiate Ski Union meet held at Middlebury last February.

This is the biggest meet for women held in intercollegiate circles here in the East. As a team, the Vermont girls did very well, placing both of its contestants well up at the top. Julie Fletcher tore down the icy Ripton trail to take a second place in the downhill race, just two-tenths of a second behind the winner. Barbara Burns took a third in the combined time of two slalom runs held in the Ripton Snow Bowl.

None of the team members will graduate and the prospects for next winter are very promising indeed. Plans are being considered for holding a ski meet here at U. V. M. during the Kake Walk week-end. If so all four members will have a good chance to make a good showing on trails which they are accustomed to running.

The trustees of U. V. M. gave formal approval Saturday of a plan agreed upon between the counsel for the banks and the University, the same plan they had informally approved at a meeting on February 21. This provided for a forty-day notice to be given by the University to the banks, before any University property in Chittenden County could be disposed of.

Pres. John S. Millis said yesterday that the entire matter was expected to be cleared up today and declined to comment further about the completion of final documents.

The Burlington Savings Bank, Burlington Trust Co., Chittenden County Trust Co., and Howard National Bank and Trust Co. filed suit on January 19 to recover a total of $500,000 in claimed damages after the University had failed to meet demands for payment of the loans made during the last few years.

The average first-year college girl spends $108 for room decorations and $120 for clothes, a check-up indicates.

Smith College maintains two schools for children, Smith College Day School and Elizabeth Morrow Morgan Nursery School.

Qualifications For Joining The Marines

[illegible]

The qualifications given at the present time will probably be the last for some time for those who wish to apply for commission in the Marine Corps reserve. Representatives of the Marine Corps will be present at the University of Vermont on March 24, 25, and 26 to examine all applicants.

Applicants must be native born citizens of the United States, between the ages of 20 and 27 years, inclusive, on the date of appointment, unless specially authorized by the Secretary of the Navy. Graduation from a four year college or university of recognized standing is required. Applicants must be unmarried and without dependents.

Applicants must be in excellent physical condition and must pass a rigid physical examination. Color blindness, defective hearing, or any organic defect or disease is cause for rejection.

Applicants must be of good moral character and must have the recommendation of the president of the college or university last attended.

Applications should be addressed to the Commandant, U. S. Marine Corps, Washington, D. C. Applications must be received by the Commandant not later than the following dates: [illegible]

The appointments will be made in the order in which the applications are received, and vacancies will be filled from the list of those found qualified. Applicants will be notified by the Commandant as to the action taken on their applications.

Successful candidates will be required to report at Quantico, Virginia, for training on dates specified in their appointments. Transportation will be furnished from the place of acceptance to Quantico.

Successful candidates will be commissioned second lieutenants in the Marine Corps Reserve, and will be required to serve on active duty for the period of the present emergency and six months thereafter, unless sooner relieved.

Applicants must furnish with their applications two letters of recommendation. Sophomores and freshmen will not need these, both certificates and letters of recommendation will be required. However, men under twenty-one years of age must have the consent of their parents to enlist. Application forms and further information may be obtained from Professor Butterfield at the N.Y.A. office.

Alpha Chis Stage Annual Musicale

Piano, Violin Duets Vocal Numbers Heard

The Alpha Chis staged a very entertaining musical well attended by student and faculty members, Sunday evening, March 8, 7.30. Among the distinguished guests there were Dr. Richard Stohr, Prof. H. G. Bennett and Mrs. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Anselmo, Mr. Ippocrates Pappoutsakis and Miss Natilee Marston. Miss Adelaide Hartpence and members of the Pilgrim Fellowship were there.

The Alpha Chi chorus was introduced by Virginia Mitchell. They sang in well balanced tones "Long Have I Cherished" and "Swaabian Love Song" by Brahms. Erika Heininger '44, and Shirley Needham '45, at the piano, drew applause with their piano duet, Brahms "Hungarian Dance No. 5." Marjorie Southworth '43, accompanied by Judith Perry '42, sang with much expression, "Offranda" by Hahn and "My Lover Was a Fisherman" by Stickland. Mary Whitney Rowe and Nellie Herrmann '44, received spontaneous applause by their violin duets "Salute d'Amour" by Elgar and Kreisler's "The Old Refrain." Betty Cole a graduate of '40, a special feature of the program, sang "Oh Lord Most Holy" by Cesar Franck. Erika Heininger '44, played "Prelude No. 22" by Chopin. Marjorie Southworth '45, and Betty Cole '40, sang two duets, a selection from "Judas Maccabaeus" by Hendel and "Autumn Twilight." Barbara Gallagher presented a skit "The Lawn Fete." Everybody was highly entertained. The Alpha Chi chorus ended the program with two of their songs "Memories" and "Alpha Chi." A silver tea was presented afterwards for the benefit of the Home for the Shell Shocked Children. It was served by the members of the chapter

Former Chem. Prof. And Alumnus Dies

Prof. Charles A. Kern, alumnus and former member of the faculty in the chemistry department for many years, died recently in Winter Park, Fla.

Born June 19, 1878, son of Daniel and Sophia (Pope) Kern, he attended Burlington High School and received his B.S. degree from U. V. M. in 1901. He was a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

Professor Kern did graduate work at Cornell, and worked in New York for two years. He then returned to U. V. M. where he served as associate professor of chemistry until the fall of 1941 when he resigned. His home was at 74 South Winooski Avenue.

He is survived by a brother, Walter P. Kern of Leema, N. J. and a niece and several cousins.

Following cremation, a committal service will be held in the spring. Burial will be in the family lot in Lake View Cemetery.

Student Government Voting Monday In So. Conference Room

Corbett, Goss, Roeder, Thurber, Vie for Prexy; Balloting Wide Open

The nominating committee specified in the Student Government Constitution met Thursday evening, March 5. The committee felt that in the case of the vice-presidency and the treasurership the students should decide by their vote whether a man or a woman should be elected and accordingly nominated two men and two women for each of these offices. For the secretaryship the committee nominated four women, all sophomores, as specified in the constitution. For the presidency, four men were nominated.

In preparing this list the committee made an honest attempt to determine those persons best suited for the positions. Students should remember that they are electing officers to run their own Student Government and are urged to elect the most suitable candidate rather than being influenced by other considerations. Unless the best officer is chosen in each case your Student Government may well fail in its purpose.

For president: J. F. Corbett '43, J. P. Goss '43, W. A. Roeder '43 and H. F. Thurber '43.

For vice-president: Helena Anderson '43, Janet Dike '43, M. R. Kaufman '43 and O. F. Swift '43.

For treasurer: Julia B. Fletcher '44, Helene A. Levesque '44, J. H. Tennien '43 and R. F. White '44.

For secretary: Alison M. Carr '44, Penelope S. Easton '44, Marilyn L. Emer '44 and Margaret N. Fake '44.

For Executive Committee: Class of '43, A. F. Amee, W. H. Davis, W. G. Dudley, W. N. Harvey, June W. Hoffman, E. B. Mott, Jr., Alice M. Needham, Patricia S. Page, D. M. Zwick, H. C. Vreeland, and W. A. Roeder.

Class of '44, Carolyn D. Brown, Ita M. Casey, J. P. Corliss, Barbara M. Hall, I. Katz, L. F. Killick, Jr., Marilyn I. Emer and R. L. Norton.

Class of '45, Priscilla Clark, G. S. Cochrane, G. R. Corbosiero, H. D. Frank, Shirley Needham, and H. D. Pearl.

It's your government. It's your election.

Mass Meeting Held; Slate Announced

Dean Simpson and Dahl Address Gathering

All U. V. M. women who are living under Student Union rules, and many who are not, attended the third Student Union mass meeting of the year, Wednesday, March 11, at Southwick.

Miss Simpson spoke to the gathering about current problems and events, and Barbara Gallagher explained various rules. To the Alpha Chi Omega house was awarded the scholarship cup given by Mortar Board.

The guest speaker of the evening, Mr. Dahl of the security campaign committee urged the full support of the women of U. V. M. for the Vermont victory drive. The money that would ordinarily have been used for refreshments was presented to Mr. Dahl as a defense bond for the drive.

The slate of candidates for next year's officers of Student Union was presented. A short but very novel entertainment was provided by Redstone dormitory.

The list of candidates for next year's student Union is as follows:

For president: Janet Hackwell '43, June Hoffman '43, for chief justice. Mar

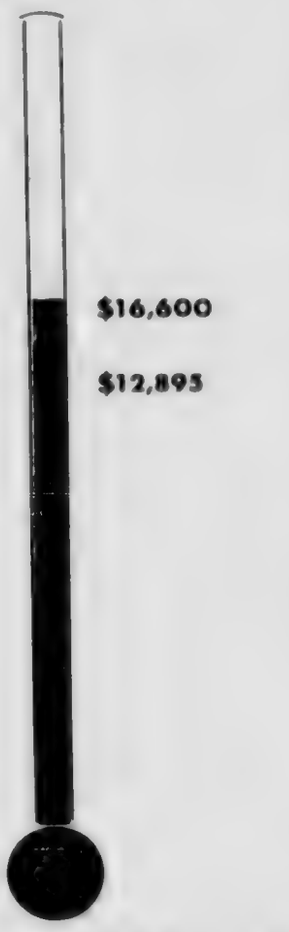
Publicity Head

MYRNA FRENCH

Tomorrow night marks the date of the second big Mortar Board dance of the season. So girls, tonight is your last chance to make the most of your chance to this semi-formal affair which will be held in the cafeteria of the Waterman Building from 9:00 to 12:00.



The entire proceeds of this outstanding social event sponsored by the Senior women's honor society will be donated to the U. V. M. Security Fund. Attend this dance and help add impetus to the savings program of your University. Tickets will be on sale in the Waterman Building all day tomorrow so don't fail to take advantage of an opportunity to support U. V. M. Also in keeping with the new savings drive there will be no decorations.

The Catamounts, under the management of Earl Mills, a graduate of Green Mountain Junior College, and Tom Keighley '44, will offer their true to form smooth renditions for the occasion.

Barbara Gallagher '42 is general chairman of this dance. Myrna French '42, heads the publicity committee, and Helen Witham '42, is in charge of tickets.

Better get your dates now, girls, or you will miss this gala evening.

Security Fund Gets $16,600 In 15 Days

The student phase of the U. V. M. Security Fund campaign is now 15 days old. The total contributed here on U. V. M.'s campus has jumped from $12,895 to $16,600. Included in this is the $500 received from the rally which started off this campaign. With the cooperation of the student representatives, 255 pledges have been turned in. Let's turn on the heat and watch the thermometer rise!

Senior Week Chairmen Nominated at Meeting

At a nominating meeting of the senior class (1942) the following nominations for chairman of Senior Week and business manager of Senior Week were made.

For chairman of Senior Week: J. A. White, J. A. Sudbury, A. C. Moore.

For business manager of Senior Week: C. V. Akley, Clark Miller.

The election of the above named officers will be held Wednesday, March 18, in the South Conference Room in the Waterman Building from 9:00 to 12:00 a.m. and from 2:00 to 4:30 p.m.

Additional nominations may be made by petition signed by at least fifteen qualified voters of the class concerned and presented to the Committee on Student Elections at least three days in advance of the election. Prof. D. E. Carroll is chairman of the committee.

School Teachers To Confer Saturday

600 to Hear Dr. Smith And President Millis

Approximately 600 school teachers and administrators are expected for the 57th Conference of the Schools of Vermont with the University of Vermont and the Champlain Valley Teachers' Association to open at the Burlington High School today at 9:30 a.m., Dr. Bennett C. Douglass of the conference committee, said Wednesday.

"Strengthen the Nation From Within Through Education" is the theme of this convention and will be stressed in an address by Dr. Payson Smith of the University of Maine at the opening session.

To Discuss Victory Gardening

Principal speakers for the day include, in addition to Dr. Smith, Pres. John D. Millis of the University of Vermont; State Commissioner of Education Ralph E. Noble, "War-time Responsibilities of the Schools"; Prof. Paul D. Evans of the University of Vermont, "America and the Campaign Year of 1942"; Prof. James A. Bullard of U. V. M., "Mathematics for Defense"; Prof. Andrew Nuquist of U. V. M., "Is the Social Studies Curriculum of the High School Meeting the Needs of the Present Emergency"; Major Merton E. Ashton, "The State of Vermont Merit System Council Program"; and Charles Blasberg, U. V. M. Extension Service, "Victory Gardening."

There will be a number of exhibits for the teachers to visit including art displays. An exhibit of northern Vermont artists is scheduled for 4:00 p.m. with tea served by the Fleming Museum Art Association.

The class in mental hygiene and industrial arts at the University will have an exhibit based on the theme, "Precision for Keeping Children Busy and Interested In Things Have to Spend Time in An Air Raid Shelter."

Schoolmen of Vermont will climax the day with a dinner at the faculty dining room, Waterman Building, at 6:00 p.m., with the Wigwam Teachers Club will dine at the Hotel Vermont at the same time.

On Saturday, morning at 9:30 Prof. Catherine Neely, of U. V. M. will address teachers of commercial subjects at the Waterman Building.

[illegible] the consequences of the present semester might [illegible] possible away [illegible] and thought [illegible] a definite [illegible] such a measure. [illegible] which considers such a measure [illegible] that the officials in the college interim the students [illegible] this year they [illegible] semester will be carried on with a great degree of success. Perhaps the greatest [illegible] is preventing the [illegible] of this information. If it is the officials should [illegible] it will be a great incentive for [illegible] some [illegible] steps could be taken [illegible] that those set forth at several [illegible] be given to each student before returning home [illegible] Students could find out their standing in the [illegible] and [illegible] the University about it when they return.

[illegible] over the amount of tuition to be paid—whether the full amount will be due whether the activity will be included or whether there will be a flat per hour charged [illegible] $9 per semester hour as charged in the regular summer session.

What will be the length of the courses? Will a full year of 24 courses be given or will only the first semester be given? The latter would lead to a great many difficulties in regulation of courses for those not attending the session. Will the regular summer session be held for those who find it necessary to make up [illegible] or will this be disbanded for the duration of the national crisis?

What will be the set up in the physical education and military departments? The most vitally concerned of freshmen and sophomores, and most opportunities. There is chance for new sports program to be arranged with college in session while the balmy Burlington summer weather is available.

In which of the various colleges will attendance be required? Agriculture students in particular would like to know whether they will be needed on the farms this summer. Will pre-medic student be required to attend? And if so, when will the next class be entering into Medical College?

Many more pertinent questions can be thought of and put forth but there is no need to do so. The University authorities know what information is needed now and will give out the facts when known. Let us hope this time control does [illegible] as it has in the case of [illegible] summer jobs: students desiring these jobs must make applications early but the lack of information at the present prevents them from doing so. Many students are dependent on summer employment to gain the "finances" which is their key to open the portals of education. In case Henry is a conferences session from what military are these organizations such classes going to derive the money for the continuation of their education?

Doubtless a more honest [illegible] will have to be established or the scholarship requirements lowered. Whatever steps are taken, immediate action should be taken so that a successful session may be presented—a step which should go a long way in rehabilitating the University.

Discouraged Students Set On Right Track

During the past four years members of the psychology department of the University of Vermont have been quietly at work on vocational guidance problems arising in their classes and those requested by other departments.

All students entering the University of Vermont are given an intelligence test to find their general ability. These according to Prof. R. M. Collier, do not indicate any of the personal problems or traits possessed by the students. "I haven't proved it," said Professor Collier, "but I believe that a very high percentage of men and women who lose their jobs or even those who flunk out of school, do so because of personality quirks, and not because they lack ability or intelligence."

The guidance program is carried on without financial aid from the University and is part of the department's private donation to the welfare of the hard-pressed century and a half old institution.

"If we can catch the problems early enough," Professor Collier explained, "we can straighten most of them out and prevent a good hard-working, intelligent student from increasing his burdens by flunking out and considering himself among the less capable group."

The guidance advice is given after the student's case has been considered in the light of tests for interest, aptitude and personality. These reveal many characteristics of which the student himself either is not aware or which he wants to conceal in an attempt to fit himself to a place society or his parents have ordained for him, a place where his personality or his lack of interest or his aptitude would always keep him doing mediocre work.

Campus Comment

To the Editor of the CYNIC:

Dear Sir:

Would you be willing to insert the following in your next issue on behalf of the Security Fund.

During the next few weeks and possibly for a longer time, there may be a need for volunteers from the faculty and staff to fill speaking engagements in connection with the Security Fund Campaign. It is not known how many calls will come in, but it would be appreciated if faculty and staff members, in addition to those already working on the committee, who would be willing to fill such engagements if and as they are needed, would give their names to the Security Fund office, Waterman Building. Thanks.

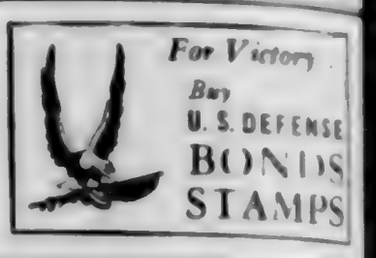
Medics Can't Get Microscopes Now

This is a story of the rationing of microscopes by the University Store. These instruments are an absolute necessity for pre-medical and medical students. It is reported that the government is taking over 75 per cent of the output of the manufacturers, of which there are but two or three in the United States and as yet has made no allowance for, nor has taken into consideration medical schools and students. It, therefore, appears up to the agency responsible for furnishing this essential to do all that it can to meet the needs of the future medical students as well as the present classes.

The Medical Book Store, a branch of the University Stores, began its sale of microscopes about 15 years ago. The sales were very slow and painful. The price at that time for the approved student microscope, which included a substantial frame, two eye-pieces, three objectives one of these being an oil immersion, and a mechanical stage, was $137.00. This price also included a leatherette carrying case. To pay down this sum seemed to be the privilege of only a few students. It also became necessary for the Medical Book Store to place larger orders in order to be recognized as a legitimate agent and to obtain a reasonable discount. A plan for rental was then devised, which allowed a student either to buy or rent. After a short time this plan was revised to allow the student to apply the rental price paid upon a particular instrument to the purchase price if purchased during that college year. This brought about a marked improvement in the sales, but still students renting an instrument one year were not at all satisfied that this rental could not be applied in the fall of the following year to the purchase price.

As a final solution the rental purchase plan was extended to cover a period of four years. This allowed the student to pay the regular rental fee each year and in the fourth year the additional service charge which was approximately at the rate of 6 per cent a year covering the whole period during which the instrument was being purchased. This proved most satisfactory. This fall the University Store, which has absorbed the Medical Book Store, had out on the rental plan 55 microscopes.



Now with this definite possibility of a shortage the University Store can no longer sell microscopes either for cash or on this rental plan. It will, however, continue a rental service probably at the rate of 2 per cent per month throughout the duration or until such time as microscopes again become available for all customers. This is only the beginning of the shortages which must become necessary before this war is won. The University Store will try in every way to stretch its present stock of such items to best serve the most people.

The following facts should be carefully understood by students who apply: A representative of the Marine Corps and a physician will be here to examine candidates March 13, 14, 15, 16. The quota for enlistment in the U. V. M. is as follows, with the given numbers of candidates [illegible] to be selected:

Seniors—10.
Juniors—7.
Sophomores—7.
Freshmen—7.

This shows a recent change which made Sophomores and Freshmen as well as Seniors and Juniors eligible.

Applications from the Senior and Junior classes should be accompanied by certificates and letters of recommendation. Sophomores and Freshmen [illegible] these until they enlist. All men under 21 should have the consent of their parents.

This is probably the last opportunity for those from civilian life to apply for commission in the U. S. Marine Corps.

There is an opportunity for people who wish to scrub the editorial staff of the CYNIC to do so now. Names may be handed to Alfred Amee.

College Diploma Will Be Hard-Earned Reward For Johnny Spasyk, Versatile Catamount Senior

By Rudy Kempter

"Ten years will have elapsed since my graduation from high school when I receive my diploma from the University of Vermont this May." These are the words of John Joseph Spasyk, whose spirit and determination have enabled him to become an outstanding leader on our University campus.

Johnny, who has five brothers and three sisters, was graduated from Pittsfield (Mass.) High School ten years ago. After six years, in which he did everything from shoveling coal in a boiler room to working in a woolen mill, Spasyk entered the University of Alabama and transferred to Vermont to enter as a sophomore in the social science curriculum.

Since that time Johnny has gathered just about every possible honor in this institution. He has been a member of each class honorary group and now is a tedious worker in Boulder Society. Aside from being a class president, Spasyk is affiliated with Kappa Phi Kappa, Sigma Delta Psi societies and Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

Johnny believes that the new student government is a fine thing to have and feels that it should be the policy to instill spirit into the undergraduates as they enter this institution. "It may take a few years to become accustomed to it, but eventually a good student government may be realized. We are thinking of the future."

Spasyk refers to President Millis as "a man of action force who believes in accomplishing things."

It is obvious that Johnny could not live without sports; it seems that sports at U. V. M. might not have flourished so greatly without his participation. With four high school letters behind him, the versatile fellow has starred in football, captained freshman basketball, varsity baseball and even tries the pole vault in intramural competition.

During his spare time one may find John nonchalantly sipping an Adam's ale in the cafeteria, visiting at the Allen house or cogitating on his plans for the future. "My biggest ambition is to work with boys," he stated. But after two years of C. M. T. C. and National Guard duty he expects to enter the army, having obtained his commission as second lieutenant last July.

When asked about his social science course, he answered cheerfully, "Gee, I think it has been lots of fun."

Asked how he felt concerning graduation this May, Johnny stated, "I am, of course, very sorry to go in one way. College has meant an awful lot to me. I have really some fine years of my life here but my objective in college has been accomplished and I am ready to do a job. There is work to be done; the sooner one starts, the sooner he finishes."

For hobbies Spasyk likes Boy Scout work, having earned the Life Scout rating some years ago. The National Basketball Association now recognizes him as a game official, due to his learning the ins and outs of the game as a sideline. John spends the summer time working in a defense plant helping to turn out automatic machines with which shell jackets are manufactured.

There are few students here at Vermont who don't know Johnny, but there are none to whom he will not just smile and say "hello."

Post Expects Strong Team

Track Coach Optimistic As Veterans Turn Out

If a few guys find it expedient to throw off the shackles of ineligibility within the coming days, and at least a portion of the present material continues to plug away, there is little doubt that Vermont will roll out with one of the best track and field clubs in some years.

As a matter of fact, that is precisely what Coach Archie Post thought yesterday while tutoring his charges through a short stick drill in preparation for their opening relay meeting with Middlebury, March 28.

There are a lot of good words about this season's cindermen, mainly, that relay racing will come into its own officially. Secondly, the '42 edition of track and field is probably about as well balanced as any mentor could ask for.

The schedule:

Mar.	28	Relay (Indoors) at Middlebury
Apr.	4	Relay (Indoors) at Union
Apr.	7	Relay (Indoors) Middl., here
Apr.	18	Bowdoin, there
Apr.	25	Union, here
May	2	Colby, there
May	6	Middlebury, here

Although the actual track competition is condensed into a very short season, a long, hard grind is always in store for any candidate who seeks fame on the cinder path. Since mid-years there has been a steady stream of U. V. M. students from the previous year and new men who heretofore were indifferent to the sport daily conditioning themselves for the indoor and outdoor campaign.

The first bad break suffered to date is the ineligibility of Ed O'Connell, a middle distance man of last year's team, and Paul Walgren and Bob Lockwood, both of whom demonstrated more than average ability on last season's touted freshman aggregation.

With Bert Mott, the Webster brothers, Ernie St. Mary and Bud Hoyt back in the distances, Post is counting on some of the "under warming" lads for the middle running. With the exception of hammer, every other field has at least one experienced man.

John M. Goss, hurdling broad jumper last spring, looks even better this year, and likewise bids to be a comer in some division of the hurdles.

Howie Vreeland and Ed O'Connell, providing the latter becomes eligible, will carry the brunt of the pole vaulting for the Green and Gold while Dick Grosvenor and Johnnie Goodrich will be the big guns in the high jump. Bart Barry looks like a good pre-season prospect in the hurdles.

Johnnie Reed, whirlwind football man, appears to be headed for a berth in the 100-yard dash.

"At present," said Post, "most of our attention is being centered on the inter-fraternity races, and it isn't improbable that we'll uncover some material for varsity running."

Seven Houses Race in Relays

The annual interfraternity relay race is to be held this coming Monday and Wednesday afternoons in the gymnasium. This year only seven teams are entered. They are as follows: Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Delta Psi, Kappa Sigma, Phi Delta Theta, Sigma Nu, Phi Sigma Delta and the Independents.

Because their candidates did not acquire the prescribed number of workouts to be eligible to take part in the relay, Lambda Iota, Sigma Phi and Tau Epsilon Phi will not enter any relay teams this year.

The winning fraternity relay team will be awarded three points toward the Travernor trophy, while the fraternity placing second will get one point.

On Monday afternoon three races will be held, the losing teams being eliminated from further competition. One team will get a bye into the semi-final. On Wednesday afternoon the four teams remaining will again compete and the remaining two winning teams will fight it out for the championship after they have had a substantial rest period.

The Phi Delts, who won the event last year, are favored to repeat this year with Bert Mott, Bob Pulleyn, Bob Lockwood and Paul Walgren or Frank Ecklund. In winning last year, the Phi Delts were only off one-tenth of a second from breaking the record which is 2 minutes 52.5 seconds set by Sigma Nu in 1940.

Lettermen to Hear Kelley at 'V' Dinner

Daniel J. Kelley, Massachusetts director of physical education, will be the principal speaker at next Friday's annual Block V dinner. Proctor H. Page, assistant to Pres. John Millis, will be toastmaster of the affair, which is to be held in the Waterman Building.

President Millis is also on the dais as are Captains Misty Rice of football, Red White of basketball, Johnny Spasyk of baseball and Bert Mott of track. The Rev. Ralph F. Linnehan will make the invocation.

Awards will be presented by Prof. H. A. Prentice, the dinner's chairman, to lettermen and managers in baseball, basketball, cross-country, football, rifle, tennis and track.

The Outing Club and hockey dinner erroneously scheduled for the same evening, will be held the previous night, Thursday, March 19.

Examine Referee Candidates Here

Prospective basketball referees taste trial under fire here tomorrow. The Vermont State Board will examine candidates in the gymnasium at 10.30.

The embryo officials will take turns at handling an actual game under the judges' eyes. Several Catamount athletes, headed by Fearless Fred Logan, are scheduled to participate in the pseudo-game.

Senate Studies Frosh Standing

The athletic council of the University has empowered Dr. Prentice to organize athletics for the summer semester. These sports will be according to the gym's head master, baseball, tennis and probably track.

However, these arrangements are still tentative, since the athletic department has no way of knowing how many students will attend the summer's speed up session. As soon as the number expecting to attend is ascertained, plans for the organization of summer sports will go into effect.

The athletic council also submitted a new ruling to the Senate for approval, which permits entering freshmen to participate in varsity athletics. This will not, as far as is known, eliminate Freshman sports, but will permit a freshman to partake of three years of varsity athletics if he has the prowess, instead of two years of varsity play under the new speed-up system.

Cat Teams in 27 Spring Tilts

Three Vermont varsities will engage in a total of twenty-seven contests, two of which are tentative, according to the spring sports schedule released by the athletic office yesterday.

The tentative bookings are baseball games with Fort Ethan Allen and St. Michael's. In addition to these, nine other baseball games, nine tennis matches, and seven track meets have been arranged.

The schedule:

Baseball—April 4, Navy at Annapolis; 6, Villanova at Villanova; 7, Lehigh at Bethlehem; 8, Army at West Point; 24, Middlebury at Middlebury; 25, St. Michael's at Winooski Park; May 2, Fort Ethan Allen at Burlington (tentative); 6, St. Michael's at Burlington; 9, Middlebury at Burlington; 15, Springfield at Burlington; 16, St. Michael's at Burlington (tentative).

Tennis—April 23, Massachusetts State at Amherst; 24, Connecticut University at Storrs; 25, Trinity at Hartford; May 2, Middlebury at Middlebury; 7, St. Lawrence at Burlington; 8, Clarkson at Burlington; 9, Rensselaer at Burlington; 15, Middlebury at Burlington; 16, St. Michael's at Burlington.

Norwich's name is conspicuous by its absence. The Cadets have dropped all spring sports this season.

Eighteen Foilsmen Progress in Club

Because one ambitious freshman wanted to fence, because this freshman was willing to offer his time in organizing and instructing a fencing club, because Doctor Prentice and the rest of the physical education department were willing to cooperate with this ambitious freshman, a Fencing Club at the University of Vermont has come to be an accomplished fact.

Today the U. V. M. Fencing Club has eighteen active members led and directed by this freshman—Jerry Sillman! Jerry conducts four classes a week and according to him, "The class will soon be instructing Jerry Sillman because of the interest and ability demonstrated by the members."

However the aim and desire of Jerry Sillman and the Fencing Club is to have a real teacher instruct fencing at U. V. M. According to all reports, there is a good possibility that this too may become an established fact. If the Fencing Club does get a qualified instructor, there is even a good possibility that fencing will become a varsity sport. In the meantime Jerry is planning to conduct fencing classes through the summer and fall sessions of the school year.

Diamondmen Round Into Form

Picking up from where we left off last time we find ourselves once again in the cage reviewing another workout of the Catamount baseball team.

Even the cage itself has taken on a different and new mien. It looks more like the Brooklyn Dodgers' training camp than like the U. V. M. military drill hall. Nets partition the cage into three sections enabling the players to go through batting and bull-pen practice at the same time and with ease.

The boys are full of pep and maintain a lively chatter throughout practice. Spirit indeed, pervades the cage. There is activity going on all the time. Over on one side, the pitchers, now thoroughly limbered up, are displaying more than mere half-speed throwing. They are really burning them in. The rest of the cage is taken up by batting practice and the air resounds with a sharp reverberation when ash meets horsehide solidly. Coach Gardner is everywhere, pointing out and correcting individual faults as they crop up.

In less than three weeks the Cats break camp and start for the Southlands where they meet Navy, Villanova, Lehigh, and Army.

This little matter of only three more weeks of practice doesn't phase Larry one bit. He says, "Right now things look fine. The men are coming around nicely and are doing good work. All we need to do now is keep it up and wait for a break in the weather so we can get outdoors where we can really do some moving around. Then you watch us—"

Summer Session Students To Be Interviewed

In order to ascertain how many plan to attend the Summer Quarter and which courses should be offered the Administration is arranging interviews with all who have expressed a desire to come. Letters will be sent giving necessary information.

No notice will be sent to those who stated on the questionnaire they were "definitely planning not to attend." However, any student not receiving the letter of information may apply to my Secretary for an appointment in case he now would like to discuss the possibility of coming to the Summer Quarter. Appointments may be made Tuesday and Wednesday, March 17 and 18, during office hours

New High Reached By Security Fund

300 Student Pledges Now Reported as in

The total contribution here on campus has now reached $18,150 with better than 300 students pledges in. Sixty-eight per cent of the on-campus faculty and staff have reported. There is 54 percent of the off-campus members who will not report until after March 23.

Student contributions total $2,414.26.

The four colleges have a total report as follows:

Agriculture—63%.
Arts and Sciences—86%
Engineering—88%
Medicine—43%.

The department with the highest single percentage is the Physical Education Department with a 91% report.

On Monday each one of the student representatives received a letter from the campaign headquarters concerning the progress of the campaign. It is expected that by Friday the present results will have been doubled.

The main activity taking place at present is the preparation for the Burlington-Chittenden County Campaign which will open on Monday evening, March 23, with an instructive kick-off rally at the Waterman Building. There will be at least 500 leaders and workers present at the meeting and it is expected that some members of the Steering Committee will come from as far away as New York City to be present at the meeting. This kick-off really marks the beginning of the off-campus campaign program.

Other rally meetings are also in the process of being arranged. Groups have already been organized for this purpose in Montpelier, Bellows Falls and Bennington, in Boston, Pittsfield, and Worcester, Mass., and in New Britain and Hartford, Conn. as well as in New York City. Altogether there will be more than fifty such rallies between now and June 1.

Big Walt Maurer Starts Long Trip

Alice Needham '43 and Margaret Fake '44 were in charge of the meeting and Mary Butler '43, the refreshments

Finishing touches are being put on a $150,000 plant improvement project at Hamilton College.

New Summer Session To Start At U.V.M. Monday, June First

Classes Will Begin Immediately on The Following Day

The summer quarter of the University of Vermont, dictated by the war emergency program, will open Monday, June 1, according to a statement released today from the office of Elijah Swift, dean of the college of arts and sciences.

The regular second semester, now in session, will close with Commencement Monday, May 18, and two weeks later to a day, Monday, June 1, students will register for the summer quarter which has been arranged to speed up the educational program.

The summer quarter, for which courses are now being arranged will be a streamlined affair, with classes beginning June 2, the next day following registration, and continuing without interruption for 12 weeks except for the single holiday, Saturday, July 4.

Room for the summer quarter has been made by eliminating the usual Easter vacation and compressing midyear and final examination periods. The purpose of the session is to enable students to graduate earlier than they otherwise could and release them for some sort of useful service. Attendance at the session is not obligatory. Arrangements are now being made to interview such students as wish to take advantage of the opportunity.

The last day of classes is Tuesday, August 18, with examinations taking place from Wednesday, August 19, to Friday, August 21. Commencement exercises will be held Monday, August 24, in case any students are qualified for graduation as a result of attending the first summer quarter.

Dr. Brown Speaks At Vesper Service

Dr. Charles M. Brown, former dean of Yale Divinity School, was the speaker at the Vesper Service held in the Chapel on Sunday afternoon, March 15. Although Doctor Brown has visited here before, this was his first address in our Chapel this year.

He was in troduced by Rev. Raymond Avery Hall, of Charlotte

As the theme of his address Doctor Brown used the story of Jacob and his barter for the birthright of his brother. Using the analogy of Jacob's vision of a ladder stretching into heaven, Doctor Brown cited the passage "Surely the Lord is in this place." He reminded that the Lord is not far from any of us, a benefit which we need at this time more than we deserve.

He also suggested that it might be well to remember that the best things never come by bargaining. "That we give ourselves without asking what He will give to us in return is not too much to offer," he said. "He gives to us in the same uncalculating fashion."

As an anthem the choir, under the direction of Prof. H. G. Bennett, sang "Oh Loving Savior" by Kalinikoff. The responses were Gretchaninoff's "God of Love," and "Nunc Dimittis," also by Kalinikoff

Joe Corbett Elected President Of U.V.M. Student Government; Janet Dike to be Vice-President

Julia Fletcher, Treasurer; Marilyn Eimer, Secretary; Ten Students Chosen Executive Committee Members; Meeting Expected Soon

With yesterday's election of officers and members of the new executive committee, students have at last reached their goal of a voice in the government of their college. The voice now rests in the hands of the committee, headed by J. Corbett '43, president; Janet Dike '43, vice-president; Julia Fletcher '44, treasurer, and Marilyn Eimer '44, secretary.

The ten committeemen and women were among several nominated by the students. The last two weeks has seen vigorous soliciting by nominee's backers seeking the required 100 names which qualified them to be on the list. The officers were from a list of nominations submitted by the committee on nominations, composed of Dean Mary Jean Simpson, Deans Swift, Eckhard and Hills, and Joanna Metcalf, Helen Witham, Barbara Gallagher of Mortar Board and J. Spasyk, R. Carlson and R. Hunting of Boulder.

This is the first big step in the new U. V. M. student government which was first conceived in the constitution voted on by the students in last fall's series of student convocations. It will represent a major factor in the movement of the rehabilitation of the University.

Pre-election business and election day duties were in charge of Mortar Board and Boulder Society members.

Debating Club To Go April First

Annual Spring Tour Shortened This Year

The annual spring trip of the U. V. M. Debating Club begins on April 1, 1942, with Lehigh University at Bethlehem, Pa. The debate will be on the form of a symposium on "Post War Organization" and will be held before the Rotary Club. The two Vermont representatives will speak on "World Confederation" and "World Federation," while their opponents from Lehigh will argue "Isolation" and "World Empire." This will be followed by an open forum discussion.

On the same day two other Vermont men will debate a similar question at Brooklyn, Brooklyn, N. Y. On April 1 the two Vermont teams will meet at City College in New York to debate, Resolved, "That the Democracies of the World Should Unite as Soon as It is Feasible to Do So." Vermont will uphold the affirmative.

On April 3 Vermont will debate the negative of the aforementioned proposition with Upsala College at East Orange, N. J.

There are also on the same trip debates pending with Princeton University and New Jersey College for Women.

In the past the spring trip has taken the debaters as far south as Louisiana and as far west as Chicago. The plans for the trip due to the "accelerated program" have been necessarily curtailed, however this year it has tried to include more men than before.

The team in other years has debated such schools as University of Florida, Tulane University, Louisianna State, University of Kentucky, Harvard, Tufts, Princeton and Columbia.

During the year the team has discussed "Government Regulation of Labor Unions," "Compulsory Military Training" and "Anglo-American Alliance."

I.R.C. To Meet Wed. In Open Meeting

Everyone is invited to attend an open meeting of the International Relations Club on Wednesday, March 18, at 7:15 in the Student Lounge of the Waterman Building. The subject "World Organization After the War" will be ably discussed by Prof. Waldo H. Heinrichs, Professor of Contemporary Civilization at Middlebury College and Prof. Paul D. Evans, Professor of History at the University of Vermont. Both are vitally interested in their subject having fought in the last "War to End Wars," Professor Heinrichs as an aviator, where he was rather badly wounded, and Professor Evans as a second lieutenant in the Field Artillery. Professor Heinrichs expects again to enter the air service in a short time.

Both have actively shown their interest in World Peace by energetic leadership on the "Committee to Defend America" here in Vermont.

Before the meeting there will be a supper at 6:00 in the Waterman Cafeteria for all members of the I. R. C.

Aggie Club Holds Regular Meeting

On Tuesday evening, March 10, the Aggie Club held its regular meeting in Morrill Hall. The results of Dean Hills' "Sugar Party" were discussed. At last reports a sum of approximately $93.00 was cleared and turned over to the Security Fund. Plans for the F. F. A. convention in late April were discussed with L. J. Partridge '42, appointed general chairman. This is to be considered further at the next meeting. Another Home Ec.-Aggie Club party was requested by several members and Floyd Campbell '42, was appointed to look into the possibilities. Mr. A. F. Heald showed two very interesting talking movies.

Refreshments of chocolate milk and cookies were enjoyed by all.

D. Goodenough Guest Speaker at Collegium

Last Sunday Collegium welcomed back David Goodenough, an old member, and officer of their group last year. Goodenough spoke informally of his religious activities at the University of Connecticut where he is now interested in religious work. He is an active member of the Connecticut Christian Association which corresponds to our V. C. A. He was a guest of John O. Corliss '44, at the Delta Psi house to which he belongs.

Y. W. C. A. Will Conduct Chapel Service Wednesday

The University Y. W. C. A. is to conduct the Wednesday morning Chapel service. They will use a service prepared by Helen Albro Pach, former Secretary of the State Y. W. C. A. The theme presented by two readers and the choir will be "The True Church."

VOL. 60 MARCH 17, 1942 NO. 41

'Nuff Said

Jesse Lauda says: "Terminate the illumination." President Roosevelt says: "Turn out the light." And Jerry the Squealer put it, "Douse de glim." No matter how they put it, no matter how much they may say it, the light will not shine. It must write it, repeat it, shout it from the house-tops in words, just words. Someone still has to pull the switch.

We have heard the word. We know why we have a Security Fund. We know why we students should contribute to this Fund. And we know how we can make our contributions.

In other words, stuff said. Now is the time for all good men—and you, too—to get on the ball, to get cracking on the job, and a little bit more.

The pledge cards of over 1,200 students have been given out by the Security Fund office to student representatives. Mr. Dahl feels that these representatives are doing a fine job. One fraternity has reported 100 percent participation by the first deadline. One girls' house pledged 100 percent, a defense bond apiece. Over 300 pledges have been reported from students totalling over $1,200. A sorority is selling stamps daily in the Cafeteria. Saturday night dances are to be held, or are they? Various organizations are holding bridge parties, suppers, and entertainments from which the Security Fund will benefit.

All this is action. But—if one fraternity can report pledges on time, why cannot the others? If 300 pledge cards have been turned in, that leaves, let's see—uh—900 to go.

Some unavoidable delays will arise and have arisen. But if pledge cards are carried around in a representative's notebook for a week or so, or another card lies forgotten in a desk drawer, the Security Fund will remain at the word stage. If we are to go forward together, let's get going.

President Millis is going on a pretty stiff speaking tour on behalf of the Security Fund. Thirty-six speeches in forty-five nights is a lot of talking. If we can back up these words with some action—University of Vermont students participating 100 percent in the Security Fund program—we shall have made his task lighter. Concrete evidence of our faith in the University and its future will speak louder than any number of good intensions and promises.

Forward Together will be more than words; it will be action.

On Student Government

At the moment this column is written, the officers and executive committee members of our new student government have not been elected. Yet as you read these lines all of us have elected the students who we think will best serve these offices.

It is too late now, not only for this columnist but also for the whole student body, to make alternate recommendations for officers or to voice passionate cries of "who would be better." They have been elected by majority vote and we shall have to stick up for them. The students only ballot either for a year—they can be changed—but the government must be maintained.

That is our most important argument. In spite of pans, in spite of dislikes, in spite of "different" opinions, the U. V. M. student must remain with us. Everything can be transformed over a period of time, everything can be adapted to our purposes, but it is very hard at any time to start from the beginning again without a foundation.

The student government, as everything else was not conceived spontaneously. For the last few years the students, time and time again, have asked for such a body, and at the beginning of this school year the demand became stronger and stronger—that is strong enough so that President Millis and the honorary societies could go ahead and lay the groundwork on which we can build the foundation now.

Great power will be given to us if our enterprise works out successfully. For example, the distribution of the student activity fee by the student body through their government will determine what activity is worthwhile in our opinion and to what extent it should be supported. We all know what an organized group can achieve if it wants something done. Weapons are being placed in our hands to build, not to destroy.

We must emphasize again that this student government will only function at all if we make it our government and not their government. That is why a quorum was ruled to consist of 500 students. For the first time it is demanded from us students to do our job wholeheartedly or lose the thing completely. There will be no cemetery in the Aeriel for our government where the ghosts appear annually in a picture.

How about it? Our professors well recall that many a student government has raised its head on this campus in the last fifty years only to nod itself into dormancy. Once again a head has been raised. It is our job to hold it high and fill out the body. Their work was no work—effort was wasted. Our effort, our work will be _____ the future will show it. Students, officers let's _____ (what? —That is for you to answer.)

Freshmen Invited to Attend French Club

Tuesday evening at Le Cercle Français this Wednesday, March 18, at 7:30 at Southwick, a program has been planned which will include the playing of records of various French musicians. At this time next year's officers will also be elected. All who received a grade of 82 or better in a course in French last semester are invited to come. A special invitation is issued to the Freshmen to be present as this is the first meeting of Le Cercle which it has been possible for them to attend.

KAPPA SIGMA

R. Noland Cain '43, L. Findlay Killick, W. N. Harvey, C. Virtu Akley and J. Eustace Corbett spent a lovely week-end in Boston as guests of "Ogo" Sore and members of Gamma Pi Chapter of Kappa Sigma. Refreshments and a theatre party followed Friday night's arrival. After enjoying a peaceful sleep—on the floor Friday night, the delegates attended a series of "business" meetings. Mr. Killick delivered a paper at the afternoon session—believed by all to be the Boston Post. Saturday night, the little group attended a banquet at the Puritan Hotel where contrary to the alleged rubber scarcity, they were served half-broilers. Following the banquet, the delegates from Alpha Lambda entertained several of the personnel from Kathryn Gibbs faculty at a reception in the "Fife and Drum Club." The whole week-end was lovely.

Bob Hennessey '43 visited in Bridgeport, Conn., last week-end.

An initiation was held on March 16 for Anthony Joseph Lewkowicz '44. A buffet luncheon for pledges and members was held previous to the initiation. There was a discussion on the subject "Problems of Fraternities During the Present Crisis."

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

A Founder's Day Banquet was given at the House at which George Stanley, Professor Tupper, Doctor Jordan, and Professor Butterfield were the guest speakers. It is expected that many alumni will visit the House this week, and on Saturday, there will be a tea-dance to conclude their Founder's Day activities.

DELTA PSI

Melvin Friberg, Edward Perry, both from Dartmouth, and John Iggins of Seton Hall visited this past week-end at the House.

John Fletcher '44 has left school and is working for the Canadian Colonial Airways.

Doug Riddel '44 and Edmond Craige stayed at the House this week-end.

Robert Paterson '42 was a week-end guest in Barre.

PHI DELTA THETA

Formal initiation was held Saturday and Sunday for Armand Cognetta of Stamford, Conn., Frank Eklund of Rutland, John Hooks of W. Englewood, N. J., and Allen Weiss of S. Braintree, Mass., and Harry Crossley, Jr., of Burlington.

An informal smoker was held by a group of Phi Delts headed by John Spasyk on March 14 at 9 p.m. Coach Larry Gardner, Sports Editor Walter Hickey and several friends were entertained.

PHI SIGMA DELTA

Joseph Kruger, Phi Sigma Delta National Secretary visited this week-end here at Burlington.

A card party on March 15 was held, the benefits of which will go to the Security Fund. One hundred and eight persons attended making it a great success.

The Locker Room

By Bill Roeder

The high school basketball tournament provided an opportunity last week-end for Boulder Society to "rush" several likely young athletes. The honor lads went to work with a will, [illegible] a number of the players, [illegible] special invitations, [illegible] the beauties of [illegible] to their guests.

Athletics here might benefit con[illegible] some of these boys [illegible] be induced to enroll. A name like Ernie Johnson's, for instance, would be a major item in future basketball line-ups. Ernie is the Brattleboro center, who, though his team was eliminated in its first game, showed enough in that one appearance to gain all-tournament recognition. Monte Chapman, one of the referees, thought Ernie the carnival's outstanding performer. Homer Ellis, one of Ernie's Brattleboro teammates, is another attractive customer. Homer scintillates on the gridiron, where his fullback talents are of all-state dimensions.

The special guests included a pair of ample tourists from Plattsburg. One of these appeared capable of shouldering two or more Waterman buildings. His appetite wore down six waiters and drastically reduced the cafeteria's provender.

None of the players on the fine Springfield team will enter college, apparently. They are all co-op, or trade students, and will be forced to accept $90 per week defense jobs on graduation.

Stepping Out of Bounds

Spring schedules are capitulating thick and fast to emergency demands. Among the latest schools to publish a revised program is Williams, which has sliced its intercollegiate contests from fifty-six to thirteen. . . . Phog Allen, the heralded Kansas basketball coach, has sprung another brainstorm on the court cognoscenti. The doctor would restore the center tap to the game, with the players rotating in order in the jumping positions. . . . Our masculine eyes cannot see Gary Cooper as Lou Gehrig. . . . L. I. U. is the bookmaker's choice in the National invitation court competition, which opens in New York tonight. [illegible] Y., Toledo, Western Kentucky State, West Virginia, Creighton, West Texas State, and Rhode Island State are the other entries. Pete Layden, the crack Texas halfback, has signed as an outfielder with the Louisville American Association Club. . . . Ted Williams struck out as a pinch-hitter in his 1942 training début. But he'll probably get another chance. . . . Holy Cross has moved its Dartmouth football meeting from Hanover to Worcester. Since his hunting accident several years ago, Charlie Gelbert has had to wear sundry contrivances to prevent his bad leg from buckling. The old shortstop is now batting stick with Brooklyn. . . . There are that the Poughkeepsie intercollegiate rowing's biggest [illegible] will be held this year. . . . [illegible] track card next week [illegible] MacMitchell, Greg Rice, [illegible]. and Al Diebolt all [illegible] indoor records in their [illegible] events. . . . Princeton's [illegible] five whipped Penn at [illegible] Saturday and moved [illegible] place tie with Dartmouth, [illegible] a play-off for the [illegible] Intercollegiate League title. [illegible] coach, Ossie Cowles [illegible] Tigers, although his team has taken them twice.

Interfrat Relay Teams Compete

Kappa Sigs, Phi Sigs Run—Phi Delts Picked

Interfraternity relays got under way at 4.25 yesterday afternoon, the Kappa Sigs and Phi Sigs chasing each other around the track for a total of 1,220 yards. The Kappa Sigs have entered B. Barry and R. Soule in the 440 runs, and Millin and McGill in the 220 courses. The team is well rounded and fairly fast. The Phi Sigs have entered R. Steinman and L. Paul in the 440's, while L. Fishman and M. Minckler are slated for the 220 trips. An unknown quantity, since their team consists of three freshmen, the Phi Sigs may produce one of the surprises of the event.

The Phi Delts, favored to repeat this year, have R. Lockwood, B. Mott, R. Pulleyn, P. Walgren running for them in the 440's and 220's, respectively. Having come within a tenth of a second of breaking the relay record last year, there seems to be no vocal opposition to their authority on the track.

The only other team officially entered in the relay—that is, whose runners are definitely known—are the S. A. E.'s whose team consists of Grosvenor, 400; Cozalino, 220; Vreeland 220; and O'Connell, 440. Fast in the 220 and in the 440 alike, the S. A. E.'s may be able to match strides with the top teams this year. However, the uncertainties involved in racing on our indoor track are sure to provide thrills and surprises at every turn.

Girl Cagers Elect New Manager; Aide

Basketball Club met for the last time this year on Thursday, March 12. At this time Phyllis Taylor '44, was chosen as manager of basketball for next year and Priscilla Clark '45, was chosen as her assistant. The actual playing of basketball has come to an end, but there still remains the awarding of the cup to the Town Team as winner of the tournament, for the third consecutive year. An honorary varsity is to be chosen from two picked teams who will play, this being a change from the Green and Gold which was played last year and from which the honorary varsity was chosen.

A number of girls became members of Basketball Club either last semester or this semester. Following is a list of these girls: Margery Anthony '45, Jeanne Hotchkiss '45, Katherine Hennessey '45, Harriet Pearl '45, Thelma Jacobs '45, Mary Thornton '45, Phyllis Taylor '44, Elizabeth White '44, Ruth Buttles '44, Penelope Easton '44, Louise Johnson '44, Rhoda Baldwin '44, Barbara Lane '44, Mary Lib Metcalf '44, Priscilla Perkins '44, Mary Quinn '44, Betsy Roberts '44, Phyllis Savage '43, Marie Scutakes '43, Natalie Spear '43, Dorothy Thornton '43, Helen McLean '43, Irene Quimby '43. All of these girls who haven't already paid their W. A. A. dues please give your money to Sylvia Runnals right away.

Coaching class will continue until the practical officiating tests have been taken. Basketball classes from Burlington High School will come up and play practice games which the girls in the coaching class will referee. Class will start at 4.15 as usual.

Gold Key Notes

Chet McCabe and Leonard Kunken were co-chairmen of the successful smokey time enjoyed last Wednesday night. After Prof. Benny Ladd had spoken a few words of advice, Larry Killick, president, introduced Coach Fuzzy Evans, Bill Benoit, co-captain of football, Fred Logan, varsity manager of baseball, and Clarence Akley, member of Boulder. Tommy Keighley at the piano accompanied the group of 50 singing U. V. M. songs. "Baseball, National Pastime," a 35 minute talking movie was shown. Cokes, sandwiches and cigs refreshed the fellows. (They were in great need of refreshments at that time.)

Gold Key has decided to have its members chosen at large and the number limited to 12 instead of 16. They expect the accomplishments from the smaller compact group to be greater

Former Catamount Grid Satr Sent Misty Rice to Vermont

By Rudy Kampfer

If one were to apply the Kinetic Energy formula, $\frac{1}{2}MV^2$ to the gridiron tactics, the "M" would undoubtedly stand for "Misty."

Harold Edward Rice, long since dubbed Misty, who hails from North Haven, Conn., began his sports career at Lemon Hall High School in Wallingford, Conn. From high school, Rice attended Cushing Academy in Ashburnham, Mass., where he starred in football and on the diamond.

If it had not been for the good work of a Vermont grad, it is probable that Misty would never have had Ethan Allen for a forefather. The versatile Red Cooke '35, a former U. V. M. athlete and captain of varsity football, persuaded him with several of his pals, to come up to Burlington and look the college over. One of the pals was Mickey Gilbert, who with Misty, chose Vermont for his Alma Mater.

Rice was a member of Gold Key and class president during his sophomore year. As a freshman, he played baseball and captained football. For three years Misty weathered the storm on the gridiron, playing in many contests for the full 60 minutes, and captaining the team last year. Noted for his bone-jarring tackles, the iron man was shifted to a backfield slot last fall, where he really went to town.

"I spend most of my time in the Waterman Cafeteria and often the library is a very nice place to go," said Misty in a prospective tone.

During the summer vacation the kid has been working for a telephone contractor where he performs out of doors duty with engineers. Although Rice would like to continue with such work upon completion of college, Uncle Sam has other ideas, The Marine Corps looked good to Misty, so he hiked down for a physical examination and now expects to leave before September for intensive training leading to an officer's commission.

"When you come right to it I've had a sort of uneventful life—but gee, I like it up here at Vermont; I made no mistake in coming here and am sorry to be leaving."

Misty Rice

Trackmen Look to Outdoor Workouts

If wintry blasts continue to make themselves scarce and the weather man will keep the snow flurries at the minimum, some crystal gazers were predicting today that track and field candidates would be ambling towards Centennial Field in the near future for their afternoon workouts.

In the meantime, Coach Archibald Thompson Post will keep his charges on the indoor oval in preparation for their opening indoor relay with Middlebury two weeks hence.

There is little, if anything, new on the fortunes of the cindermen today. Yesterday afternoon, fraternity representatives garbed in their brief attire circled the track in the initial rounds of interfraternity relay.

Net Aspirants Launch Drills

Eleven varsity tennis candidates began working out indoors last week under Coach Fred Carpenter. Among those reporting are two veterans and four members of last year's frosh squad.

Capt. Sam Foti and Dick Swift are the holdovers. The sophomores are Cleveland Denton, Tom Keighley, Vinnie Manjoney and Bob Norton. Warner Black, Charlie Carver, Wallie Weisman, Bill Wicker and Armand Cognetta are also competing for positions.

The net schedule calls for nine matches. The team opens with a Massachusetts-Connecticut trip, meeting Massachusetts State at Amherst April 23, University of Connecticut at Storrs the following day, and Trinity at Hartford in the concluding match. On May 2, the netmen travel to Middlebury. Their first home match is with St. Lawrence on May 7. Clarkson is to be met on the 8th, Rensselaer on the 9th, Middlebury on the 15th, and St. Michael's on the 16th, all in Burlington.

Coach Carpenter's hopes are not too bright because of the shortage of veteran material, but the new men are practicing diligently and may surprise.

Infield Drills Occupy Nine

Gardner Regains West, Experienced Shortstop

For two weeks, 20 baseball candidates have been working diligently under Coach Larry Gardner's watchful eyes, limbering up and getting into condition to meet the speeded up spring schedule.

Two weeks isn't a very long time for any coach to look his material over sufficiently enough to permit him to choose his starting nine. Coach Larry Gardner isn't an exception to that rule. In the two weeks that have gone by Larry has been on the go all the time, seeing that the men are all fit and in trim to turn these next two weeks into two gigantic production periods. Two production periods, so that Larry can choose the men to make the trip into the Southlands.

With the men raring to go Larry has now turned his attention away from all preliminary practices and has now focused it on infield drills. These infield drills will, in all probability, continue right up until the day of the trip unless, by chance, the weather breaks and the men can get out of the cage and onto Centennial Field.

Meager playing room is a great handicap against the boys at the present moment. Outfield men must learn how to judge fly balls and this they cannot do in the cage. Only the infield and battery men are getting any real good out of cage practice. But with things as they are it is very difficult to say if conditions will change.

Coach Gardner would not let himself be coaxed into making any pre-season prognostics nor would he let out anything on how the candidates stand for positions.

He did, however, say that he has just learned that Russ West, junior shortstop, and important utility man last year, has been made eligible for 1942 competition. Russ is quite adept at playing short and will be of great help in rounding out Larry's infield problem.

Rugby Coach Calls For New Material

Harry Twitchell, student rugby instructor, issued a plea for players of the sport today. Twitchell announced that a meeting of the rugby club will be held this afternoon in the back armory.

Quoth Twitchell: "All members, past and present, are urged to renew their rugby contacts, but literally. Those who have never reported for rugby before and newcomers to the game are welcome."

At the meeting, plans for the onrushing season will be discussed. The sponsor advertises that "the larger the attendance the more business will be accomplished."

To all those interested, the physical education department will offer credit in fencing.

Springfield High School Five Wins Cage Tourney

While Springfield pointed its eyes towards the New England basketball tournament, more than one person on campus that ventured into the Memorial Auditorium last week-end was of the opinion that Vermont could be assured of a continual winning club if the machine towners would find it expedient to matriculate at U. V. M.

The Green and White rolled into Burlington Saturday with a reputation as hot as fire, and they lived up to it every inch of the way. Paced by such lads as Peanuts Kasparovitch and Bobo Birsky, to say nothing of the remainder of the club, Springfield was the master of everything it surveyed, including a highly touted Cathedral quintet that was poised to cop the State title.

The southerners set a stiff pace for the first two periods in Saturday afternoon's affair after vanquishing Montpelier easily on the preceding afternoon, and the race was telling on the Little Indians. Kasparovitch was invincible from any position on the floor. Moving smoothly, the Springfield club piled up a slight lead in the third canto, and from that point on it was a walk-away.

B. F. A. of St. Albans and Mount St. Joseph of Rutland staged a nip and tuck affair from the initial period until the Green and White from Rutland put on the pressure in the last period. After the upstaters' tremendous upset of Burlington High's apple cart the preceding evening, the customers were looking for the repeat of a bang-up performance, but it was obvious that the St. Albans quintet had lost its "whirlwind" game overnight.

M. S. J. looked like the club in the opening few minutes of Saturday evening's finale, but as soon as the Cosmos supplied the push, the M. S. J. five relegated itself to the background. The score was all tied up on numerous occasions, and the Green Wave even forged ahead at intervals as sharpshooting Johnnie Hackett dropped the ball through the netting from way out a number of times.

Driving hard in the final quarter with Ferris Davis finding the range, the Cosmopolitans racked up enough counters to set back the same club they had defeated in the southern tourney, 39-30.

Brattleboro's one appearance was enough to make the crowd want more. The performance of their lanky center, Ernie Johnson was great, and the lad deserved every bit of his recognition as all-state center.

Montpelier put up a stiff fight in the first two periods of Friday afternoon's initial round, but the eventual tourney victors were too much for Jiggs Powell and his fellow hoopsters.

The action of the Red Raiders from Rutland left much to be desired. Although they halted a smashing attack by Cathedral in the opening minutes of play, there was never any doubt who was master of the situation. Little Al Merrill played a rousing game for the Rutland club, but his single efforts were not enough to overcome the power house drive of the Little Indians.

All-state selections were unanimously made by the pressmen during the final encounter. They are as follows: Bernard Kasparovitch, Springfield and John Hackett, M. S. J., forwards; Ernest Johnson, Brattleboro, center; Boleslof Birsky, Springfield and John Daley, M. S. J., guards. Second team selections were: Harold Blakely, Burlington and Ray Brown, Cathedral, forwards; Mel Martin, Springfield, center; Ham Livingston, B. F. A. and Francis Marge, M. S. J., guards.

Presentation of awards was made by John (Fuzzy) Evans following Saturday evening's championship game. Bill Hammond, former coach at Cathedral High School, was in charge of the tournament which progressed without a hitch from the opening whistle to Saturday's final.

U. V. M. Rifle Team

The U. V. M. Men's Rifle Team has been very active lately and also very successful in its matches. The majority of students do not know very much about what the rifle team does, so the following information it is hoped will make more students familiar with the activities of the U. V. M. Men's Rifle Team. The team fires all of its postal matches in the shooting galleries which are located under the gymnasium. The team has gone out of town for some of its matches. U. V. M. is in a league which is composed of a large number of schools some of which are Norwich, Coast Guard, Yale, New Hampshire, Tufts, Harvard, and a number of other colleges.

Last week our team shot three matches. They beat Norwich by 47 points and this puts them in second place in the league behind Coast Guard. Coast Guard hasn't lost any matches and both U. V. M. and Norwich have only lost two matches. The other two matches were intercollegiate matches and postal matches. The U. V. M. Pittsburgh match came out 1391-1381 while the result of the match with the University of Maine isn't known as yet. Two more trips with league teams are planned for this month. Harvard will be the opponent on March 21 and U. V. M. will try to upset Coast Guard and its spotless record March 27.

Sergeant Pickett has replaced Lieutenant Pete as general coach of the team and J. Tennien '43 is manager.

Fraternity Formals Feature Novelties

SAE and Phi Sigs Sat.; Blackout Party Coming

Although still incomplete, plans for the approaching spring formals are progressing [illegible]

Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Phi Sigma Delta will be the first frats on the hill to stage their formals, both of which will come on Saturday night, March 21. The S A E formal, which is being arranged by E. J. O'Connell '43 will be open. Music will be provided by Bob Jay's Orchestra with dancing from 8.00 to 12.00. The boys have a novel decoration idea but there is still some doubt as to whether they can secure the approval of the authorities. Professors Millikan and Long, and their wives will chaperone.

The Phi Sigs will hold forth from 7.00 to 12.00 with Joe Blow and his corn-men-off-the-cobb, eight-piece band led by Fourteroy Murgafroy from Rutland. S. I. Baum '43 says that a buffet lunch will be served "in a very quaint manner" from 8.00 to 8.30. Professor and Mrs. Hunt will be their chaperones.

A week later, on March 28, comes the Kappa Sigma informal dance. A blackout party is being planned by a committee under the chairmanship of R. N. Cain '43.

The Phi Delts will entertain the same night with a formal dinner dance from 8.00 to 12.00. D. C. Tuholski '43, H. B. Cummings '45 and W. J. Murray '44 are making the arrangements. Jack Collins' orchestra has been engaged for the evening. Professor and Mrs. Long will help chaperone. Who the others will be has not as yet been disclosed.

Bob Jay will also furnish the music for T E P's formal, which will also be held on Saturday, March 28 in the Hotel Vermont Roof Garden. H. Sedlis '44, E. Basch '42 and S. Felsenfeld '44 comprise the committee. Professor and Mrs. Millikan will attend.

At press time, the plans for the other fraternity formals were still in early stages of formation.

Theta Fashion Show In Student Lounge Friday

A Spring Fashion Show will be held at Waterman Building in the Student Lounge on Friday, March 20, at 4.00. The price is 35 cents and the benefits will be given to the Security Fund.

On Saturday, March 21, all W. A. A. girls are asked to vote again for the chairman of Health Council since the last voting resulted in a tie between Barbara Dunbar '43 and Dorothy Bourne '44.

A party for all W. A. A. members will be given next Tuesday, March 24, at 7.30 following the installation program.

Natalie Spear '43 and Sylvia Runnals '44 are in charge of the party. One of the features will be a basketball game between two squads from which the honorary varsity will be chosen.

Marty Boucher '40 Gives Advice To Undergraduates On Physical Ed.

Below is a letter which was received recently by Coach Larry Gardner and was written by Martin J. Boucher, Jr. of the class of 1940

Dear Larry

I have been reading with considerable interest that column in the CYNIC which has been expressing the student's viewpoint on the subject of physical training for the male undergraduates of U. V. M. It seems a terrible shame to me that certain Youth at this late stage in the game is still bickering about the horrors being commanded to perform a task which I have found to contain the most pleasure. Has it personal pleasure. Has it occurred to the men of U. V. M. that a big moment in the U. S. Army or officer in the U. S. Navy does not await men if it is agreeable to them to put in a task before he barks command. Or that if we should lose the war and so far we have done little to show an impossibility, we will not have [illegible] offering a choice of sports with which to fill our leisure.

I have just recently been sworn into the U. S. Navy Class V-7, which is the same course for Ensigns in the U. S. Naval Reserve, and still have etched vividly in my mind a great many dejected faces-belonging to young men who possess all of the scholastic attributes necessary to be accepted just as I was, but who were rejected for physical unfitness. How those men wish that they could be back in college for one year, and how they would flock to your physical fitness classes, not in a lackadaisical manner, but with a grim determination to become physically 100 percent perfect! If all of the men of U. V. M. could spend one day aboard the U. S. S. Wheeling where they are giving those physical exams I am certain that their attitude would undergo a distinct change. There is no place in the world today as we on the outside see it for the rah-rah college boy whose physical fitness program consists only of dancing and elbow bending, simply because the world is too busily engaged in a tough job that will require tough men if it is to be accomplished.

I would like very much to advise the men of U. V. M., through you, that it would be a great deal easier to get in shape gradually while they are still in college than it will be under the present army camp methods.

I see by the CYNIC also that you have

New student government will meet Tuesday, March 24, 7.30 p.m., in the North Conference Room of the Waterman Building. All officers and members of the executive council will attend.

Hal Kennedy Gets "Wings" March 16

Parents, Girl Friends Receive Duplicates

Headquarters, Gulf Coast Training Center.—Uncle Sam's gigantic Air Corps military pilot hopper, headquarters at Randolph Field, today (March 16), with intensifying regularity ground out its third wartime class of flying officers and first class of staff sergeant-pilots from four Gulf Coast Advanced Schools, which included one man from The University of Vermont.

Lieut. Harold W. Kennedy, Waterbury, Vermont, '37-41

Fighter-flier experts all, these men—who will end what began at Pearl Harbor on December 7—were given the final stamp of military approval at the three oldest and one of the newest of the Gulf Coast advanced pilot training schools.

At Kelly Field an added tradition establishing touch was given graduation day when parents and girl friends of outgoing fliers shared honors as recipients of duplicate wings presented by Uncle Sam's newest "Men with Wings" themselves. They were also named "honorary members of Class 42-C," which ceremony is expected to be carried out at all other advanced schools in the future.

"Vic" Dance To Be Held In Cafeteria

Gold Key is sponsoring a "Vic" dance to be held Saturday night, March 21 from 8.30 to 12.00 in the Waterman cafeteria. The admission is one ten-cent defense saving stamp per person, and the stamps will be on sale at the door. The proceeds will be donated to the Security Fund drive.

The purpose of this dance is to fill up the evening for those who are not attending the fraternity spring formals. It is very informal so here is a chance to have an evening of grand fun while buying U. S. A. for U. V. M.

WARNING

All fire captains, air-raid wardens and house directors are asked to meet at the Fleming Museum on Tuesday, March 24, at 4.15 p.m. to see a film on air-raid protection, and receive instructions about the black-out which comes March 26. Roll will be taken.

Lenten-Easter Concert Will Be Presented Sunday In Chapel; Harpist Featured With Orchestra

Prof. H. G. Bennett Conducts Fauré's Requiem; Choir to Be Augmented by Burlington Singers; Robert Goss, Theresa Coderre, Student Soloists

The Lenten Easter Concert presented by the department of music of U. V. M. will be given on Sunday afternoon, March 22, 1942, at four o'clock in the Ira Allen Chapel. The Fauré-Handel chorus which presented parts of Handel's "Messiah" at Christmas will sing Fauré's "Requiem" for the Lenten part of the program and appropriate selections of the "Messiah" to celebrate Easter. The chorus and orchestra are directed by Prof. Howard Bennett. As has been customary during recent years, members of the faculty, alumni and residents of Burlington and vicinity are assisting the choir and chapel orchestra for this concert.

There will be two student soloists, Theresa Coderre '43, soprano and Robert Goss '44, baritone. The organ selections and accompaniment will be played by Miss Miriam Natilee Marston. An unusual feature will be the addition of a harp to the orchestra. The harpest will be Miss Flora Beecher Strickland of Moretown, Vt.

The program will be started by the organ prelude, the choral from Symphonie Romane by Widor. It is then divided into two parts, the Lenten and the Easter. Part I will be the "Requiem" by Fauré. This consists of the Introit and Kyrie, the Offertory, Sanctus, Pie Jesu, Agnus Dei, Libera Me and In Paradisum.

The second part includes a selection from "Samson" by Handel, "Then Round About the Starry Throne." Following are selections from the "Messiah"—"Lift Up Your Heads," "Worthy Is the Lamb," and the "Hallelujah Chorus."

The orchestra will play Molto Lento (Spharenmusik), from Quartet, Opus 17, No. 2 by Rubinstein between the two parts of the program. The soloists were coached by Mrs. Elizabeth Bradish.

Film on Incendiary Bombs at Museum Tuesday

The Burlington Fire Department has arranged to have a film depicting the construction of incendiary bombs, the havoc they can do, and the methods of dealing with them. This film will be shown at the Fleming Museum, Tuesday afternoon, March 24 at 4.15. It is imperative that all fire captains and fire wardens attend. Housemothers of cooperative houses and dormitories, and students are also urged to attend.

The film will be in Burlington for three days and will be shown at various other places in town.

Prof. Evans Speaks At I.R.C. Meeting

Members of Middlebury Student Forum Guests

At an open meeting of International Relations Club last Wednesday evening, Prof. Waldo H. Heinrichs of Middlebury College and Prof. Paul D. Evans were the speakers on "World Organization After the War."

Prof. Paul Evans stated that the failure of the League of Nations to perpetuate peace was due to the unwillingness of the important nations of the League to use force to uphold their policies. After the war many economic trade barriers must be removed to make a successful peace.

Profesor Heinrichs is firmly convinced of the necessity of an unconditional surrender, not negotiated peace. Russia, Great Britain, China and United States will make the peace in the event of an Allied victory. He advocated an International Police Order and an International Court plus disarmament of nations. One way to remove much national bitterness after the war will be the feeding of starving nations by America. Regarding colonies Professor Heinrichs thinks that there must be a system of internationally controlled mandates with eventual freedom for the mandates when their worth has been proved, but there should be no national colonies.

As an optimistic note to students both Professor Evans and Professor Heinrichs acknowledged during the discussion that students in the colleges today are much better educated internationally than were the students in 1914.

Nineteen members of the Middlebury Student Forum were guests of Vermont at this meeting. Before the meeting a supper was served to members of the Vermont I. R. C. and the Middlebury Student Forum in the Waterman cafeteria.

The next meeting of I. R. C. will be held April 8 at Southwick when election of officers will be held. At this meeting Professor Long of the political science department will speak on "World Strategy."

Junior Week And Senior Week Heads

At the elections held Tuesday and Wednesday in the South Lounge of the Waterman Building, the following were elected to take charge of Junior Week and Senior Week.

Junior Week: Chairman, Howard Vreeland; financial manager, Bill Benoit.

Senior Week: Chairman, J. A. White; financial chairman, Clark Miller.

Phi Sigs Net $86 In Bridge For UVM

Last Sunday, Phi Sigma Delta Fraternity held a bridge party for the benefit of the U. V. M. Security Fund. The proceeds of the bridge amounted to $86, which was handed over to the Security Fund office.

More than one hundred people attended and money was also received from town men and women who played bridge outside of the fraternity house that night.

The refreshments served were contributed by the fraternity.

The party was socially, as well as financially, a complete success and it is widely felt that activities like that will best show our alumni the interest of the undergraduates in their Alma Mater.

It America attempts decided to "put off" fighting for a week, if our naval forces determined to wait the hunt for enemy submarines until next month—how long would America remain free?

If the production of armament "just forgot" to turn out guns and tanks and planes, if American generals "didn't have time" to map our campaigns—then very surely America would no longer be an independent democracy.

But it is a way of measure procrastination has become synonymous with profits. And yet

While there is not one person who hasn't commented favorably on United States Defense Savings Bonds and Stamps, and who hasn't said "I'm going to start buying Defense Stamps without fail!"—there are several people who have "delayed their purchasing," who "won't start buying for a few days," or who had "just forgotten" to buy a Stamp.

This is not being written because we feel that the students of the University of Vermont believe that "V" stands for "Vacillation." Rather, we want to make plain our assurance that it is vitally important for students to invest their dimes and quarters in the United States as wholeheartedly, as regularly and as systematically as their parents invest their pay-day dollars.

Wholeheartedly, regularly and systematically . . . . just as our war is more than one isolated infantry attack; just as it requires much more than one concerted naval drive; and just as it necessitates infinitely more than a single bombing flight—everything we do must be continuous, unfaltering, and constant.

There is more to this war than victory. America is fighting not only for today, but for tomorrow . . . for future peace and for the future good of all peoples. The Bonds and Stamps we buy are not only fighting the war, but fighting for the peace.

Students at American colleges are thinking about this world to come; many of them are fighting for it. We who remain here are talking about it, reading about it, planning for it. We must also help pay for it, just as all Americans must help.

The dimes and quarters we set aside are important to the war effort, yes; but only if they are put aside regularly and systematically. Only if they reflect both the urgency of paying for this war, and the continuous, dynamic philosophy behind it.

On March 21, there will be a tea dance to be held at the Chapter House.

An Easter egg party will be held on March 29 for Christopher Bicoules '45.

DELTA PSI

Lieut. Everett Bailey '40 visited at the house on March 14. He has had a short leave before going to Pine Camp, N. Y.

Willie Sisson '43, Samuel Otis '44 and Bertha Baxendale '44 have converted the Delta Psi back yard into a garden to grow Hops, Rhye and Barley in anticipation of the coming liquor shortage.

On March 28, the spring formal will be held. The Barre Collegians will play. Sonni Hess '44 is in charge of the dance.

Who would be a good man to fix the "Still" in the Delta Psi basement? Please notify George Little.

PHI DELTA THETA

The Easter formal is to be held on March 28 and Herbert Comings '44 and David Tuholski '44 are in charge.

Egg rolling contest on the front lawn will precede the banquet. Jack Collins' Orchestra will play.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

The annual spring formal dance is to be held on March 21. Edward O'Connell '43 is chairman of the dance. Bob Jary's Orchestra will supply the music. Prof. and Mrs. George Millikan, and Prof. and Mrs. Long will chaperon.

Howard Vreeland '43, Robert Humphrey '45, Richard Grosvenor '43 and Harold Pulling '43 attended Founder's Day supposedly at Boston the week-end of March 15.

The rumor that the S. A. E's were to have a maid proved false, unfortunately.

Mr. Jack Colbert, National Traveling Secretary of Sigma Alpha Epsilon is visiting at the chapter the week-end of March 21.

For years, telephone cable has been hung by stiff wire rings from its supporting strand. But repeated expansion and contraction caused by temperature changes sometimes proved too much for even the best cable sheath. Fatigue cracks developed near the poles—this meant leaks—possible service interruptions—expensive repairs.

Recently, men of the Bell System developed a machine that lashes the cable and strand together in such a way that the concentration of strains near the poles is minimized. The Cable Lasher has also proved a great aid in the speedy installation of some of the new cables needed for airfields, camps, bases and war factories.

There are many opportunities in the Bell System for men with the urge—and the ability—to do a job better than it has ever been done before.

The Locker Room

By Bill Roeder

Suicide comes in divers forms. Some like it shot. Merely provide others with sufficient rope. Properly introduced, the gas pipe, the hemlock, the blade are all pleasingly lethal. But while your locker leaves 'em with a leap, gentlemen prefer rugby.

This gory game, whose rules correspond roughly to those of tong warfare, is the British version of football. The domestic interpretation, we'll have you know is somewhat more subdued. Rugby calls for knees, elbows and heads, as well as thumbs, up. The cry, "keep 'em dying," refers here to opponents' dismembered limbs.

It was an imported gentleman, Harry Twitchell of England, who set about a year or two back to instill a thirst for sporting bloodshed into pacific Vermont hearts. His success may be measured in obituary inches.

Harry's baleful band already numbers such cutthroats as Misty Rice, Aceball Moore, Chief Flynn, Cookie Cozzolino, Como Corsonnes, Charles Smith and Don Nutter. The leader hints that even now Paul Walgren is being measured for brass knuckles and a plaster cast.

Doughty ruggers, these. Devoid of any and all accessories, they stride to the scrum line (archaic for commando) armed only with stockings, cleats, jerseys and scanties. The rules, friends, are simple. Surround a five-minute rest period with two forty-minute halves. Employ no

Both Running Webster Brothers Point to Farm Teaching Future

By Rudy Kempter

Napoleon was a little man; so are Charlie and Freddie Webster little men. For three consecutive years these diminutive brothers have shown their heels to many of Vermont's cross-country rivals.

In 1938, the little town of Coventry, Vt., deposited the Websters in this college. Freddie was class valedictorian at Orleans High School, thereby obtaining an honorary scholarship to this University. Charles acquired a literary scholarship and decided to follow his brother. Both of the boys decided to major in agriculture and now look forward to teaching this subject upon completion of college this May.

When the freshman cross-country team shaped up in the spring of '39, Coach Archie Post found the two Webster brothers as candidates. With no previous experience they continued faithfully to perform three years on the varsity squad. Charlie holds the course record at Middlebury, while Freddie has the best time for the four and one-half mile course here at Vermont. Both brothers have sucessfully competed in the N. E. I. C. A. A. meets where Vermont made a creditable showing.

"We work and board ourselves," said Charles. "Fred lives in his trailer at the University Farm where he is employed during spare time, doing milking and varied farm tasks."

Neither of the brothers believes that he has done justice to his studies. "My stay at this University has been the only four years that I have really lived. I wish that I might be able to stay in order to see our University survive the present crisis," stated Charlie.

Fred recalled the days when he drove the horse and buggy back and forth to high school. When asked to tell what college had meant to him, he said, "I didn't come to college to study for four years, but to really live. I am very glad that the Waterman building has been completed before my graduation. It is certainly a great benefit to the students."

The Webster boys, contrary to general opinion, are not twins. Charles is the older of the two; they have one sister. They are also the proud possessors of a '31 Chevrolet sedan. Fred calls it Leaping Lena and claims that it has done everything from running into people to rolling over. In spite of such hard usage Charlie, who tinkers in mechanics, keeps the jallopy in proud form.

As might be expected, the boys are quite skeptical of being government property very soon, but are more than willing to serve their country.

Phi Delt Quartet Sets Relay Record

Phi Delta Theta's speedy indoor relay four established a new track record in winning the semi-final heat and went on to win the inter-fraternity championship race from S A E at the gym Wednesday.

Phi Delts Bob Pulleyn, Paul Walgren, Bert Mott, and Bob Lockwood were clocked in 2 52 against the Phi Sigs. This mark is half a second under the record set by Sigma Nu two years ago.

In the finals, the Phi Delts did 2 57 4 against the S A E quartet of Dick Grosvenor, Mike Cozzolino, Howie Vreeland, and Ed O'Connell.

The first round of the tourney saw the Phi Delts win over Sigma Phi, S A E over Sigma Nu and Phi Sigma Delta over Kappa Sigma. In the semi-finals, the S A E's nipped the Delts and the Phi Delts whipped Phi Sigma Delta.

'45 Batterymen Begin Practice

A handful of battery candidates reported to freshman baseball coach Fuzzy Evans in the cage this week. The frosh diamondmen got away to a late start, owing to the uncertainty of the team's status this year.

The athletic office announced a five-game schedule for the yearlings, with three bookings here and two away. The Kittens open April 23 at Centennial Field against Burlington High School. The road contests follow, Green Mountain to be met at Poultney April 25 and Vermont Junior College at Montpelier April 29. A pair of home games with Fort Ethan Allen and Green Mountain on May 2 and 5, respectively, close the season.

Pitching and catching hopefuls who have reported thus far include Whit Switzer, Fred Connor, Ray Comba, Wally Chapin, Bill Mahar, Bob Barrows and Mickey Cochrane. Switzer played with the hockey team last winter, while Mahar and Cochrane are football backs.

On the varsity front, Coach Larry Gardner is subjecting his squad to close scrutiny as trip time nears. With departure still two weeks away, the coach has no definite line-up for publication, but several positions appear reasonably well filled.

Two outfielders, the veterans Bob Doherty and Sig Sysko, stand out above the field. Infielders Hazen Wood at third, Russ West at short, Capt. Johnny Spasyk at second, and Tommy Clairmont at first, currently have an edge. Bill Conrad and Joe Margolis, whose eligibility is still in doubt, lead the receivers. Standout twirlers are the four veterans, Bob Carlson, Clarence Akley, Al Shaw, and Roy Alberghini.

Joe Corbett and Bill Benoit both have shown potentialities, and may get one of the undecided posts.

The coach's most fervent hope, of course, is for fair weather, which will enable him to take his squad outdoors. The cage's limited facilities make Gardner's narrowing down task doubly tedious.

Reports from Annapolis indicate that Navy, the Catamount's opening rival, will field a strong nine. The Middies have offensive strength and are being favored by the sun.

94 Athletes Gain Awards

Lettermen to Hear Kelley At 'V' Dinner Tonight

Ninety-four athletes in seven sports receive awards tonight at the annual Black "V" dinner in the Waterman Building. Daniel J. Kelley, Massachusetts State Director of Physical Education, heads the list of speakers. Proctor H. Page, assistant to the President, is toastmaster.

The Black V banquet is given annually by the Athletic Council. Attending will be the deans of the colleges, members of the Athletic Council, members of the Administration, military department and Band as well as the speakers and others who have a part in the program. According to Coach Larry Gardner, there will be about 125 persons attending the banquet.

U. V. M. physical education director, Howard A. Prentice is chairman of the affair, and will present letter certificates and gold awards along with coaches Larry Gardner, baseball; Fuzzy Evans, football and basketball; Archie Post, track and cross country; Fred Carpenter, tennis, and Col. G. F. N. Dailey, rifle.

Letter certificates go to all those who earned letters during the past year, with gold awards to be presented to baseball, basketball, track and cross-country lettermen. These teams all won State championships.

Faure Requiem To Be Presented By Music Department In Chapel Sunday

The Requiem by Gabriel Faure will be presented at 4:0[illegible] Sunday, March 22, in the Ira Allen Chapel, with a chorus of [illegible] and baritone soloists, and an orchestra including organ and piano, all under the direction of Howard Hancock, head of the Department of Music. The remainder of the Lenten Course concert will include several numbers chiefly from the Easter portion of Handel's Messiah. As the [illegible] have increased greatly several times during recent years, faculty, alumni and townspeople are cooperating with the student body and orchestra for this event. The concert is free and open to the public.

Earlier Performance

An earlier performance of this work was given at the University of Vermont under the direction of Clair Leonard, in the spring of 1937. The [illegible] were [illegible] and important soloists and instrumental parts, but this work are now very difficult to obtain and the University was fortunate to have also to rent a copy of the original orchestration with the markings made by Emile Bondeville-Commette, pupil of Faure. M'lle Boulanger conducted the Requiem in Town Hall, New York City, last year with a chorus from the Music Department of Mount of the national school of Fontainebleau, N. Y. Individual students in this school have loaned their copies of the chorus parts to the University of Vermont to supplement the number owned here, which was inadequate for the present large chorus. Mr. George Faulkner of Lexington, Mass., who runs this orchestra, has a set of notes based on a talk by Mlle Boulanger in which she said in part: "The keynote of the work is its utter simplicity. Much of the flavor of Faure is due to his use of the church modes and to the subtlety of his modulations. The Requiem is not in great proportions but is an example of truth, clarity and economy." She characterizes the figures in the opening number: "Intimate, utterly the reverse of [illegible] the frame between misery and repose." As "calm as statues without sentimentality." This description is applicable in general to the whole work, in fact to all of Faure's works.

Characteristics

Born in 1845, he has been called "Gardenia," "a classic whose process of evolution has led him toward impressionism, that is, the art of epitomizing fugitive shades of sensation and emotion in contrast to developed expression of enduring feeling according to the classic and romantic method." Faure himself, in an article discussing the effects of the war of 1870 on the development of music, summarized the characteristics of his own music when he described movements of the time as having "clarity in thought, sobriety and purity of form, concern of grand effects." The 11 years he spent at the Niedermeyer school for religious music affected his music profoundly.

His musical idiom is always moderate in tone, but "never" forms extremely simple in appearance is hidden an incomparable richness of poetic content. This must be understood in listening to his Requiem, which is so different from [illegible] masses by other composers such as Berlioz, who depend on exciting the emotions of anguish and terror, as well as sadness and prostrateness. Combarieu describes the Faure as "a work of delicacy and love, rather than of great eloquence. one could qualify it spiritually as a lullaby of death." Vuillemin calls it "majestic, one of the most moving and definitive conceptions of the master."

The work contains seven parts corresponding in general to the traditional divisions of a liturgical requiem mass: Introit and Kyrie, Offertoire, Sanctus, Pie Jesu, Agnus Dei, Libera Me and In Paradisum.

French Club Donates Money to Security Fund

At a meeting of the French Club held Wednesday night, it was voted to give eight dollars to each to the recently [illegible] and more later if possible. Barbara Hall '44 and Julia Fletcher '44, were chosen to look into the possibilities of holding a dance to earn more money. Louise Frank '43 was in charge of the program which included the reading of a poem [illegible] by Julia Fletcher '44 and Sara Wills '43 and the playing of several records by Debussy. Barbara Hall '44, Anne Bixby '43, Gertrude Sherman '44 and Joanna Ball '43 volunteered to take charge of the program for the next meeting.

First Aiders Help Out In Auto Crash

Saturday night, February 28 there occurred at Northfield Gulf a very serious accident. Twin brothers from Williamstown had smashed headlong into a tree, and when found they were both unconscious. It was indeed fortunate that they were discovered by people who were able to administer first aid. They were able to stop the flow of blood from a serious head wound by their knowledge of pressure points and thus probably saved a life. Unfortunately they could do nothing for the victim with a broken neck.

Soon another car stopped at the scene of the accident and took the brother with the broken neck to the hospital where he soon died. Two Dartmouth boys on their way to Burlington were able to take the man who had been brought back to consciousness to the hospital where he could receive expert medical attention.

This must surely show the value of a first aid course if a woman aided by her daughter, a student at U. V. M. taking this course could by courage and a correct and practical knowledge of first aid, save a life. It shows that such training is needed just as much for injuries that may happen every day as well as for injuries in time of an air raid.

Sigma Gamma's Dinty Moore Supper Wednesday

Sigma Gamma's Dinty Moore Supper will be served Wednesday, March 25, at the Y. M. C. A. Guests will be served from 5:30 to 7:15 p.m. and everyone is invited to attend. The admission price is 40 cents.

SOPHOMORE AIDS

At the last meeting, Sophomore Aides began plans for an all-school picnic to be held soon. Margaret Wilson '44 and Paul Walgren '44, the latter a representative of Gold Key, will carry the plans to completion. Members of Gold Key will help.

Ita Casey '44 is investigating the possibility of selling defense stamps in the future.

GOLD KEY

Fish out your directory, call her up, pop the question, so you'll be able to trip the light fantastic with your own Juliet at the Dime Vic dance Saturday night in the Waterman cafeteria. You'll be helping your Alma Mater too 'cause the proceeds go to the Security Fund. Come, step it up, so you can swing it out Saturday!

OMICRON NU

Members of Omicron Nu met in Doctor King's office on March 13. Hester Rice and Beatrice Wright were elected to see about getting a bulletin board for Morrill Hall. They began to formulate plans for a home eccers' picnic, and will meet again on March 25.

ALPHA ZETA

Alpha Zeta will hold its annual initiation and banquet at Oakledge Manor on Thursday, March 26. Mr. Pitkin of Goddard College, Plainfield, will speak. The Alpha Zeta news letter will be given out at the same time under the auspices of Reginald White.

Robert Fitzsimmons '44 of West Rutland was given the Alpha Zeta proficiency award at Dean Hills' sugar party. This judgment, based on last year and the first semester of this year, ranks White as the most outstanding man in his class.

Rugby Club to Meet Tuesday in Back Armory

Due to a small attendance last Tuesday there will be another meeting of the Rugby Club at 4:30 p.m. on Tuesday, March 24, in the back armory.

Plans for the coming season will be discussed. A game with Boston Rugby Club has been scheduled and it is possible that games with Harvard and Yale will be arranged.

Everyone interested is welcome.

Don't forget, 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 24 in the back armory.

Combined Music Groups Present Easter Concert

"Requiem" Main Feature Of Program; R. Gossand T. Coderre Render Solos

The Lenten-Easter concert presented by the department of music was given Sunday March 22, 1942 in the [illegible] Prof Howard Bennett directed the chorus and orchestra, and as has been customary in the past few years, the choir and chapel orchestra were assisted by members of the faculty, alumni and townspeople of Burlington and vicinity. The program opened with the playing by the Choir from "Symphonie Romane" by Widor as the organ prelude. Miss Mona Sanford Marston played the organ prelude, Postlude and accompanied the choir.

The main feature of the program was the "Requiem" by Gabriel Fauré which was to celebrate the Lenten season. The "Requiem" was in seven parts the first of which was the Introit and Kyrie. Following were the Offertory in which Robert Goss '44 sang the baritone solo, and the Sanctus ("Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God of Hosts"). Theresa Coderre '43 rendered the soprano solo Pie Jesu ("O Merciful Lord Jesus"). The Agnus Dei prayer of forgiveness and the Libera Me prayer of deliverance, in which Robert Goss '44, again was soloist, followed. The "Requiem" was completed by the In Paradisum as the sopranos and the strains of the harp described the celestial joys of paradise.

The augmented chapel orchestra played the Molto Lento (Sphärenmusik), from Quartet, Opus 17, No. 2 by Rubinstein. Professor Bennett conducted and Mr. Michael Anselmo was the concertmaster.

The second half of the program in celebration of Easter was composed of works by Handel. The first number "Then Round About the Starry Throne" was from Samson. The following two selections "Lift Up Your Heads," and "Worthy Is the Lamb" were appropriate numbers from Handel's "Messiah." The program concluded with the joyous strains of the "Hallelujah" chorus which brought the audience to its feet. The organ postlude was "Pièce Héroique" by Caesar Franck.

An unusual feature which was enjoyed by all was the addition of the harp to the orchestra. The harpist was Miss Flora Beecher Strickland from Moretown, Vt. The soloists were coached by Mrs. Elizabeth Bradish.

University Players Select Play Cast

"Out of the Frying Pan," Francis Swann's Broadway-run play, has been selected by the University players to take the place of the regular junior week play which has been eliminated for the duration. The casting has been finished and it is ready to be rehearsed under the direction of Mrs. Wilnetta S. Taggart. The cast is Wendell Harvey '43, Burton Hunting '42, Springfield; [illegible] '45, South Londonderry; Bernice Lieberman '45, Medford, Mass; Mary Beth Davis '43, Arlington, [illegible] Pike '43, Burlington; [illegible] '45, Pelham Manor, [illegible] Page '43, Burlington; Abe [illegible]; Charles Plumley '45, [illegible] Robert Goss '44, Wilder, and [illegible] '42, New Britain, Conn. The play is scheduled for mid-April.

200 Students Attend Gold Key Security Dance

The Gold Key had 200 students at the Security Fund Vic Dance, held in the cafeteria last Saturday night. It was a very cosmopolitan affair, being attended by the Northeast Airlines students and the Mary Fletcher Hospital nurses as well as a representative group of students.

Popular records were enjoyed as the couples hovered about beneath the soft lights.

The Tri Delts, under the supervision of Mary Lessor '43 and Marion Melby '45 sold the Defense Stamp admissions.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Evans were the chaperones. Bob White '44 was the chairman with Fred Boardman '44 and Keith Calkins '44 the floor committee.

Styles Convince Girls That Spring Is Here

Birds didn't quite do it, nor splashing puddles and dousing rains; but people were really convinced that spring had come when they saw the Fashion Show in the Student Lounge last Friday afternoon at four o'clock.

Given by Kappa Alpha Theta, this showing of spring clothes included everything from dungaree shorts and slacks, which were worn by Beatrice Small '45 and Alice Flemming '45 to formal evening gowns like a white-skirted one worn by Gratia Pearl '42.

Janet Rust, Chairman

Janet Rust '42, chairman of the show, was also the commentator for the clothes that were shown. She wore an egg-shell organdy evening dress with a very full skirt.

There were many suits shown, both in pastels and darker traveling colors. One of the most attractive of the three-piece suits was one worn by Janet Dike '43. It was a powder blue wool with a straight box coat. Another lovely suit was the tomato red wool suit, also with a topcoat, which Corrine Hollowell, '43 modeled. There were also gabardine suits of wool for dress and cotton for sport.

It was interesting to note that nearly all the skirts were pleated, and those that were not were very straight.

Afternoon Dresses

The afternoon dresses were both very tailored, like the low waisted navy blue one worn by Jean Smith '45 and the light wool beige dress and more formal, like a gray taffeta dress with bracelet-length sleeves and a very full skirt which Jean Hall '42, wore. One of the prettiest dresses shown was a bright red printed silk dress with a gathered skirt and a simple bloused top complimented by a small white collar. Fullness in the skirts of some of the dresses fell from the pockets, eliminating a much-complained-of line.

Outstanding among the evening gowns were those with plain white tops and skirts with a small stripe or invisible

Spring Recess To Start April 3

The spring recess will begin Friday, April 3, at 7.30 a.m., and close Monday, April 6, at 7.30 a.m.

On Thursday, April 2, classes in the three academic colleges will meet at the usual hour.

The above dates and hours should be carefully noted to avoid unnecessary absences.

The attention of all students is called to the following extract from the University regulations:

II, 4b. "A student who absents himself without permission (secured in advance from the Dean of his college), from any University exercise or exercises on the day immediately preceding or following a recess or holiday may be placed on probation." Note that this applies to all classes April 2, not merely the last, and all classes April 6, not merely the first.

Students desiring excuses for absence should note and be guided by the following statement:

1. Applications must be made in writing, must indicate mail address, must set forth reasons in full and be filed with the Dean of the college in which the student is enrolled (men) or with the Dean of Women (women), not later than Monday, March 30, at NOON. The responsibility for proper and prompt filing lies with the student. It should be clearly understood that belated applications will not be considered.

2. Excuses will be granted to men by council vote; to women by the Dean of Women. EXCUSES WILL BE GRANTED ONLY FOR IMPERATIVE REASONS. Students should not waste their own time or that of the Council by citing trivial reasons.

3. A student contemplating employment should file a written statement, signed by the employer on his letter head, indicating date and time of day of reporting, place where he is to work and the nature of the work to be done and setting forth the need of reporting prior o April 3.

4. Applicants will be advised of council action not later than Tuesday evening, March 31.

The faculty-student contributions to the Security Fund now total $20,200 which is a considerable gain over last week's total. The faculty contribution now totals $10,995. There are now 525 student pledges in. It is hoped that every campus gift will be reported in by the time the Burlington-Chittenden County campaign is closed.

Tri Delts Sell $202.50 Worth of Defense Stamps

Those girls you have been seeing every morning to your right as you entered the Waterman Cafeteria were not just another group enjoying Waterman hospitality. These girls, all members of Delta Delta Delta Sorority, and under the direction of Harriet A. Parker '42, have been selling defense stamps for the U. V. M Security Fund drive and have sold during the space of three weeks the sum total of $202.50 worth of stamps, all of which money goes to the Fund. The Delt girls climaxed three weeks of morning sales from 9.30 to 12.30 each morning last Saturday when they sold $20.10 worth of stamps as admission tickets to the Gold Key Vic Dance on Saturday evening.

W.A.A. To Install The New Officers

Annual Spring Party To Be Held Tues. Night

Tonight, March 24 at 7.30, W. A. A will have its annual spring party for the installation of the new officers recently elected. The slate elected is as follows: Phyllis Savage '43, president; Sylvia Runnals '44, vice-president; Barbara Burnham '45, recording secretary; Priscilla Clark '45, corresponding secretary; Helen McLean '43, treasurer; Mary Quinn '44, social chairman; Margaret Palmer '44, publicity; Priscilla Perkins '44, chairman council-at-large; Natalie Beal '44, chairman W. A. A. Scrap Book; Beryl Cheney '45, sophomore representative.

To be featured after this is a "make up" party of which Helen McLean '43 is in charge. Miss Simpson, Mrs. Bosworth and Mrs. Evans are to act as judges. If you don't know what kind of thing this is, come and see.

And then comes the thrill of the evening, the basketball game to be played by two picked teams. Everyone is assured of some real excitement. Miss Crowe and Miss Port will choose the honorary varsity afterwards.

Co-chairman of this event are Natalie Spear '43 and Sylvia Runnals '44.

Morale Committee Needs Volunteers

The Committee on Civilian Morale would like to have interested students volunteer to help prepare a list of publications on the war and related subjects for the U. V. M War Information Center in the Billings Library.

The list will be for use by students, faculty and the general public including speakers and others doing work connected with the war.

A brief course on the compilation of bibliographies for volunteers will be given on Monday, March 30 and Tuesday, March 31 from 4.00 to 4.30 p.m. in the Marsh Room in the Billings Library. Professor Nuquist, chairman of the committee, will speak at the opening of the first meeting to explain the work of the committee and Miss Northrop will be in charge of instructions at both meetings.

Here, in tangible form, is the answer to the eternal question, "What can I do to help?" This interesting work is an excellent way of helping others and of helping yourself, also, especially those of you who are planning to teach, for knowing how to compile a bibliography is extremely important in this field.

Volunteers have been asked to leave their names with Miss Northrop at the library.

Dean Swift announces that there will be a summer school program as well as a summer session this year.

Gov. Wills, Pres. Millis Open Drive In Burlington Area

Security Fund Gets Off to Rousing Start In Kick-off Supper

The Burlington and Chittenden County drive in the Security Fund campaign got off to a rousing start last night in a spirited Kick-off supper in the Waterman Cafeteria. Amid a wealth of wry wit, with a background of Joe Lechnyr and his Band, the men who are putting over this campaign told about 600 Burlingtonians the why and wherefore of their job.

With Governor and Mrs. Wills, President and Mrs. Millis, and Mr. L. H. Brammer flanking him at the head table, J. Munn Boardman acted as chairman of the supper. The people were arranged in groups according to their campaign teams, with girls from the Security Fund office and Burlington ushering. The R. O. T. C. band, with some classy trumpeting, played before and after the meal. Entertainment, aside from some real Vermont wit, was furnished by the "Fire Eaters," otherwise known as Milly Milliken's Moon Mooners. They ate more than fire during the supper.

President Millis spoke on the value of the University to the local community and the nation in general. Vermont is rich in men, and a good share of this enriching has been done through U. V. M. President Millis paid tribute to the cooperation of the Legislature in the rehabilitation of Vermont.

Governor Wills was in great style as he paid tribute to President Millis, and the faculty and students for their part in the campaign. His rare Vermont wit even stopped Mrs. Wills from knitting—and almost got him in trouble.

The work of the evening started when Mr. Brammer outlined their talks to the Burlington campaign workers. The campaign, having started within the University, is now gaining force, as it goes out into Burlington and thence across the nation.

Exhibition In Art Building This Week

Women Display Varied Clothing Designs

You've no idea what beautiful things they are showing in the Exhibition Room of the Art Building this week. Perfectly stunning!

These girls, you know them, have made the most adorable luncheon sets, with little Mexican figures, or floral patterns, or monograms as decorations. And I saw a horse's head on a pillow top that is the envy of everyone. It's so good looking and a fine design and marvelous technique (if you know what I mean). Beverly Pierce made that one.

They make things on cloth with all sorts of processes, such as stencilling, batik, crayon and block printing. They swear the designs are all original (or almost) and they look that way. So different! They're worth lots of money but you can't buy them unless you have special influence with the designer. Among all of these "designing persons" the crafty quality of these things cannot be measured in dollars and cents.

I wish I could remember the names of the girls or their things. Virginia Amidon made some gay aprons with the smartest Mexican designs you ever saw. And Ruth Mongeon made a set of etched glass which has on it a patriotic design of an eagle. There are some gorgeous block printed textiles by Mrs. Alice Howe and by the same artist a silkerchief done in spattered colored ink.

We Would Be Building

The guild of the Y. W. C. A. conducted an Excellent Chapel service last Wednesday, while the rest of the University attended their all-important classes in Calculus IV. Combining the voices of the choir under Professor Bennett with well-chosen and well-spoken words arranged by Kay Kelley Hunt, the program presented a lesson whose import will spread out beyond the walls of the Chapel.

"We would be building" may seem to be but a little hope in times of general destruction. The phrase may "It all ends well" sounds nice and all that, but it won't pay the bills," the Cynic will say. "It—some time in the future—it is necessary for us to be ever building, ever constructive, forever creating, to maintain a way of life to strive for.

"But look! All Gone for Eve as usual." So what does this mean in actual living terms? We would be building weapons of war and weapons of peace. We would be building ourselves spiritually, mentally and physically. Building fast and building well.

We won't do any peace building until and unless we win this war. We cannot remake a post war world until the war is over. And the war will not be over until we have won it. So our immediate job is to build to win this war. Build machines and guns and ships, of course. But also, and this hits closer home, build men, and minds capable of doing the winning.

Here at Vermont we have had our opportunity thrown right into our laps. We have a physical education department ready, willing, and able to build men, men physically strong and instilled with the competitive spirit necessary to win a game or a war. Would we be building? Ask Roy, Archie, or Fuzzy. Their opinion of our student body wasn't improved by our half-hearted response to their program—their vitally necessary program. Even if the Physical Education Department doesn't make their program compulsory, certainly Hitler and Hirohito, yes and General Hershey, do.

Before this war is over, most of us fellows, and girls, too, will be wearing some kind of a uniform. And we won't be playing soldier either. Marty Boucher has his uniform now, and he hits the nail on the head when he says, "There is no place in the world today for the rah-rah college boy whose physical fitness program consists of dancing and elbow bending, simply because the world is too busily engaged in a tough job that will require tough men if it is to be accomplished." We should be building.

If we aren't fighting we will be working, building fighting tools. And the better we do our learning now the better equipped shall we be to do the building. It's bad enough to be an Engineer—so at least be a good Engineer. If you must be an Aggie, stay awake and be a good farmer. Should you be in the Arts College, learn all you can—you may get a chance to use your knowledge in building a better world—if some top sargeant doesn't knock it all out of you first. And if, heaven forbid, you're a pre-med (perish the thought) smarten up and don't dub around so much. Goodness knows bullets will kill enough of us.

There is a job for every one of us in the winning of the war. The better we can do it, the sooner we'll be nipping the Nippon in the bud. We would be building.

Perhaps this isn't what the girls meant in Chapel by "We would be building." We are building machines of destruction. We are building men of wrath. But if we are to build a house, a world, for God, we must build a world for man. And to do this we must destroy those who would destroy both God and man.

Point Counterpoint

By Jacob Katz '44

Who Pays the Piper?

A cry—then there is a silence for a moment. This quietness seems like a tribute to another dead man, another soldier killed on the field of war. Then the guns blast away. Innumerable moments of silence make themselves felt within us until our hour has come, too, to pay the price.

To pay the price? What can we buy with our lives. Will the lives of ours, the lives lost, be added and a thousand or them buy ten years of peace and a million a hundred years of happiness? Will our lives be evaluated and will it be said that the unceasing care and sacrifices of our mothers made our lives dear enough to demand in exchange fifty years of well being for the world?

No! As soon as we shall have passed away, we will have ceased to represent values. The world will remember us in passionate speeches, but passion is not permanent.

Are we throwing our lives away, then? Give an answer! We must have an answer because we would like to live it we could. Our life is too precious to be thrown away without a purpose. Are we not told that we must fight so that we can live? What is there worth living for after the battle has been won? We, the living, fought for new and greater values. What ideals will make us keep on fighting?—Silence within us. Only the guns keep on roaring. More victims, more people crucified—more die; so that the rest may live.

What are we fighting for? We demand an answer. Do we want war to follow war, or do we shed blood today to establish in our time the foundation of peace, for the first time? Can peace be established it, drunk with victory, we make ourselves masters of the earth? Answer, whosoever knows of an answer!

Can peace be established before we act what we preach? Is "life, liberty, and pursuit of happiness" our slogan? Are "all men created equal"? Give us an answer so that we can go into this war with a greater determination, with more self-confidence.

Where does Talmadge, governor of Georgia, stand? How about the Ku Klux Klan? Has Father Coughlin a message to give to us? Answer!

What is going to be done with our Negroes in Harlem and in the South? What are the rights of the common laborer and factory worker? Do I hear an answer?

Will prejudices rule our actions? Will we treat on equal terms the stranger who is stranded within our midst? Is an answer forthcoming?

We feel that there can only be one answer. Give it and shout it out. Then hypocricy will lower its shameless head and be smashed by the true spirit of our re-iterated American values. Then we can grab our rifles firmer and with a much better feeling. Then we will fight from trench to trench, over no man's land, swamps and morasses. Then we shall have the conviction on our side that out of "blood, sweat and tears," something more permanent will arise.

But thou beside me—
Swinging in the wilderness
And wilderness were paradise— enow!"

Clothed but in a sheet, a towel or a turban, Omar the Jivemaker, commonly known to all Gates as Dick the Disc, once again brings forth his many and varied gems—drippings from the old gut-bucket. Harken Knave; Omar speaks!

JOHNNY HODGES with a small part of the Ellington band tops the list this week with a jazz coupling supreme. The first side, Things Ain't What They Used to Be, is slow, moody, soulful blues which features Johnny's alto, big-toned Ray Nance's trumpet, and a wonderful piano passage from the Duke himself. The reverse is a great riff tune called Squaw Roo; it has some more sensational Hodges blowing plus a beat that'll knock ya clear on out. . . (end rave). (Bluebird.)

Lenny Hayton, who gave up his own band to arrange for ARTIE SHAW is doing some truly notable work for the clarinet-playing maestro. Note especially his latest and best, his arrangement of the negro spiritual, Sometimes I Feel Like a Motherless Child, on which Artie plays well, and "Lips" Page emotes a rasping and nasally pleasant (if you can imagine such a thing) vocal. (Victor.)

In the plain and simple language of the proletariat, this band of HAL MCINTYRE's which was rave-viewed in last week's column, is really going places, and that's no unrighteous jive-it's the Gospel. And if I'm going out on a limb in saying that this band will be the band of 1942, I just hope that the limb that supports me is as solid as this fine band. A band blessed with such fine arrangements and musicians as Hal's is, simply can't miss. What's more, I have plenty with which to back up these strong statements; for all you'll just bend an ear in the direction of the McIntyre discing of Tangerine and When Roses Bloom Again, you'll get an idea of what I mean—the pretty scoring, the nice Carl Denny singing, those muted brass effects—ah, wonderful. (Victor.)

The Locker Room

By Bill Roeder

Leave the room now, please, those among you who haven't an eye for figures. Let the others prepare for an arid, but inexorable, summary of University of Vermont athletics, 1941-1942. Having had these statistics thrust upon us for release, we won't feel just right until we distribute them in your direction. Digest hurriedly, with grain of salt.

The balance sheet first calls our attention acute proudly, to the nice fact that Vermont varsities compiled a .609 winning percentage over the year. Translated to terms of victories and defeats, this reveals that our teams, competing in 86 contests, won 53 and lost 34.

Accounts entered include those of seven sports—baseball, track, tennis, rifle, football, cross country, and basketball. The key word there is rifle. The nimrods, plying their craft usually without benefit of audience or tangible opponents, stacked up 17 successes out of 19. The boost to the general average from this source is obvious.

Many of the rifle matches were fired by telegraph. Literally understood, this statement would attribute remarkable powers to Western Union, but it means simply, of course, that the competing teams shot separately on their respective ranges and compared scores by wire. On the same principle as running against time in track. Telegraphic matches account for the appearance of such opponents as Montana State on the Catamount schedule. It is hardly to be assumed that our gunners made any trips to Montana, or even that the contestants fired at a mutual target, say Detroit, between here and Butte.

Other Sports

Cross country and the Webster boys produced four triumphs in five meets. The hill and dalers whipped all their rivals but Dartmouth, and stood third in the New England meet. Cross country was one of four sports in which Vermont won state championships. The others were baseball, basketball and track.

The adventures of the basketball team have already been described in this space. Suffice to say that the cagers won ten out of fifteen games, running away with state honors.

Twelve tennis matches resulted in seven Vermont wins. A noteworthy feature of the net record is that on the Connecticut tour, the Catamounts proved singularly wholesale in their ways. Scores of the three matches were 9-0, 8-1, and 9-0, with Vermont on top twice.

Baseball, with the most ambitious program, came out all even, twelve games a dozen down. The southern trip showed two for seven, about average for that rigorous junket. Harvard, which didn't meet Larry Gardner's nine, perhaps gloated over the fate of her allies, Yale and Princeton both of which came off second best in tiffs with Vermont.

That leaves two squads unaccounted for. We'd prefer not to dwell on the fact, but both the track and the football teams slid under the .500 mark. The runners outdistanced only Middlebury in four meets, but placed a respectable fourth in the New Englands. The football record was far from encouraging, granted, but criticism in this case is uncalled for, when such factors as material, injuries, and schedule are considered. The eleven played enough to take Middlebury twice, once after the Norwich nightmare.

Take it away, history.

Phi Delts Win Track Honors

Compile 32 Points as Lockwood Sets Record

The 1942 Interfraternity Track Relays ended up Saturday with Phi Delta Theta emerging on top 32 points.

It was a climax finish that led up to the last event of the meet, the 880, which saw the Phi Delts' Bob Lockwood break the old record of 2:15:2 which he made as a freshman last year. His record breaking time was 2:13:9. This last race saw a battle for second place as Bob Pulleyn of the Phi Delts and Lenny Paul of the Phi Sigs fought step by step on the back stretch with Bob making a final lunge to come across the finish line in second place only one-tenth of a second ahead of Lenny.

The meet opened with the 440-yard dash which saw the Phi Delts' Bert Mott and Bob Lockwood taking first and second place. Their times were 59.2 and 59.3. Ed O'Connell of the S A E's and Lenny Paul of the Phi Sigs were third and fourth.

The next event on Archie Post's program was the 35-pound weight throw. It seemed that Phil Chesarone of the A T O's was just the man for that event. With Herculean strength Phil tossed for 37' 6". The A T O's took 6 points in this event, Alex Warden taking fourth. Sandwiched between were the Sigma Nus' Harry Parker and the Phi Delts' Joe Hendrick.

The broad jump was hotly contested but Bart Barry, Kappa Sigma, was victorious with a leap of 19' 1". Bob Lockwood took second place and third and fourth places went to Jacobs of Sigma Nu and Earley of the A T O's.

The pole vault seemed to have stymied everyone. There were two ties here. Johnny Spasyk and Earley divided first place and Art Paterson, Delta Psi, and Dick Grosvenor, S A E, shared second place honors. The winning leaps were 10 feet and 9 feet.

The rest of the field events saw the T E P's emerge victorious in the shotput as Sedlis and Savin hurled for a first and a second place while the high jump went to Bert Mott with Monk Martin of A T O, Lenny Paul, and Independent Bob Goss, dividing second place honors.

The 30-yard high hurdle saw Bart Barry blister across in four and two-tenths seconds to capture a first for Kappa Sigma.

The longest and shortest distances of the meet, the mile and the 30-yard dash, went to Sigma Nu as Jim Hoyt pounded the boards for a swift 5:03:2 and little Johnny Reed sprinted home in 3.8 seconds.

Carlson Primed for Third Mound Year

By Ruby Kempter

Springtime is just around the corner, Coach Larry Gardner's Vermont diamond hopefuls are lumbering up winter-stiffened joints in preparation for a successful campaign with the ole horsehide.

If one should drop down to the practice cage any afternoon, he would find the veteran hurler, Bob Carlson, pouring 'em in full steam. The versatile senior from South Rvegate is slated to shoulder a big share of the pitching burden for the Catamounts in his third year of college competition. In two years of varsity pitching, the rugged little right-hander has compiled an earned run average of less than two tallies per game.

Carlson indulged in the national pastime for three years at Newbury (Vt.) High School and also played at Cushing Academy in Ashburnham, Mass. He then entered the Civilian Conservation Corps and through this medium was offered a scholarship to the University of Vermont. Realizing the opportunity before him, he accepted this chance for an education.

During the time Bob has spent here in the Agriculture curriculum, he has been elected to each of the men's honorary societies as well as Alpha Zeta and Delta Psi. This March he received the John M. Thomas award, presented to the outstanding Agricultural student.

Two years ago, Coach Larry Gardner was appointed to coach the U. S. Amateur Baseball team, composed of American college players. The squad journeyed to Havana, Cuba, where they met a Pan American League composed of representatives from Puerto Rico, Mexico, Venezuela and Cuba. Carlson made this trip as did Lefty Pesarik V '40, Joe McDonough, V '38, and Bill Krywicki, a great Fordham athlete and former catcher for the Burlington Cardinals. The boys flew from Miami to Havana via the Pan American Clipper. This was Bob's first time in the air but he said that it was swell going and the scenery that the flight afforded was unforgettable. "The rival Pan American team offered the U. S. men some keen competition," said Bob. "It was quite amusing to see the freshman men at the University of Havana. They all run around with butch haircuts and big, black mustaches." Cuban co-eds chose field hockey as their favorite sport, but the game of jai alai is Cuba's best. It is played with a curved ladle and a small rubber ball. Bob believes that the individual skill, stamina and coordination displayed in this game is far superior to that shown in baseball or basketball. Carlson gave thanks to U. V. M. for the opportunity to see the typical Cuban life and for the time he enjoyed.

Bob Carlson

To pass the summer months away, Robert works on the forestry experiment program. He likes farming and hopes to work in extension service upon receiving his B.S. in Agriculture this May. For spare time capers the wary nimrod may be found carrying a double barreled shotgun through the dense undergrowth in search of prey. Bob enjoys fishing, but just put him outdoors and he'll be all right.

"The Waterman Building is the student center, for it tends to bring U. V. M. together and give it that needed spirit. I know of men who have travelled on many a college campus, but still believe that ours is the most beautiful. Our location is perfect, the city is just the right size, we have a swell co-op. I have enjoyed the many college activities and prefer our dances to any movie," enthused Carlson.

With the new speed up program now in effect, Larry Gardner has found it necessary to cut the number of baseball contests to eleven encounters. The historic Southern jaunt will include but four games this year. Beginning on April 4, the Cats will meet Navy, Villanova, Lehigh and West Point in that order. Carlson, with a 5-1 record from last year, will undoubtedly be called on to toss a few. With the realization that Joe Margolis would be in the receiving line and the probability of seeing Russ "Peewee" West in the shortstop slot, Coach Gardner appeared somewhat relieved.

Frosh Track Turnout Lags

While from all pre-season dope it looks like a good season for varsity track, Coach Roy Wietz was none too cheerful today about his freshman potentialities.

Although the "big man" issued the call for candidates some weeks ago, the response has failed to produce Coach Wietz with enough bright spots so that he can afford to make any notations in his book of season's aspirations.

Said Roy: "The response to the call has been exceptionally poor. What we need are individuals with or without experience, and plenty of 'em. That's the word you can spread."

What the Blue and White of Burlington High School will uncover this spring is a question. A host of last season's high point men grabbed their diplomas last June, leaving but a few lettermen to carry on.

All in all, with the first scheduled meeting with the Sea Horses not so far in the future, and aspiring tracksters touching the minimum, the spring season for the Kittens looks none too prosperous at this writing.

Nimrods Second In New England

Amassing a 3782 total, Vermont's rifle team gained second place in the First Corps Area intercollegiate rifle competition, it was announced yesterday. The Catamount nimrods placed behind Maine, whose winning mark was 3794. In third place came the University of New Hampshire first team, with 3704.

The high standing of these three teams won for them over seven other New England schools the right to compete inthe national intercollegiate

Sophomores Boost Track Team Hopes

From the vantage point of a pre-season prognosticator's perch, it would look as though the sophomores would play a big part in making the 1942 track and field aggregation the big force that it potentially is.

There are some unsettled issues drifting about, mainly that concerning a few athletes who still have that "under warning" hanging over them.

Among the potential greats are Bob Lockwood who is priming for a post in the middle distances. Although the sophomores as a whole are sadly lacking in the weight department, it is not going too far to say that Lockwood might try flipping the discus around a bit.

Johnny Reed, noted more for his feats on the gridiron, has boosted Coach Post's hopes in the 100-yard dash considerably. Paul Pulleyn, a slow starter on the indoor track, has shown some latent talent which Post hopes will show up when the lads take to the outdoors. Middle distance running is the specialty of both Lockwood and Pulleyn.

Bart Barry, another '44 candidate, looks like the necessary material for the hurdles, while Art "Pepper" Paterson has shown some promise in pole vaulting.

Perhaps the brightest spot on Post's card at present is Johnnie Goodrich. Pushing the varsity men to the limit, Johnnie bids fair to become an excellent high jumper.

Marty McLaren and John Corliss have been doing some better than average distance running indoors, and may develop into winning material in that division.

The lone representatives in the field events are Paul Walgren, who plays around a little with the shot, and Herb Sedlus who has seen some abbreviated practice with the iron ball.

Bowling Crown To Sigma Nu

The interfraternity bowling tournament of 1942 is now history and for the second consecutive year Sigma Nu has galloped off with the crown. Paced by Ed Boyden, who was the leading pinfaller in the tournament, Sigma Nu was able to beat out Phi Sigma Delta for the top berth by only 2½ points—the score being Sigma Nu 65½, Phi Sigs 63.

Sigma Nu was in first place practically the whole route, except for a time when Tau Epsilon Phi took over the helm at the three-quarter mark. But Sigma Nu rallied and crushed T E P by a score of 7-0 in a decisive match and thereby regained the lead. From that time on the Sig Nus were never headed. However, a late season drive for the crown by Phi Sigma Delta, which the Sig Nus were able to stave off, enabled the Phi Sigs to come up from fifth to second place in the standings.

The results of the tournament are as follows:

Sigma Nu	65½
Phi Sigma Delta	63
Tau Epsilon Phi	57
Delta Psi	50
Sigma Phi	46½
Independents	43½
Lambda Iota	33½
Alpha Tau Omega	29
Phi Delta Theta	23
Faculty	21
Kappa Sigma	15
Sigma Alpha Epsilon	15

Also synonymous with the high team scores are the scores of the leading pinfallers in the intramural tournament. Those twenty boys who had the highest two-string average in the tournament will now compete for the bowling championship at U. V. M. The winner is to receive a medal and there is also a prize for second place. Each contestant is to roll three strings at no cost to himself, and the one with the highest total is to be declared the champ. Those persons who bowled in six or more matches and are among the twenty highest two-string averages in the tournament are as follows:

Boyden, E.	231.04	Steinman	203.50
Kempter	213.60	Mickler	203.00
Little	211.50	Small	202.88

Sorority Notes

DELTA PHI EPSILON

On March 7 a banquet was held at the Paragon. Mary Sampson was the speaker of the evening. Miss Sampson and Miss Caplan were present at the banquet. Previous to the banquet an initiation ceremony was held for Lael Caplan '45, Marianne Kahn '45, Elaine Oling '45, Freda Kaplan '45 and Rose Eisman '45.

A banquet similar to that of the Iota chapter was held at Binghamton, N. Y., for the three New York chapters and likewise throughout the country, banquets were held on March 12 for the active members and the Alumni of Delta Phi Epsilon.

SIGMA GAMMA

The Theta Mixer Supper will be held this Wednesday, March 25, at the Y. M. C. A. from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. It is being sponsored by the Security Fund and the price is forty cents.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

The Alpha Chis are happy to be out of quarantine.

Mary Anita Hunt '41, Madge Dibble '41 and Mary Hoyer '40 visited at the house the week end of March 15.

Anne Baker '44, Harriet Gebbie '41 and Louise Bryant '41 visited the week end of March 21 at the house.

Marjorie Frost '42 has announced her engagement to Lieut. Elliot Hawkins '40.

Coffee was served to the Cornell girls at the campus on Sunday, March 22 from 9 P.M. until 11:00 o'clock.

Zeta Epsilon Epsilon '41 visited the house on March 19.

The girls who stayed at the house the past two weeks are all in quarantine for the mumps.

Contrary to the reports that the breakfast would be held due to the mumps quarantine, the invitation for coffee and doughnuts extended other sororities still holds.

PI BETA PHI

A birthday party was held on Sunday, March 22 for Nancy Goudwin '42.

On March 21, Mary Metcalf '44 and Priscilla Read Perkins '44 went to Bridgewater for a sugaring-off party at the Perkins' farm. They were accompanied by Willie Bennet '43 and Pomeroy Logan '42 respectively.

Barbara Burns '43 went to Rutland on March 18.

The "Show" felt pretty "hepp."

KAPPA ALPHA THETA

Betty Cooper '42, June Swanson '42 and Jean Hall '42 visited at the Phi Zeta House at Massachusetts State College the week end of March 15.

DELTA DELTA DELTA

Jean Finney '41, Carolyn Brehmer '44, and Ruth Seaver '40 visited the house over last week end.

Wink Wilson '42 went home for the week end.

ALPHA XI DELTA

On March 25 an initiation will be held for Barbara Dunbar '43 and Palmina Prabolita '43. A banquet at the Paragon will follow.

Old Mill is Back to Normal Again

Big Week-end For Fraternity Houses

Only Formal Dance For Second Semester

Fraternity men are rushing around borrowing dress shirts, studs, and what-have-you in anticipation of the spring formals which a majority of the men's Greek Letter organizations are staging tomorrow evening. Likewise, all their prospective dates are all afiutter, awaiting the moment when "he" calls to trek to the dance.

Sigma Phi plans a super affair, with Red Dower's crew playing and indeed novel decorations. Ed Blakely '43, is in charge of the dance, assisted by K. W. Calkins '44, on decorations. At intermission, the Sigs plan to revive an old custom of theirs which will add greatly to the evening's success. Chaperons are Professor and Mrs. W. C. H. Prentice and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Knight.

At Lambda Iota, the Owls, besides the chaperons and guests mentioned in a previous issue, will have as guests Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Cummings of Barre. The feature of the evening will be an exhibition of the square dance, sponsored by R. F. Kipp '42.

Latest dope from the Kappa Sig halls is that an informal air raid party will be held. Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Perry and Professor and Mrs. R. S. Towne will chaperon. No band had been engaged at press time for the party, which will feature sand barricades and blackout curtains.

The Phi Delta Theta dinner-dance formal will be in an Easter theme, bunnies and all. Professor and Mrs. M. E. Witham have been obtained to chaperon with Professor and Mrs. Long.

Something new in decorations and entertainment will be had at the Delta Psi

John P. Howard Bust Mystery Solved at Last

The local authorities of Burlington have at last solved one of the three unsolved mysteries of U. V. M.—the mystery of the John P. Howard bust. State's Attorney K. Paul Fennell spotted the long lost bust on the grounds of the vacant Jocelyn estate at the corner of Maple and Summit Streets.

Fennell discovered the bust while driving by and immediately notified Dean Swift, who had the heavy bust removed to the Medical College to be cleaned and restored to its niche on the west side of the Old Mill. Contrary to the facts at the time of the original investigation the bust has not been badly damaged.

John P. Howard's gifts to the University in the 1880's were numerous and well placed. He donated the fountain, a large sum towards the remodeling of the Old Mill and other items totaling $150,000.

The two mysteries which are still baffling the police are "Time on My Hands" or "The Fleming Museum Watch Party" and "The Mystery of the Mugs" or "Who Swiped the Cups from Delta Psi?"

Women to Select Rooms; Remember to Bring $5.

All women who drew numbers for rooms next year should have their choice made within a week after drawing. Selection for rooms took place Monday, February 23, for the class of '43, Tuesday, February 24, for the class of '44, and Wednesday, the 25th, for the class of '45. Women making applications must bring a $5.00 deposit.

W.A.A. Officers Installed Tues.

Retiring President Names Honorary Team

Tuesday night, March 24, W. A. A., held its annual spring party for the installation of officers at 7:30. The following people assumed their duties as new officers: President, Phyllis Savage '43; Vice-President, Sylvia Runnals '44; Secretary, Barbara Burnham '45; Corresponding Secretary, Priscilla Clark '45, Treasurer, Helen McLean '43; Scrapbook, Natalie Beal '44; Council at Large, Priscilla Perkins '44, Publicity Chairman, Peggy Palmer '44; Senior Representative, Natalie Spear '43, Junior Representative, Nancy Fawcett '44, Sophomore Representative, Beryl Cheney '45, Social Chairman, Mary Quinn '44, and Health Council Chairman, Barbara Dunbar '43.

Helen McLean '43, then took over, dividing the girls into eight teams for the "makeup" contest. The girls on the various teams matched their wits and ingenuity in portraying five different types as follows: Actor and actress, diplomat, famous animal, comic strip character, and night prowler. Some of the results were pretty weird when you consider that the girls only had lipstick, rouge, cold cream, a blanket, newspapers and safety pins with which to work. Dean Sumpson, Mrs. Bosworth and Miss Port as judges finally awarded the prize to team eight, composed of Priscilla Clark '45, Betty Farnsworth '45, Dot Arnault '44, Ruth Buttles '44, Jean Hotchkiss '45, and Barbara Lane '44. Each of the girls received a ten cent defense saving stamp book containing one stamp.

Immediately following this came the big basketball game of the season featuring

Ball Gets Rolling As Security Fund Drive Hits Nation

Several Committees Report Big Drives In Eastern Cities

With the Burlington Cathedral Courts kick-off supper Monday night in the Waterman cafeteria, the all campus drive of the Security Fund came into prominence, and the alumni of this section were greeted with some of the enthusiasm which has been present on campus ever since the beam supper last month.

The scope of the Security Fund drive seemed unachievable when it is realized that through rally kick offs and campaign activity alumni of the college will be reached in every state in the country. At the present time Director Page and Orville Dahl, associate directors of the Security Fund drive, are on a tour which will take them as far as Washington, D. C. There will be other trips made by representatives of the University through New York, Pennsylvania and circling west as far as Minnesota, and then through California and the southwest.

In the Security Fund office there is a huge map with colored pins marking every town or city in the country in which Vermont alumni live, and there is also a map of organized alumni clubs. With this information and the additional organization of Security Fund committees, there are planned rallies and meetings within reasonable distance of practically every alumnus.

Many Rallies

This week there have been rallies in Vermont and Massachusetts—in Springfield, Vt., under the direction of Dr. Paul Bacon '33, in Brattleboro, where the meeting was organized by Edward L. Chatterton, ex-'17, and in Springfield, Mass., where the Security Fund chairman is Ernest N. Worthen '05.

In New York City, where Arthur Kehoe '11 and Merton Robbins '28 are representing the drive, there was a second meeting Wednesday noon, and on April 8 the big New York rally will take place.

Plans are being made in Philadelphia, Pa., by the Rev. Harvey Butterfield '31, in Baltimore with Col. Howard Smalley '01, and in Washington, D. C., where alumnus Paul LaCross '32 is the contact man.

Local Plans

As well as this activity, of course, plans are still going forward full speed on campus. This week-end the Extension Service staff, including county and 4-H club agents, will have completed its pledging.

This morning at 9:30 the Sophomore Aides began to sell Defense Stamps, taking over the post in the cafeteria at the Waterman Building where the Tri Delts have been so successful in stamp sales. Ita Casey '44 is in charge of these sales, and there will be available extra stamp books for anyone who would like one.

Robinson Girls to Hold Second Dance Saturday

Well, folks, the girls invite, stag and cut-in dance, given by Robinson Hall last Saturday afternoon, was such a howling success that these same girls are putting another one on this Saturday. It will take place at Southwick, from 3:30 to 7:30, with the price twenty five cents a couple and thirty five cents stag. We all had a wonderful time last Saturday, so let's see a bigger crowd at Southwick tomorrow.

The Northern Vermont Exposition will be on exhibition for the public at the Fleming Museum until April 1.

New Officers For V.C.A. Selected

At a joint meeting Tuesday, March 24 with the Y. W. C. A. the new officers of the V. C. A. were elected. The following is the slate as elected: President, Llewelyn Jones '43; vice-president, Isabel Hodgman; Elizabeth Harper '44, secretary and treasurer; Wesley Eaton '43, director of recreation and local projects; England Allen '43, editor of freshman handbook; Hazel Scott '43, assistant secretary; Freshman Handbook Manager Edie '45 and Steering Committee members Jonathan Jones, Wendell Hart and Reginald White.

The Northfield Conference was discussed for the benefit of the Y. W. C. A. members by the members of V. C. A. who attended. Patricia Pike '43 gave a resume of her trip to the National Conference in Miami at Christmas time.

Plans were discussed for a candlelight service and a series of vesper services to be held some time in April by the V. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. jointly. Also they considered and discussed meeting the Middlebury Christian organizations.

It was decided that Llewelyn Jones would be sent to the Presidents' Conference which will be near Boston soon.

"We're backing them up"

Marching right along with the armed forces of this country are thousands of telephone workers.

They work side by side with the Army and Navy. Wherever the need is communications, you are likely to find telephone men and their trucks and materials.

Day and night the order is for speed and more speed.

They wear no uniforms, these telephone workers, but men in uniform know how much they are putting into the Nation's biggest job. They see it first-hand and they know it is first-rate.

Prohibition Proposal

There is [illegible] about the United States a national movement for prohibition. Those advocating such a measure do so because they feel the many members of the armed forces are giving away military information while under the influence of liquor.

One of the very few pay the armed has to imbibing a bit of spirituous beverage now or [illegible]. It gives her an [illegible] up morale and keeps military [illegible] their spare time. No one will deny that it is better to have our men [illegible] their troubles to a saloon than [illegible] an intercoastal [illegible] in some house of prostitution. Prohibition would promote the latter. Since such a movement was carried out it would throw the country right back in the evil whereof it was made during the 1920's. Bootlegging and other illegal practices would grow which would be much more of a task for the government to handle than is the present one of preventing the outlet of information concerning the army.

A prohibition movement would not touch the bases of this problem, moreover the prohibitionists have probably made grossly exaggerated claims about their cause. Prohibition would stop an ingrained custom of the American people a custom which if broken would cause much ill will in both military and civilian quarters.

Killick Paced Cage Scorers

Sophomore Tallied 180 Points—Doherty Second

This year the Green and Gold basketball team played heads up ball against some pretty fast and powerful teams. Despite the fact that some of its ball handlers were out during the season due to injuries the varsity rolled up an impressive number of wins to say nothing of the points scored against their opponents.

Larry Killick was top man when it came to sinking those baskets as indicated by his total of 180 points.

The statistics for the season are:

Total points scored: U. V. M. 697, opponents 654.

Won 11, lost 5.

Varsity Trackmen Open Season On Panther Boards Tomorrow

Mott Leads Catamounts Against Blue and White

Coach Archibald Thompson Post will be one step nearer knowing tomorrow morning whether his track and field forces are quite as strong as pre-season predictions reflected.

The Green and Gold thinclads will invade Middlebury tomorrow afternoon in the opening venture of their spring schedule to face a comparatively unknown quantity in the Panther cindermen.

In addition to the 60 yard dash, 70 yard high hurdles and three relay events Post will get a look at some shot, high jump and broad jump specialists in tomorrow's meeting.

The only man to figure in four of the eight-event card will be Capt. Bert Mott. Bert will be entered in the high jump and hurdles in addition to running anchor slot in the mile and sprint relay.

From the advance list of men to make the trip to Panther town it would appear that a formidable array of sophomores have lived up to expectations. Johnny Goodrich, a leading figure in the high jump, will also vie for honors in dash.

Bart Barry, another of Post's pre-season favorites, will take four events in stride, broad jump, 60 yard dash, 70 yard hurdles, and lead off in the sprint relay.

Bish McGill, third sophomore journeying to Middlebury, will fill in as third man in the dash.

Schedule of events:

Shot put—Warden, Parker.

Broad jump—J. Goss, Barry.

High jump—Grosvenor, Goodrich, J. Goss, Mott.

60 yard dash—Barry, Goodrich, McGill.

Mile relay—1. Pullevn, 2. Soul, 3. undecided, 4. Mott.

70-yard high hurdles—Mott, Barry, J. Goss.

Sprint relay—1. Barry, 2. McGill, 3. Grosvenor, 4. Mott, alternate, Earley.

Medley relay—1. Pullevn, 2. undecided, 3. undecided, 4. Hoyt.

Up to press time yesterday afternoon, Post had issued no runners to fill in the empty spaces in the medley and mile relay.

The failure of Bob Lockwood and Ed O'Connell to slip out from under warning undoubtedly left a couple of big questions in Post's line-up.

The Cat trackmen will leave the gymnasium tomorrow afternoon at 1.15 o'clock. The schedule of events will be run off behind Mudd's gym, the relays being run off on the outdoor wooden oval.

On the heels of Saturday's mix-up with the Blue and White, the stick-passers will travel into New York State to take on the Union relayers at Schenectady.

Akley in Element on Diamond

By Rudy Kempter

The typical senior men, who are leaders on our campus, are characterized by their ability to take the hard tasks in stride and their determination to do the utmost for this University. Clarence Akley is one of our seniors who exemplifies this type.

Upon being graduated from Lyndon (Vt.) Institute and completing a post-graduate course, Ake commenced work in a tap and die factory in order that he might some day continue his education. At the termination of two years he was ready to attend Purdue University with a close friend. With the sudden death of his pal, Akley decided to attend U. V. M. In 1936 Akley came to Vermont, but was forced to leave at the end of his first year. He drove a truck for a large meat company and returned here in 1939 mainly because of his desire to play baseball.

Ake's favorite pastime is baseball. He has earned two varsity letters to date and will undoubtedly make the southern trip this spring. Clarence believes that this yearly jaunt is most educational, as it affords sight-seeing trips, views of other colleges, and most of all, it gives a fellow that real feeling that something has been added to his college career.

With West Point appearing on the schedule for the first time within the last three years, the whole squad is looking forward to seeing the military academy. Ake says the team has great times after dark. "My nightly excursions will be restricted this year," remarked the modest senior.

Many of the co-eds regret it, but Clarence is a married man. Last year he was betrothed to Erma Richardson from his home town, with whom he came to U. V. M. as a freshman.

If one should glance back on the records he would find Ake's name on the scrolls of all the class honoraries, Kappa Phi Kappa and as a brother in Kappa Sigma fraternity of which he is grand master this year.

Akley notes no noticeable change in this institution within the past five years, but believes the Student Government would be invaluable provided the students get behind and push.

"I feel like the Webster brothers; my four years of college have been real living. My greatest attainment has been the acquisition of close friendship; I'm just beginning to think what a lump in my throat it will be to leave," stated Ake.

Bull sessions are Ake's specialty, but he recommends a good old-fashioned dance in Caledonia County. "I get some of my radical ideas from my brother at Purdue," spoke Clarence. Some of his pet gripes are the lack of greater sports facilities in the Waterman Building; the scarcity of debating team candidates; the fact that U. V. M. students don't get together as a whole; that Bean Suppers are fine, why not more of them? At William and Mary College all students eat together: Ake believes that this fosters a great spirit and a stronger unity. Clarence hands the athletic department and the CYNIC a pair of bouquets when he says, "We should realize that the athletic department has some real men who are real character builders. The new added bit of humor in the CYNIC makes it a much more appealing issue."

When graduation time rolls around, Ake can count on a commission with the infantry, although he will be prepared to teach social science and coach in a high school curriculum.

Fraternity Teams To Play Softball

Archie Post, director of Intramurals tells us that contrary to all rumors, there will definitely be intramural softball this spring.

"What the program will be," says Archie, is not as yet definite. We have some ideas in mind. Because of the shortness of the season we may be forced to make as many as three or four leagues with eliminations and the final playoff. We start just as soon as the weather permits. If that is pretty soon, which I hope, there will probably be only two leagues, the same as last year.

Nine Unsettled In Two Spots

By this time next week the varsity baseball team will be in the Southlands spending their Easter against the artillery of Navy's nine. After engaging the Middies, the Cats swing north and tackle Villanova, Lehigh and Army, all in that order.

Coach Larry Gardner tells us that so far, after only four weeks of practice, the squad has shaped up exceedingly well. The pitching staff has come along fine. Ambidextrous Al Shaw has his curve ball nicking the corners, Bob Carlson has his old control back, Akley's fast ball is blazing right through, and Roy Alberghini's portside slants are the same as of old. Larry has no fears about his throwers, what with such able dependables as Webb Krupp, Dick "Poison" Iby and Lefty Sted Huard. These men, along with Lefty Alberghini, will undoubtedly form the nucleus for Larry's 1943 pitching assignments.

Larry still has two worries to overcome. One of them is the third outfielder and the other is the shortstop. Russ West has been in the latter slot all week and will probably stay there all season providing the Dean's office confirms his eligibility. The third pasture tender hasn't been decided upon as yet.

As far as the other positions are concerned they are pretty near well taken care of. The infield boasts such veterans as Johnny Spasyk at second and Hazen Wood on third. First base will probably go to Sophomore Tommy Clairmont with Lefty Thomas as his substitute. Much depends on young Tommy this year but from what we've seen of him so far he'll make a good account of himself.

A newcomer this week was Larry Killick who played second for the Kittens last year. Larry promptly went ahead and got into the spirit of things getting five hits in batting practice.

The squad, as a whole, has been hitting the ball very solidly in cage practices. The boys have a lot of pepper and they're out there pulling for each other.

Larry says, "If the men click and work together and if the breaks come our way, I feel we'll have a good representative team this year."

Women's Formals Are Scheduled For April 18 And 25

Five Greek Sororities Have Released Definite Plans for Affairs

Sorority women are looking forward with great anticipation to the week-ends of April 18 and April 25. Why? Well, no doubt you have already guessed, for those are the week-ends that the Greek letter women are staging their spring formals. Now is the time for you men to take warning and be on your best behavior for the next few weeks.

Week-end of 18th

The week-end of the 18th Alpha Chi Omega is having their big evening at the Ivory Room of the Hotel Van Ness with music by the Clubmen.

The fellowing week, the 25th, Alpha Xi Delta will hold a formal dinner at the Paragon followed by dancing at the Country Club. Mrs. Gladys Brooks, Mrs. Lord and Mr. and Mrs. Dana Brae will be guests. Your reporter was told that the motif of the decorations was a surprise, so we will be waiting. Barbara Dunbar '43, Sylvia Wellwood '44 and Barbara Blake '44, are in charge of the affair assisted by Lois Cotton '43 and Jane Pheiffer '45.

Kappa Alpha Theta is holding a formal at their house which will be chaperoned by Professor and Mrs. J. H. Perry and Professor and Mrs. R. E. Long. Gratia Pearl '42, is in charge of the evening.

Waterman Building

Delta Phi Epsilon is being indeed unique and is holding their dance in a private room at the Waterman Building.

Pi Beta Phi is planning a supper dinner-dance at Oakledge Manor. The chairmen of the evening reported that the decorations would be novel and that Mr. and Mrs. Proctor Page and Dr. and Mrs. C. I. Taggart would chaperon. Alma Gaylord '44, Frances Lynch '43 and Peggy McElfish '44 are in charge.

Don't jump to conclusions and think that the Tri Delts and the Sigma Gammas are eliminating their formals. No indeed, it is just that they have not made their final arrangements as yet and so will probably be reporting to you in the next issue.

Security Workers Meet At Dinner

With workers of the Burlington-Chittenden County area gathering for the second of three scheduled meetings, L. H. Bremer manager of the U. V. M. Security Fund hoped that the reports would boost the quota totals to the two-thirds mark.

The dinner in the Hotel Van Ness was scheduled for 12.15 p.m. at which time, in addition to the speakers, four of the "Five Eaters," the school's popular male quartet were slated to dispense with a little vocal harmonizing.

The third and last of these report dinners will be held Thursday, April 2.

According to official figures released by Bremer the Burlington-Chittenden County area has reported to date $22,553 and the New York area, $9,600.

The previous total which was reported last Thursday at $20,200, has since been increased to an exact $21,000.

The Lafayette College choir spent a week at a camp in the Pocono Mountains preparing for its year's work.

Gold Key Gives Bond to Security Fund

Paul Walgren, Bob White and Larry Killick, present bond to President Mifflis for the Security Fund drive. Funds for bond were profits of the Victrola dance given several weeks-ends ago.

Vt. Engineers Soc. In Annual Meeting

All-Day Conference Climaxed by Banquet

At the 30th annual meeting of the Vermont Society of Engineers at the Waterman Building on Thursday, March 26, the members took occasion to transact their yearly business, elect officers, partake of a sumptuous banquet, and to inspect the engineering rooms of the College of Engineering located in the Waterman Building.

This society goes way back to the days when the number of engineers in the whole State of Vermont did not exceed 50. It was organized in 1912 with a charter membership of 41, which rose to 200 by 1922, to 256 by 1932, and today stands at over 300 members. This year the University invited the society to hold its annual meeting on the campus and the invitation was accepted.

Program

The program began at 9.45 in the morning with a regular business meeting at which reports of officers and committees were heard and election of officers took place. The following officers were elected for 1942-43:

President, Joseph B. Johnson, Springfield; Vice-president (for two years), Hubert E. Sargent, Montpelier; Secretary, Lloyd T. Hayward, Montpelier; Treasurer, Erwin T. Lavery, Burlington; Director (for three years), Alfred J. Runnals, Montpelier.

After luncheon at the Waterman Cafeteria Dean George F. Eckhard of the College of Engineering extended to the society the hospitality of the Waterman Building. He was followed by an address by S. A. Holme of the General Electric Company on "Industry Geared for War and Planning for the Future." An exhibition of sound films on engineering defense work in Great Britain ended the afternoon session. The two hours from 4.00 to 6.00 before the banquet were spent

Interfraternity Council To Give Security Dance

On April 11, the Interfraternity conference will hold a Security Fund dance at the Waterman Cafeteria.

Bill Benoit and George Little are in charge of the dance, one-half the proceeds of which will go to the Security Fund, the other half to Interfraternity conference.

The price of admission is 55 cents (50 cents plus 5 cents tax) and the band will probably be the Catamounts.

Mrs. H. G. Bennett Coffee Hour Guest

The Sophomore Aides carried on the tradition of Coffee Hour at Southwick last Sunday afternoon, March 29, 1942. While the guests were enjoying coffee, Mrs. H. G. Bennett graciously played a few selections on the piano. Mrs. Bennett, a well-known and distinguished pianist, enumerated interesting facts about the numbers which she played and their composers. Johannes Brahms, a "European Yankee," was the composer of her first selection, "Rhapsody in G Minor." Her second number was the well-known Bach chorale from his German cantata. The English title of the chorale is "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring."

After talking about Robert Schumann and his equally famous wife, Clara, Mrs. Bennett played his "Romanza in F# Major." The last selection was a group of Chopin who was a friend and contemporary of Schumann. The group consisted of three works, "The Aeolian Harp" (Etude in Ab), "The Butterfly" (Etude in Gb Major), and the "Etude in C Minor." The afternoon was enjoyed by all and it is hoped that Mrs. Bennett will play at another Coffee Hour in the near future.

Women's Phys. Ed.—There will be no classes on Thursday afternoon, April 2.

Dr. L. C. Heidger '21 Receives Service Cross

Dr. Luther C. Heidger, of the class of 1921, was the first U. V. M. graduate to receive a Distinguished Service Cross in the present war. Dr. Heidger who was in the Philippines during the first days of the fighting, stationed as a major in the medical corps, braved the bombing and gunning of 150 enemy planes to administer first aid and succeeded in saving many lives.

Major Heidger was born April 23, 1897, in Philadelphia, Pa. For two years he attended Muskingum College in Ohio, and was graduated from the Medical College of the University of Vermont. Before being called into active service he was practicing medicine in Bridgeport, Conn.

Experienced Actors Are In Play Cast

"Out of the Frying Pan" Rehearsals Under Way

"Out of the Frying Pan," the play selected by the University Players as its spring performance shows every promise of making a hit when it is presented in April. This comedy, written by Francis Swann, was featured by Life when it had its Broadway run and was received enthusiastically by theatre-goers.

The plot of the play centers about the fortunes and misfortunes of three young men and three young women who are eager to get on the stage. They hire an apartment over the apartment of a big producer and rehearse one of the producer's Broadway successes in hopes that he will give them the opportunity they need. Since they have no one to direct them except their landlady, their difficulties are great; and as a stirring climax a murder tops off the whole situation.

The cast for the play has been carefully selected and is being directed by Mrs. Wilnetta S. Taggart. Some members of the cast have been in previous plays and some are new to the stage. Wendell Harvey, Staunton Sirkin and Roger Hunting appeared in both last year's triumph "You Can't Take It With You" and in "Death Takes a Holiday." Patricia Pike appeared in "You Can't Take It With You" and Alan Steinecke and Bernice Lieberman both had roles in "Death Takes a Holiday." Patricia Page has also appeared in plays here. Other members of the cast are Mary Beth Davis, Frances Ingalls, Abe Swartz, Charles Plumley and Robert Goss. Watch the CYNIC for further information.

Vt. Art Exhibition Closed Yesterday

The twelfth annual Northern Vermont Artists' Exhibition came to a close March 30. One hundred and twenty-nine pictures were displayed representing approximately 52 artists. Special attention is called to those pictures marked with a red seal which are still on sale for the exclusive benefit of the American Red Cross. The general public was asked to indicate its favorite landscape, figure, and still life paintings including both oil and water colors. The results of the Popular Vote Award will be announced in the near future.

At 3.30 p.m., Monday afternoon of March 30 a special motion picture entitled "The Home Place" was shown in the museum auditorium through the courtesy of the Fleming Museum.

U.V.M. Debaters To Leave Today On Annual Spring Trip

Cohen, Zwick, Norton, Bardossi, Will Engage In Different Contests

On Tuesday, March 31, the U. V. M. Debating Club leaves for its annual spring tour. This year because of the shortened program the trip will not be as extensive as it has been in previous years. Tuesday noon R. L. Norton '44, J. Cohen '42 and the coach, Merrill D. Powers leave by automobile for Worcester, Mass., where they will meet the debaters from Worcester Polytechnic Institute. The question for debate here is Resolved: "That the Democracies of the Post War World Should Form a Federation for the Purpose of Maintaining World Peace." The U. V. M. team will hold up the affirmative end of the question.

Leave Today

Tuesday night F. Bardossi '42 and D. Zwick '43 leave on the sleeper for Bethlehem, Pa., and Lehigh University where a symposium on post-war organization will be given before the Bethlehem Rotary Club.

April 1, Norton and Cohen will meet the debaters from Brooklyn College in a radio debate which will be broadcasted by the Brooklyn College Radio Station. The question for debate is Resolved: "That the Federal Government Should Regulate by Law All Labor Unions."

Thursday night, April 2, Bardossi and Zwick debate at Lafayette College in Easton, Pa., on the subject, Resolved: "That Any Peace Dictated by the Allied Nations at the End of the Present War, Should Follow the Principles of the Atlantic Pact." The Vermont men will take the affirmative in this debate.

Last Lap

The last lap of the trip comes up on Friday when the first group meet the debaters of Seton Hall in South Orange, N. J. They will debate on the negative side of the question. Resolved: "That the Democracies of the World Should Unite Immediately After the Termination of the Present War for the Purpose of Maintaining World Peace."

Bardossi and Zwick finish their trip at Upsala College in East Orange, N. J., where they will hold up the negative end of the question. Resolved: "That the Democracies of the World Shall Form a Federation."

The two teams will meet in New Jersey and return to Burlington on Saturday, April 4.

Dr. Mary F. Cushman Will Be Chapel Speaker

Dr. Mary F. Cushman will be the guest speaker at the Chapel Service Wednesday morning, April 1.

Dr. Cushman has spent the last 19 years of her life in West Africa as medical missionary, after 29 years of private practice, hospital and sanitarium work in Maine and Massachusetts. She graduated from Boston University Medical School in 1902.

Associates tell that her life ambition was to be a missionary and that she finally attained her goal after almost a lifetime of routine medical work. Since then in Africa, she has treated thousands of natives, trained many of them in medicine, and traveled thousands of miles through all sorts of dangers in her mission of saving lives.

Attention Students!

Students are requested to please keep off the lawns around the Waterman Building. A large sum of money was spent on the construction of this lawn last fall, if students continue to walk on and ruin the grass the money will have been a complete waste and another lawn will have to be sown at a great expense to the University. It's your lawn; it's your money; try the sidewalk.

Point Counterpoint

What Is That?

Today we promise not to be serious. We shall only narrate some simple stories we picked up around the campus. (Editor's note. Smile.)

Last week we were told a story of a Chapel preacher who, coming to the University for the first time one Wednesday morning, followed the crowd of students when the Chapel bells began to ring at 10 o'clock. To his surprise he never arrived in Chapel. (Prize question: Where did he land -- A defense stamp for every wrong answer.

It is definitely a false rumor that professors will excuse students from classes 30 minutes earlier this Thursday so that they can catch the 12.25 train. The professors state that they will only be reasonable about it.

Watch the fraternity news in the CYNIC, it is getting bigger and bigger -- there is also less in it.

Unreasonable hopes: (1) That the book store will be converted into a 5 and 10 store. (2) that we can enjoy dances until 1 o'clock Saturday nights. (3) that we can read a CYNIC from top to bottom.

We are definitely against prohibition. The girls are, too. Without the Sugar house there wouldn't be any fun left in taking exams. Now, at least, immersed in an accelerated program, we have something to look forward to when the going gets too hot. We were told a few days ago that being "intoxicated" by a girl is much more dangerous than being intoxicated by alcohol. It lasts longer and is more expensive.

The Committee of Civilian Morale asks for volunteers to help prepare a bibliography of publications on the war. As far as we were able to ascertain the moral standards of the volunteers will not be questioned. So, turn out this afternoon at 4.00 p.m.

In an exclusive interview with a few (very few) professors (not from U. V. M., of course), we asked the question of how they manage to fall asleep at night. The answer received gave an easy and logical solution. They give a classroom lecture to themselves.

The great advantage of getting excuses from the Medical Room has finally been proven. One feels so exasperated after having waited hours for an excuse, that the next time one goes to school instead of cutting classes. Where are the good old days when the Deans made staying away from school a pleasure.

Truisms: (1) One goes to the library to study. (2) Students like to have more blackouts as they feel that they aid U. V. M. morale. (Flash—U. V. M. student body extends its sympathy to the students of other campuses who have not an air raid shelter as "convenient" as our Waterman Building. (3) Converse Hall can be compared in its interior decorations to Southwick (but not architecture).

To Sophomore R. O. T. C. students: The only way to shoot accurately and quickly with an automatic rifle is to take it apart in 45 seconds and reassemble it in 85 seconds.

Students having come to this paragraph remember, that behind our little narratives there stands only one axiom. Every point, how big or how small, has its counterpoint.

Fraternity Notes

PHI DELTA THETA

The annual Easter dance was held on Saturday, March 28, the success of which was due to the inspiring effort of W. J. Murray '43, in securing such sparkling talent as M. F. Metcalf '44 who entertained a gathering with her scintillating performances.

The black-out Thursday was carried out without a mishap under the capable directions of House captains J. J. Spasyk '42 and C. Gillette Miller '43. Only two casualties were reported: R. Lockwood suffered a slight twist of his left ankle and D. Nutter forgot to do his duty in the west end of the house.

Paul Corley, former basketball captain and well-known man about town, was a guest at the Sunday evening meal.

On Saturday, March 28, the Phi Delts played the Sigma Phis in a closely fought challenged contest of basketball. The Phi Delts were the victors.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

An informal Vic dance was held on March 28, at which a large crowd was present. Bob Darling '43, was in charge and Ziggie Wysolmerski 43 was in charge of decorations. Professor and Mrs. Lent and Mrs. Allen, the housemother, were the chaperones. Invited guests also attended.

David Rousseau '42 spent the week-end at his home in Grand Isle.

KAPPA SIGMA

Collaboration of two artistic geniuses, Pontiff Cain and Pierre Lewkowicz, resulted in a successful black-out party on March 28. The windows were resplendent in their beautifully decorated black-out paper and rooms were gaily lit with several candles, Soy beans Tadejewski and Foul ball Cronk. Sand bags were quite prominent, in fact Bob Hennessy followed one around all evening. Air Raid Warden Deacon Killick sounded the "all clear" at 12.00 as strains of "Rose O'Day" broke the fearful monotony of watchful waiting. Second Lieut. Lyman Hunt, on behalf of the nation's forces, expressed his approval of the orderly conduct during Burlington's first air raid.

C. V. Akley '42, spent the week-end poring over his domestic problems.

Pierre Lewkowicz left Sunday, March 29 for Vichy where he has been contracted to redesign several acres of scorched earth in the Ukraine.

TAU EPSILON PHI

The annual spring formal was held on the Vermont Roof Garden and many alumnae and invited guests attended. A Storm of Colors was featured for the decorations and gold compacts were the favors. Bob Jary's orchestra played and Prof. and Mrs. George Millikan chaperoned.

Preceding the spring formal, a milk and cracker buffet luncheon was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Caplan. S. C. Felsenfeld poured.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Lippman of Plainfield, N. J., were week-end guests at the house.

Sanford Savin has returned from his trip in search for a spare tire. Due to mitigating circumstances he returned empty-handed.

Honorary Societies

OMICRON NU

Phi Chapter of Omicron Nu met in Dr. King's office at 4.00 p.m. on March 24. Beatrice Wright reported on the Dance for Morrill Hall.

ALPHA ZETA

The Green Mountain Chapter of Alpha Zeta held its initiation and took in the following members:

W. H. Beebe, R. F. Carpenter, W. M. Corey, M. Dana, Robert Hammond, H. G. Foster, V. R. Hogaboom, R. L. Lunna, R. O. Sinclair, H. H. Tremblay.

The banquet was held at Oakledge Gate House with Pres. R. S. Pitkin of Goddard College as chief speaker. Dr. M. B. Cummings acted as toastmaster and there was generous response from faculty and students in the fraternity. Robert Carlson welcomed the initiates and Robert Fitzsimmons responded.

KAPPA PHI KAPPA

Kappa Phi Kappa held a meeting March 25 at which a discussion about the advantage of a uniform national system of education over the present system took place.

Melvin Hawes and Clarence Aiken are in charge of the annual spring banquet to be held in April. Another meeting is scheduled for March 25. Professor Hitchcock will speak.

Knocker Neal has been scaring the wits out of the brothers by sleeping with his eyes open. Everyone is baffled when he manages to hold his breath all night, too.

William Goeller, Knocker Neal and Dick Grosvenor are still battling for the Allen House post during next black-out. All three tried to cover the Waterman cafeteria last Thursday but only succeeded in getting in each other's way.

PHI SIGMA DELTA

A banquet was held on Friday, March 27, for Myron Samuelson who will be inducted into the Army on April 1. It was attended by his family and alumni of Phi Sigma Delta.

DELTA PSI

Elmer Nichols '43 visited this week-end at the house.

Rufus Estey '45 and Merle Whitcomb '45 spent Saturday and Sunday at the Delta Psi house.

The Delta Psi athletic club is negotiating for warm-up softball game with the South Prospect Street mud hens.

Frederick Boardman '44 made another trip to Swanton over the week-end.

Robert Paterson '42 was a week-end visitor in Barre.

Stuart Evans went to Montreal over March 28.

Baseball Squad Heads South Thursday

Veteran Voyagers

12 Players Picked To Make Journey

Catamounts Open Saturday at Annapolis; Benoit One of Several Rookies to Travel

By Jerry Dimsdale

Baseball Coach Larry Gardner today named a traveling squad of twelve players to make the 1942 Southern trip. The coach, Mgr Fred Logan, and the chosen athletes leave here Thursday noon for Saturday's opener with the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

The men who will go are: Capt Johnny Spasyk, Hazen Wood, Russ West and Tommy Clairmont, infielders, Sig Sysko, Joe Corbett and Bill Benoit, outfielders, Joe Margolis or Bill Conrad, catcher, and Bob Carlson, Clarence Akley, Al Shaw and Roy Alberghini, pitchers.

The entourage leaves Burlington by automobile at 1:00 p.m. Thursday, reaching Poughkeepsie by nightfall for an overnight stop. Traveling all day Friday, the cars are scheduled to make Annapolis that evening. The squad will lodge at the Academy two nights, before and after Saturday afternoon's game with the Middies.

Leaving Annapolis Sunday morning, the Catamounts arrive at Philadelphia in time for the evening meal, and then proceed to the town of Villanova, twenty five miles away, for the night. The Vermonters face the Wildcats Monday afternoon, departing for Bethlehem, home of Lehigh University, after the game. Monday night will be spent there, with the Lehigh contest scheduled for Tuesday afternoon.

After the Brown and White tilt, the team moves on to West Point, arriving there late Tuesday night. The Cats meet the Cadets Wednesday afternoon in the trip's finale and head for Burlington after the game.

Emergency Cuts Squad

The squad, pocket-sized this year because of cramped traveling accommodations, is designed for practical application rather than experiment. Every man fills a definite place on this club. The key to the situation may be found in the fact that the pitching staff houses the only reserves.

Gardner is taking three outfielders, a man for each infield post, a catcher, and four pitchers. What replacements he may need must be drawn from the hurling force. Thus a single injury or other mishap could throw the whole squad out of alignment, crippling the batting order and breaking up the pitching rotation.

This is an experienced troupe and, aside from its enforced shortage of replacements, it yields little to any of its four opponents. Batting punch appears to be adequate: Wood, Spasyk and Sysko will hit in any collegiate competition. Around these veterans the batting attack will be built. Of the rookie quartet, three, Benoit, Margolis and Clairmont, are in spots where a premium is placed on hitting. This trio gained places on the squad chiefly because they gave evidence of being stronger batters than their competitors. West, on the other hand, is more in demand for his natty fielding than his bat. If the Bridgewater slicker continues to make plays with the same agility that he has shown in workouts, a weak batting average wouldn't do much damage.

Strong Defensively

Defensively, the club is fairly well-knit. A contributing factor here is the presence of a veteran to balance each newcomer. The outfield is one part veteran, with old hand Sysko flanked by Corbett and Benoit. Though he's an untested quality, the very fact of his going along hints that Benoit has strong potentialities. The football captain won out in a spot over which the most bitter battle of the entire practice campaign was fought.

Experienced infielders Spasyk and Wood are expected to bolster West and Clairmont. West, at shortstop, is surrounded by veterans, with Wood beside him at third base and Spasyk collaborating with him at second. Clairmont, though not normally a first baseman, is a natural fielder and is already well oriented at the position.

Gardner is counting more on Margolis' bat than his receiving, but the husky sophomore appears to be an adequate defensive backstop, too. Conrad's steady catching may gain him the nod in this spot, which is still undecided.

Traveling Squad Numbers Twelve

Gardner Is Real Trip Veteran

"After having made the Southern Trip many times, I believe the most interesting thing to me is the reaction of a new man who is enjoying the opportunity for the first time," said Larry Gardner as coach of U. V. M.'s diamond forces. With an outstanding record of big league baseball behind him, William Lawrence Gardner returned to this University in 1929, winding up his major league career with the Cleveland Indians in 1925 and managing a minor league club from 1926-28.

Since that time, Catamount baseball teams have been the conquerers of such outfits as Dartmouth, Yale, Navy, Princeton, Penn, Holy Cross and V. M. I., to but mention a few. This year will mark the fourteenth consecutive invasion of the Southland by a University of Vermont aggregation under Larry's tutelage.

Larry was well pleased to receive an invitation from the U. S. Naval Academy for Vermont to meet them on their 1943 schedule. "The boys always enjoy playing the two service teams. Vermonters are the recipients of exceptional hospitality and a display of excellent manners. The Navy food is outstanding; everything is served on huge platters, even the ice cream and best of all, you can have all you want," said the coach.

The coach seemed proud of the fact that the team, after a strenuous afternoon workout in the cage, find pleasure in trotting up on the gym floor playing a game of volleyball with the faculty members. Larry is strongly concerned with the Security Fund drive and feels that each member of the faculty will participate 100 percent in doing what he can for the University.

Coach Gardner has two fine sons, John, sixteen, a junior at Burlington High School and Larry, Junior, twelve, who is in his first year at Burlington Junior High School. Larry enjoys good music, a day of fishing, drama and the radio programs. He thinks that faculty meetings are a fine medium for bettering the school spirit and makes it a point to attend each one.

With a shortened horsehide season, containing but four games on the journey South, students will be out in full for

Two Automobiles To Carry Squad

Two automobiles will carry the traveling squad of 12 players, the coach, and the manager. The team leaves Thursday noon, with Coach Larry Gardner taking five players in his car, and Manager Fred Logan driving the University station wagon with the remaining seven players.

The squad is due to make overnight stops in five places: Poughkeepsie Thursday, Annapolis Friday and Saturday, Villanova Sunday, Lehigh Monday and West Point Tuesday.

Norm Boyden Wins Bowl-off

Norm Boyden, senior member of the Sigma Nu bowling brothers, won the interfraternity individual kegling championship, notching 360 in a three-string roll-off last week. Second was Rudy Kempter, Sigma Phi, 353, and third Mel Small, Delta Psi, 351. Ed Boyden of Sigma Nu, the champion's brother, tied for fourth at 337 with Jack Machanic, Phi Sigma Delta.

The season's twenty high average men competed in the bowl-off. Other scores:

Parker, Sigma Nu, 334.
Warden, Alpha Tau Omega, 319.
Steinman, Phi Sigma Delta, 316.
Sysko, Sigma Nu, 314.
Rooney, Faculty, 311.
Thomas, Phi Sigma Delta, 311.
Muckler, Phi Sigma Delta, 303.

Panther Track Hampers Cats

Saturday saw the Cats sprint at Middlebury for their initial meet of the year. Since the meet was not an official one, but merely a practice contest, there were no team scores taken; only individual honors were tabulated.

Indoors, the Vermont speedsters did not capture a single event, all of them relays. Middlebury's mile relay team of Slade, Morehouse, Hollister and Bates won comfortably in 3:37.0. The sprint relay saw Sackett, Rooney, Hollister and Bates of Middlebury squeeze ahead in a close one in 1:04.2. The medley relay, which Middlebury won by a wide margin, saw Parker, Wright, Stebbins and Morris win for their team in 8:20.8.

On the outdoor boards, the Cats were at a disadvantage, not having the spikes necessary to give them that added grip and internal confidence. The 60-yard dash saw Hollister (M) win in 6.4 seconds, second and third going to Sackett (M) and Barry (V), respectively. Vermont came into its own in the 70-yard high hurdles, Bert Mott (V) winning in 9.4 seconds, with Wood (M) and Bart Barry (V) following. Mott (V) and R. Grosvenor (V) tied for first in the high jump with leaps of 5 ft. 8 in., while Goodrich (V) and Rooney (M) tied for third with 5ft. 7in.

Vermont did well in the weight division, H. Parker (V) putting the shot 37 ft. 7½ in. for first, with A. Warden (V) and Gale (M) runners up.

Rooney (M) took the broad jump on his last try with a leap of 21 ft. 3¼ in., Barry (V) took second with 21 ft. 3 in., and Hawkes (M) took third with 20 ft. 4 in.

Dr. Stohr Gives Musical Recital

One Number Rendered In Special Arrangement

Sunday evening Doctor Stohr of the St. Michael's faculty gave a piano recital at the Alpha Chi Omega House. Before beginning his recital Doctor Stohr spoke briefly about Vienna which he described as the Mecca for composers from all countries of the world and the real heart of the spirit of music and inspiration.

For his first number Doctor Stohr played a minuet from the Golden Age of 1800 suggesting courtship and gay young people. A marked contrast to this number was an arrangement combining the Jazz Age of 1940 with that and intermediate, representing the Gaudiest and gayest of the Golden Age.

The second number rendered by Doctor Stohr was an arrangement of Schubert melodies which he prepared himself from the only European manuscripts ever discovered in America. This was only the second time that he played his arrangement of the melodies in public.

Girls Whistle

Doctor Stohr then delighted the girls by playing Johann Strauss' "Tale of the Vienna Woods" as he had heard the famous and beloved composer play it with his own orchestra fifty years ago. Doctor Stohr played this beautiful song with great feeling and made his audience see and feel Vienna with its heart throbbing with music. The girls joined in with Doctor Stohr by whistling and singing the haunting strains of "Vienna City of My Dreams."

As his next number Doctor Stohr offered two selections from twentieth century Viennese waltzes which he described as being yet as classic as those of Strauss, and of a dance tempo.

For his last number Doctor Stohr played his own arrangement of Oriental music which he composed from sketches given him by his friend who had escaped to the Orient from a concentration camp in Russia during the first World War. His friend made hasty sketches of his impressions of the country and gave these to Doctor Stohr who made his own piano arrangement of them.

First Depicts

The first depicted a snake charmer of Afghanistan while the second represented a lute playing a flute while the young women of Turkistan wove for many long and tedious hours. The third rendition was a scene in the Ural Mountains with the Cossacks riding fiercely toward the fugitive who was hiding in the bushes to avoid detection. The fourth interpretation of the Orient was a funeral of a "bigwig" in China. The mourners were dressed in white robes, the gongs and hollow drums were resounding throughout the city and last of all could be heard the laughing lands in the trees. The next scene was a monastery in Tibet with two monks praying and silver bells ringing. The last scene took place in Russia, where Doctor Stohr's friend saw Lenin in the last military parade of his career. The marching soldiers could be clearly heard in this arrangement.

After the recital a buffet supper was served with Doctor Stohr as guest of honor.

Success in growing vanilla plants from seed, which had been considered virtually impossible, has been reported at Cornell University.

Home Ec Club Holds Meeting on March 25

The Home Ec Club held a meeting at the Ross Hall Wednesday night, March 25. It was voted to hold a party with the Aggie Club, the date to be determined later. Miss Morrill who is on the staff of the education department and director of the Peter Pan Nursery School spoke on nursery schools their history and organization, and on the effect of war talk and radio news programs on young children.

The meeting closed with singing and refreshments.

Easter 'Vacation' Starts Thursday

"Easter Vacation"—that long anticipated (and we do mean anticipated) lapse of activity on the hill when students and faculty go home for a week to "get away from it all" and rest up after a strenuous winter when classrooms are left vacant to gather dust, when dorms are left vacant for mice to ravage at will, when the debating team take their annual spring trip, when the housemothers and administrative staff (we hope) get a much needed rest—do you remember when?

"Easter Vacation"—the time when you go home and are surprised to see how much that girl next door has grown up; when you meet old side-kicks and get caught up on the news; when you sleep twelve hours a night and don't have eight o'clock classes; when you don't have to be at a certain place at a certain time every night in the week; when you get caught up on your reading be it funny papers or Time magazine; when you take long rambles by foot or bike or anything you wish, headed for nowhere in particular, just wandering over the country side.

Yes, those were the good old days. But the picture has changed radically. Now, those who are lucky enough to be going home will get on a tram and ride for hours and hours, get home in time to chat with the family, eat a couple of meals, maybe sleep a little, and climb back onto a train headed for Burlington. Ah! Fortunate people! For others, unhappy creatures that they are, are doomed to stay right here all week-end long. 'Tis a pity, such a pity.

on a tour of the engineering facilities of the Waterman Building.

President Millis Welcomes

The toastmaster of the banquet was Clarence H. Adams. An address of welcome was given by President John S. Millis. The talk of the evening was "Conflicts and Competition between Railroad and Highway Traffic, with Special Emphasis to Vermont Problems," given by Prof. Charles B. Breed, head of the Civil and Sanitary Engineering Department at M. I. T. Professor Breed is well qualified to speak on this subject as he is a consulting engineer in problems of grade crossing and transportation. Clarence H. Adams, retiring president, also spoke on "Preparing for the Future."

The committee on arrangements of the program for the spring meeting was announced as consisting of Arthur D. Butterfield of Burlington, chairman, J. Gordon Baldwin of Windsor and E. H. Lundin of Proctor.

Psychology I Classes Given Aptitude Test In Science Hall

On March 19 and 20 in Williams Science Hall a set of standardized aptitude tests was given to those members of the Psychology 1 classes who are interested in finding out the occupations to which they are best suited. But although these tests do give an indication of a student's aptitude for one or perhaps two sorts of work, they are not represented as accurately and finally deciding the "life calling" of any student. Rather, they aid in narrowing the field from which he may make his own choice of the work that he wants to do.

Occupation Choice

"The choice of an occupation is determined not only on the basis of a person's aptitudes and interests," said Prof. R. M. Collier of the Psychology Department, "but it is a question of the individual's personality and his adjustment to life as a whole." This side of the occupational problem was taken into consideration by the test which was given. It included not only questions dealing with the subject's leanings and interests, but it also dealt in happenings and postulations which might indicate the individual's personality traits and problems.

Professor Collier

Professor Collier also mentioned the quite common fear of getting into a position for which one is not suited. This is not as serious a danger as most people believe, he asserted. He said that there is a wide range to human adaptability, and that there are probably fewer misfits in positions than may be thought.

When the tests have been completely corrected, there will be schedules posted for interviews, and the people who took the test will be able to choose the hour in which they wish to be interviewed and the professor that they want to consult concerning the outcome of their tests.

Dinty Moore Supper Proves to Be Enjoyable

Sigma Gamma held a Dinty Moore supper last Wednesday evening, March 25, at the Y. M. C. A. building. More than a hundred people attended and all had a very enjoyable evening.

During the supper there was a card game on the stage between Jiggs and Dinty Moore themselves. Entertainment was also furnished by "The Barber Shop Quartet" made up of Jean Knickerbocker '44, Florence Smith '43, Dorothy Franklin '43 and Katherine Marcott '45.

General chairman for this affair was Katherine Marcott '45. She was assisted by Verna Allen '42, chairman of food, and Florence Smith '43, chairman of decoration and entertainment.

Acquisition of nearly 35,000 volumes last year brought the University of Texas library's holdings to 673,888 volumes.

Lending Library in the University Book Store Available to All U. V. M. Students

For several years the University Store has had a small lending library which has never had a spectacular record of rentals, but which has steadily grown in popularity with students and faculty.

At the "Old Mill" Store the lending library was handicapped by being located behind a gate through which students rarely walked. At the Waterman Building its shelves are accessible to all, and chairs are at hand so that one may sit and browse until he finds the book of his choice. The store has always tried to maintain a library of books which are not only popular, but are also worthwhile. Many of its books have been on reading lists for English courses, one factor which contributes greatly to its use by students. The light fiction which is commonly supposed to be the mainstay of the lending library has never been in demand here.

The most popular rental book at present is John Steinbeck's "The Moon Is Down." His earlier book "Grapes of Wrath" was one of the few books for which there was so much demand that two copies were necessary. "The Moon Is Down" is a short, dramatic novel, the locale of which is an occupied town. It shows how the will for freedom cannot be stamped out by force.

Another recent and popular [illegible] lending library is "Flight to [illegible] Antoine de Saint-Exupery [illegible] "Wind, Sand and Stars." It is a [illegible] down of reminiscences and [illegible] during a reconnaissance flight.

"Admiral of the Ocean Sea" [illegible] Eliot Morison is described [illegible] complete biography of Christopher [illegible] bus ever written. It is by a man who [illegible] not only a distinguished [illegible] but a seaman as well. He succeeds in making the voyages of Columbus vivid and interesting.

On the lighter and more romantic side is Daphne du Maurier's "Frenchman's Creek," which is entertaining but has not as yet proved to be as popular as her "Rebecca."

Other recent books which have been well liked by those who read them are Pearl Buck's "Dragon Seed" and a book with a similar title "Dragon's Teeth" by Upton Sinclair.

"Northern Nurse" by Elliott Merrick of our own English Department will appear very soon on the shelves of the lending library. Those interested in his earlier books will find "Frost and Fire" and "From This Hill Look Down" there now.

Candle Lighting Service

Ira Allen Chapel will be the scene of a beautifully simple pre-Easter candle-lighting service sponsored by the Vermont Christian Association and the Young Women's Christian Association under the direction of Dorothy McCormick '42 and C. E. Corliss '42. Marjorie Southworth '43, talented student soloist will sing an Easter number. The service will be of a half hour's duration and will be open to all members of the faculty as well as students. It is hoped that the service will be well attended.

Students at Wayne University now enrolled in curriculums and special courses directly related to the defense effort number 1,589.

Summer Quarter Courses Announced At Request Of 130

Pre-Meds Must Attend; Federal Aid Available For Science Majors

So far approximately 130 students have announced their definite intention of attending the Summer Quarter. Among the courses asked for are the following which would be taken by a sufficient number of students to justify our offering them definitely

Spanish 2
German 2
English (a four-hour course to be given for Pre-Medical students)
Advanced course in French
Economics 1
Psychology 1
Political Science 3
Philosophy 1/2
Psychology 2
Education 1
Mathematics 2
Chemistry 9/10
Embryology
Chemistry 5 (Physical)

Others which may well be offered are:

Zoology 2
Chemistry 2
History 14
English 6 (Shakespeare)
Zoology 6
Political Science (Advanced)

These as well as others will be offered if sufficient demand develops.

All Pre-Medical students who expect to enter Medical College under the accelerated program must attend the Summer Quarter. Members of the Class of 1945 will take Chemistry 9/10 and either Psychology 1, Mathematics 2, or another elective. Members of the Class of 1944 will take Embryology, Chemistry 5, and English.

Federal Aid may be available to assist students who are otherwise financially unable to attend Summer School and who are in any of the following curricula: Pre-Medical, Chemistry, Business, as well as General Science students majoring in Physics or Chemistry. The State will pay tuition of students in the Elementary Education and Music Education curricula for the Summer Quarter.

Members of the Class of 1943 who wish to graduate in February, 1943 should consult the Dean. They may make an appointment for Thursday or Friday afternoon, April 9 or 10, by consulting the Secretary.

Present plans call for enrollment for the Summer Quarter some time during the week ending April 18. Notices giving details will be posted.

U. V. M. Man Honored For Deeds in Far East

Doctor Luther S. Hudger '21 is the first U. V. M. man to be awarded a Distinguished Service Cross in the present war. During the first days of fighting in the Philippines Doctor Hudger, a major in the Medical Corps, braved 150 enemy planes that were bombing and gunning Clark Field to administer first aid and perform operations.

Major Hudger, according to Time magazine was born in Philadelphia, Pa., June 23, 1897. He attended Muskingum College, Ohio, for two years and was graduated from the U. V. M. Medical School. When called to active service he was practicing in Bridgeport, Conn.

Dr. Harlan Gilmore, assistant professor of sociology at Tulane University, is the author of a study on beggars.

Future Farmers Take Girl-friends Sugaring

Friday, March 27, at seven o'clock, the F. F. A.'s and their girls numbering seventeen couples, set out for Milton. The event was a sugar party with Fred Webster '42 as chairman, and Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Granger as chaperones. As the couples were conveyed, in keeping with the true Vermont style, in open trucks, many a gale of laughter arose for the gay little pranks committed. Reaching Mr. Moore's sugar house, the couples seated themselves on benches, ranged around a rough-hewn table and were filled to the brim with sugar on snow, hot-out-of-the-fat raised doughnuts and sour pickles. Real Vermont splendor, folks! P. S. Contrary to all expectations every soul returned safe and sound.

Prof. Evans Leads History Discussion At New Round-Table

At the instigation of a group of interested students, Prof. Paul D. Evans of the history department held the first in a series of informal weekly round-table discussions on Monday, March 30, at 4.00 p.m., in 22 South College. It was originally announced at the History 3 lecture that this group would serve merely to discuss and clarify points not adequately covered during the course of the history lectures. But this was not to be. From the first word spoken it proved quite evident that the topics to be covered were to be many and varied, and limited only as to time. The discussion ranged from talk on present-day economic conditions, to Marxisms, etc.

The group is planning to meet weekly and all who are interested are welcome to attend.

Notice

Meeting of all news editors, reporters and scrubs of the CYNIC at 2 p. m. Saturday, April 11. Attendance is required. Those on business side need not attend.

Commencement Will Be Separate For Medics This Year

Ceremonies On June 13 Are to Accommodate Interne Appointments

According to an announcement made by Dean C. H. Beecher of the Medical College, the seniors in the College of Medicine of the University of Vermont will not be graduated May 18 with the other seniors this year. The class will have a separate commencement of its own, the exercises being held Saturday afternoon, June 13 at four in the Ira Allen Chapel.

Commencement ceremonies in the Chapel mark a departure from tradition at the University of Vermont as they have customarily been held in the gymnasium annex, on a Monday morning, with all colleges being graduated at the same time.

The late Commencement is to enable the graduates to meet their interne appointments, which were arranged before the University's speed-up program was adopted. As nothing is to be gained by graduating the doctors early, they were granted the full length Easter vacation, which for other students was shortened to three days.

The summer quarter for the Medical College will open July 6 for three months with another class graduating in March. Students entering medicine in July will be ready for graduation in three years instead of four on the year-aroud attendance basis.

John Dewey Club Will Hear Prof. Schwenger

A meeting of the John Dewey Club will he held Friday, April 10, at 7.15, at Southwick for all members and everyone who received B or above in philosophy or psychology during the last semester. Professor Schwenger of St. Michael's College will speak on "Catholic Philosophy."

A convocation will be held following the close of fourth hour classes. Attendance will be required of undergraduates in the three academic colleges.

Professor and Mrs. H. G. Bennett Leaders in Vermont Music Circles

EDITOR'S NOTE: This interview appeared in the Rutland Herald. The CYNIC reprints it with pride.

By CORNELIA M. WILBER

Howard G. and Elsa Kremers Bennett—who contribute much to the musical side of Burlington.

Among other pleasurable memories of college days is one of slipping into Ira Allen Chapel late Sunday afternoons to listen to Prof. Howard Bennett's organ recitals. There was never any ceremony—we just tiptoed in and sat where we would in the huge auditorium, with nothing to interrupt the sound pouring through the dim and rather austere interior. Somehow each one had the feeling of being the sole audience, as though the performer was "thinking aloud in music" and the listener was hearing a soliloquy of organ music.

Recitals

It never occurred to us then to wonder how Professor Bennett found time to prepare those recitals, but for a long time he was a "one-man" music department, and the number of things he managed to do was astonishing. There was an excellent choir which was then and still is, the "darling of his heart." The glee clubs did an opera every year, and ambitious undertakings they were; and there was an orchestra—all besides the individual instruction and classwork. This isn't just reminiscence, because of course all those things are carried on now, but until fairly recently Professor Bennett did it all. The music department faculty now numbers five, but the amount of work has increased enough so that the department head still carries a staggering schedule.

Both Fine Musicians

He somehow manages to do some outside things, with which Mrs. Bennett also helps, and any musical program with which the Bennetts have anything to do is bound to be a treat. Both of them are fine musicians, though his greatest interest is in the theory. He began his musical study at the age of seven, and in a family of musical people, had plenty of encouragement in his study. The family were living in Peoria, Ill., though his father

T. R. Powell to Speak in Chapel Founder's Day

U. V. M. Alumnus; Law Professor and Authority On Political Science to Address Students

THOMAS R. POWELL.

Dr. Thomas Reed Powell, story professor of law at Harvard Law School, has been chosen to speak at the annual Founder's Day exercises, May 1.

Doctor Powell was graduated from the University of Vermont in 1900. He was a member of Delta Psi and Phi Beta Kappa. He took his law course at Harvard and was graduated in 1904. Vermont gave him an honorary LL.D. He received his Ph.D. from Columbia in 1913. In 1930, he was commencement speaker at the University of New Mexico and received the honorary degree of D.C.L.

He was admitted to the Vermont Bar in 1904 and practiced law in Burlington. From 1904-1906 he was assistant treasurer of the University.

Doctor Powell is a nationally known authority in the fields of constitutional law and political science. He has written extensively on the significance and interpretation of law, and is very much interested in the decisions of the Supreme Court as they reflect the meaning of law on the social life of today.

In 1937 Doctor Powell was president of the American Political Science Association. In 1923 he was the speaker at the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Phi Beta Kappa Chapter at the University of Vermont.

Chittenden County Drive Successful

Montpelier Dinner Next New York Kick-off Wed.

Reports from the University Security Fund office show intensified activity in the past week and more to come this week. Last night was the final formal banquet for city and Chittenden County team reports. In anticipation of the banquet, Lowell H. Brammer, general chairman of the drive, stated that there was hope of reaching the goal of $75,000, or a sign of the possibility of reaching that goal. At any rate, the solicitors have resolved not to quit until the amount has gone over the $75,000 goal.

Last week's major function was Tuesday's city-county report luncheon. I. Munn Boardman, local general chairman, presided at the affair, held in the Van Ness House Ivory Room. Team captains gave their reports on money turned in or promised to date, and results were encouraging. College officials, including President Millis, were guests. Four singers of G. L. Millikan's double quartet entertained with barber shop numbers.

Montpelier Banquet

Tonight, the first kick-off banquet outside of the immediate college area will take place in Montpelier. In charge of the capital city's Security drive are Harris Metcalf, general chairman; Preston Cummings, assisting as publicity, and Maurice L. Kelley, president of the Alumni Association and co-general chairman of the drive. The Green and Gold dinner will be held in the Pavilion Hotel at 6.30. Speakers and guests will include Pres. John S. Millis, his assistant, Proctor H. Page, I. Munn Boardman of Burlington, and Janet Hackwell '42 and Fulvio Bardossi '42, campus representatives. Entertaining will be the University's R. O. T. C. Band, directed by Joe Lechnyr and Mil

R. O. T. C. Band Plays At Montpelier Banquet

Joe Lechnyr and the R. O. T. C. Band men leave today at 1.00 p.m. for Montpelier where they will give an afternoon concert at the Montpelier High School. The band has been doing its part in the Security Fund campaign by entertaining at the Security Fund banquets. Their performance at last night's banquet will be followed by another at the Montpelier gathering, after which the boys will board the Burlington-bound bus.

Boston, New York Science Meetings

11 Representatives Sent From University

Eleven men from the College of Medicine and the zoology department of the College of Arts and Sciences have left to attend meetings of specialists in their various fields to be held in Boston and New York.

Dr. C. A. Newhall, Dr. W. A. Stultz and Mr. J. H. Perry have gone to New York to present papers at the meetings of the American Association of Anatomists.

The group going to Boston includes Dr. F. J. M. Sichel, Mr. P. F. Fenton, Mr. F. A. Slesinski, Mr. R. F. Krause, Dr. Julian Maes and Dr. Wilhelm Raab. They will attend the meetings of the American Society of Experimental Biology.

Prof. P. A. Moody and Mr. H. P. Levine of the zoology department will attend the Boston meetings of the American Association of Mammalogists.

First Honors Day To Be Held April 18

A new day known as Honors Day has been designated at the University of Vermont as a part of the accelerated war emergency program. On that day, April 18 a convocation will be held during which the names of those elected to the honorary societies for the coming academic year will be announced. Class hours have been arranged to provide time for the ceremonies.

Usually elections to the various honorary societies are announced on Founder's Day, May 1, but this Founder's Day will not be a holiday and its program will be shortened.

The exercises will be held in the Chapel following the first two morning classes, and Thomas Reed Powell of the Law School of Harvard University will be the speaker.

Vermont Music Teachers

was on a band performance at Columbia Teachers College and on graduating with a major in piano and had a singing offer. There was strong pull on the Eastern seaboard and Professor Bennett's parents were just enough to allow him to make his professional debut.

He made himself felt here by forming a girls' chamber choir, by forming a girls' chamber choir, by composing, by conducting, by lecturing and was glad to do it. He was glad to be the head of what is now the Music Department. He had left when the usual amount of musical opportunities existed. Professor Bennett has put his all to a good cause, Robert Ellis.

Student At Harvard

Professor Bennett studied at Harvard and received his master's degree there, winning a fellowship for study abroad, where he studied with several of the great teachers, including Franz Schmidt in Vienna, and Nadia Boulanger in Paris. He has spent his sabbatical years in Europe, prior to his leave at U. V. M., during his last European year studying at the University of Berlin and at Munich. The war made that impossible for his last sabbatical, so he studied musicology at Columbia.

Before coming to Vermont he taught at Vassar, where he met Mrs. Bennett, then a teaching fellow there. She had graduated from the University of Wisconsin, majoring in the classics according to parents wish, and had had a year at Radcliffe, taking her master's degree at Vassar. When she decided to concentrate on music, which she had always studied, she had to work hard to make up for lost time, she says.

At Vermont Professor Bennett has plenty of scope for his love of theory and direction. Though the music students must, in order to get a degree, take many other required subjects besides music, they get preparation of a high caliber under Professor Bennett's direction, and the chorus has done worthy and difficult things.

Directs Choir

Professor Bennett also directs the Unitarian choir which is made up largely of University students and professors. He has also been a big help in organizing the Community Concert Association, which has given several concerts locally with the usual instrumental and vocal soloists. Margaret Sweeney, soprano, and last year the Budapest String Quartet, have been among the well-received participants.

Mrs. Bennett has given piano recitals and has arranged a varied program for a recital program in which she plays a number while discussing it, then plays it again. She used it first by Delta Club and found it so popular that she has since used it on the road. She has played the Grieg piano concerto with the Vermont Symphony and was particularly thrilled at playing with the Stradivarius quartet in the Brahms F Minor quintette. Recently she and the college chorus did "Rio Grande," a modern piece for solo piano and chorus which she describes as "almost jazzy," and enjoyed the startled expression of the audience at such a departure from the usual program number, and the delight of the students at doing what they called "sophisticated music."

10-Year-Old Daughter

There is a ten-year-old daughter who is studying piano with her mother, and is showing her father's leaning toward musical theory. Though Mrs. Bennett does some other private teaching, she finds it more difficult to enforce practice at home.

The Bennetts are democratic about music and like trying things that are new and a little different, while deeply loving the classic period. They are an unusual and interesting couple, quite different in personality, he rather quiet and thoughtful while she is forceful and striking looking. They, naturally, like to talk about music and their conversation is so interesting that I almost forgot I was interviewing and they almost let me make them late for a musicale on the Hill. I hope I can hear one of these organ recitals again sometime.

Point Counterpoint

The students have been right again. Why should they study? It would only give more "information to the enemy," if they should ever be captured.

The library is so conducive to studying that one never finds it empty. The librarian is also proud to announce that the circulation of books, read in search of knowledge, has increased from 1.00 to 1.07 books per student.

Keep off the grass! We suggest neon lights around our grass lots so that everybody will be kept away at all times and not only during daytime. Half the time our grass is only watched by the moon.

National defense is especially helped by the girls in Florida who make the great sacrifice of wearing tin helmets with their bathing suits.

To the officers of our new student government we would suggest to look over the "Wake up U. V. M." issue of the CYNIC. At their first meeting they have been farsighted enough to propose a change with regard to elections. We hope that some nearsighted people were elected, too, to take care of more immediate and more important problems.

The great success of all committees on this campus is due to the fact that they meet so often. Communist's note: they convene as often as once a month. Flash: We were just told that more harm would be done if they met more often.

One of the biggest problems we shall have to face this year is the outcome of the "battle of the sexes over slacks for women." Keep on worrying! Victory depends on it.

We have been told that unity alone can win the war for us. What an inspiration does the harmony of labor, management, bandwagon, etc., then give us.

We learned last week that the faculty has finally decided to extend the B.A. degree to all non-scientific curricula. Here again we can see how much effort the students expend to get something done. The faculty must not take care of our affairs. Where would we be if the students did not take care of everything. Price question No. 2: Columnist's note. Congratulations, faculty.

The scoundrel Low Ayres' (Dr. Kildare) last picture has been discontinued playing in New Jersey because he had an opinion of his own and felt incapable of shedding blood. The scoundrel Low Ayres? Or is it rather the scoundrel people who cannot appreciate an honest opinion?

Why worry about the war? We did not lose a battle yet. We made only "strategic retreats."

Our advice: Live, drink, and be happy! Never worry. Everything is just wonderful!

On College—

When you've worn a fraternity pin for more than a little while, it's sometimes more than a little difficult to convince circulation that you no longer believe in social security.

In spring a young man's fancy—

Some want a change; some want to intensify it.

And it takes a lot of philosophy to study philosophy on a Saturday night.

And people—
They're great.

And Vermonters—

I like these people. They're not always easy to understand, but they're worth understanding. That direct way they tackle life—it's simple and dignified and "right."

On Vermont—

Last night I watched darkness come to Mansfield—quietly, inexorably. But night is transitory and the mountain so tremendously old as to be eternal. And I thought: Mansfield is like the High Lama of Shangri-La—old, with an aliveness that has a burning quality which is as nearly abstraction as reality can come.

Short short—

He was standing in the swift stream, in the bright sunlight. It made his blonde hair gold, and that was fitting, for he had won a victory. "Trout for dinner. I've all but caught him." And soon, deftly, he had unhooked the wiggling fish. But the stones were slippery. There was a crash, a spray, a shout of dismay. And we had sardines. He had all but landed the fish.

From the top of a hill—

The cool purple mountains loom high against the pale morning sky. The interval of trees in the valley is a medieval town of many spires.

Spring—Dionysian state—

Nowhere does it come with greater beauty than in this country where the long whiteness and deep cold cling so tenaciously. With the assault of the quiet rain and stealthy warmth the tight black buds swell and burst. So the heart's congelation gains a rapturous release. And apple blossoms consummate the process of spring—delicate as a fragment of Debussey, poignant as first love.

Address—

Old Ira, how many have stood before you, confiding their dreams? "Old Ira, I'll come through with the goods, and when I have, I'll come back, and you will know!" Old Ira, how many come through? How many come back?

Hitless Cats Shade Villanova, 2-1

The Locker Room

By Bill Rodder

Army, the Catamounts' foe tomorrow, appears to have another strong team. The Cadets trimmed a good Cornell team in their opener Saturday. . . . Villanova, yesterday's rival, [illegible] Fidler in its first game, while [illegible] to Harvard after being [illegible] of a game with Dartmouth. The Middies suspected [illegible] the fourth inning of their game with Vermont Saturday. [illegible] Mangolis, fielding a bunt, [illegible] runner with his throw. On the very next play, Akley repeated the procedure. . . . The box score singles out Hazen Wood, third baseman, as the Cats' outstanding performer in the defeat. Wood made one of his team's three hits and fielded six chances flawlessly. . . . Hurt, the winning pitcher for Navy, was a reserve halfback on the gridiron.

Play of Larry Gardner's rookies was far from gilt-edged, but the strain on the recruits was doubled by their total lack of outdoor drill. The neophytes, Benoit, Clairmont, Margolis and Corbett, batted none for ten and fielded eighteen for twenty-two . . . Four of the Middies' eleven runs were unearned. . . .

Out of Bounds

Sam Mele, the Burlington Cardinal outhelders, has formed the nice habit of making auspicious first performances. The N. Y. U. sophomore rolled up twenty-six points in his first Madison Square Garden basketball start for the violet, and last the other day, in his initial appearance with the N. Y. U. nine, Sam belted out a home run in his opening time at bat. . . . Fordham and Missouri, Sugar Bowl grid rivals this year, have signed a three-year agreement. The Rams are at home to the Tigers in New York next fall and in 1944 and travel to Columbia in 1943 . . .

The Pacific Coast League, as usual, became the first to launch its campaign this year. The Westerners' season opened Thursday. . . . Joe Vednock, who lost four teeth playing ball in the Northern League last [illegible], is back on the diamond with Villanova. The Wildcat veteran hit .[illegible] last year, second highest average for the Pennsylvanians. . . .

Wietz, Assistant Grid Coach, Resigns to Go to Western State

The resignation of Roy J. Wietz, assistant football coach, was announced late yesterday at a special meeting of the University Athletic Council. The council disclosed that Wietz has acepted a position as line coach at Western State Teachers College, Kalamazoo, Michigan.

The resignation takes effect Saturday. Wietz must report to Western State Monday, when Spring grid practice begins there. He will also coach boxing and wrestling at Kalamazoo, as well as teaching physical education in the school's four-year gym course.

The council expressed its regrets at Roy's decision to leave, but added that it could hardly see him lose the chance to improve himself with a post at a bigger school and higher salary. Western State has 2,800 students.

Wietz, in turn, stated that he was sorry to go. "I like Vermont and I've made a lot of fine friends here," he said, "but opportunities at Western State are greater, and my wife and I both feel a nostalgia for our native Mid-west."

Wietz came here in September, 1938, under head coach John Sabo. Besides his football duties, he has coached frosh track and taught physical education.

Graduating in 1930 from the University of Illinois, where he participated in football and wrestling, Wietz coached at Miami U., Oxford, Ohio, from 1930 to 1935, and at Waite High School, Toledo, Ohio, until 1938.

Sherman (Sherry) Fogg, present frosh football and basketball mentor, was named by the council to assume Wietz's freshman track coaching duties, effective immediately. No action was taken on the selection of a new varsity line coach.

The council also voted to allow incoming freshmen to scrub varsity sports. Previously, only sophomores have been eligible.

Postmen Face Panthers Today

Middlebury comes to town this afternoon.

The boys in Blue and White will be in Burlington to prove that they hold supremacy over the Vermont lads in the art of track and field, while the Green and Gold will be out to prove that just another fallacy.

Fresh from a good showing in Schenectady Saturday, Coach Archibald Thompson Post was confident that his forces would show the downstaters a few tricks of the trade that they failed to uncover in their previous meeting some two weeks back.

From previous records, it looks as though Bert Mott would be a sure bet in the point-getting department this afternoon.

The "fast" man from Morristown, N. J., romped by everything that Union had in the hurdle events this week-end, and added a second in the high jump.

Not to be overlooked, however, was John Goss, another one of Post's emissaries. Goss plodded the 60-yard high and 70-yard low hurdles in the New York State city Saturday to place second in both events.

The Cats ended up in the relative position that thew were in at the conclusion of their last meeting with Middlebury. In the sprint relay, each man ran 220 distance; mile relay, ¼ mile; medley relay, ½, ¼, 220, and mile; two mile relay, ½ mile per man.

Vermont-Union Relay Results

60-yard high hurdles—Mott (V) 8:2, Goss (V), Wilkins (U).

70-yard low hurdles—Mott (V) 9:8, Goss (V), Flynn (U).

Sprint relay (Union) 13.8—Breed, Orlowski, Muther, MacMillan. (Vermont) 13.9—Grosvenor, Soule, Goodrich, Mott.

Mile relay (Union) 3:35.8—Adams, Davis, Muther, MacMillan. (Vermont) —Mott, Small, McGill, Pulleyn.

Medley relay (Union) 8:16.2—Snell, Davis, Orlowski, Orton. (Vermont) 8:29.2—J. Corliss, Pulleyn, Goodrich, Webster.

2-mile relay (Union) 8:45—Quinlan Middleness, Orton, Quinn. (Vermont) 8:51.7—Lockwood, Crown, McLaren, Webster.

Shot put—Parker (V) 38' 5¼". Shaw (U), Parsons (U).

Catamounts Meet Lehigh Nine Today

Vermont's nine is in Bethlehem, Pa., today, to meet Lehigh. Larry Gardner's pitching choice may be either Al Shaw, senior righthander, or lefty Roy Alberghini. The contest is the first for the Pennsylvanians, but they have been outdoors almost two weeks.

Army plays host to the Cats at West Point tomorrow in the last game of the jaunt. Clarence Akley, who hurled the Navy opener, is expected to go to the hill for Vermont.

The squad leaves for Burlington after tomorrow's game, the players resuming classes Thursday.

Cats Bow, 11-0, To Navy Nine

Middies Beat Akley In Annapolis Opener

By Staff Correspondent

Annapolis, Md., Saturday—Navy's strong nine spoiled the 1942 début of Coach Larry Gardner's University of Vermont baseball team here today, whitewashing the Catamounts, 11 to 0. The Vermont squad, which arrived here last night by automobile, was playing outdoors for the first time this season. New England cold had kept the Green and Gold indoors up to the time of their Southern tour departure. The Midshipmen have been working out in the open for two weeks, profiting by warm weather.

The Vermonters played without Bob Doherty, their star outfielder, who led the team in hitting last year. A University edict put Doherty on probation just before trip time, for his participation in a fraternity prank.

Clarence Akley, senior righthander from Lyndonville, started on the hill for Vermont, Gardner apparently saving his other starboard ace, Bob Carlson, for Monday's game with Villanova. Akley yielded eight hits and six runs before giving way to reliever Roy Alberghini in the seventh.

Commit Seven Errors

Only three of the runs off Akley were earned. The Cats, obviously hampered by their lack of outdoor practice, committed seven errors in all. Four of these were by rookies, catcher Joe Margolis making two and outfielders Joe Corbett and Bill Benoit one apiece. Akley erred once himself and Capt. Johnny Spasyk, at second base, was twice guilty of misplays.

Vermont's hitting power was nil. Phil Hurt, Navy righthander, limited the Gardnermen to a pair of safeties in the eight innings he worked. The Cats reached Lou Luberda, his successor, for another bingle in the ninth.

The Middies pecked away at Akley in the early innings, solving him for two runs in the first, one in the second, and three more in the third. The Catamount hurler settled down after that, shutting the sailors out for the duration of his mound term.

Alberghini Shaky

Alberghini was nicked for four hits and five runs in his two-inning stint. The Middies nicked the stocky little lefthander for one tally in the seventh and ganged up on him for four more in the eighth.

The three Vermont hits were garnered by Akley, Sig Sysko, and Hazen Wood. Akley, who was running in tough luck all afternoon, was robbed of a home run on his blow. The pitcher got off the day's longest drive, a prodigious smash to deep right, but he tripped and fell rounding first base and was held to a two bagger.

A fast double play by the Middies quelled the Cats' strongest threat. This came in the ninth, when a walk and third-baseman Wood's hit put two men on.

The Catamounts lodged here tonight and were scheduled to leave for Philadelphia in the morning.

Carlson Tames Philadelphians

Walks Lose No-Hitter For Wildcat Pitchers

By Staff Correspondent

Villanova, Pa., Monday—One of the most topsy-turvy baseball games in collegiate history saw Vermont's touring Catamounts whip Villanova here today, Vermont won, 2 to 1, without making a single hit.

Two Wildcat pitchers held Larry Gardner's team hitless, but sophomore Jiggs Donahue's wildness enabled the visitors to score twice while Bob Carlson, Vermont's reliable righthander, was letting Villanova down with five hits and one run.

Donahue dislocated an elbow with one out in the ninth and gave way to Bob McDonnell, who struck out the only two batters to face him.

The opportune New Englanders maneuvered separate tallies across in the third and fourth innings. Carlson plugged along on this slim working margin, yielding the only Wildcat score in the eighth.

Score On Walks

Both Vermont runs were directly attributable to bases on balls. Centerfielder Ziggy Sysko worked Donahue for a pass in the third inning, stole second and scored on an error. In the next frame, Willie Benoit, the rookie flychaser, drew a walk, gained third when the Villanova catcher overthrew first on a bunt by Tommy Clairmont, and scored on Russ West's long fly to center.

Carlson was superb in the pinches, scattering the Villanova hits widely. He left nine Wildcat runners on the paths.

The Pennsylvanians reached Bob for their lone run in the eighth. Coffey reached first on shortstop West's error. The Villanova infielder went to third on a Texas League two-bagger by Smith, and scored on Traitz' long fly.

Carlson Calm

In the ninth, the Wildcats threatened again, filling the bases with one out. But the imperturbable Carlson bore down to get the last two batters.

The starboard ace from South Ryegate struck out four and walked but two. Donahue's fast ball got seven Catamounts on strikes.

Vermont's defense tightened considerably. Although the Gardnermen erred three times, all the miscues were of the normal infield variety, Wood, Spasyk, and West committing one apiece. Against Navy, the sun-shy Green and Gold fumbled seven times.

The team moved over to Bethlehem after the game, lodging there tonight prior to meeting Lehigh tomorrow. Al Shaw, veteran righthander, is expected to start for the Catamounts.

New York Dinner

Men's popular double quartette, which will be led by Phillip Robinson, one of the singers, in the absence of Professor Mallican.

New York Dinner

Next in the order of kick-off banquets will be the big New York City dinner tomorrow evening. The Hotel Biltmore in that city has been the headquarters of the New York drive for the past two weeks and will remain installed there for another two weeks. Mr. Orville Dahl, the other half of the Brammer-Dahl directorship, has been stationed in New York of late in charge of operations there. Committeemen include George A. Ellis, special gifts, Arthur Kehoe and J. Howard Moore, co-chairmen of the evaluation committee; Merton Robbins, chairman of the New York association who is the organizer of general solicitation and his assistants; James Jennings, Miss Eleanor Koening, Miss Margaret McIntire and David Mullin. From Burlington for the New York banquet will go Doctor Bercher, the main speaker, I. Munn Boardman, President Mills, Proctor H. Page and Mr. Brammer.

Other Banquets

Other state and national banquet kick-offs will follow in this order: Rutland, April 13; Boston, April 16; Springfield, April 23; Brattleboro, April 27; Bennington, April 28; Springfield, Mass., April 29; Worcester, April 30; Hartford, Conn., May 4; Washington, D. C., May 9.

The double quartette has been engaged to sing at a number of these dinners, from Montpelier to Washington. The band's trip to Montpelier this evening will be its last since no more buses can be chartered for private use, despite earnest attempts by band members to provide means for their crew to make the journeys.

Wartime Speech Needs

Detroit, Mich. (ACP)—Re-directing of speech-department presentations to the public so that they may serve wartime instead of peacetime needs, has been approved by administrators of Wayne University.

Under the plan, immediately effective, students will receive the same training as before, but intercollegiate competition will be eliminated and war related work substituted.

The new plan includes: Dropping of intercollegiate competition in debating, oratory and interpretative reading and substitution of a speaker's and reader's bureau to train students for Wayne county work in connection with the war effort.

Eat the Right Food . . .

A Fair Exchange; Fruits for Sweets

Prepared by WANDA GOSS

At this time when sugar is to be rationed people are beginning to see the need for substituting fruits and other foods for sugar.

In the United States during the last 40 years the sugar consumption per person has increased from 68 pounds to 114 pounds. About 74 pounds are used for household products and 40 pounds for industrial products. This is five ounces daily per person, or 2.2 pounds per week.

Now under the terms of the new rationing regulations being prepared by Price Administrator Leon Henderson, and soon going into effect, sugar consumption will be reduced by about one-third for 1942. About 26 pounds per person will be allowed for household use. Even this amount is not necessary for good nutrition.

Years ago people used less sweets and less refined sugar. They used more molasses, brown sugar, and maple sugar, which are rich in minerals. Instead of using these products today, we have substituted almost entirely refined sugar, which contributes nothing but calories to our diet.

Some sugar is necessary to make other foods palatable, but such large amounts as we use is gross extravagance. Sugar dulls the appetite and crowds out of the diet such valuable foods as milk and fruits and vegetables. Sugar creates an appetite only for itself, not for other foods. Many people believe that sugar is essential in the diet because of the energy it provides, but this is not true. We should get most of our energy from foods which supply other food nutrients in addition to calories.

Sugar is irritating to the digestive system. It ferments in the stomach and thus causes indigestion. Concentrated sweets, such as sugar and candy, may be the chief causes of skin eruptions and poor complexions. Gum as well as candy is injurious to the teeth because of the sugar in it.

Fruits for sweets is more than a fair exchange. They contain fruit sugar, minerals, vitamins, and roughage. They are an excellent substitute for candy, sweets, soft drinks, and sweet desserts. Fruits are pleasing in texture, aroma, and in flavor; they stimulate the appetite and favor good digestion.

We should reduce our sugar consumption and thus improve our health by using fruits instead of sugar with our breakfast cereals. Fruit and fruit salads may be served as desserts. Less sugar should be used in cooking and canning. Fruit juices may be substituted for soft drinks. Fruit rather than candy should be eaten between meals.

"As a generation, we have been using up the principle of our religious capital. Ethical ideals are rooted in religious faith; when one generation discards religion, the next generation may discard ethical ideals."—Dr. William P. Tolley, president of Allegheny College, sees cause for alarm in the trend away from religion.

Heredity Class Chats With Feeble-minded

Members numbering twenty-six of the heredity class of Prof. H. F. Perkins of the zoology department journeyed to Waterbury last Thursday for an inspection at the State Hospital for the feeble minded. It was the annual trip that this class makes to a state institution of the type and purpose was to study different types and degrees of insanity and their relation with heredity in families and successive generations.

On arrival in the chartered bus at the hospital the class heard an hour's lecture by Doctor Forrest of the hospital staff and then toured as many wards and buildings as there was time for. In studying various types of insanity the class was shown about ten different patients and allowed to talk to each. It proved the most enlightening part of the afternoon's trip.

Military Notes

By SYLVIA RUNNALS '44

The men's rifle season is fast drawing to a close. When the season does close the men can look back on a very successful season. They have fired matches with many colleges throughout the Northeast, and have brought back many first and second places.

Saturday, March 21, the team had a shoulder-to-shoulder match. U. V. M. was the winner by a 1348-1329 score. The men representing U. V. M. were J. H. Pratt '42, H. E. Crossley '44, G. J. Holden '44, L. A. Weaver '43 and J. H. Tennien '43.

Twelve teams were represented in the New England shoulder-to-shoulder.

The R. O. T. C. ran the First Corps Army Area match. The University of Maine won first place and U. V. M. was close behind in second place.

The U. V. M. varsity was in first place with a score of 928. L. A. Weaver '43, H. E. Crossley '44, J. H. Pratt '42, G. J. Holden '44 and F. W. Miller '44 shot for the varsity.

The freshman team took second place with a score of 909. The freshman marksmen were W. E. Chapin '45, G. I. Sillman '45, R. R. Smith '45, F. C. Webster '45 and W. R. Jacobs '45.

M. I. T. took third place with a score of 902 and the University of New Hampshire was fourth with 900.

All teams in the First Corps Area are included in the match for the William Randolph Hearst trophy. The University of Connecticut, Massachusetts State, University of New Hampshire, Norwich, Rhode Island State and Harvard are the teams. L. A. Weaver '43 of U. V. M. was the highest individual scorer with a score of 191.

The rifle team won't have to worry about its existence due to the accurate program, because now is the time when U. V. M. needs excellent marksmen. Looking back over the team, and also the individual scores, one is convinced that we do have a very excellent rifle team as well as some very excellent marksmen. Keep up the good work in the rest of your matches!

Commencement Speaker

DR. ALBERT WIGGAM

Dr. A. E. Wiggam To Lecture Here

Noted N. Y. C. Author Commencement Speaker

Dr. Albert Edward Wiggam of New York City will be the speaker at the 138th Commencement of the University of Vermont which will be observed this year on May 18.

Doctor Wiggam's experiences vary from a life as an assayer and mine superintendent in Colorado to an editorial writer in Minnesota from a Chautauqua and lyceum speaker up and down the country to an associate editorship of the Eugenics News in New York City. He has about 5,000,000 daily readers of syndicated newspaper column, "Let's Explore Your Mind."

He was educated in the public schools of Vernon, Ind., received his B.S. from Hanover College and later his M.A. Later he studied philosophy at Colorado College and Colgate gave him an honorary D.Sc. in 1929. Three years later his Alma Mater gave him an LL.D.

Doctor Wiggam has been the author of several books on psychology, heredity and eugenics. He is a member of such scientific societies as the American Association for the Advancement of Science, American Genetic Association, Association for the Study of Human Heredity, and the American Eugenics Society.

Famous as a psychologist, writer and lecturer, Doctor Wiggam, it is said, can take the most intricate scientific subjects which he discusses learnedly with college professors and make them understandable and interesting to the average man. He recently returned from Hollywood where he made a number of psychological investigations to show that actors are much smarter than they are painted to be. "Don't let anyone kid you," he says, "Beauty and brains do go together. As a matter of fact it apparently takes brains to be beautiful."

Classical Club Elects Officers

The Classical Club meeting was held Thursday, April 9, at the home of Professor Prindle. An interesting program on Martial, the Roman epigrammatist, was given by four club members: Flora Fifield '42, on the "Life and Works of Martial"; Joene Agard '42, "Martial's Personal Characteristics"; June Hoffman '43, "What is an Epigram" and Myrna French '42, "English Translations of Some Epigrams."

The newly-elected officers for the coming year are as follows: President, Walter Maurer '43; vice-president, June Hoffman '43; secretary, Rosemary Warren '44; treasurer, Gertrude Sherman '44; program committee, Margaret Fake '44 and the faculty advisor, Professor Prindle

Sorority Formals Make 18 And 25 Of April Gala Days

Looming Finals Not To Interfere with Plans For Super Dances

Plans for sorority formals are going full steam ahead as the week-ends of the 18th and the 25th grow nearer

The faculty lounge at the Waterman Building is to be the scene of Delta Phi Epsilon's formal on the 18th. Professor and Mrs A. E. Nuquist will be chaperoning. Chairman of the event is Anita Berman '44, assisted by Rose Eisman '45, Lucille Goldstein '43 and Freda Koble '45. The band of the 186th Field Artillery will furnish music.

The Kappa Alpha Theta's are holding their formal at their house. It will be chaperoned by Prof. and Mrs. J. H Perry Gratia Pearl '42 is in charge.

The Alpha Chi Omega dance is to be held the 18th in the Ivory Room of the Hotel Van Ness, with music by the Clubmen. Prof. and Mrs. G. V. Kidder and Coach and Mrs. W. L. Gardner are to chaperon. Cynthia Bailey '43 is chairman, assisted by Phyllis Pierce '43 and Shirley Needham '45.

Delta Delta Delta is having a dinner dance at the Hotel Vermont, also on the 18th. The Norwich Grenadiers will supply the music. Chaperoning will be Prof. and Mrs. R. E. Long. In charge of the affair is Gail Klinger '42, aided and abetted by Myra Gray '44 and Ruth Boelsen '42.

Sigma Gamma is holding a dinner-dance at the Paragon on the 18th. Rumor has it that Paul Revere will ride again at this dance. Prof. and Mrs. J. W. Marvin are to chaperon, along with Prof. and Mrs. L. S. Rowell. Mary Jane Thornton '45, Charlotte Hyde '42 and Kathleen Benson '43 are in charge.

Pi Beta Phi is planning a dinner-dance at Oakledge Manor on the 18th. Decorations are still a mystery, but sure to be novel. Mr. and Mrs. Proctor Page, and Dr. and Mrs. C. I. Taggart will chaperon for the evening. Alma Gaylord '44, Frances Lynch '43 and Margaret McElfish '44 are co-chairmen.

On the 25th, Alpha Xi Delta, will hold a formal dinner-dance at the Paragon and Country Club. Barbara Dunbar '43, Sylvia Wellwood '44 and Barbara Blake '44 are in charge, assisted by Lois Cotton '43 and Jane Pfeiffer '45.

Home Ec And Aggie Club Party April 16

The Home Economics and Aggie Club are giving a party Thursday, April 16, from 7 to 11 p.m., and it is to be held in the Brick Barn, in back of the Home Management House. The members are planning to have round and square dancing, the music for the square dancing being provided by three men from Williston, and for the round dancing, by a Vic. There will be a hot dog roast during the course of the evening, the cooking being done on an outdoor fireplace. The price of admission is 20 cents per person and everyone is urged to attend this party

Floyd Campbell and Helena Anderson are in charge of the general management of the party, and Dorothy Collins, Ramona Hathorn, Virginia Crocker and Geraldine Campbell are on the foods committee.

Representing the Aggies are Colin Brown and Wilson Beebe on the program committee, with Reginald White and Roland Fitzsimmons on the fire committee.

The members of the club cordially invite everyone to attend their spring party, and to take part in the festive dancing program and especially, to devour those delicious hot dogs that they are cooking.

"Out of the Frying Pan" Promises Many Laughs

Many Types of Characters to Be Portrayed By Experienced Actors; Seniors in Cast

Norman Reese

ROGER HUNTING

"Out of the Frying Pan," a hilarious comedy by Francis Swann, which is being presented by the University players to take the place of the regular Junior Week play, is in the final week of rehearsal under the direction of Mrs. Wilnetta S. Taggart. It will be presented Friday, April 17, at 7.30. Tickets can be bought at the University Book Store, 65 cents for rush seats, 80 cents for reserved seats

The story tells of six young actors and actresses who are trying to impress a producer living in the same apartment house, in order to get parts in his play Many interesting and amusing incidents follow

The part of George Boslell, a lazy, good natured lad, is taken by Wendell Harvey '43. Roger Hunting '42 is Norman Reese, the capable one of the crowd, who "watches over the others like a mother hen with her chicks." The rôle of Tony Denson, the handsomest boy in the group, a bit discouraged, but always deeply sincere, is played by Alan Stenecke '45

Bernice Lieberman '45 takes the part of Kate Ault, the cynic of the crowd, who has probably been trying the longest of any to get a break. Mary E. Davis '43 is the attractive Marge Benson, who because of her seriousness, seems older than the other girls. The baby of the group is Dotty Colburn, played by Patricia Pike '43. The "Dumb Dora" type, she is always a little vague, always cheerful and happy.

Frances Ingalls '45 is to be seen as Mrs. Garnet, the bewildered, uncomplaining landlady, who is stagestruck. A friend of Dotty Colburn is Muriel Foster, a suspicious girl with a voice "like a tired Minnie Mouse." This part is taken by Patricia Page '43. Abraham Swartz '42 as Arthur Kenney is supposed to have a sphynx-like face and be dignified and fastidious. Mr. Colburn, Dotty's father, Charles Plumley '45, is wealthy enough to be snobbish. A politician, he is on the Boston Board of Censors

In this play we have two very different kinds of cops. The first cop, Robert Goss '44, is the intelligent type of policeman, the career man, who tries ever so hard to be obliging. The second cop, Stanton Sirken '42, is the dumb but earnest type. Even if you drew a diagram for him he would not understand you

The proceeds will be turned over to the Security Fund. Kill two birds with one stone by enjoying yourself and helping the University, too

New School Spirit Backs U.V.M. Drive

Security Fund Booms With Students' Aid

Last fall at the rally and snake dance given by the students in celebration of the $150,000 that the legislature has provisionally granted to the University, there was exhibited for practically the first time a new school spirit that has been steadily growing ever since. The most concrete example of this enthusiasm has been shown in the whole-hearted support that the students have given to the Security Fund drive.

When they turned out, a thousand of them, at the Kick-off Bean Supper in the Waterman Cafeteria on February 26, they learned how vital is the task of raising money which the University must have They heard of the breadth and scope of the drive that will be spread out all over the country before it is finished, and they listened to the already considerable list of the campaign's accomplishments. They saw a real contribution given at the supper, from the directors of Kake Walk And evidently the students of the University of Vermont got the idea

Clubs and fraternities put their heads together in meetings, and there was an inflow of contributions like those of the French Club and Bluestockings and the Pi Phis. The men's honorary societies held a series of Vic dances in the cafeteria and it became an accepted feature that the ten-cent admission for these dances would go to the Security Fund. The entire proceeds of spring Mortar Board were turned over, and Robinson Hall gave two tea dances at Southwick for the benefit of the drive

Claggett House held a bazaar and Allen House gave a twenty-five dollar bond.

"The Contrast" To Be Given Next Week

On April 13 and 14 Burlington is due for a treat by the players of the First Congregational Church, when they will present, for the benefit of the Red Cross, one of the most famous and beloved comedies in American literature, "The Contrast"

Perhaps no other outstanding play has had so many Vermont associations as this finest American Comedy by Royall Tyler. Not only was the author himself a Vermonter, but also his leading character, Johnathan, the 1787 Vermonter who finds himself in the gay, frivolous New York of that era

Many books have been written about "The Contrast" and its author. Witty, satirical, human, the play was the hit of its day and has the punch to be a hit again when the First Church Players present it on April 13 and 14, almost 155 years to a day from the date it was first uncurtained.

Security Fund

Many students have not turned in their pledges for the Security Fund drive. This campaign for funds ends in a short time, therefore it would be very helpful to the University and the Security Fund directors and workers if all pledges are handed in as soon as possible. Plans for the summer quarter and for continuance of the University cannot be completed until a certain amount of money has been obtained or promised. The student body which would be hit hardest by any failure of the University should be the fastest in pledging some small sum. The Easter vacation must have given all students time to meditate the matter and no doubt these students will soon hand in their pledge cards to the proper person.

Students who have pledged a certain amount of defense stamps have been mighty slow in purchasing them. Certainly the crew of devastating co-eds who are selling these stamps should induce or seduce the ordinary male into buying a few.

Cafeteria

Great numbers of the students are spending a lot of time in the cafeteria. Seems to be a fine place to spend the leisure hours. Excellent food, music and entertainment are provided at all hours for those attending. It obviously goes a long way in keeping the students off the streets; many are wondering how they got along before the cafeteria was available and how all the campus snuggled into the Coffee Corner.

This great luxury (also necessity) has raised up school spirit and given students a large central gathering place.

Speech

One glaring fault noticeable in many Vermont students is their inability to speak well at any campus gathering or in the classroom. Vermonters come mostly from small high schools and from an environment where they have no chance to develop any kind of speech ability. Because of the circumstances the University of Vermont might take steps to remedy such a difficulty. The English language is the form of speech which most Americans use to communicate with each other. Every person should master it. Compulsory speech courses are included in the curricula of many colleges; do not see why it could not be installed at Vermont where it is greatly needed. Such a course would be beneficial in later life as well as in the various subjects the student takes while in college.

Tournament Held For Bridge Fans

One result of the curtailment of recreational activities due to the war has resulted in an invitation for Vermont to take part in the intercollegiate bridge tournament to be held this year via the mails. If enough interest is exhibited among the students at Vermont and enough rabid bridge players submit their names to H. Wood '42 within a reasonable amount of time, Vermont will have an opportunity to compete for the existing tournament cup and a check for $100 made out to the American Red Cross.

The tournament will take place next month and will be played and scored entirely by mail. Until this year, the intercollegiate bridge tournament has been held in New York City among the fifteen eastern universities and colleges represented by the sponsoring committee. The advent of war has now made a mail tournament more appropriate, however, allowing them to extend the competition to other colleges and universities.

Only eight players and one "game captain" will take part in the tournament on any one campus, so only the simplest arrangements are necessary and there will be no entrance fee. Where student recreation buildings exist, the Association of College Unions has suggested that the competition might be sponsored there, as a regular recreational activity.

H. Wood suggests that all those at U. V. M. interested in this project hand in their names to him and there will be a meeting of the various contestants in the Waterman Building at an early date.

Fellowship To Hear About South America

Guest speaker at Pilgrim Fellowship, Sunday night, will be Mrs. Hugh Williams. Mrs. Williams will present from a personal viewpoint the life and customs in South America where she used to live. She will illustrate her talk as well as sing characteristic songs of this country. There will be the usual hymn singing and devotion. Refreshments served. Will be seeing you then, Sunday night at 7.30 in the First Church Parish House.

Faculty Club To Meet

The Men's Faculty Club of the University of Vermont will hold its regular meeting on Saturday, April 11, at 8 p. m. in the faculty lounge of the Waterman Building.

There will be a panel discussion on the war led by Col. G. F. N. Dailey, Prof. G. G. Groat, Prof. P. D. Evans, and Mr. R. E. Long.

At the Student Union mass meeting on March 11, instead of serving the usual refreshments, a check was given to Mr. Dahl for the amount. The Thetas gave a fashion show, and the Art 1 classes worked for three weeks on posters advertising U. S. A. for U. V. M. Bridges were given by Alpha Xi and Phi Sigma Delta, and the Tri Delts sold almost two hundred dollars worth of defense stamps.

And the work is still going on. The Medics will sponsor a dance in the cafeteria this Saturday night, and there will be another on May 9, also for the Security Fund. The proceeds of the spring play, "Out of the Frying Pan," which will be presented on April 17, will go to the Fund. From 5:30 to 7:00 this Saturday afternoon the A. T. O.'s are giving a Security Fund tea dance. Other sororities and fraternities are planning their part in the drive. The Sophomore Aides are managing the defense stamp sales in the cafeteria now, and more and more stamp books are nearing completion.

Trackmen, Middlebury Divide In Indoor Relay Meet Here

Middlebury came to Burlington yesterday afternoon but failed to prove, to the satisfaction of the home forces, that they had any supremacy whatsoever over the Green and Gold.

The Blue and White garnered two of the three relay events on the indoor oval, while the Cats succeeded in outplodding their ancient rivals in the sprint. Bart Barry and Johnny Reed, two of the fastest men that have traversed Vermont's indoor track in some years, nipped the relayers from Middlebury in the best race of the afternoon.

You could have flipped the proverbial coin and figured the results of the first two runners in this event from that point, but when Barry and Reed forged into the picture, the former opening a two-yard gap and the latter stretching it to five yards at the finish, there was little doubt who held the cards.

The Panthers at this point decided against any more such setbacks, and promptly cashed in on the medley and mile runs. Stebbins was the Panther's big gun in both events. In the medley affair, the lanky middle distancer romped wildly, and took a half-lap lead on John Corliss before passing the wood to teammate Morse who held the greater share of that lead over Charlie Webster.

The one-mile relay proved to be the same story. Stebbins lapped Bert Mott, and passed the advantage on to Morehouse, Hillister and Bates.

If Coach Archie Post had any dissolutions at the outset, the mark that his weight men posted ought to have shoved them right out the window. Alex Warden heaved the 16-pound iron ball 38 ft. 6½ in. to lead the pack, followed by Harry Parker who tossed it an exact 38 ft. Johnnie Gale, the Panther's only point maker in this department, racked up 35 ft. 10½ in.

Jack Bates, the Middmen's big man in the broad jump chalked up a new Vermont indoor record, soaring through the air 20 ft. 5½ in. Bart Barry leaped close behind Bates with 20 ft. 4 in., bettering his last season's record of 20 ft. 3½ in.

The Cats dominated the high jump with Dick Grosvenor and John Goodrich tying for first with jumps of 5 ft. 8 in. Mott, Rooney and Morehouse struck up a three-way tie for third place with a 5 ft. 7 in. mark.

Howie Vreeland and Willets tied for first place in the pole vault, going up to 10 ft. 6 in.; Earley and Paterson tying for third with Parker of Middlebury.

Summary:

Sprint relay: Won by Vermont (Grosvenor, Soule, Barry, Reed). Time: 52.4.

Medley relay: Won by Middlebury (Parker, Buettner, Stebbins, Morse). Time: 8:31.2.

Mile relay: Won by Middlebury (Stebbins, Morehouse, Hollister, Bates). Time: 3:51.4.

Pole vault: Tie for first—Vreeland (V) and Willets (M) 10 ft. 6 in.; tie for third—Earley and Paterson (V), Parker (M), 10 ft.

Shot put: Won by Warden (V), 38 ft. 6½ in.; Parker (V), 38 ft.; Gale (M), 35 ft. 10½ in.

High jump: Tie for first between Goodrich and Grosvenor (V), 5 ft. 8 in.; tie for third—Mott (V), Rooney and Morehouse (M), 5 ft. 7 in.

Broad jump: Won by Bates (M), 20 ft. 5½ in.; second—Barry (V); third—Rooney (M).

Cats Close With Loss to Army After Dubbing Engineers, 15-10

Shaw and Alberghini Stop Lehigh Tossers

By Staff Correspondent

Bethlehem, Pa., Tuesday—Breaking its batting fast with a vengeance, Vermont's nine climbed on a trio of Lehigh pitchers for seventeen hits to put the Engineers to rout 15-10. The win was the second in three southern trip starts for the Catamounts.

The veteran Al Shaw started on the mound for Vermont and received credit for the triumph, although Roy Alberghini spelled him in the sixth.

A brace of big innings clinched this game for Larry Gardner's crew. Trailing 8-5, the Green and Gold moved ahead with four runs in the sixth and piled on six more in the seventh. Lehigh's counter attack netted only single scores in the last two innings.

With the exception of Alberghini, every man in the Vermont line-up made at least one hit. Hazen Wood and Joe Margolis accounted for three safeties each, while Ziggy Sysko, Johnny Spasyk, Willie Benoit and Tommy Clairmont all had two.

The teams matched individual runs until the fourth inning. Then, with the score tied at 2-all, the Catamounts tallied thrice. But the Brown and White retaliated with its lone large-scale batting foray, rocking Shaw for six runs. Catcher Dick Shaffer featured this rally with a four-run homer.

The rivals made four errors apiece, but the home team's miscues were more damaging. Three of them came in Vermont's six-run seventh inning. The Catamounts again confined their bobbles to the infield, Clairmont, West, Margolis and Shaw committing one each.

Wildness was another contributing factor in Lehigh's downfall. The visitors worked the three Engineer hurlers for a total of eight walks. Shaw and Alberghini allowed two each.

Permit Freshmen To Scrub Sports

At a special meeting of the Athletic Council Monday, it was voted to permit freshmen to scrub varsity sports on the same basis and under the same conditions as sophomores; this regulation to take effect immediately. Freshmen being successful in the competition will become assistant managers their sophomore year and varsity manager their junior year.

The Council urges, therefore, that any freshman men interested in scrubbing baseball, track, or tennis, report immediately to the managers of these respective sports.

Co-ed Athletes Hold Gathering

Vermont Women Visit Wellesley Convention

This weekend Sylvia Runnals '44 and Natalie Spear '43 are attending a W. A. A. convention at Wellesley College. Here the girls will exchange ideas about the organization and other affairs of the association which will be of use after their return in making our own W. A. A. a bigger and better club.

Badminton Club, as Barbara Hall '44 vouchsafed, is practicing energetically for the Badminton tournament to be held in the near future at the "Y." An item of particular interest is the fact that our present club is planning to join the Vermont Badminton Association and in turn the National Association. This will make the girls eligible for the National Championship. Everybody is welcome!

Saturday, April 18, Sylvia Runnals '44 gave the information that the girls will try for their ratings as referees in basketball games. It isn't an easy job to pass the test so the girls will do their best.

Just as an interesting sidelight: All-Sports Club is going to pick its new members. There are qualifications to be passed and only a few girls each year are lucky enough to be chosen. Probably you have seen those smooth green jackets sported by a few proud femmes around our campus. They are a badge of this office, or should we say, honor! Incidentally, it takes a lot more than just brawn to achieve this dinstiction so give the girls their due credit. They earned it!

But news of news! The Winter Intercollegiate Telegraphic Archery Meet held during three weeks in February has returned the score with the Vermont women placing eleventh out of nineteen places. The scores of four different people were sent each week to Oregon State College who was in charge. Among those whose scores were sent are Betty Preston '43, Joyce Byington '45, Jean Davidson '44, Peggy Wishart '43, and Barbara Robinson '43. Congratulations, girls!

Kitten Batteries Continue Drills

For the past couple of weeks now the freshman battery candidates have been working out in the cage. So far only five pitchers and one catcher have reported to Coach Evans. The pitchers are as follows: Cochran, Barrows, Mahar, Chapin and Combs; while Switzer is the lone candidate to do the receiving chores. However, versatile Mahar can also catch if called upon to do so.

This year the Freshmen face a schedule of five games. The first one to be played will be on April 23, against Burlington High School. Two days later, April 25, they face Green Mountain Junior College at Poultney. After a four day rest, the boys will then go over to Montpelier on April 29 to grip with Vermont Junior College. Their remaining two games are to be played at home against Fort Ethan Allen and Green Mountain Junior College on May 2 and 5 respectively.

Cadets Triumph, 8-2, Behind Two Pitchers

By Staff Correspondent

West Point, N. Y., Wednesday—Vermont was no match for a hard-hitting Army baseball team today, the Cadets breezing to an 8-2 win here. The victory was the second straight for undefeated Army, while the Catamounts ended their southern trip with an even split in four games, having beaten Villanova and Lehigh and lost to Navy before coming here.

Clarence Akley, big right-hander, went all the way for Coach Larry Gardner. The loss was the second of the trip for the Lyndonville veteran, who also suffered defeat at Annapolis.

Army led all the way. The Cadets got away winging when Hank Mazur, celebrated halfback who plays centerfield, smashed a home run with Capt. Bill Garland on base in the first inning.

With Garland, who made three hits in all, leading the attack, the home nine increased its margin to 6-0 at the end of the sixth. The Cadets reached Akley for single tallies in the fourth and fifth and a pair of runs in the sixth.

Vermont scored its only runs in the seventh inning. Tommy Clairmont walked and gained second as Johnny Ford, Army shortstop, bobbled West's grounder. Joe Corbett drove Clairmont home with a sharp single to center, and West countered when Ford erred again, this time on Ziggy Sysko's roller.

Scoring ended when Army produced two more runs in the eighth.

Two pitchers shared the Cadets' mound duties. Larry McGuire, senior out for baseball for the first time, started and thoroughly throttled the Cats, blanking them for four innings with a single hit. Bob Whitlow, McGuire's successor, had more difficulty. Vermont made both its runs and five of its hits off him in the last five innings.

The Catamounts totaled six hits. West, the shortstop, contributed two of them, the others falling to Corbett, Johnny Spasyk, Hazen Wood and Joe Margolis. Margolis' two-bagger was the sole extra base blow for the Green and Gold.

Student Union's Last Mass Meeting

New Officers Installed Wed. Night; Old Retire

[illegible] the final meeting of the year for the Women's Student Government was held at [illegible] Wednesday night at [illegible] with

Jeanne Metcalf, the retiring president of Student Union, presided over the business session ceremonies and expressed her thanks at having had the privilege of heading such an organization.

Mary Jenks, speaking in behalf of Faculty-Student Council, encouraged the girls to support their newly elected leaders and to cooperate with their new endeavors for the University.

Jean Simpson spoke briefly to the students about the new Vermont spirit that is being fostered in the campus. She congratulated the retiring officers for their zeal and determination in meeting the unusual responsibilities that the present crisis has presented throughout the year.

Barbara Gallagher, the retiring Chief Justice, installed the incoming officers and then turned the meeting over to Janet Hackwell, the newly elected president.

The incoming and retiring officers are as follows: Janet Hackwell succeeds Jeanne Metcalf as president; Marjorie Abell succeeds Barbara Gallagher as chief justice; Doris Wood succeeds Mary Tuckerman as House chairman; Lois Fletcher is the new assistant House chairman; Jane Hoffman is the new first vice-president and Belinda Hannah the new second vice-president. Alma Garland and Jean Lincoln, the Scholarship co-chairmen, succeed Honor Ayers; Shirley Needham succeeds Mary Lib Metcalf as secretary; Beryl Chaves succeeds Margaret Wilson as treasurer; Priscilla Clark is the new town representative and Patricia Pike succeeds Frances Abell as social chairman. Barbara Hall and Patricia Crowley are the incoming members of the judiciary committee and Louise Davis and Janet Hackwell the retiring members with Marjorie Witham retaining her post as the committee.

Rev. Treat Talks On Churche's Role

The regular chapel hour was held Wednesday morning with Rev. Edward Treat of Waterbury conducting the services. The hymn "Holy Holy Holy" was sung by the entire congregation followed by the general recitation of "Prayer for All Nations" from the Responsive Readings. The University Choir then sang "Gloire in Excelsis" by Mozart after which Reverend Treat read from the second chapter of the second Book of Isaiah.

Reverend Treat's sermon dealt with the importance of the role played by the Church during this war and the peace which will follow. Recently the World Council of Churches held a conference in Delaware, and set forth the following ideals. First there must be a moral law in the world and it must be observed by all; secondly, enemy nations cannot be dealt with on the basis of revenge and retaliation; thirdly, we must observe the rights of all, and lastly, we must begin our work at home here in the United States.

The services closed with all in attendance singing "Praise God."

Naval Reserve Program Will Be changed Soon

The Navy Department has disclosed that the present U. S. Naval Reserve Midshipman Program (Class V-7) for juniors and seniors, under which the Recruiting Service has been working since last fall, will be discontinued about May 1, 1942. After that date the only method by which applicants will be taken into Class V-7 will be via the recently initiated Class V-1, Accredited College Program for sophomores and freshmen. Present sophomores who attain junior status subsequent to April 15, 1942, will not be eligible for the Class V-7 Program.

Six hundred clerical employes of FBI are studying at Washington colleges and universities in their off hours.

Prof. Carlton to Speak On Contemporary Novel

The speaker at the Methodist College Group will be Professor Carleton of the English department. His topic will be "Contemporary Novel." Professor Carleton is well acquainted with this field in literature and affords a very interesting evening. Also, there will be hymn singing and refreshments. Come and hear our speaker, sing our hymns, and eat our food. You'll enjoy yourselves!

Every Saturday during the fall, New Haven's open street cars, otherwise unused, are wheeled out of the barns to handle Yale football crowds.

July 8 Sees Start Of Summer Session

All Subjects Taught; Also Defense Courses

There has been a question raised by many students as to whether the summer session and the summer quarter would conflict.

The regular summer school session will start on Wednesday July 8 and continue for six weeks through August 18. Professor Douglass, summer school director, emphasized the fact that the summer school will be entirely independent of the summer quarter which has been put into U. V. M.'s accelerated regular schedule.

Classes will be held in everything from art to zoology including botany, chemistry, economics, education, modern languages, physical education, psychology, and all the regular school courses.

A new feature is to be added in the form of defense courses. Mathematics of defense will be taught by members of the engineering college faculty, and a special course in first aid will be by a representative from Washington headquarters of the Red Cross for the purpose of preparing teachers throughout the state as qualified instructors for their communities. Home economics courses such as nutrition, food conservation and clothing will be presented from the angle of possible rationing under war conditions.

A program of recreation and entertainment using the facilities of the University will be organized. All courses in music will be offered as well as a course in dramatics.

The education students will have a demonstration school for elementary subjects at the Taft School and for secondary work at Burlington High School.

In this manner the school program will be carried on practically as usual.

Kappa Phi Kappa Hears Morale Talk

Professor Holbrook of the educational department spoke very interestingly on the topic "Civilian Morale," at a supper attended meeting of Kappa Phi Kappa on March 31. At that time, Robert Gay, class of 1944, was initiated as a new member of Alpha Gamma Chapter.

Kappa Phi Kappa met Wednesday evening, April 8, and completed plans for the annual spring banquet which will take place April 29. Prof. Ralph Strode of the education department at Syracuse University and Ralph E. Noble, state commissioner of education, will be among the outstanding guests present. Alfred Auer, Clarence Akley and Melvin Howes are in charge of this affair.

Another meeting of Kappa Phi Kappa will be held in the near future when Heath Riggs, director of administration at the University and former president of Alpha Gamma Chapter, will speak on his tour to the various high schools in the State. He will show a film of various places and events common to the University which he has shown in the high schools.

Y.W.C.A. To Present Worship Service

When, a few weeks ago, the students of the Y. W. C. A. presented a dramatic worship service at the morning chapel hour there was a request from several in the audience that something similar be done at an afternoon chapel hour some Sunday. This request is being met by the presentation on April 19, at four in the Ira Allen Chapel of a service of symbolism under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. They will be assisted by the University Choir and Orchestra under the direction of Professor Bennett, the first half of the program consisting of choir and orchestra selections.

In the worship period the students will present a service planned around a hymn written by George Matheson, "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go" the music by Joan Margaret," will furnish the central theme of the service. Readers and soloists together with soloists from the choir will be the principals in this presentation. Mrs. Mills of the art department, Mr. Eldred of the Museum are assisting in planning the visual effects of the tableaus. Miss Charlotte Wing of the Y. W. C. A. likewise is assisting with the presentation.

ENROLLMENT FOR SUMMER QUARTER—

All students in the College of Arts who expect to attend the summer quarter must enroll Thursday, April 16 or Friday, April 17, between the hours of 2.00 p.m. and 5.00 p.m. in the student lounge in the Waterman Building.

At this time they will be expected to state which courses they plan to take, how much financial aid, if any, is necessary and if they wish the University to provide living quarters.

It is essential that all wishing to attend enroll at this time, so that the administration may make definite plans.

ELIJAH SWIFT, Dean.

Theatre Club To Present Benefit

Receipts to be given to the Security Fund

"George Washington Slept Here," Kaufman-Hart comedy success, will be presented by the Burlington Theatre Club as a benefit for the University Security Fund drive, it was announced here today.

The play, highly acclaimed in New York by critics last season, will be presented at the Southwick Memorial Auditorium, the evening of May 5 at eight o'clock. According to Theatre Club sources, tickets may be procured by faculty and students at the Information Bureau in the Waterman Building. Ticket sales will start Saturday, May 2 and continue through Monday morning, May 4. Reserved seats will be limited to the first five rows in the auditorium, while the balance of the house will be unreserved and will be sold at popular prices. Both reserved and unreserved seats will be on sale at the Information Bureau.

Theatre Club spokesmen were emphatic in their hope that the students and faculty would support this effort to augment the Security Fund, since proceeds from the May 5 performance will be presented to the Fund following the play. According to the same sources, every effort will be made to produce one of the smoothest and most finished performances that have been seen here. The cast, one of the largest in Theatre Club annals, is already in rehearsal and should be ready to turn in a commendable effort by curtain time, May 5.

Further details of casting and direction will be released at a later date.

Six Sororities To Hold Formal Dance Saturday

Thetas, Tri Delts, Pi Phis Delta Phis, Alpha Chis Alpha Xis to hold Forth

Six of the seven sororities will stage their annual spring formals this week-end, April 18

The Kappa Alpha Theta's formal will take place at the House. Gratia Pearl '42 is making the arrangements. Jack Collins will supply the music. Mr. and Mrs. Perry, and Mr. and Mrs. Millikan, will chaperone Hotel Vermont will be the scene of the Tri Delt's dinner dance. Gail Klinger '42 is chairman of the affair with Ruth Boelsen '42 and Myra Gray '44 as her assistants.

The Pi Phis are holding forth at Oakledge Manor this week-end with their formal dinner dance. The sorority colors will be the theme of the decorations, with music by Bob Jary's Orchestra.

The Delta Phi Epsilons have chosen the faculty lounge in the Waterman Building for their formal. Anita Berman '44 heads the committee composed of Freda Koble '45, Lucille Goldstein '43 and Rose Eisman '45.

The Ivory Room of Hotel Van Ness is the Alpha Chi's choice. Cynthia Bailey '43, Phyllis Pierce '43 and Shirley Needham '45 are making the plans. Dancing will be to the music of the Clubmen.

Mary Thornton '45, Charlotte Hyde '42 and Kathleen Benson '43 are in charge of Sigma Gamma's dinner dance to be held at the Paragon.

On the following week-end, April 25 the Alpha Xis will entertain at the last sorority formal of the season. There will be a dinner at the Paragon followed by dancing at the Country Club to the music of Bob Jary's Orchestra. Chaperones will be Mrs. Frank Lord, Mrs. Gladys Brooks, Prof. and Mrs. Howard Prentice. President and Mrs. Millis, and Mr. and Mrs. Dana Bray have been invited. The decorations will be a surprise to everyone except the committee.

Important French Club meeting, Wednesday, April 15, at 7.30 p.m., Southwick. Election of officers.

Navy Department Approves V-1 New Training At University Of Vermont

The Navy Department has notified the University of Vermont that it has approved the curricula recently submitted for acceptance under the V-1 accredited college program. Consequently full time students in good standing may now be certified to them by the Registrar and the University as satisfying the educational requirements for enlistment under this plan.

The V-1 Program contemplates enlistment of some 80,000 men in the colleges and universities of the United States as apprentice seamen. Such men will be permitted to stay in college, assuming satisfactory academic standing, until the end of the sophomore year and possibly until graduation. The second semester of the sophomore year men enrolled in this program will take objective examinations. Of the 80,000 some 15,000 will be permitted to enroll in V-7, permitted to complete the academic work for their degree and upon the completion of such work be ordered to active duty as reserve midshipmen at Reserve Midshipmen School and upon successful completion of the work there they will be commissioned as Ensigns

Twenty thousand more will be accepted for the V-5 Program, that is as aviation cadets, and permitted to complete at least the balance of the sophomore year

Those not selected for transfer to Class V-5 or Class V-7 will be permitted to finish two years of college and will then be called to active duty as apprentice seamen.

The University is planning a special course of study in the Arts College for freshmen and sophomores desiring to enroll in V-1. Freshmen, members of the Class of 1945, desiring to enroll in this program should next year elect work in physics, the Navy also recommends further work in mathematics. They will take an objective examination to be given about March 1, 1943.

Sophomores, members of the Class of 1944, may enroll in this program but according to latest information no objective test will be given such men this year and the Navy Department does not make clear how men will be chosen from this group for V-5 and V-7.

The advantages of enrolling in the V-1 program are automatic deferment under the Selective Service Act until the completion of at least two years of college work, the possibility of being permitted to complete four years if grades on the objective test are high, and the opportunity of transferring to aviation cadet flight training.

Dean Swift is in charge of the program at the University of Vermont

Rev. Ravi-Booth will be Baccalaureate Speaker

Founder of Bennington College Will Address Seniors on Sunday, May 17 in Chapel

The Rev. Vincent Ravi Booth, minister of Old First Church in Bennington will be the baccalaureate speaker this year at Commencement. The baccalaureate service will be held Sunday afternoon, May 17 in the Chapel

Founder of Bennington College, Mr. Booth has spent over forty years in the service of the Church with one period in Manchester and two in Bennington. He is also an ardent sponsor of Vermont's Colonial Shrine

For the past several winters he has been minister to the Melbourne Beach Community Chapel in Florida, where he vacations. Under his direction, the Chapel has been enlarged, its seating capacity doubled and the structure changed from a small rectangular building to the form of a Latin cross, time-honored shape of Christian churches

Born in Naples, Italy, Mr. Booth received his elementary education in Rome, and took his preparatory work in Florence. He came to the United States for his collegiate studies, and attended Ohio Wesleyan, from which he was graduated with an A.B. degree. Later he took his master's degree there. He received his B.S.T. from Boston University School of Theology. In 1920 Middlebury College gave him an honorary D.D.

Dr. Douglass To Speak At V.C.A. Meeting April 14

Dr. Bennett C. Douglass, head of the department of education, will be the guest speaker at the next regular meeting of the Vermont Christian Association. This meeting will be held in the V. C. A. office in the north wing of the Waterman Building, Tuesday evening, April 14, at 7.30

Doctor Douglass' topic will be "Christianity and Educational Philosophy in America Today." Anyone who has had any opportunity to hear him speak will know that the evening's program will be well worth attending. The talk by our guest speaker will be followed by a discussion period during which those present will be given a chance to ask any questions that seem pertinent to them.

Immediately preceding the address by the speaker of the evening, Doctor Douglass, there will be a joint meeting of the V. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. cabinets and steering committees. The purpose of this meeting will be to formulate plans for a student conducted Vesper Service to be held in the Ira Allen Chapel, Friday afternoon, April 17. The exact time and program for this Vesper Service will be announced in the very near future.

It is hoped that all of the members of the V. C. A. as well as any other students interested in hearing Doctor Douglass will make it a point to attend.

Dr. Walter Stultz Helps Art Class

Art Department Offers Fine Summer Courses

Dr. Walter A. Stultz, professor of anatomy at the Medical School opened a series of lectures on anatomy this week for the class in free-hand figure drawing, meeting in the Art Gallery of the engineering annex.

Emphasis is given to the relationships between internal and external structure which will be brought out by Doctor Stultz with the aid of a skeleton and model. "The skeleton is used as a basis for describing muscles and attachments and their relationships so that they (the students) understand what they see when they're drawing," explained Doctor Stultz.

These lectures by Doctor Stultz will continue for about one month

N. Y. A. girls are busy in the office of Prof. Elizabeth Colburn, director of the Art Department, preparing for the mails about one thousand bulletins of the summer session for the Art Department. Just off the press, the attractive little pamphlets are illustrated with a reproduction of a water color of Cambridge Junction, Vt., by Barse Miller of Los Angeles, Calif

Mr. Miller is returning to the Vermont campus this summer for his fourth year and will conduct courses in Advanced Drawing and Painting from Landscape. Eugene Myers of Columbia University, teacher, writer, lecturer, creative artist, who is particularly known for his work in art education, will conduct workshop and discussion courses in art for public school teachers. Professor Prindle, head of the Classical Department, will offer a course, "The Story of Troy in Literature

Two Fraternities Hold Tea Dances

Tea dances were held Saturday, April 11 from five to eight in the afternoon by two fraternities, the A T O's and Phi Sigs. Neither fraternity used a theme, except that the proceeds of the A T O dance were turned over to the Security Fund.

Chairman of the A. T. O. tea dance was S. S. Wysolmerski '43 while L. M. Rozek '42 took charge of refreshments. Mr. and Mrs. George Lent were chaperones

David Frank '45 was the chairman of the Phi Sig dance. Others on the committee were H. Thomas '45, B. Kaye '45 and G. Gershaw '45. Professor and Mrs. Long chaperoned

Housemothers Clear $125 at Bridge Party

At the suggestion of Mrs. Willard at Grassmount, a bridge was given by the Housemothers of both the dormitories and the sorority houses. It was held on Friday evening, April 10 in the Student Lounge of the Waterman Building. It was very successful and with forty-five tables of bridge, the House directors cleared $125 which will be turned over to the Security Fund of the University Prizes were given at the different tables to both men and women

Band Travels State; Two Concerts a Day

Yesterday morning at 10.15 the R. O. T. C. Band left Converse by bus for their annual jaunt about the State. The object of the trip this year which was made possible by the board of admissions, is to encourage enrollment of Vermont students next fall here at U. V. M. The band will first travel south to Rutland and Bennington, then east towards St. Johnsbury and finally north again to Barre and home. Six concerts have been scheduled thus far, to be played two per day. The band returns Wednesday afternoon.

This Is A World War

Ask an American when the war began. Why, December 7, remember Pearl Harbor, of course. Ask a Russian, then an Englishman, then a Pole. So the war started in 1939. Ask a Spaniard, an Ethiopian and a Chinese. They weren't guessing tiddlywinks in 1936. This war started years before Pearl Harbor, before Munich. The Japanese went into Manchuria in 1931, and still your American refers to the prewar days of last fall.

This is a world war. The lands and seas and air all around the globe are the battlegrounds of the armies of fighting men of every country. This is not a worldwide clash of fundamentally opposite ideas and ideologies. This clash is more than individual battles. It permeated the minds of men before the actual fighting began; it is discussed as the battles attain great fury, and it will be ever more alive when the words of peace are spoken.

Too many people still have the idea that this is a war between this country and Japan, with Australia and Britain helping out a bit. The largest newspaper headlines tell of Corregidor, MacArthur, and the Far East. And most people's reading does not get beyond the largest headlines. Pre-Pearl Harbor isolationism still persists with respect to the rest of the war. The reverses of Hitler in Russia affect our future to as great or greater a degree than does the fall of Bataan. The little "incident" between China and Japan (ten years of fighting and 6,000,000 people killed—little incident) concerns us more than morally. This war didn't begin with Pearl Harbor, and it doesn't end with the fall of Bataan.

A narrow view of this war brings up another dangerous idea. People in this country are saying, "Because of the great part we are playing in helping the rest of the world to beat the Axis, because of the many sacrifices we are making, we should dominate and control the post-war world."

Those people consider their sacrifices great. No golf balls. No new cars or tires. Shorter vacations. The inconveniences of practice blackouts. Sacrifices? China has given up over 5,000,000 lives in this war. Not golf balls or cars but men, women and children. The English weren't bothered by rehearsals. They got the real bombs and fires at the first performance. And casualties. The students of Europe have unlimited vacations now—from school. Regardless of the shade of pink of their economics, the blood of a million Russians slain fighting the Nazis is as red as that of the army of Bataan.

Are all these people of all these countries fighting and dying for the privilege of being ruled by us? They are fighting forces that would tell them how and why and when to live and die. So are we. The idea that we are pulling someone else's chestnuts out of the fire—and thus deserve a reward—is a dangerous fallacy. We are all in this war together—and we should all come out of it together.

Cats Rest after Southern Tour

The Locker Room

By Bill Roeder

The ball club returned from its Dixieland swing last week, and rather unobtrusively, too. The two-car caravan stole in here one dawn, dismounted, and tiptoed off to bed. Most of the players were already asleep, or at least running broadly, the long, dark stretch between West Point and Burlington having been interrupted but once. That was at Pittsburgh where the presence of a distinguished native son, Johnny Spasyk, inspired a bleary gas station attendant to serve at the illicit hour and replenish the thirsty machines.

The law did apprehend the tourists once, though. Manager Fred Logan became a traffic violator on the way to Lehigh, trespassing against a way-station red light. The incorporated justice of the peace, police chief, motorcycle trooper and jail and warden of Wind Gap, Pa., imposed a fine of five and costs, stirring the beach wagon chauffeur and his passengers to heated, but unavailing, wrath.

Certainly not the least colorful souvenir of the expedition is the one which modifies Roy Alberghini's figure contour. The creator of this graphic "mouse" was Al Shaw, who inflicted it with a stray cosmic pitch while warming up Lefty for rescue work at Annapolis.

The pre-midnight hush of the Lehigh Beta house lent a studious atmosphere to the place and elicited favorable comparisons with home from Bob Carlson and Hazen Wood, who were quartered there. Disillusionment came several hours later, however, when the brothers trouped in from their evening's pursuits, whose academic pertinence appeared dubious, at best.

Philadelphia afforded the outlanders a glimpse of storied college life. A cordon of Larry Gardner's men surprised a gathering of Villanova gates in a juke joint, jitterbugging Joe Corbett and Bill Benoit, enthusiastic young blades, hastened to roll up their trousers and join the fun, leaving the sophisticated seniors to their milkshakes and local looks.

His companions inhaled a store of interesting figures about municipalities visited from Joe Margolis, whose hobby, it developed, is statistics. The catcher quoted incidental fact upon fact, hurdling obscure populations with encyclopedic ease.

The motorists felt the tenor of the cops breathing hotly on their necks at the military academy. A warlike and meaningful, "Halt! Who goes there?" brought the invaders up short as they strove to gain the street. Needless to add, the Cadets soon proved themselves superior sprinters, but off that first chilly welcome the trembling Catamounts all but abandoned hope of emerging there, much less in civvies.

The countless emergencies which crop up on such a junket kept Logan busy the live-long day. Coach Gardner would have put the manager to practice use on the field, but he suffers from five o'clock shadow and just couldn't get to his right. Fred came in mighty handy at night, sleeping with pictures as he did.

Soph Repeats In Hexathlon

Lockwood Retains Title, Totaling 6415.62 Points

Muscular sophomore Bob Lockwood made it two for two in the annual hexathlon last week, successfully defending his 1941 crown against a field of ten challengers. Lockwood piled up 6415.62 points in the six events to lead his closest rival, Johnny Spasyk, by more than 200.

Spasyk, the versatile senior, closed with 6264.94 points. He was closely pressed by Ed O'Connell, the Springfield, Mass., junior. O'Connell tabulated 6219.11.

Events contested included the mile run, the 110-yard dash, the rope climb, the broad jump, the high jump and the shot put.

Lockwood failed to win a single individual crown. He gained seconds in the 110, the rope climb and the high jump, where he tied with Johnny Goss, thirds in the mile and the shot put and fourth in the broad jump.

Bert Mott, track captain, captured four titles, but his poor showings in the mile and the rope climb relegated him to ninth place in the standings. Mott was victorious in the 110, the broad jump, the high jump and the shot put.

Nimble Spasyk won the rope climb, while the mile went to Ernie St. Mary.

In addition to those already mentioned, competitors were Chas. Smith, Art Paterson, Bob Pulleyn, Bob Goss and Mel Small.

Standings of the entrants:

Bob Lockwood	6415.62
Johnny Spasyk	6264.94
Ed O'Connell	6219.11
Chas. Smith	6045.40
Art Paterson	5952.14
Bob Pulleyn	5749.86
Bob Goss	5671.66
Mel Small	5480.99
Bert Mott	5310.66
Ernie St. Mary	5069.62
Johnny Goss	5002.81

Twenty-one Frosh Drill under Evans

The freshman baseball squad has concluded its basic warm-up session in the cage. In these practice sessions Coach Fuzzy Evans drilled his squad in fielding, sliding and bunting.

Monday, both the varsity and freshmen saw the film "Ninth Inning," in which all of these principles were demonstrated by American League players.

So far the frosh number twenty-one men. The candidates out for the pitcher's birth are Mickey Cochrane, Ray Combs, Bill Chapin, Bill Mahar and Bud Barrows; the two candidates for catcher are Whit Switzer and Carl Ruroede.

Inasmuch as Coach Evans has not seen the boys in real action, he has not formulated any definite lineup as yet. However, the final issue will be decided as soon as regular hitting practice is held.

Sam Foti

Foti Seasoned Tennis Veteran

Court Captain Enters Third Varsity Campaign

By Rudy Kempter

Swinging Sam Foti has a racket; it's swinging a racquet. Foti, who is captain of varsity tennis during his senior year of college, commenced enjoying the sport when he was knee high to a grasshopper.

With a brilliant two-year tennis career at Rutland (Vt.) High School, he performed on a state championship team. Sam has been a successful competitor in the Basin Harbor, Montpelier and Thompson's Point tourneys.

When graduated from high school in 1933, Foti wanted to see a bit of the world. He waited on table at a summer hotel, cut pulp, worked on a road gang and even crushed rock. In 1935, Foti could be found as a corporal in the Field Artillery at Fort Ethan Allen. Upon completion of the three-year enlistment period, he decided to explore the field of medicine, entering U. V. M. as a Pre-Med student.

Foti, who is a patriotic chap, says, "We should not criticize the armed forces of our country. Someone had to get in the first punch. We need time to recover in order to strike back." Sam has pals in the armed forces who are now in Iceland, Ireland, Hawaii and the Philippines; he has had no recent word from any of them.

The Marble City lad, who has four brothers and two sisters, finds time to work for his room and board. Sam captured the frosh tennis team during his first year and was pledged to Sigma Nu Fraternity.

Foti's advice to a tennis beginner is, "Make sure that you are being supervised so that you will not develop unnecessary slipshod habits, which are difficult to correct." He believes that tennis is no longer a minor sport; interest has definitely shown a rapid upswing since the days of the colorful Big Bill Tilden.

Green and Gold Idle Until Panther Contest

Coach Looks Forward To Favorable Weather

By Phil Robinson

While Vermont baseballers cast their eyes towards the April 24 meeting with the Blue and White of Middlebury, southern trip statistics were still very much a major issue on and off the campus.

Old Man Weather turned the tables on the diamond lads this week while Larry Gardner pleaded frantically for the return of summer weather so that he could get his charges out onto Centennial's expanses.

The Cats posted a .500 average for their annual southern swing, dropping one to the Naval Academy and concluding their junket with a defeat at the hands of the West Pointers.

Villanova and Lehigh fell victim to the Green and Gold. The "hitless wonders," so dubbed by the local newspapers, chalked up a 2-1 count over the Philadelphia school, and made up for poor day at the plate the following afternoon by slapping out a varied array of hits, taking the Steel Town lads 15-10.

In the record posted by the home boys, four untried, untested rookies played a big part, two of them sophomores, and the other two, juniors.

Outside First Time

In addition, the Cats were playing their first bit of ball out of doors. After confinement to the cage, the spaces looked pretty large in the out-of-town ball yards.

Tom Clairmont, the sophomore ace, cavorting around the initial sack, copped top honors as the club's most valuable player. Although Clairmont failed to show in the frosh season last year, he isn't exactly new at the game, having been one of the State's outstanding high school ball handlers, and also taking his cut with the Winooski semi-pro club.

Joe Margolis, the other sophomore rookie walked off with the top batting average, and thereby snatched a probable berth as the backstop for the '42 aggregation.

New Gardeners Impress

Bill Benoit and Joe Corbett, rounding out the four newcomers proved invaluable in the field and will be definite fixtures in the garden.

Coach Gardner was far from disappointed at the showing of his lads. Said Larry: "As soon as we get some breaks from Mr. Weatherman and the boys can get outside, we'll show you U. V. M. fans that the stuff we showed against Villanova and Lehigh can and will be done again."

Although King Clarence Akley failed to manufacture a victory against either service school, it failed to prove, as far as the local constituents are concerned, that he wouldn't be able to produce when the regular season rolls around back up here in the Green Mountains.

Spasyk, Rice Receive Call

Cat Stars to Leave For Army, Marines

Vermont loses two of its most prominent athletes within the next fortnight when Johnny Spasyk and Misty Rice leave here for the armed forces. Spasyk goes into the Army as a second lieutenant Saturday, while Rice enters the Marine Corps next week.

The placing of these varsity captains on immediate call is the first campus omen of the government's pressing need for manpower. The pair had hoped to finish the semester before joining, but school officials have indicated that they will be awarded diplomas anyway.

Spasyk's loss leaves the baseball team without a captain. The second baseman, just returned from the Southern trip, will play in no more games, since the next contest on schedule is next week's Middlebury game.

In addition to his diamond activities, of which he is a three-year veteran, Johnny also served as regular quarterback on the eleven for a like period, as well as playing freshman basketball. He is a Boulder member, and was an important force in organizing the Student Government.

Rice led last fall's Catamount gridsters from a blocking back slot. In his freshman and sophomore years, Misty bulwarked the line at center before Coach Fuzzy Evans shifted him to the backfield. He also played freshman baseball. A real campus character, Misty is one of the most popular figures at U. V. M.

Spasyk received his commission at Fort Devens last summer, through the advanced R. O. T. C. course here. Rice is one of three seniors accepted to the Marine Corps officers' training course.

Equestriennes Benefit By Riding Scholarship

Bowling Green, Ohio—(ACP)—Bowling Green State University has become the first American college to offer a scholarship for horseback riding.

The award, created by Boots and Saddle Club and Hedden School of Riding, provides for university fees and riding lessons for nine months.

The recipient will be the winner of a riding contest to be staged here May 2 for high school senior girls, provided she ranks in the upper third of her class.

Netmen Progress On Indoor Courts

Coach Carpenter's charges are developing rapidly under his watchful eye. Though handicapped in that they must confine their practices indoors till the last week of April, they have progressed so that they are now contesting for positions on the team. Capt. S. Foti seems slated for the number one spot, and V. Manjoney or R. Swift may wind up in the number two slot. It is too early to determine who will fill the remaining slots.

Even though the match with Massachusetts State has been cancelled, the racqueteers have a busy year. As soon as they can move outdoors, practice on method of play and timing will start in earnest. It is hoped that a not too well rounded team will shape itself into a sturdy and dependable aggregation before the season starts.

Three rare volumes published in 1700 have been donated recently to the Washington State College Library.

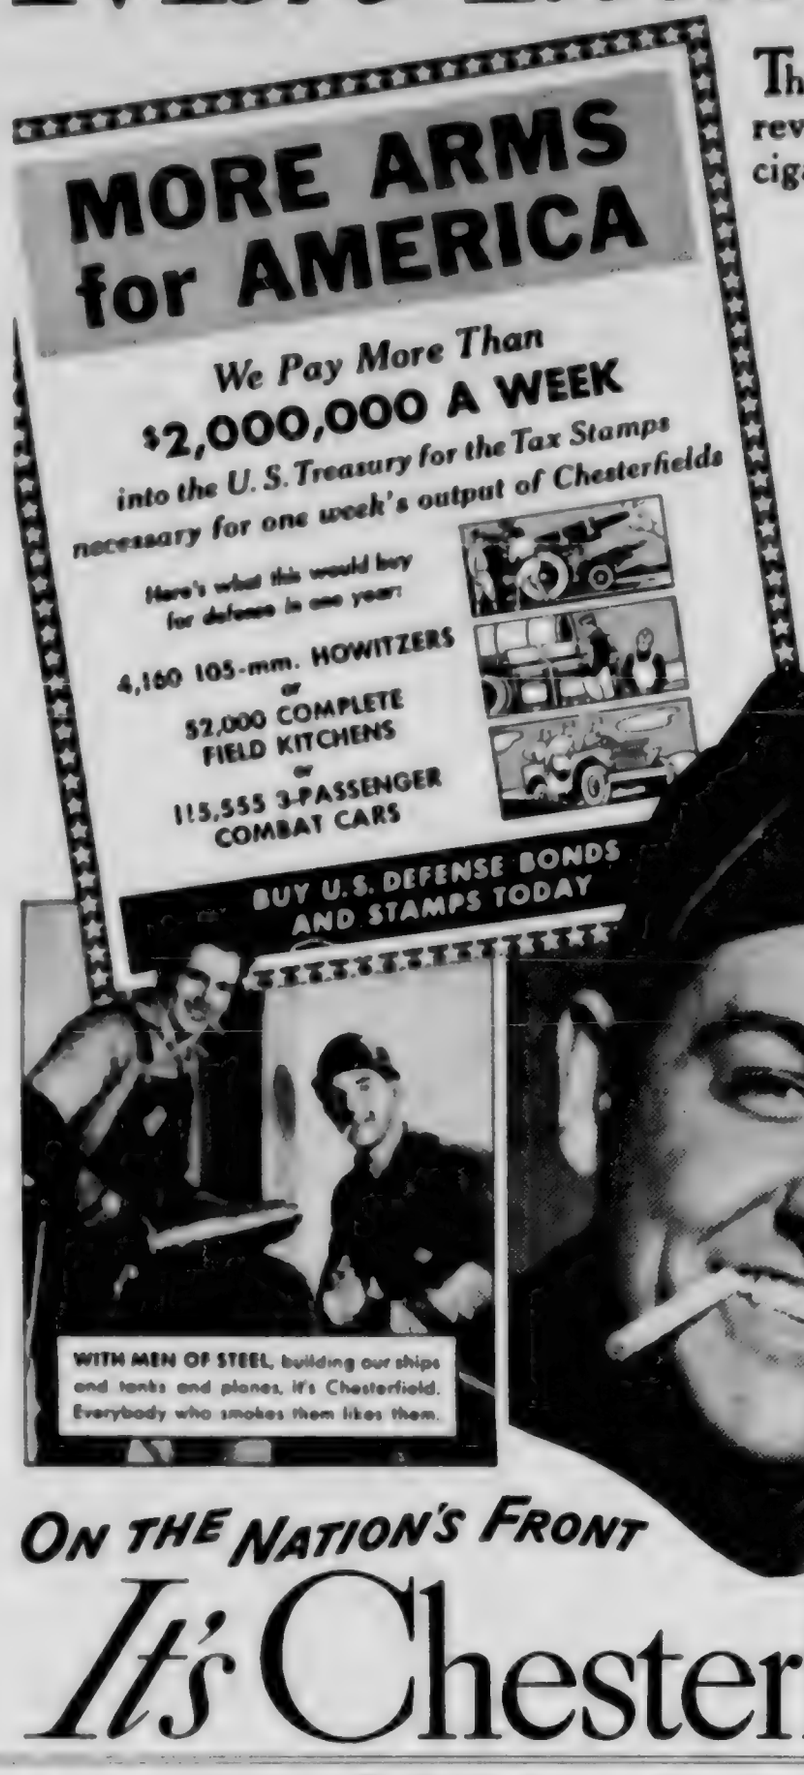
and Art." Herbert Barnett, director of the Art School at the Worcester Museum, will return again to offer advanced courses in Landscape and Life in Oils. These offerings will be supplemented by courses in Applied Art, Art Appreciation and Freehand Drawing conducted by Professor Colburn and Mrs. Mills of the Art Department of U. V. M.

These bulletins will be mailed to people who have formerly studied art at U. V. M. and others who may be interested. According to Professor Colburn a copy was "rushed by airplane yesterday noon to President Mills at Hotel Biltmore, New York City, in the hope or belief that he might like to have it even on an important business trip."

In the office of Professor Colburn there was evidence of the fact that a rushing business in posters of community and campus interest is still going on. Posters for the production of "The Contrast" at the First Church Parish House, the May Day Breakfast at the College Street Church and the Banquet of the State Education Society are nearing completion and will soon be ready for distribution.



Art students are aiding national relations with the Latin American countries by bringing vividly to life the costumes, scenery and national life of our Southern neighbors in a series of small paintings and one large mural.

W. A. A. Notes

The program of spring sports will begin April 20. The girls are asked to meet at Southwick for the first meeting fully dressed to play. The clubs are also beginning at this time, and all girls interested are asked to come ready for action. The managers for the different sports are: Tennis, Theresa Colerre '43, golf, Ginny Mitchell '43, softball, Dot Thornton '44; and assistant manager, Julia Fletcher '44.

Sylvia Runnals '44 and Natalie Spear '43 returned Sunday from the W. A. A. Convention at Wellesley College. Colleges from all over the country were represented, and a very interesting program was presented by the Wellesley hostesses.

Tuesday night April 14, the new Council of W. A. A. will hold its first meeting at Southwick at 7.30. All members are asked to be present as it is going to be very important.

Dr. Bertha E. Stokes, Tulane University graduate, is the first woman county health officer in the history of Alabama.

French Club Elects Officers For Next Year

The French club held a meeting Wednesday night at Southwick with Marge Bryant acting as retiring president. The meeting was opened by Marge Bryant, after which the minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary.

The members then elected officers for the coming year, with the following results: President, Patricia Lowe; vice-president, Barbara Hall; secretary, Elaine Olmg; treasurer, Louise Bianchi; and program chairman, Gertrude Sherman.

After the election of officers, Barbara Hall read about the characteristics of Ravel's music, whose records were then played by Anne Wills after which the group discussed the qualities and beauty of the music. This meeting was the last to be held by the club this year.

Burlington Security Fund Drive Reaches Set Goal

Chittenden County to Contribute $100,000

With a goal set at $75,000 for Burlington and Chittenden County, $79,762 was reported last Monday night when the home campaign officials came together. Since then, more than $1,000 has been turned in and extra pledge cards still remain in the hands of individual workers.

Almost 400 were in attendance at the closing meeting which was the third in a series of meetings held in the new Waterman Building, probably more spirit was cast in the air at U. V. M. than at other scenes of meetings in our history. The student faculty rally attended by approximately 1,500 started the kick off of the campaign. Thus far personal gifts of students, student organizations and from the home support drive have produced $2,837. In the same period of time faculty and staff gifts have reached $19,465 a total to date of $22,301. Several gifts are yet unseen to be cut among both faculty and students. From conversation in the minds of student leaders, that a total of nearly $5,000 will come from the student body and will be exclusive of $20,000 from the faculty so that a total of at least $25,000 will result from the campus campaign.

Burlington and Chittenden County, although they did not quite reach their goal, were almost $1,000 less than $80,000 which means that the extra work in the University will have given approximately $1,000 toward the $100,000 goal.

Going a little more deeply into the [illegible] campaign in Montpelier, Mr. Harris Mellett is serving as Publicity [illegible] of the Montpelier Association and Mr. Benjamin Page is serving as General Chairman of the solicitation committee. Janet Hackwell '43 and Edith Jacobson

A.A.U.W. Reception For Senior Women

Prof. Ruth J. Dean Addresses Group

The senior women of the University of Vermont were the guests at the annual meeting and reception of the American Association of University Women, held for them at Southwick Wednesday evening. After the reception for senior women, Prof. Ruth J. Dean of Mt. Holyoke, president of the Connecticut Valley A. A. U. W., spoke.

The A. A. U. W. is a national organization of women graduates of accredited colleges holding acceptable bachelor's degrees. The annual meeting of each local group is held about this time of year, when seniors are received and told of the work of this association.

They are invited to join the A. A. U. W. in the locality in which they plan to live.

The local chapter of A. A. U. W. has recently celebrated its twenty-first birthday in connection with groups in the other parts of the state which at the time of organizing were also a part of the large State group.

Mrs. H. W. Abrahams is president of the Burlington association. Other officers are: Ahlene Nerse, vice-president; Elizabeth Aiken, corresponding secretary; Dorothy Dalgliesh, recording secretary; Esther Morgan, treasurer; and Mrs. Jean Gilman, county assessor at large.

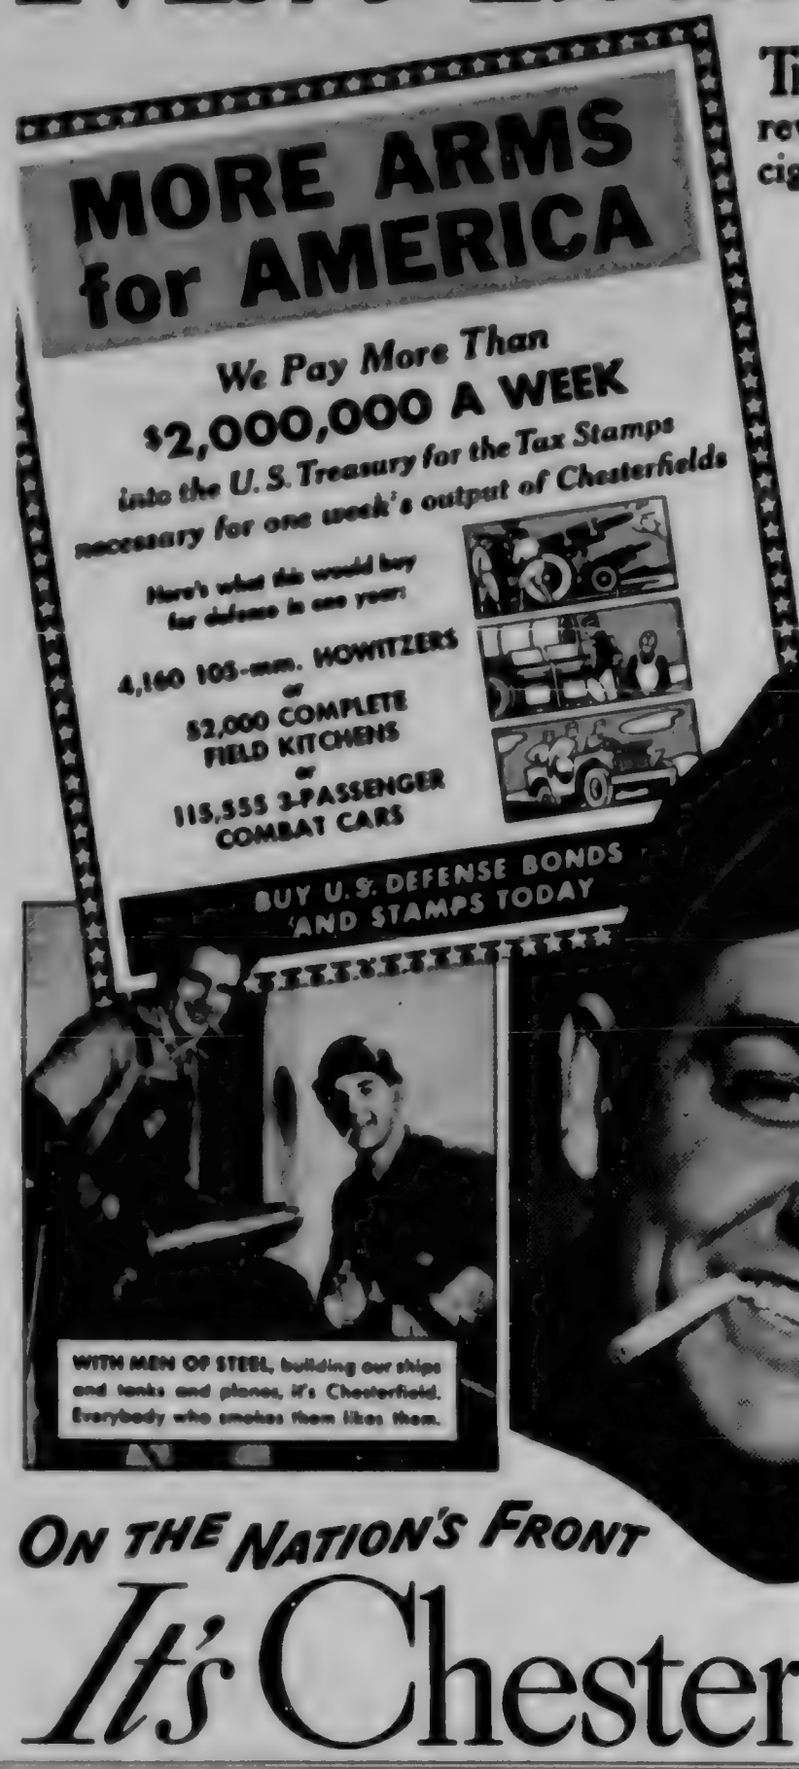
and Art." Herbert Barnett, director of the Art School at the Worcester Museum, will return again to offer advanced courses in Landscape and Life in Oils. These offerings will be supplemented by courses in Applied Art, Art Appreciation and Freehand Drawing conducted by Professor Colburn and Mrs. Mills of the Art Department of U. V. M.

These bulletins will be mailed to people who have formerly studied art at U. V. M. and others who may be interested. According to Professor Colburn a copy was "rushed by airplane yesterday noon to President Mills at Hotel Biltmore, New York City, in the hope or belief that he might like to have it even on an important business trip."

In the office of Professor Colburn there was evidence of the fact that a rushing business in posters of community and campus interest is still going on. Posters for the production of "The Contrast" at the First Church Parish House, the May Day Breakfast at the College Street Church and the Banquet of the State Education Society are nearing completion and will soon be ready for distribution.



Art students are aiding natural relations with the Latin American countries by bringing vividly to life the costumes, scenery and natural life of our Southern neighbors in a series of small paintings and one large mural.

W. A. A. Notes

The program of spring sports will begin April 20. The girls are asked to meet at Southwick for the first meeting fully dressed to play. The clubs are also beginning at this time, and all girls interested are asked to come ready for action. The managers for the different sports are: Tennis, Theresa Coderre '43; golf, Ginny Mitchell '43, softball, Dot Thornton '44; and assistant manager, Julia Fletcher '44.

Sylvia Runnals '44 and Natalie Spear '43 returned Sunday from the W. A. A. Convention at Wellesley College. Colleges from all over the country were represented, and a very interesting program was presented by the Wellesley hostesses.

Tuesday night, April 14, the new Council of W. A. A. will hold its first meeting at Southwick at 7.30. All members are asked to be present as it is going to be very important.

Dr. Bertha E. Stokes, Tulane University graduate, is the first woman county health officer in the history of Alabama.

French Club Elects Officers For Next Year

The French Club held a meeting Wednesday night, at Southwick, with Margo Benoit acting as retiring presi dent. The meeting was opened by Margo Benoit, after which the minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary.

The members then elected officers for the coming year, with the following results: President, Patricia Fowell; vice president, Barbara Hall; secretary, Elaine Oling; treasurer, Louise Bianchi; and program chairman, Gertrude Sherman.

After the election of officers, Barbara Hall read about the characteristics of Ravel's music, whose records were then played by Anne Wills, after which the group discussed the qualities and beauty of the music. This meeting was the last to be held by the club this year.

Burlington Security Fund Drive Reaches Set Goal

Chittenden County to Contribute $100,000

With a goal set of $75,000 for Burlington and Chittenden County, $79,762, was reported last Monday night when the home campaign officially came to a close. Since then, more than $1,000 has been turned in, and extra pledge cards still remain in the hands of individual workers.

Almost 400 were in attendance at the closing meeting which was the third in a series of meetings held in the new Waterman Building—probably more significant in the life of U. V. M. than any other series of meetings in our history. The student-faculty rally attended by approximately 1,200 started the kick off of the campaign. Thus far personal gifts of students, student organizations and from the bean supper itself have produced $3,836. In the same period of time, faculty and staff gifts have reached $19,467—total to date of $23,304. Several gifts are yet known to be out, among both faculty and students. There is no question in the minds of student leaders, that a total of nearly $5,000 will come from the student body and well in excess of $20,000 from the faculty so that a total of at least $25,000 will result from the campus campaign.

Burlington and Chittenden County anticipate that a total of gifts will amount to not less than $85,000, which means that the home town of the University will have given approximately $110,000 toward the $400,000 goal.

Other rallies have already been held to date, including one in Montpelier, where Mr. Harris Metcalf is serving as President of the Alumni Association and Mr. Raymond Briggs is serving as General Chairman of the solicitation committee. Janet Hackwell '43 and Fulvio Bardos...

A.A.U.W. Reception For Senior Women

Prof. Ruth J. Dean Addresses Group

The senior women of the University of Vermont were the guests at the annual meeting and reception of the American Association of University Women, held for them at Southwick Wednesday evening. After the reception for senior women, Prof. Ruth J. Dean of Mt. Holyoke, president of the Connecticut Valley A. A. U. W., spoke.

The A. A. U. W. is a national organization of women graduates of accredited colleges holding acceptable bachelors degrees. The annual meeting of each local group is held about this time of year, when seniors are received and told of the work of this association.

They are invited to join the A. A. U. W. in the locality in which they plan to live.

The local chapter of A. A. U. W. has recently celebrated its twenty-first birthday in connection with groups in six other parts of the state, which at the time of founding were all a part of one large State group.

Mrs. H. W. Abraham is president of the Burlington association. Other officers are: Ailene Norse, vice-president; Elizabeth Atkins, corresponding secretary; Dorothy Dickenson, recording secreary; Louise Morgan, treasurer; and Mrs. Rex Collier, council member at large.

Farewell on Honors Day

For a time we contemplated discontinuing this column for the rest of the year but never could we find the proper moment to do so. Only today we believe that the moment has finally arrived at which we can give you our last message of the semester and grant ourselves a deserved as it seems to us rest.

For what hour could be better chosen to contemplate our ideas than the hour of this Honors Day when the old, spent and worn of fighting, leading, and serving turn out and when the young enter with new vigor and renewed confidence. To-day we can say farewell, we who have come to carry the burden with the outgoing officers and give to the incoming members the controls with an open road leading toward success or failure.

That is the significance of this Honors Day—the newly honored stand at the crossroads the road open for pointing towards success and failure. Realize then that honors are not given to you in appreciation of your past abilities alone; honors are conveyed upon you because of the services which, it is thought, you may be capable of rendering to the University and the student body. Honors Day does not mean therefore, the final crowning of your past records, but it makes you from this day on the first servant of college and students. Your work, your responsibilities begin today when the leadership of the school falls into your hands.

There are many who believe that in times like these our actions, our thoughts our thinking and our ideas do not amount to much when the world is engaged in a struggle which will determine the course of history for many years to come. However, we should have realized already that our thoughts are the thoughts of the nation, our activities the activities of America, our prejudices the prejudices of the country. If we at this University do not uphold democracy and equality while our fellow-friends are fighting for them abroad, then the nation as a whole will not uphold them either. There is no evasion possible. We are all a part of the whole; a link as important as any other one in the chain of 140,000,000 Americans. If our link is weak the whole chain is no stronger.

In our democratic society we are all too apt to forget that to achieve results we need leadership. Very seldom leadership is established spontaneously—of the prophets there are only few. The great mass of people cannot steer itself towards goals; the people need leaders. In our society the leaders present and represent the will of the nation. While the people might realize the needs, the leaders have to prepare the way for the elimination of the deficiency. You, elected into one of the many honoraries on this campus have to take this spiritual, social, and educational leadership. Only then you might succeed.

This is no pep talk. This last column only tries to point out the tasks of the new leaders whose predecessors have so often failed in years past. We realize that the work is hard and that the road is thorny, but noblesse oblige. With a faculty willing to cooperate, with a student government willing and eager to do a good job, success should outbalance failure. Where there is a will there is also a way, but the will must be there.

Farewell then, friends, we might see you on a future date. Our deed is wrought. You are to carry on.

A final suggestion? A final word of hope and encouragement to the tired, led astray, and disappointed member of mankind? Yes, Tennyson said, "It's not too late to seek a newer world." It is never too late to begin building up anew.

Osler Dance Successful

A very successful dance was held by the student members of the Osler Society, honorary Medical Society, Saturday evening, April 18 from 8.30 until 12.00. The price for the affair was only twenty-five cents per couple and the entire proceeds were turned over for the Security Drive.

ATTENTION SENIORS OF THE COLLEGES OF ARTS & SCIENCES, AGRICULTURE & ENGINEERING

According to custom the Caps and Gowns will be worn by seniors on Founders' Day regardless of the fact that classes will be held.

The University Store besides having a rental service on this equipment has a special free service of altering the gowns if they are rented sufficiently early to allow enough time for this. To make an attractive showing all the gowns should be hung the same length from the ground. The University Store is allowing fourteen inches from the floor as a satisfactory length for both men and girls. This alteration service also includes pressing.

The rental charge is $2.00 for the cap and gown, and 25c for the stiff white collar worn by the girls. A separate gown rents for $1.50, a separate cap for 75c.

Refunds are made to all students returning their rented caps and gowns on Commencement Monday. These refunds are 50c for the set, 25c for either cap or gown, and 10c for a collar. This cuts the rental cost to a student by 25 per cent and is well worth the saving.

This year with the confused dates for Commencement and the rising cost of paper it has seemed advisable to use announcements only. These will be on sale at the University Store for 9c each or 12 for $1.00. Tickets for reserved seats will be given out to accompany the announcement and will take the place of an invitation. Each student will be allowed five of these tickets which will be furnished free of charge.

Wanted, Old Uniforms

The priority rating on wool has created a major military problem at the University of Vermont.

Col. G. F. N. Dailey, head of the Military Department, is asking that all R. O. T. C. woolen uniforms be turned in right away. All top grade woolens are first priority for our armed forces and it will not only be difficult for the R. O. T. C. to buy uniforms, but they will have to wait for their manufacture on a priority basis.

Further consideration is the fact that the cost per student may be sharply increased, while the quality won't be what it used to be. This problem can be partially solved by calling in all R. O. T. C. uniforms which are now decorating the clothes-presses of U. V. M. alumni. Condition makes no difference—moth eaten or all there—they all can be used.

Cooperation means helping in the civilian drive for salvaging wool and also those uniforms will be doing the University's battalion of officers in training for this year more good than it will the blanket manufacturers who can get new wool, anyway.

Cadet Major R. L. Carlson '42 was the first student to present his uniform to the Military Department, just prior to his leaving on the southern baseball trip.

Men's Rifle Team

The rifle team's latest honors were a first and a second place in the annual National R. O. T. C. competition for the William Randolph Hearst trophies in the First Corps area.

With a score of 928 out of a possible 1000, Vermont's team, composed of sophomores and upperclassmen, took first place for the third time. Members of Team 1 and their individual scores are as follows: L. A. Weaver '43, 191; H. E. Crossley '44, 185; J. H. Pratt '42, 190; G. J. Holden '44, 176; and F. W. Miller '44, 186, making a team total of 928.

The freshman team took second place, beating the upperclass team of M. I. T. by three points. Team 2 was made up of W. C. Chapin '45, 179; G. I. Sillman '45, 188; R. R. Smith '45, 180; W. R. Jacobs '45, 188, and F. C. Webster '45, 174, for a team total of 909.

Our closest rival, at least closest as far as mileage is concerned, Norwich, ended up in ninth and sixteenth place. Our boys certainly showed their worth in this match as well as in others when they have brought home first and second places.

In the individual scoring the boys did all right for themselves, getting four men placed among the first ten scorers. L. A. Weaver '43, 191, U. V. M., from Starksboro, was the high individual scorer with 191 points out of a possible 200. The next seven high scorers are as follows: L. A. Weaver '43, U. V. M., 191; [illegible]tt, University of Maine, 190; [illegible] Harken, M. I. T., 189; G. S. Dun[illegible] M. I. T., 188; G. I. Sillman '45, 188; W. R. Jacobs '45, U. V. M., 188, and D. P. Six Bouldermen Participated In Every Activity On This Campus

As we usher in a new group of [illegible] to be next year's Boulder Society and take leave of the group which has actually served the Student Body of the school during this year. In addition to having at all times lent a helping hand whenever needed, Boulder's achievements this year include the organization, in collaboration with Mortar Board, of a student constitution for student government, which is already successfully functioning, and very successful social affairs sponsored by Boulder. All this work has been done by six seniors, all of whom have many other important activities and positions on the campus. Five of the six are native Vermonters, all are fraternity members, five different fraternities being represented, four were Gold Key members, all were Key and Serpent, all have participated in Inter-fraternity Athletics and at least one or two major sports, three are in advanced military, four have been on Dean's List, and among them there are two Secondary Education students, an Aggie, a Pre-Medical student, now in freshman medicine, and one each in Social Science and Elementary Education curriculum.

Clarence V. Akley of Lyndonville, known as "Big Ake" about the campus, is a Secondary Education and has had a finger in every pie on the hill for the last four years, taking a leading position in most cases. He is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity, has been president of both Gold Key and Key and Serpent, has been participant in football, baseball, track, basketball, and Interfraternity Council and the I. R. C. He was editor of the Football Program and Class President in his Junior year. Finally, he maintained Dean's List marks for two years, and his military honors include Corporal, Sergeant, Fraternity Drill Squad, and Advanced Military.

Robert L. Carlson of Ryegate is enrolled in the Agricultural College where he has been both a leader and an outstanding student for the past four years. A member of Delta Psi, Bob has been a member of Alpha Zeta, the Faculty-Student Council, Key and Serpent, Gold Key, and the Future Farmers of America; has played baseball and Interfraternity athletics. Bob tops all this off with Dean's List marks for two years, and membership in the Advanced Military course.

Roger B. Hunting of Springfield is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon and is a Social Science student. "Rog" had the distinction of being named to the "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges." He was a member of Key and Serpent, University Players, assistant basketball manager, took part in Interfraternity Athletics, was on the John Dewey Club and the Dean's List. He has been class treasurer and a member of the Interfraternity Council. His interest in dramatics has had him in the Fall Play, Mid-Week Play, Group Plays, and the University Players. Rog's literary efforts include member of the Publications Board, CYNIC columnist, and Ariel photographer.

James D. Sawyer of St. Albans is now a first freshman year of medicine, having completed his pre-med. requirements in three years, and is a member of Sigma Nu. He was a member of Key and Serpent and his athletic activities include football, basketball, Interfraternity Athletics, and Intramural Athletics. He was the men's editor of the Ariel, class president, was on the Dean's List, and was a Corporal. Membership on the Faculty-Student Council, the Interfraternity Council, the C. A. A., the I. R. C., the Outing Club Council, the Newman Club, and the Pre-medical Society all bear witness to the many and varied interests of Jim in campus life.

John J. Spasyk of Pittsfield, Mass., is a Secondary Education student, and member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity, and the only out-of-stater on Boulder this year. Very well liked, Johnny has been on Gold Key, Key and Serpent, the Faculty-Student Council, Newman Club, Outing Club, and helped with his Sophomore Hop. He has played football, baseball, and basketball, and has taken part in Interfraternity Athletics and Intramural Athletics. In the military department, Johnny has membership in Champlain Sabers, work on the Military Ball, the positions of first Corporal and then Sergeant, and Advanced Military to his credit.

Hazen F. Wood comes from Randolph to study Elementary Education and is a member of Delta Psi. He was vice-president of Gold Key and a member of Key and Serpent and Kappa Phi Kappa. He played baseball, of which he was captain, basketball, and participated in Interfraternity Athletics. He was Ariel circulation manager, a member of Interfraternity Council, I. R. C., Outing Club, and worked for the Sophomore Hop and the Football Hop. Community Interfraternity Sing, Sergeant, Fraternity Drill Squad, Advanced Military, and Expert Rifleman complete the list of his honors and activities.

U. V. M. to Be Host to Engineers' Convention

The tenth annual Convention of Mechanical Engineers of New England Students will take place on April 24-25, at Burlington. The University of Vermont is sponsoring the convention which will be held in the Waterman Building. Approximately sixty delegates from the University of Maine, Yale, Cornell, R. P. I., Northeastern, New Hampshire, Brown, Connecticut, Worcester Polytechnic and Tufts College will attend the meetings. At the business sessions of Friday and Saturday, representatives of each university will deliver technical papers in competition for awards to be given at the banquet on Saturday.

Inspection tours of the University laboratories and buildings are being planned and a social program will also take place on Friday night.

Ray Kallman, Pat Moore and Don Sheldon are co-chairmen of the convention and will be assisted by Prof. A. D Butterfield, honorary chairman.

Five of Louisiana State University's correspondence students are getting their questions and grades by foreign mail

New Members In Key And Serpent

Next Year's Juniors Excel in Leadership

BART BARRY, Methuen, Mass.: Bart is a two sport man starring at end as a member of the varsity football team and a consistent placer in the hurdles, dashes, and broad jump on the track team. A tall quiet lad Bartholomew maintains a high scholastic average

TOM T. KEIGHLEY, Burlington, Vt.: A great big strapping boy, Tom is particularly suited to his spot as top trumpet man and leader of the Catamount orchestra, one of New England's best college bands. After the present war crisis T. J., a Pre-Med. student, plans to return his home city, Burlington and set out his shingle for medical practice.

LAWRENCE F. KILLICK, Burlington, Vt.: Better known to his friends as L. F. or Findley, young Killick has been a standout thus far in his college career as a member of the varsity basketball team, CYNIC news editor, Gold Key man and member of the religious life committee of Student Government. Larry is also on the varsity baseball team where he is well known for his "power" hitting.

ROBERT S. OTIS, Burlington, Vt.: Best known for his ability in the boxing ring Bobbie has had to forsake his beloved pursuit for less strenous because of a prolonged nervous condition. Sam is an excellent student and an intellectual leader.

FRANKLIN PIERCE, Montpelier, Vt Bud has been a leader in his very quiet, unassuming way as a member of Gold Key and the ski team.

JOHN W. REED, Oakfield, N. Y.: Johnny excels in football and track, is a hard worker in his studies and is earning his way through the University.

ROBERT F. WHITE, Needham, Mass.: Robbie is a prominent cog in all the various campus activities in which he takes part. Bob worked a great deal on the 1943 Ariel and is a leader in the Gold Key Society. Swashbuckling Robert astounds college observers by his great collection of clothes.

Twenty-six states and the District of Columbia are represented in the student body of Texas Christian University.

R.O.T.C. Returns From State Tour

The band of the R. O. T. C returned Wednesday afternoon after a three-day concert tour about the State just in time to make their three o'clock classes. The boys had some good tales to tell, especially about the band leader, Joe Lechnyr

Heath K. Riggs, head of the office of admissions arranged the trip in collaboration with the principles of the various high schools at which the band performed These included Rutland High, Springfield High, Hartford High, Bellows Free Academy, and Spaulding High. The boys weathered Monday evening in Bellows Falls after playing in the afternoon to a large audience in the Rutland High School auditorium, and another concert at Springfield. Tuesday morning saw concerts at the Veterans' Hospital in White River and Tuesday afternoon, another at Hartford High. Tuesday evening, the band traveled to Barre where they spent a quiet evening in preparation for their last concert on Wednesday morning before a capacity audience of 800 at Spaulding High in Barre. The band arrived home at two-fifteen with Carmichael, the gold fish presented to Joe by the boys, exceedingly tired from lack of sleep and a very rough passage

By Bill Rodger

The good merchants of Burlington added some material interest to the Southern trip statistics last week, distributing practical gifts among the players for outstanding achievements [illegible]. The entrepreneurs [illegible] members of the squad, [illegible] captains of Russ West and [illegible] whose field accomplishments were deemed insufficiently [illegible]. Before going further, we [illegible] to nominate West as "[illegible] social asset" and suggest [illegible] patent leather pumps for [illegible]. Benoit was the heaviest [illegible] and we mean off the field, [illegible].

* * * * *

Probably the award most appreciated was Al Shaw's. The wild [illegible] got a diner meal ticket. Shaw [illegible] his ferocious best at the table, [illegible] his speed and endurance records at every campus hash house. [illegible] but, Al once ate eleven sizable [illegible] at a sitting, but that's an offer [illegible] to be repeated. "No sir," [illegible] vows, "I'll never leave the table [illegible] again."

* * * * *

Favoritism reared its apple-shaped [illegible] in one case. L. P. Wood's [illegible] went to Hazen Wood. But the [illegible] baseman can thumb his nose [illegible] times, for he did hit the most [illegible].

* * * * *

Joe Corbett, who drew the most [illegible] passes, should have walked off [illegible] the Flynn Theatre award. But [illegible] prize for bases on balls was a new [illegible] with which Joe will have to [illegible] himself. Clarence Akley and [illegible] Alberghini captured the movie [illegible]. Ake won for striking out [illegible] most batters, while Lefty was [illegible] "hardest worker." Our [illegible]ish mind insists on attaching a [illegible] connotation to this last, but [illegible] probably sneering up the [illegible] sleeve. For the donators [illegible] work confined strictly to [illegible] diamond.

Shaw points with scorn at Joe [illegible]argolis, who won a bat from [illegible]gini's Tire and Battery Co., for [illegible] batting." True enough, the [illegible]'s winning percentage of .267 [illegible] by Al's mighty .500. But [illegible] pitcher, who now prefers to be [illegible] as "Al the Kid," took his [illegible] twice.

Bob Carlson's prize should have [illegible] horseshoe. Bob's pitching [illegible] against Villanova was [illegible] ops. That was the game, [illegible], in which a Villanova [illegible] hurler spun a no-hitter [illegible]. Second Base New Vacancy

Spasyk's Loss Leaves Keystone Post Open

By Phil Robinson

This damp weather may be a boon to some parties, but as far as spring sports coaches are concerned, it's just another big headache, and Coach Larry Gardner is no exception.

Providing the Weatherman had put the damper on the precipitation, Gardner had slated outdoor drill for his baseballers, but up until Thursday, the broad expanses of Centennial presented nothing but a fairly sizable pond, sufficient for a crew race.

The big question right now, outside of the weather, is filling in the gap around the hot corner. The Army's untimely calling of Vermont's veteran second sackman, Johnny Spasyk, to the colors, leaves a big hole in the infield.

If Larry Killick, the sophomore court ace, decides to climb into his uniform and turn out for some more sessions with the bat and ball, it is very probable that Gardner will give the former Burlington High diamondman a chance around second base. Killick handled a lot of ball for the Blue and White during his matriculation and seems the logical candidate for the position.

Should Killick decide to skip the idea of baseball this spring, Gardner will be undoubtedly forced to move Little Joe Corbett in from his spot in the garden.

By virtue of Joe Margolis' snappy showing on the Southern jaunt, Gardner has him tabbed as a sure starter behind the plate.

Otherwise the picture looks pretty rosy. From all advance predictions, St Michael's won't have too much this spring. Steve Guter has left the halls of the Mikemen, and the pitching department is no class A affair. What the power of the bat will be on the hilltop is yet to be tested.

Meanwhile from the south, Middlebury doesn't look too bad. Van Gaasbeck seems to be the only veteran ball handler that the Panthers miss; even an unnamed moundsman of a couple seasons back is finishing up his senior year and simultaneously boosting the potentialities along those lines.

With a few reflections about the rain and what-have-you, Larry was still in the mood to talk about the successful Southern trip. "As a matter of fact," said Larry, "it's the finest trip I can remember taking in the fourteen years I've been here."

Gardner was disposed to point especially at the Villanova "no hit" affair in speaking of the Dixieland swing. "The boys were really playing heads up ball and taking advantage of the breaks.

"But more than just playing ball, the lads got a lot out of the trip, made some friends at the various colleges, and found out how other schools treat various problems."

Next spring's tentative Southern journey is all scheduled according to Gardner, and includes the same clubs that the Cats met this year with the possible additions of Maryland and Penn State.

Fete Spasyk, Rice At Farewell Dinner

Friends of Johnny Spasyk and Monty Rice honored the departing athletes with a testimonial dinner Friday at the Ethan Allen Club. About 100 attended.

Members of the coaching staff and teammates made farewell speeches and presented the pair with gifts. The dinner was under the direction of Joe Corbett, student body president and baseball manager Fred Logan.

Spasyk left Saturday to enter the Army as a second lieutenant. Rice is scheduled to depart for the Marine Corps officers' training school this week.

Frosh Prepare For First Tilt

Kittens Meet Burlington At Centennial Thursday

Freshman baseball coach Fuzzy Evans got his Kittens out for the first time over the week-end. The frosh engaged the varsity in a nine-inning practice tilt after Saturday's varsity track meet.

The yearlings showed to good advantage against the South-seasoned varsity nine. Playing in the open air for the first time, they were somewhat stiff, but revealed strong potentialities.

The Kittens face Burlington High this week in their first regularly scheduled test. The Sea Horses, also untried, are expected to furnish keen competition, owning several capable pitchers.

Evans plans to use Gordon (Mickey) Cochrane, righthanded fast baller, as his starting pitcher against Burlington. Ray Combs, a lefthander, and Bud Barrows and Bill Chapin will be on call for relief duty.

Probable infield starters are Norm Beaulieu at first base, Billy Mahar at second, Chick LaPointe at short, and Dick Doulton at third. Leading flychasers include Norm O'Grady, Bill Fagan, Vinnie Welch, Bud Lippman and Newtie Goldman.

The game with Burlington is scheduled for Thursday afternoon at Centennial Field.

Equipment Manager Leaves for Army

The department of physical education received its second wartime blow in as many weeks when Lyman C. Cota, equipment manager and field supervisor, left his post to enter the service in the armed forces. Cota, better known to U. V. M. as "Shorty," proved to be an amiable favorite with both faculty and student members.

It was but a short while ago that Roy Wietz, football line coach and freshman grid tutor resigned his duties to take a position at Western Reserve University.

According to Dr. Howard A. Prentice, director of physical education, the department tasks will be shouldered by the present staff for the remainder of the school year.

Catamount Track Captain Speeds behind Wheel, Too

Mott, Like Cunningham, Suffered Less Injuries

By Rudy Kempter

The name Elias Bertram Mott, Jr. might be taken for that of a future Phi Beta Kappa man rather than a Glenn Cunningham. Lucky Peter combination all in one.

The outstanding track ability of the staunch-legged track captain from Morristown, N. J. is already widely realized in college circles. Perhaps it is not as well known that Bert, just as the incredible Cunningham, had difficulty with his great pair of legs when but a youngster. During his Elias Bertram days at Morristown (N. J.) High School, Mott played baseball but there were no facilities for track events.

It so happened that the high school principal was Ralph Perry, '98, who recommended that Bert try the University of Vermont.

Mott is famous for his automobile antics and maneuvers. He once slid for no less than 50 feet on the top of an inverted buggy, escaping with a gash on the forehead. Fortunately the court pronounced that it was "the other guy's fault." Originally our Lucky Peter had desired to become a lawyer, but he is now enrolled in the Advance Military course. He has a brother enrolled as a freshman at Stevens Tech in Hoboken, N. J.

"I get my running practice when I try to make 7:30 Military on time," said Mott. His philosophy of life seems to be that of taking things as they come with no apparent worries or cares. For spare time occupations, track workouts take first place with sleeping and movies being the other favorites. However, Bert is well taken up with local business and his Key and Serpent activities.

Mott's treasured running performances are his 2:06 record triumph over Ed Dugger the Tufts ace at the I. C. A. meet in Boston and the slashing of the state record for the high hurdles against Middlebury College last year. His swift footed junior attributes his success to the splendid pointers of Coach Archie Post and constant practice work. Bert has participated in the heptathlon for two years but admits his inability to climb the rope in spite of summer labor on a road gang.

When the C. P. T. course came about, Mott acquired a private license but he believes his greatest flop came when he attempted to fly around the cross country course last fall. His light blue Ford sedan is a familiar sight to all but even more so to the speed cop on Riverside Drive (N. Y. C.), whom Bert outraces every time en route home to the "Sharpbacks" state.

Next week the Cat undermen will run up against Union College of Schenectady, N. Y., on Centennial Field. Mott will enter the two hurdles, 220 yard run and the high jumping events.

3 Frat Teams Win in Softball

Phi Delta Theta, Delta Psi and Sigma Nu emerged victorious in last week's first round interfraternity softball games. The Phi Delts whipped Lambda Iota, 12 to 7, the Delts routed Kappa Sigma, 9 to 3, and Sigma Nu blanked Sigma Phi, 7 to 0.

Fred Logan showed a fine change of pace in hurling the Phi Delts to victory. Pitching was a big factor in the Delt win, too, Gene Hamilton holding the Kappa Sigs at bay after the first inning.

Inning scores:

Owls	1	1	2	0	3	— 7
Phi Delts	4	3	1	4	x	— 12
Kappa Sigs	3	0	0	0	0	— 3
Delts	0	7	2	0	x	— 9
Sigma Nu	0	2	2	3	0	— 7

Netmen Open In Connecticut

Face Huskies, Trinity— One Match Cancelled

A couple of weeks back Coach Carpenter would have answered any inquiries as to the calibre of his 42 tennis squad with a very low but definite, "losses."

The picture was a little different today however, and carpenter even went so far as to hint that the club might emerge victorious in a couple skirmishes.

The racquetmen shove off on their annual march through the southern part of New England next week. The only colleges that will feel the Catamounts' fire will be Connecticut State and Trinity. Vermont set back Connecticut State last spring, 8-1 and also racked up a win over Trinity here on their own stamping grounds. Formerly Massachusetts State was on the schedule, but due to the war, it has cancelled all spring sports.

Trinity doesn't appear to be too strong according to Carpenter. A goodly share of their best men have left school via defense work and graduation.

But from that standpoint the Cats aren't exactly the cream of the crop. Capt. Sam Lott seems to be about the only veteran in the setup and is slated to step in as number one man.

Vin Mangones has cashed in profitably with a driving game, and along with Bill Wicker and Tom Keighley, looks like one of super bets for the Southern journey.

The toss up comes among Bob Norton, Dick Swett, Bill West, Cleve Denton and Warner Black, all with some freshman or varsity experience, but pretty much an unknown quantity when it comes to tourney play.

Sparn Lott appears to be about the only sure ticket. He has seen plenty of hard play in Montpelier Basin Harbor, and Thompson Point matches aside from his four year tenure at Vermont.

A 12,000 volume library including many [illegible] in German, poetry, philosophy and literature has been bequeathed to the [illegible] by Dr. Rosenberg, by the late [illegible].

Mary Perry from Barre, alias Redstone's "Cheerful Cherub", is inevitably the object of everyone's practical joking. It's so much fun to see her fuse and [illegible] Versatile, too, she can turn from waitressing to Cynic work in a minute.

SYLVIA MABIE RUNNALS. Alpha Chi [illegible] Cynic Reporter; Student Union, Second Vice-President; W. A. A., vice-president, manager of basketball, manager of [illegible] A. party; House Committee.

Sylvia's high ideals call forth respect from all. Everybody's pal, she's crazy about basketball, softball, and badminton—in fact, everything athletic, and she's a good sport, not only in athletics, but in everything. She certainly has made the most of every opportunity in college. Never phased by the pranks of her comrades, Sylvia is a well-known figure on the Redstone campus.

Modest and unassuming, Justine is a friend to everyone. Much of her charm is due to her "unspoiledness." . . . She is always conscientious, even in the hardest "under-cover" job. A native of Burlington, she has refused to confine herself to home activities, but numbers among her friends, people from every group on campus.

Phyllis McGovern '40 announced her engagement to Richard Soule of St. Albans and Ruth Carlson '43 has also announced her engagement to Richard Dean of Annapolis. Both girls passed chocolates at the meeting last Monday night.

The Thetas entertained at an open house for other sororities on Saturday, April 11.

On April 1st a party was given for Bill Potter '42 and John Spasyk '42.

Security Fund

'42 represented the students at the Montpelier rally on a program which had as speakers Governor Willis, President Mallie Hon. Fred Halland, and Judge Dean Davis. Also present from the Vermont Student Body were Sylvia Runnals, Joanna Metcalf, Mary E. Metcalf, Mary Perry, and Fern Mager.

On Wednesday evening a rally was held in New York City with Merton Robbins serving as President of the N. Y. Alumni Association, Fred Wright as toastmaster for the dinner, James R. Jennings and David Mullen, chairmen of the men's solicitation committee and Miss Marjorie McIntire, and Miss Eleanor Koenig as chairmen of the women's solicitation committee. Mr. Arthur Kehoe, trustee of the University, is general chairman of the New York campaign and Mr. George Ellis who helped in the spring reorganization of U. V. M. is chairman of special gifts.

In Rutland a third area kick-off was held in the interest of the University by the Alumni Club of that county, headed by Walter Belding who is also regional chairman for the Security Fund in Southern Vermont.

The Montpelier rally was attended by the U. V. M. R. O. T. C. Band directed by Joseph Lechnyr. Also present were six members of Professor Millikan's quartet. Due to difficulties of transportation, the band will not be able to attend other security fund rallies but will take a three-day trip in the interests of the University. Plans are being made to have the quartet present at each of the rallies scheduled between now and commencement. Thus far this list includes:

Montpelier, Vt.—April 7.
New York City—April 8.
Rutland, Vt.—April 13.
Boston, Mass.—April 16.
Springfield, Vt.—April 23.
Brattleboro, Vt.—April 27.
Bennington, Vt.—April 28.
Springfield, Mass.—April 29
Worcester, Mass.—April 30.
Hartford, Conn.—May 6.
Washington, D. C.—May 9

As the campaign left the campus and home community of Burlington and Chittenden County, almost $115,000 was in hand toward saving the University's financial structure. With 100 percent support from alumni and friends in many rally centers already organized and to be organized, Pres. John S. Millis expressed himself as feeling greatly heartened by the program and assured that the $150,000 in cash necessary by July would be received and that there would be no letting up till every dollar of the $400,000 goal had been subscribed.

nformation On ummer Quarter eleased Finally

Students Asked to Enroll Immediately; Financial Aid Offered

It is essential that we know at this time how many students are planning to attend the Summer Quarter and what courses they will take. Following this enrollment the University can make definite plans.

1. COURSES. Students may enroll for not over two six-hour courses. Each course will meet eight times a week, giving a sixteen-hour schedule. If possible put down in addition to the two courses in which you wish to enroll a third course which you would be willing to take in case one of the first choices is not given. You may indicate a course you wish which is not offered. Other courses may be given if sufficient demand develops.

After each course is given a letter which indicates the hours at which the course is to be scheduled. Do not enroll in two courses having the same letter, except that Embryology and English do not conflict.

2. CREDIT. As stated above it will be possible to take two six-hour courses at most, earning twelve semester hours credit.

3. FINANCIAL AID. State financial aid required. This will in most cases be a duplicate of the amount already given on the questionnaire and will be checked from that. If you have not already discussed the matter of aid with an interviewer you may do so with the Dean.

4. LIVING QUARTERS. State whether you wish the University to provide living quarters or what your plans are these during the Summer Quarter will

5. In case of question regarding credit and the possibility of graduating, etc., consult the Dean.

6. TUITION. Tuition for the Summer Quarter will be $140.00 for full enrollment of twelve semester hours or for

our Engineers To oin Navy Soon

Four U. V. M. students have been cepted into the United States Naval eserve with the rank of Ensign. They re Raymond Kallman '42, James K. ncan '43 Robert S. Stockwell '43, and lwin O'Connell '43.

Kallman, who hails from Woodmere, I. N. Y., is a mechanical engineer and s been active in intramural athletics. received his frosh football letters in 9 and is also a track man. He's a mber of the Outing Club and the Civil ronautics Authority.

James Kelly Duncan, a Montpelier man, nsferred here from Wesleyan in Middletown, Conn., at the end of his freshman ar. A mechanical engineer, he plays e bass drum in the R. O. T. C. Band.

Bob Stockwell of Hartford, a civil engineer, is a member of Delta Psi Fraternity. He's been a member of the Outing Club Council, the Student-Faculty Council and the Men's Glee Club. He is a sergeant in the R. O. T. C., plays in the band and has been enrolled in the Aviation Course.

Bud O'Connell, an S. A. E. brother from West Springfield, Mass., is a mechanical engineer and a member of Sigma Delta Psi, honorary athletic fraternity. He participated in track during his freshman year and in varsity track last year. He took third place in the hexathlon and placed first in the quarter mile in indoor relay last year also. For the past three years he's been a swimming instructor at the Community Y.

World Situation Was Topic of Chapel Hour

The regular chapel services were held Wednesday morning at 10.00 in the Ira Allen Chapel. The services opened with the congregation singing "Christian Life" and reciting "Faithfulness" from the Responsive Readings. The First Psalm was read, followed by a brief talk on the present world situation, and the great importance of our post-war order, about which we must begin to plan to insure our security in the future.

The services then closed with the singing of "Praise God" by all in attendance.

Vesper Service Held By Y.W.C.A.

Students in Charge Of the Whole Program

An unusual Vesper service was held on Sunday, April 19, which was conducted by the Young Women's Christian Association. The service of symbolism was arranged and compiled by Miss Helen Abro Park, who is a former secretary of the Y. W. C. A. The service was built around the hymn, "O Love That Wilt Not Let Me Go." Janet Dike '43 and Barbara Butterfield '42 presented readings which were in keeping with the song and which presented the symbolists of Love, Light, Joy, and the Cross. The symbolic elements were represented by Ruth Jordan '45, Dorothy McCormick '42, Phyllis Savage '43 and Cathryn Grier '42.

The symbolic service was preceded by a concert given by the Chapel Choir, conducted by Prof. H. G. Bennett. Theresa Coderre '43, Robert Goss '44, Marjorie Southworth '43, and Ernest Stockwell '44 were the soloists.

On April 29 the Y. W. C. A. will again conduct a Chapel service which will be similar to those presented previously.

For the first Chapel service in May, there will be a speaker from the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. Doctor Abernathy is a secretary of the organization of Churches and will be traveling in Vermont during the first part of May. We are very fortunate in being able to obtain him for the service of May 6.

Inspection To Be Held Next Week

The annual Federal Inspection will be held at U. V. M. on Wednesday and Thursday, April 29 and 30. The Battalion review and the presentation of awards will be held on the back campus, or, in case of rain, in the cage at 4.15 p.m., April 29.

Col. Edward L. Hooper, representing the Corps Area Commander, will be the inspector.

There is to be no competitive drill or evening ceremony as has been the custom in previous years, due to the necessary curtailment. This inspection will in no way interfere with the regular classes.

The public is cordially invited to attend the Battalion review and the presentation of awards.

Wanted $758 from To reach Campus Goal

The new figures on the results of the Security Fund drive here on the campus fall just short of the anticipated total of $25,000; $20,000 from the faculty and $5,000 from the student body. The latest available figures give a total of $19,950 from the faculty and $4,292 from the students, with a grand total of $24,242, which just fails by the small sum of $758 to reach the expected total, and with many reports not yet in, the final total will probably exceed the goal.

Engineers Gather For Convention In Burlington Today

M. R. Kallman, A. C. Moore and D. M. Sheldon are Chairmen of Meeting

Members of the student branches of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers from all over New England and eastern New York will gather here at the University of Vermont this week-end for the annual convention of that organization.

Registration will be held Thursday afternoon and Friday morning for the students arriving from other colleges, and on Friday inspection trips to plants in and around Burlington as well as visits to the various college buildings will occupy the engineers.

Friday afternoon, following a luncheon for the students in the Waterman Building, Raymond Kallman of the University of Vermont will preside over the first of two sessions of the technical variety, at which papers on a myriad of engineering subjects will be presented by undergraduates of the universities represented. At this first session, the address of welcome will be given by Pres. John S. Millis of the host university, and the following men will present papers: Howard Warren, Worcester Polytechnic Institute; W. R. Stanger, Tufts College; Harold J. Jordan, University of Maine; and Henry Elksnin, Northeastern University.

Dance at Southwick

Supper will be served in the Waterman Cafeteria, following which the slide-rule experts will have themselves a ball, being the guests of the Vermont branch at the A. S. M. E. dance, to be held at Southwick, starting at 8.30 p.m.

Saturday's events will be started with the breakfast for the honorary chairmen of the various student branches in the Faculty Room of the Waterman Building, after which the engineers will again repair to Room 30 for the final technical session, presided over by A. A. Schall of Tufts College. Papers will be presented by Harvey M. Schock, Jr., Cornell University; George William, Worcester Polytechnic Institute; Walter Miller, University of Connecticut; Franklyn Gokey, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute; and Slyvin Shairman, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The afternoon will be taken up principally by the final banquet, at which prizes for the papers will be presented by Mr. George H. Hulse of New Haven, Conn., representing Pres. James W. Parker of the national society. Speeches will be made by Dean George F. Eckhard of the University of Vermont and Alton G. Chick of the Committee on Relationships with Colleges. This final meeting will be presided over by Leo G. Aust of Yale University.

Rev. E. W. Riggs Will Speak Here

"We Cannot Fail the Heroic Greeks" is to be the subject of Rev. Ernest W. Riggs, president of Anatolia College in Saloniki, Greece, when he visits Pilgrim Fellowship next Sunday night, April 26.

President Riggs, who is the father of Prof. L. A. Riggs, instructor in the Psychology Department here at U. V. M., says he left Greece just about twenty-four hours before it was occupied by the German Army and hopes to be there twenty-four hours after it is vacated by the German Army!

Let us continue the grand time we had last week with President Millis at the First Church Parish House at 7.30 p.m. Hymn singing, devotions, social hour and refreshments. See you there!

Junior Prom Committees Announced; Collins to Play

Howie Vreeland and Bill Benoit Cut Down Ticket Prices to $1.65

Jack Collins, prominent Burlington bandleader, signed yesterday to furnish the music for next week's Junior Prom, it was announced by the Junior Week co-chairmen, Howie Vreeland '43 and Bill Benoit '43.

The hiring of a local orchestra was voted at a junior class meeting, as an economy move designed to benefit both the dancegoers and the Security Fund. Ticket prices of $1.65, will be about half those of former years, when expensive, nationally-known bands were imported.

Collins' outfit is familiar to U. V. M. socialites. He has played at many college functions and house dances here. Out-of-town engagements he has fulfilled include the Dartmouth Winter Carnival and major dances at Middlebury, Norwich, Green Mountain Junior College and the Lake Placid Club.

Chaperones for the Prom, which is scheduled for the gym next Saturday, include Prof. and Mrs. W. C H. Prentice and Prof. and Mrs. R. E. Long.

The chairmen announced the following committees:

Floor—Edwin O'Connell, chairman, Janet Agnes Hackwell, Mary Germaine and Oliver Swift.

Publicity—Donald Beauchamp Nutter, chairman, Patricia Pike, Janet Dike and William Roeder.

Prom—George Little, chairman and Corinne Hollowell.

Program—Joseph Corbett, chairman and Marjorie Southworth.

Electrical—Russell Marshall, chairman, Ronald Bielli and Murray Riggs.

Refreshments—June Hoffman, chairman, Marguerite Benoit and Alice Needham.

Assistant Finance—E. Bertram Mott, chairman and Russell West.

As in other years, dress will be formal.

The chairmen, Vreeland and Benoit, are both active on campus. Vreeland, production head, is a pole vault mainstay in track and was named to Champlain Sabres this week. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon. Benoit, the financial director, is captain-elect of football and a regular outfielder on the nine. One of the co-directors of next year's Kake Walk, he belongs to Phi Delta Theta.

nformation On ummer Quarter eleased Finally

s essential that we know at this time many students are planning to attend the Summer Quarter and what course they will take. Following this announcement the University can make definite plans.

1. COURSES. Students may enroll for not over two six-hour courses. Each course will meet eight times a week, giving the extra-hour schedule. If possible put down in addition to the two courses in which you wish to enroll a third course which you would be willing to take in case one of the first choices is not given. This may indicate a course you wish which is not offered. Other courses may be given if sufficient demand develops.

After each course is given a letter which indicates the hours at which the course is to be scheduled. Do not enroll for courses having the same letter, except that Embryology and English do not conflict.

2. CREDIT. As stated above it will be possible to take two six-hour courses at most earning twelve semester hours credit.

3. FINANCIAL AID. State financial aid required. This will in most cases be a duplicate of the amount already listed on the questionnaire and will be considered that. If you have not already discussed the matter of aid with an adviser you may do so with the Dean.

4. LIVING QUARTERS. State whether you wish the University to provide living quarters or what your plans are concerning the Summer Quarter will be.

5. In case of question regarding credit or the possibility of graduating, etc., see the Dean.

6. TUITION. Tuition for the Summer Quarter will be $140.00 for full enrollment of twelve semester hours or for

our Engineers To oin Navy Soon

Four U. V. M. students have been inducted into the United States Naval Reserve with the rank of Ensign. They are Raymond Kallman '42, James K. Duncan '43, Robert S. Stockwell '43, and Thomas O'Connell '43.

Kallman, who hails from Woodmere, L. I., N. Y., is a mechanical engineer and was very active in intramural athletics. Last winter he won frosh football letters in football and is also a track man. He's a member of the Outing Club and the Civil Aeronautics Authority.

Duncan, a Montpelier man, transferred here from Wesleyan in Middletown at the end of his freshman year. A mechanical engineer, he plays trombone in the R. O. T. C. Band.

Stockwell of Hartford, a civil engineer, is a member of Delta Psi Fraternity. He has been a member of the Outing Club, the Student-Faculty Council, the Men's Glee Club. He is a sergeant in the R. O. T. C., plays in the band and has been enrolled in the engineering course.

O'Connell, an S. A. E. brother from Springfield, Mass., is a mechanical engineer and a member of Sigma Phi, honorary athletic fraternity. He participated in track during his freshman year and in varsity track last year. He took second place in the hexathlon and third in the quarter mile in indoor track this year also. For the past three years he has been a swimming instructor at the Community Y

The regular chapel services were held Wednesday morning at 10.00 in the Ira Allen Chapel. The services opened with the congregation singing "Christian Life" and reciting "Faithfulness" from the Responsive Readings. The First Psalm was read, followed by a brief talk on the present world situation, and the great importance of our post-war order, about which we must begin to plan to insure our security in the future.

The services then closed with the singing of "Praise God" by all in attendance.

Vesper Service Held By Y.W.C.A.

Students in Charge Of the Whole Program

An unusual Vesper service was held on Sunday, April 19, which was conducted by the Young Women's Christian Association. The service of symbolism was arranged and compiled by Miss Helen Abro Park, who is a former secretary of the Y. W. C. A. The service was built around the hymn, "O Love That Wilt Not Let Me Go." Janet Dike '43 and Barbara Butterfield '42 presented readings which were in keeping with the song and which presented the symbolists of Love, Light, Joy, and the Cross. The symbolic elements were represented by Ruth Jordan '45, Dorothy McCormick '42, Phyllis Savage '43 and Cathryn Grier '42.

The symbolic service was preceded by a concert given by the Chapel Choir, conducted by Prof. H. G. Bennett. Theresa Coderre '43, Robert Goss '44, Marjorie Southworth '43, and Ernest Stockwell '44 were the soloists.

On April 29 the Y. W. C. A. will again conduct a Chapel service which will be similar to those presented previously.

For the first Chapel service in May, there will be a speaker from the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. Doctor Abernathy is a secretary of the organization of Churches and will be traveling in Vermont during the first part of May. We are very fortunate in being able to obtain him for the service of May 6.

Inspection To Be Held Next Week

The annual Federal Inspection will be held at U. V. M. on Wednesday and Thursday, April 29 and 30. The Battalion review and the presentation of awards will be held on the back campus, or, in case of rain, in the cage at 4.15 p.m., April 29.

Col. Edward L. Hooper, representing the Corps Area Commander, will be the inspector.

There is to be no competitive drill or evening ceremony as has been the custom in previous years, due to the necessary curtailment. This inspection will in no way interfere with the regular classes.

The public is cordially invited to attend the Battalion review and the presentation of awards.

Wanted $758 from To reach Campus Goal

The new figures on the results of the Security Fund drive here on the campus fall just short of the anticipated total of $25,000; $20,000 from the faculty and $5,000 from the student body. The latest available figures give a total of $19,950 from the faculty and $4,292 from the students, with a grand total of $24,242, which just fails by the small sum of $758 to reach the expected total, and with many reports not yet in, the final total will probably exceed the goal.

Engineers Gather For Convention In Burlington Today

M. R. Kallman, A. C. Moore and D. M. Sheldon are Chairmen of Meeting

Members of the student branches of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers from all over New England and eastern New York will gather here at the University of Vermont this week-end for the annual convention of that organization.

Registration will be held Thursday afternoon and Friday morning for the students arriving from other colleges, and on Friday inspection trips to plants in and around Burlington as well as visits to the various college buildings will occupy the engineers.

Friday afternoon, following a luncheon for the students in the Waterman Building, Raymond Kallman of the University of Vermont will preside over the first of two sessions of the technical variety, at which papers on a myriad of engineering subjects will be presented by undergraduates of the universities represented. At this first session, the address of welcome will be given by Pres. John S. Millis of the host university, and the following men will present papers: Howard Warren, Worcester Polytechnic Institute; W. R. Stanger, Tufts College; Harold J. Jordan, University of Maine; and Henry Elksnin, Northeastern University.

Dance at Southwick

Supper will be served in the Waterman Cafeteria, following which the slide-rule experts will have themselves a ball, being the guests of the Vermont branch at the A. S. M. E. dance, to be held at Southwick, starting at 8.30 p.m.

Saturday's events will be started with the breakfast for the honorary chairmen of the various student branches in the Faculty Room of the Waterman Building, after which the engineers will again repair to Room 30 for the final technical session, presided over by A. The Vermont Cynic

VOL. 60 APRIL 24, 1942 NO 50

Recent years campaigns brought out another glaring complacency in Vermont campus activities. Out of the 1,700 or so students in the college only about 900 showed up at polling places. Election rumors were all bulletin board talk pointed to the 1,700 who took no interest in the nominations were known—students who only bother themselves enough to cover their backs in barbarousness. Some sort of compulsory election should be established to eliminate the unnecessary unpleasantness results. Several outgrowths of this type of election would be: 1. Unnecessary politics would be ended with all students voting it would be impossible for one to organize or combine to control the elections. 2. The interscholastic would be much stronger and might be a little more interested in college activities. 3. Close class cooperation, such as now exists, but would bring about good feeling toward developing enterprising sport activity in more expanded school sport and builds up a strong alumni backing.

In order to further guarantee fair elections candidates could be nominated only by petition, thus cutting out the nominations of a class meeting attended by about twenty people. Elections should be held in a central place centrally so that all students can ascertain where the voting takes place. Open elections have proven a bad condition for a number of years, good to beat machine governments is considering them.

R. O. T. C.

The national emergency is necessitating the addition of a large number of officers in the army. This need has existed for over a year and will continue to exist as long as our armed forces are expanding. As a result of this discovery a number of colleges are enrolling greater numbers of students in the advanced R. O. T. C. course, giving a larger number of college men a chance to gain officer rank. Those men by heredity and environment are the best suited for officers and therefore justly take their rank as potential leaders. In spite of this, however, the University of Vermont has not as yet expanded its advanced military training course. Last spring the same number were enrolled as in previous years when there was no emergency. It is obviously almost as easy to train fifty men as twenty-five and with little added expense. U. V. M. men are as good officer material as men from any other college and should be given a chance to get a commission and to finish their college career.

Campus Comment

A Face Lifting for Old Vermont

It's spring and all over our beautiful forest campus the maintenance men are cleaning up the debris of winter. April showers have already brought that new shade of green to the lawns. But let us look at our back campus, back yard I should say. Of course, here we have a new road which is a relief from the rutty path that was in back of the Old Mill. First of all, there is the large barren space on the back campus that the NYA boys worked so hard to make. Couldn't it be seeded? And then the Converse road. It would seem from a superficial glance that whoever planted the two rows of trees there certainly expected a road between the rows. It's only logical, and the continuation of the road would come naturally between the Old Mill and Science Hall cutting off that ugly curve by the tennis courts. And again, speaking of tennis courts, haven't we plenty of them down by Centennial Field? Why not just eliminate these? Tear down those ugly backstops, level and seed the back of the Old Mill. It will be warm soon, so why not fix up an attractive place to sprawl on the grass?

For the softball field, of course moving the road over would cut down its size, but then with the old low spot filled in, there would be enough room for two diamonds.

If we students are to gaze dreamily from our classroom windows, why not give us at least a pleasant sight to look upon?

Summer Quarter

smaller enrollment at the rate of $12.00 per semester hour. Students taking work in Summer School will pay the regular rate as stated in the Summer School Bulletin.

Tuition fees for the Summer Quarter will be payable on Registration Day, June 1.

Tuition for the Summer School is payable on registration, July 8.

7. CALENDAR. The Summer Quarter will begin Monday, June 1, which will be Registration Day and end Friday, August 21. The regular Summer School will begin with Registration Day, Wednesday, July 8, and end Tuesday, August 18.

8. MILITARY SCIENCE AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION. Colonel Dailey tells me that military science will not be offered during the Summer Quarter. Students attending will not be required to take physical education. However, the administration hopes to give students who wish to participate in sports or exercise in the gymnasium the opportunity of doing so. Students wishing to accelerate graduation by attendance at Summer Quarter and who wish to enroll in advanced military science should consult Colonel Dailey.

9. FRESHMAN PRE-MEDICS (Class of 1945) will elect Chemistry 9/10 and either Psychology 1, Mathematics 2, or an elective.

SOPHOMORE PRE-MEDICS (Class of 1944) will elect Embryology, Chemistry 7, and the four-hour course in English.

10. SUMMER SCHOOL COURSES. Students wishing to take Education 1/5 may take Education 1 the first five weeks of the Summer Quarter and follow it with Education 5 in the Summer School at the same hour. Philosophy 1 may be taken the first five weeks of the Summer Quarter and followed by Philosophy 2 in the Summer School at the same hour. Education 7 may be taken in the Summer School at the B hour and Zoology 10 at the C hour.

11. HALF COURSES. Students wishing to take the second half of Chemistry 9/10 (Organic Chemistry) may do so by coming to the Summer Quarter in the middle of the session. Similar arrangements may be made for the second half year of German 2 and Spanish 2.

12. SUMMER SCHOOL. The attention of students is called to the University of Vermont Summer School Bulletin which is expected to appear shortly. In this Bulletin will be listed a number of courses which may be taken during the regular Summer School Session. Students wishing to take work in the Summer Quarter and also in Summer School must be sure that there is no conflict.

SUMMER QUARTER AND SUMMER SESSION STUDENTS

All women students who plan to return either for the Summer Quarter, beginning June 1, or for the Summer Session, beginning July 8, are asked to consult the Dean of Women for approval of living places before making any final choice of rooms for either the summer quarter or the six weeks summer session.
MARY JEAN SIMPSON, Dean of Women.

A tiny pin-hole in a telephone cable can admit moisture, causing short circuits and service interruptions. But Bell System men have found a way of beating this trouble to the punch.

They charge the cable with dry nitrogen under pressure. Then should a leak develop, the escaping gas keeps moisture out. Instruments on the cable detect the drop in pressure . . . sound an alarm at a nearby station . . . indicate the approximate location of the break. A repair crew is quickly on its way.

To maintain and improve America's all-important telephone service, men of the Bell System are constantly searching for the better way. Pioneering minds find real opportunity in telephone work.

They said good-bye to Misty and John last week. About sixty of the athletic and fraternal gentry said it, gathering at the Ethan Allen Club for ale and farewell.

There was [illegible] and brief ceremonies. The [illegible] spoke and the guests of [illegible] too. There was a presentation trim leather utility [illegible] with "Johnny Spasyk" and Misty Rice" neatly engraved in gold. Then all retired to the bar.

Everyone stood around quietly at first striking polite poses and conversing in subdued tones, out of reverence to the occasion. But Misty and John would have none of that. Smiling and chatting warmly, they circulated among the hesitant clusters drawing them out. The taps opened a crack wider, and soon the people were sitting about tables in noisy huddles. Misty and John seemed to be everywhere at once, spreading good cheer abroad. Laughter and song arose, old songs and new, light laughter. So it went, and Misty and John bowed out gracefully, going to bat in a bigger league.

The one-man band is playing Burlington again. Bert Mott, Archie Post's superman, stepped out on the home track Saturday, leading his team in its first regular outdoor meet, against Bowdoin. The visitors won, but they couldn't beat Mott. Here's Bert's private score sheet:

100-yard dash—Won by Mott, Vermont. Time, 10 secs.

220-yard dash—Won by Mott, Vermont. Time, 22.6 secs.

110-yard high hurdles—Won by Mott, Vermont. Time, 15.8 secs.

220-yard low hurdles—Won by Mott, Vermont. Time, 25.7 secs.

High jump—Tie for first, Mott, Vermont, and Hanson, Bowdoin. Height, 5 ft., 4 in.

Thus Elias Bertram kept his streak alive. He's never come in worse than first in any event he's entered. Occasionally, as happened this time, someone holds him even in a field event, but once he shakes loose with both feet on the ground, they never catch Bert.

In Vermont meets, the Jersey Jitterbug's times haven't been matchless, but apparently he thrives on competition. (Witness his defeat of Dugger last year.) It would be interesting to watch him go against the nation's best in games like the Penn or Drake relays.

Spring sports come into wide-scale flower this week-end. Every squad is planning to be active, most of them on foreign fronts. Larry Gardner's ball club plays at Middlebury today and Winooski Park tomorrow. (The first home game, incidentally, is tentatively scheduled for next Saturday, against a Fort Ethan Allen team. St. Michael's will definitely play here May 6.)

The tennis team is away on its annual junket, with two matches in Connecticut on the week-end's program. All the freshman squads are traveling, too. The frosh track team doesn't have far to go for its meet with Burlington High, but the Kitten baseball and tennis teams journey clear down to Poultney.

The only stay-at-homes are the track and rugby teams. The trackmen have a duel with Union here tomorrow, while the ruggers oppose Harvard. The rugby team lost to Yale last week, but tomorrow's game should be quite another story, for Don Natter has promised to be on hand. Don didn't make the trip to New Haven, social ties confining him here.

Gardnermen Open State Series Against St. Michael's, Panthers

The Catamount baseball team will trudge away from home for two engagements this week-end, meeting the Middlebury Panthers on Porter Field this afternoon and facing the St. Michael's College nine at Winooski Park tomorrow.

Larry Gardner's promising aggregation has not yet been able to get out for any length of time under mother nature's blue skies for any practice sessions. This has been a tremendous handicap, considering the value of outdoor batting and fielding workouts. At present, slugger Al Shaw is the only man who has been able to maintain a hitting average above the .300 mark, while Joe Margolis and Hazen are hovering in the high .200's.

The Middleburians and the Mikemen face the same problem with the Vermont climate, so that the Cats will be playing on more even terms than with their Southern opponents.

It is expected that Vermont will call upon the services of Bob Carlson against the Panthers, with Akley in reserve. Bob has not yet suffered a setback this year and still maintains his earned-run average of less than two. Big Ake has had tough going, not touching the win column as yet. For Saturday's contest, Al Shaw, with a perfect record and Ray Alberghini will be available to meet the Purple.

Coach Ryan gives the following line-up for the Beavers, while the Middmen's schedule was not obtainable.

ST. MICHAEL'S—Mack, r.f.; Patterson, 3b.; Stickel, s.s.; Hemsworth, 2b; French, l.f.; Fitzgibbons, 1b.; Leahy, c.f.; McGrath, 2.; Dillon, p.

VERMONT—As per usual, with Shaw pitching.

Wiedman Is Victor In Handball Finals

Last year's intramural handball champions experienced a complete displacement, as new blood entered the ranks of the champions in last week's intramural finals. B. Rynowecer '42, last year's champion, was eliminated in the quarter-final by J. Wiedman '43, junior transfer from C. C. N. Y. and former handball champion at that institution. Wiedman went on to conquer S. Fieber '44 for the championship by the comfortable score of 21-17, 21-5.

Fieber and R. Warsaw '44, last year's doubles champions, were eliminated early in the doubles tourney and the combination of Wiedman and R. Jarow '43, was upset in the finals by R. Doherty '43 and M. Kaufman '43 in the closest and most exciting contest of the tourney. Doherty and Kaufman, by the very close scores of 22-20, 21-19, eked out their victory to become doubles champions of intramural handball.

Cat Netmen Face Connecticut Today

Storrs, Conn., Thursday—The University of Vermont tennis squad arrived here tonight. The Catamounts meet the University of Connecticut here tomorrow and go on to Hartford, Saturday, for an engagement with Trinity. The two-match tour is the season's opener for the Green and Gold.

Coach Fred Carpenter, Mgr. Bernie Rynowecer and the following players are numbered in the Vermont party: Capt. Sam Foti, Vin Manjoney, Bill Wicker, Billy West, Dick Swift and Wally Weisman.

Yale Conquers Ruggers, 16-0

Cats Oppose Harvard In Centennial Opener

Outweighed ten pounds to the man, and handicapped by lack of experience, the University of Vermont rugby team was defeated by Yale University last Saturday, 16-0, in a game played at New Haven.

It was the season's opener for the Cat fifteen, and despite the score the club offered stiff resistance to the Eli's, particularly in the second half. The Boys in Blue put onto the field a team composed for the greater part of members of last fall's varsity football team, including such well-known grid names as Bartholemy, Seymour, Sprole, Halsey and Hoopes.

Yale, which last week humbled Long Island University, 17-0, scored a try in the first five minutes, another ten minutes later. At this point the Catamount squad began to offer stiff resistance to the Bulldog thrusts, however, and it was only at the end of the period that Seymour bulled his way over for the third Yale try.

The Green and Gold club will be hosts to the Harvard team at Centennial Field this Saturday, and a week later will trek to Boston to play the Boston rugby club, winding up their season.

Kittens Lose Early Margin

Schoolboys Find Range on Combs' Departure

By Stan Felsenfeld

The first home game of the season was played yesterday at Centennial between the Kittens and Burlington High. The score was 11 all, game called in the 10th inning. Late staying customers were not disappointed. Anything and everything that could possibly take place on a baseball diamond took place. The contest was finally halted in the tenth frame at eight o'clock, everybody believing it feasible to call it quits and go home for supper.

Southpaw Ray Combs hurled four innings for the Frosh, and gave way with a 9 to 2 lead in the fifth to Bud Barrows. The Blue Boys got two markers off Barrows in the sixth, the door being left open by two Kitten miscues. Then Barrows was relieved in the seventh when things got out of hand, Cochran taking over.

Things began to look bad for Mickey in the ninth, and that precious one-run lead went for naught as Burlington put two hits and two Frosh errors to good use, going out in front 11 to 10. The Frosh came back in their half however, when Laramee gave four free tickets, forcing in a run. The extra round saw the sides go down in order when Cochran fanned three, duplicating his feat of the eighth inning.

The Blue Boys reached the Frosh for 18 yes, 18 hits. Oatman, Saunders, Norton, Poquette, and Tom Killick each slashing three apiece. Rugged Bud Lippman had three for the Kittens, and LaPointe and Welch clipped the opposition for a pair apiece of the 13 Frosh hits.

Battered about brutally in the early frames, the Seahorses came back with vim, vigor, and gusto, gained the lead for half an inning, were nicked for the tying run, in the last of the ninth, and saw the game go to seed after an additional session.

Mickey Cochran and Ray Combs looked good for the Frosh, but their well intentioned efforts were hampered by sloppy fielding.

Rugged Bud Lippman was entered in his first hard-ball game and slapped out three hits for five at bat. Not bad for a beginner.

Umpires and teams would do well to bring along basket suppers next time. How about a thirty-minute time out for a snack between halves of the fifteenth?

Yale, which last week humbled Long Island University, 17-0, scored a try in the first five minutes, another ten minutes later. At this point the Catamount squad began to offer stiff resistance to the Bulldog thrusts, however, and it was only at the end of the period that Seymour bulled his way over for the third Yale try.

The Green and Gold club will be hosts to the Harvard team at Centennial Field this Saturday, and a week later will trek to Boston to play the Boston rugby club, winding up their season.

Kittens Lose Early Margin

Schoolboys Find Range on Combs' Departure

By Stan Folsenfeld

The first home game of the season was played yesterday at Centennial between the Kittens and Burlington High. The score was 11 all, game called in the 10th inning. Late staying customers were not disappointed. Anything and everything that could possibly take place on a baseball diamond took place. The contest was finally halted in the tenth frame at eight o'clock, everybody believing it feasible to call it quits and go home for supper.

Southpaw Ray Combs hurled four innings for the Frosh, and gave way with a 9 to 2 lead in the ninth to Bud Barrows. The Blue Boys got two markers off Barrows in the sixth, the door being left open by two Kitten miscues. Then Barrows was relieved in the seventh when things got out of hand, Cochran taking over.

Things began to look bad for Mickey in the ninth, and that precious one-run lead went for naught as Burlington put two hits and two Frosh errors to good use, going out in front 11 to 10. The Frosh came back in their half however, when Laramee gave four free tickets, forcing in a run. The extra round saw the sides go down in order when Cochran fanned three, duplicating his feat of the eighth inning.

The Blue Boys reached the Frosh for 18, yes, 18 hits. Oatman, Saunders, Norton, Poquette, and Tom Killick each slashing three apiece. Rugged Bud Lippman had three for the Kittens, and La Pointe and Welch clipped the opposition for a pair apiece of the 13 Frosh hits.

Battered about brutally in the early frames, the Seahorses came back with vim, vigor, and gusto, gained the lead for half an inning, were nicked for the tying run, in the last of the ninth, and saw the game go to seed after an additional session.

Mickey Cochran and Ray Combs looked good for the Frosh, but their well-intentioned efforts were hampered by sloppy fielding.

Rugged Bud Lippman was entered in his first hard-ball game and slapped out three hits for five at bat. Not bad for a beginner.

Umpires and teams would do well to bring along basket suppers next time. How about a thirty-minute time out for a snack between halves of the fifteenth?

University Band Petitions For Revolutionary Drum

The R. O. T. C. band of the University of Vermont has gone into action again. This time it is a petition. The document, signed by 40 bandsmen and their leader, Joseph F. Lattman, is in response to a feature story appearing recently in the San Francisco Times.

According to the Times, there is in existence a drum, first used in Washington's army by a Green Mountain boy, and ever for war, the drum has appeared in each, played by descendants of that early drummer boy. It is now owned by Charles Bessette, drum master of New York City, a descendant of the original Vermonter.

The R. O. T. C. band is petitioning to have the drum returned to Vermont to be kept in the Fleming Museum. With it would be all the original gear, used during the Revolution, including the heads, rope, rims and snares.

Mr. Bessette said the drum was given to his grandfather's uncle, Tommy Beesette during the Mexican War. Mr. Bessette's grandfather carried it during the Civil War, and his father played it in the Spanish American War and later used it in Samoa for 28 years. Mr. Bessette himself took it with him to France in World War I with the 69th regiment.

Since Mr. Bessette according to the newspaper, is now planning of a proper place to have the drum kept the R. O. T. C. bandsmen feel that the proper place would be the University of Vermont, which was founded in 1791, by one of the original Green Mountain boys, Ira Allen, brother of Ethan Allen of Ticonderoga fame.

The petition reads:

To Charles J. Bessette:

WHEREAS, the Green Mountain Boys of today, proud of their past, are intensely interested in the historic drum owned by you as the lineal descendant of a long line of martial drummers dating back to that Green Mountain Boy who first carried it in the army of Gen. George Washington,

THEREFORE, We, the members of the R. O. T. C. Band of the University of Vermont, representing the entire R. O. T. C. battalion at our University, many of whom will soon be engaged in another war, our administration, faculty and student body, do hereby petition that you seriously consider presenting this historic family memorial to the University of Vermont, in the state from which your Green Mountain ancestor came, that it may be deposited in the University's Robert Hull Fleming Museum, there to be preserved and cherished as a symbol of the valor for which the Green Mountain State and its boys have ever stood.

Double Quartette Sings At Banquets

Millikan and His Boys Help Security Fund

Big news in campus music circles and Security Fund activities is the announcement of G. L. Millikan's double quartette's prospective trips to sing at some of the Security Fund banquets to be given this month and next in the state and nation. The most extensive trip planned is the one May 7-10 to Washington, D. C. Trips to other cities have been arranged following requests from Alumni Associations and banquet chairmen for the group to render the popular barbershop and spiritual numbers that have made them famous.

Since the Security Fund drive started, most of the "Fire-Eaters" work has been concentrated on gratuitous performances for kick-off dinners and report luncheons. When originally started by Mr. Millikan, the group was intended for entertainment at Campus Sings. After much success at these they took over all sorts of affairs and have risen rapidly in the ranks of popularity.

The septet, and it really is a septet, being the only double quartette in the world with seven members, comprises six students, most of whom take music education of some sort, and Mr. Millikan. By parts, they are: Tenors, Ernie Stockwell '44, Bob Norton '44, Phil Robinson '45; basses, Mr. Millikan, Bob Goss '44, John Goss '43, and Steve Moore '45. At one time there were eight singers, but one tenor, Seymour Bassett has now a defense job in Washington.

Worcester, Mass., has made known its desire of having the group there, to sing Thursday, April 30. This is also an over-night trip. Washington is the final jaunt on the schedule, the banuet there being Saturday, May 9.

The boys are kept very busy, singing as many as four times a week, with several practices thrown in. At the banquets, they usually roll off two numbers and an encore right after the dinner. They return for more numbers, and of course encores somewhere in the middle of the program of speeches. During this month, Phil Robinson will direct the gang in the absence of Mr. Millikan who labors nightly no his Ph.D. thesis. He will be free 4or the Washington trip, though, and, in the meantime, Robinson does a great job.

Successful Formals Held by Six Sororities Last Saturday

Flowers, boutonnieres, formals, tuxes—all were out full force last Saturday evening as six Greek letter sororities held formal dances.

Alpha Chi Omega held their dance in the Ivory Room of the Hotel Van Ness with music by the Clubmen. Professor and Mrs. G. V. Kidder and Coach and Mrs. W. L. Gardner chaperoned. Cynthia Bailey was chairman of the event, assisted by Phyllis Pierce '43 and Shirley Needham '45.

Delta Delta Delta had a dinner-dance at the Hotel Vermont with the Norwich Grenadiers as the music-makers. Chaperoning were Professor and Mrs. R. E. Long. Gail Klinger '42 headed the various committees aided by Myra Gray '44 and Ruth Boelson '42.

The faculty lounge of the Waterman Buildin, furnished the background for the Delta Phi Epsilon formal. The affair was chaperoned by Professor and Mrs. A. E. Nuquist. The band of the 186th Field Artillery furnished music. Heading the committees were Anita Berman '44, Rose Eisman '45, Lucille Goldstein '43, and Freda Koble '45.

The Kappa Alpha Theta formal was held at their house and was quite in keeping with the "Spirit of Spring." Professor and Mrs. J. H. Perry and Professor and Mrs. G. L. Millikan chaperoned. General chairman was Gratia Pearl '42, assisted by Doris Welch '43, Betsey Roberts '44, and Margery Anthony '45.

Pi Beta Phi held a dinner-dance at Oakledge Manor, chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Proctor Page and Dr. and Mrs. C. I. Taggart. Music was furnished by Bob Jary and his Orchestra. Alma Gaylord '44, Frances Lynch '43, and Margaret McElfish '44 were co-chairmen.

Paul Revere had his day at the Sigma Gamma dinner-dance, held at the Paragon. Professor and Mrs. J. W. Morrow and Professor and Mrs. L. S. Russell chaperoned. Mary Jane Thornton '43, Charlotte Hyde '42, and Kathleen Benson '43 were in charge.

Alpha Xi Delta to Hold Spring Formal Saturday

The Alpha Xi Delta spring formal will take place tomorrow at the Burlington Country Club, to the music of Bob Jary's Orchestra, following a dinner at the Paragon.

The chaperones are Doctor and Mrs. Prentice, Mrs. Brooks and Mrs. Lord.

Patricia Page Elected President of I. R. C.

A meeting of the International Relations Club was held Wednesday evening, April 15, at the Waterman Building.

The following officers were elected for the coming year:

Patricia Page '43, president
Clifford Joseph '43, vice-president
Faye Lipman '43, secretary
Harry Woodhill '43, treasurer
Malcolm Mickler '45, council-at-large
Ruth Jordan '45, alternate

Following the business meeting, Prof. R. E. Long of the political science department spoke. His topic was "Strategy."

R. W. Robinson Escapes Death

Richard W. Robinson, class of 1940 civil engineers, the University of Vermont's Red Robinson, former football player, baseball manager, and advanced R. O. T. C. student is flying these days somewhere in the southwest Pacific. A wireless report that "big, red-haired Lieut. R. W. Robinson from the University of Vermont" had taken part in a raid on Japanese shipping near Rabaul has been received. On returning to his home field, Robinson found a mashed machine gun bullet in the cockpit, threateningly close to his body. It was the gift of a Jap airman protecting the Rabaul shipping. Lieutenant Robinson has saved it for a watch charm.

On campus, Robinson was a member of Sigma Nu Fraternity and Boulder Society. President of both his junior and senior classes, Robinson walked for de Kake on the winning Sigma Nu team, was director of Kake Walk during his senior year, and participated in intramurals athletics. He is listed as Who's Who in American Colleges.

Convention

Convention Chairmen

Co-chairmen of the convention are the three members of the senior mechanical engineering class here, M. Raymond Kallman, Donald M. Sheldon and Allen C. Moore. Chairmen of the various committees are: Registration, Joseph Corbett; Housing, J. Prescott Hoyt; Technical Sessions, James Tennien; Program, Robert Tarshis; Banquet, R. Hamilton; Publicity, Edward O'Connell; Inspection Trips, T. Alvin McCormick; Luncheons, Marson Nelson; Dance, Betty Smith; Transportation, John Williams. Prof. Arthur Butterfield is the Honorary Chairman of the Vermont Student Branch and will preside over the honorary chairman's breakfast.

Home Ec-Aggie Club Party Very Successful

The Home Ec-Aggie Club party, which was held Thursday, April 16, in the Brick Barn, was a great success and all attending had a merry time. Early in the evening, musical charades were played and everyone danced to a "vic" until nine. The members then had a hot dog roast on an outdoor fire, after which both square and round dancing took place in the Brick Barn and in the Home Management House until eleven.

There were about 100 people attending the spring party, and all the members enjoyed an unusually jolly evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Newlander served as chaperones for the party.

NOTICE TO ALL PRE-MEDIC STUDENTS

There will be a meeting of all Pre-Medic Students Tuesday, April 28, at 7:15 p.m. in Hall A, Medical College.

At this meeting Dean Beecher plans to give definite information regarding the possibility of deferment under the Selective Service Program for Pre-Medic students and to tell the plans of the Medical College in that regard. He will also explain the accelerated program of the Medical College. Dean Swift will speak on the Summer Quarter and its place in the new accelerated program.

It is important that all students who plan to enter a College of Medicine attend this meeting.

E. Swift, Dean.

Initiation Banquet Of Gold Key Held

Oakledge Manor Scene of Celebration

Old members of Gold Key were entertained by their new members at an initiation banquet at Oakledge Manor last Wednesday evening. Prof. B. F. Ladd honored the society with his presence and enjoyed himself tremendously.

Keith Calkins was in charge of the affair and Larry Killick was toastmaster. The new members were given embarrassing antics to do. The tough grind was postponed until next Wednesday because of several hour tests this week. The informal initiation of the new members will take place next Wednesday night, when Norman H. Beaulieu '45 will be initiated, too, following his recent election.

New Mortar Board Initiated Sunday

Mortar Board initiation was held at Southwick on Sunday night at eight o'clock for the following: Marjorie Abell, Helena Anderson, Janet Dike, Janet Hackwell, June Hoffman, Alice Needham, Miss Violet Pammel, Natalie Spear and Marjorie Witham. Miss Pommel, who was a member of a local Mortar Board chapter at Iowa State College, came to Burlington to be initiated with her niece, Alice Needham. The initiation banquet will be held Tuesday night on the third floor of the Waterman Building. Until that time the girls will wear their Mortar Board pins fastened to gold and silver ribbons.

Last Campus Sing Next Friday Night On Front Campus

Thetas and Tri Delts Are to Offer Songs As Added Entertainment

An unusual program of fun and entertainment is being planned for the last campus sing of this college year which is to be held on the front campus just across the band platform next Friday evening at 7:45.

This sing is replacing the competitive inter-sorority and inter-fraternity sings which the committee on the all-out social calendar ruled out. Because of this, two of the sororities will have individual parts on the program: the Kappa Alpha Thetas and the Tri Delts. Mr. Millikan's double male quartet will be on hand. Efforts were made to have the R. O. T. C. Band, but since federal inspection closes the band's engagements for the rest of this year, this is impossible.

Many of the fraternities and sororities are contributing a small amount toward the expenses of this sing. Their help is very much appreciated, and the sponsors promise them an unusually delightful evening.

Mr. Millikan will direct the singing, as usual, and Professor Ladd, Marjorie Abell and Alfred Amee, also as usual, are making the arrangements.

Full details of the program are not given here, but there will be surprises in store for more than one. In case of rain, the sing will be held in the student lounge.

Mrs. M. Conzelman To Speak at I. R. C.

Mrs. Margie Conzelman will speak at the I. R. C. meeting Wednesday night, April 29, at 7:30 in the student lounge of the Waterman Building. Mrs. Conzelman's topic will be "Our Relations in the Orient," a subject which we should all be vitally interested in and about which Mrs. Conzelman is particularly competent to speak as she has spent a number of years in the Orient and her husband is now an army officer in Corregidor. This will be the last meeting of the year and everyone should take advantage of such a splendid opportunity.

University Store Offers Its Services to Student Government

For the students, one of the most important and exciting steps forward taken by the University of Vermont is that of establishing the new system of student government. It comes in a modern pioneer age when the cut and dried rules of the past are vanishing. It is at the beginning of a new social era in which all keen, well-informed students may have an opportunity to promote and help put into practice new social ideals to prevent forever such a widespread destructive upheaval as the best of the old system could not stop.

Every organization on the campus should be anxious and proud to offer what help it can for this new undertaking. As an auxiliary enterprise whose main object of existence is service, the University Store wishes to enter its offer of assistance.

In the Old Mill the Store's space was limited, the traffic heavy. Consequently little attempt was made to develop more than a place to "Come and Get" the necessities of student life. A few special services had been started such as distributing the University Directories, Annals, Cynics and semester grades. Also the credit system, minus the service charge of such concerns, came into existence to act as a banking service for the student's surplus cash.

The new location of the University Store has changed all this. There is now plenty of space and the clerks have time to become more than automatic dispensers of merchandise and cash collectors. In these new quarters a one ward election has taken place. Also an attempt has been made to present real college spirit by such displays in the show windows as the Kake Walk, skiing, and the promotional work of the U. V. M. Security Fund. Even the clerks are being trained along lines of a service organization as well as those of sales agents.

These are only suggestions of the possibilities of the future. The show windows will be available at any time for special projects of the student organizations, while the showcases can be used for similar smaller displays. Tables can be conspicuously placed for ballots, advertising campaign literature and questionnaires.

In the final analysis the University Store was established as a service agency. To what good use the new governing organization can put the facilities offered will be one of the tests of its worth.

Federal R.O.T.C. Review To Be Held April 29-30

Colonel Edward L. Hooper to Review the University R. O. T. C. Battalion

NOTICE REGARDING SUMMER QUARTER

At present some ninety-two students have enrolled for Summer Quarter courses. In a few courses enrollments are so small as not to justify their being offered unless further demand develops. Following are courses which may not be given on account of small enrollments.

Economics 1
Education 1
English 6
Philosophy 1
Spanish 2

Students who failed to enroll at the regular time and plan to come to Summer Quarter should enroll with my secretary. It is particularly important that we find out as soon as possible if any additional students wish to take the courses listed above.

E. Swift, Dean

Col. Edward L. Hooper, representing the commander of the first corps area, will review the R. O. T. C. battalion of the University at the annual federal inspection April 29 and 30.

The review and presentation of awards will be held on the back campus on the ... at 4:30. At that time the American Legion trophy will be presented to the best company, the Sons of the American Revolution medals to the outstanding military science students in each class and the Legion sabre to the captain of Champlain Cohors.

The members of the varsity rifle team will be awarded their medals as winners of the Randolph Hearst first corps match, and the battalion will accept the plaque won by the team in the competition.

Hearst medals will also go to the freshman riflemen who took second place in the same match, and the plaque which is their reward will be turned over to the battalion.

Third place medals for the New England Intercollegiate Rifle League match will be given to the ten men participating.

Because of curtailed funds, lack of time, the department's formal invitations to state officials and organization heads have not been sent this year and the competitive drills and evening ceremonies, the highlights of former inspections have been suspended.

"We hope," said Col. G. F. N. Daley, that every person interested will consider that he has received a special delivery, airmail, engraved, embossed personal invitation. Everyone is invited."

Presentation of Awards

R. I. Carlson '42 gets the Loyal Legion Saber award which is given to the captain each year. He also gets the medal for Sons of the American Revolution which is given to the most outstanding member of the senior class.

F. S. Germain '43 receives this medal for the juniors, G. J. Holden '44 for the sophomores and R. R. Smith for the freshmen.

L. A. Weaver '43 gets first place in the Randolph Hearst meet and the Craig trophy is his award. He receives the Connor medal for the highest cumulative score for the year.

The team won second place in the New England Rifle League and the varsity got first place in the Hearst meet.

J. H. Pratt '42, F. W. Miller '44 and H. E. Crossley '44 won medals for first place and third place in the New England Rifle League.

G. Manson '45, W. P. Leamy '42, R. I. Swett '43, R. E. Waldo '44 and J. H. Temmen '43 get the Hearst trophy for

Sigma Xi Lecture In Fleming Museum

Dr. H. S. Bull of Yale Will Be the Speaker

Dr. Harold S. Burr, E. K. Hunt professor of anatomy in Yale Medical School, will give a public lecture in Fleming Museum Auditorium, University of Vermont, at eight o'clock Friday evening, May 1. He appears under the auspices of the Sigma Xi Club.

Doctor Burr has chosen for his title "Electricity and Life." He is known as a forceful and interesting speaker. His address will be illustrated with motion pictures.

Doctor Burr is noted for his research on the electrical phenomena which accompany the living process. He has demonstrated that a living animal is surrounded by an electrical field and has been able to trace changes in electrical potential accompanying growth, development and the processes of aging. He has demonstrated that the healing of wounds is accompanied by changes in electrical potential paralleling the increasing strength of the scar tissue, a finding which may have practical application in the after treatment of surgical patients. Developing cancer may be detected electrically.

One of the most widely heralded of Doctor Burr's electrical studies has been the detection with his instruments of the precise instant at which a human ovum or egg breaks through the surface of the ovary in the process called ovulation.

The Sigma Xi Club which is bringing Doctor Burr to the campus consists of some forty faculty members who belong to Sigma Xi, a national honorary scientific society devoted to the furtherance of research.

All persons interested are cordially invited to attend the lecture. There will be no admission charge.

Former Student Reports To Army Flying School

Aviation Cadet Donald A. Bigelow, Bethel, a former student at the University of Vermont, recently reported for basic flight training at the Greenville (Miss.) Army Flying School. He is a member of the fourth Greenville cadet class.

At the end of basic training Cadet Bigelow will be sent to an advanced flying school in the Southeast Air Corps Training Center. Upon completion of the advanced course he will receive his wings and a commission as a second lieutenant in the United States Army Air Corps.

Cadet Bigelow is a member of Lambda Iota social fraternity.

Band Concert To Be On Front Campus

The R. O. T. C. Band will give a band concert next Wednesday night, April 29, at 7:30, on the campus in front of the Billings Library. The band, under the direction of Joseph Lechner, has just returned from a state-wide tour in which they played two concerts a day in Barre, Rutland, Bennington, and St. Johnsbury. Oliver Swift, '43, is the student director of the band.

There will be several march numbers, including "Semper Fidelis," and novelty selections, including "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot" and "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf?" A military piece, "The Patrol," will also be played, as well as an overture, "Fiesta."

There will also be a trumpet duet played by Robert Stevenson '45, and Robert Bennett '44.

Patterson Effective

Meanwhile, Chuck Patterson, the Purple starter, was holding the Cats well in hand. He had them blanked until the fifth, when Sig Sysko's triple to deep right drove in two runs.

In the sixth inning, Vermont rallied to tie the score, scoring six times on but one base hit, by Carlson. Five walks and an error accounted for the majority of the runs.

But Dillon, the second Purple hurler, checked the Cats as his mates pushed across the decisive run off Carlson in the seventh on hits by McGrath and Mack.

At Middlebury, Vermont had no trouble in winning, garnering almost as many hits off two Panther hurlers as they had accumulated in the entire Southern trip.

Larry Killick, sophomore basketball star, made his first varsity diamond start, filling in at second base for the departed captain, Johnny Spasyk. Killick made three hits, including a double.

Wood Hurt

Third baseman Hazen Wood suffered a knee injury in a fifth inning play and was forced to leave the game. Carlson finished out for him, making three hits, and utility infielder Milt Kaufman took over when Wood was still out of action the next day. Woodie had collected a triple in his only appearance at the plate against Middlebury.

Clarence Akley, big veteran right-hander, pitched all the way for Vermont, coasting to triumph. It was the first win of the year for Akley who hoped to win in the South.

Middlebury held a short-lived lead until the fifth, when the Catamounts scored five times to take command. The Gardnermen continued to hammer away thereon, tallying two in the sixth, six in the seventh, and two more in the eighth.

The Panthers were as hapless afield as the Cats proved to be against St. Mike's. Middlebury committed eight miscues.

A Fort Ethan Allen nine is scheduled to help Vermont open its home season at Centennial Field Saturday. St. Michael's will be busy a week from Tomorrow in the Cats' first home intercollegiate contest.

Frosh Netmen Bow To Green Mountain

Green Mountain Junior College whitewashed the Vermont freshmen 6-0 in a tennis match at Poultney Saturday. The duel was the season's opener for the Kittens.

Steve Moore, Charlie Plumley, Vin Astone and Hal Frank performed for the freshmen. Each suffered a loss in singles, and in the doubles the Kitten combinations of Moore and Astone and Plumley and Frank also met defeat.

The freshmen next meet Bellows Free Academy of St. Albans in a home match Thursday.

Cat Nimrods Name Weaver New Captain

Taking twenty out of twenty-six matches, the U. V. M. rifle team has concluded its 1941-42 season.

In postal matches the team took first place in the Randolph Hearst Intercollegiate match and second in the First Corps Area Intercollegiate match.

The rifle team held a meeting Thursday noon in the gym and Lelon Weaver '43 was elected captain for the coming year. Harry Crosley '44 was made manager. John Pratt '42 has been captain this year and Jim Tennien '43 is the retiring manager.

Trackmen Rout Union Runners

Mott Takes 4 Firsts As Team Wins, 86-40

Saturday's proceedings at Centennial Field proved beyond a doubt that Bert Mott was not just another spasmodic performer. The New Jersey lad compiled four firsts and one third to lead Coach Archie Post's charges to their first season's victory. The Cats defeated Union 86-40.

Just where the Green and Gold tracksters would be without the services of their stellar captain has been a cause of much speculation both on and off campus, but one thing is certain, Mott paved the way to Saturday's wholesale trouncing of the New York State club.

From the outset the Green and Gold was very much the club to watch. They capitalized on the invaders' weaknesses in nine of fourteen events for first showings and didn't fail to show in the remaining six events somewhere.

The biggest hole in the afternoon's ticket was the failure of the Webster twins to finish together in the distance events. Charlie crossed the line in record time in the two-mile run, but there was not Freddie beside him.

100-yard dash—Won by Mott (V); second, Reed (V); third, Smith (U). Time, 9.9s.

220-yard dash—Won by Mott (V), second, Reed (V); third, Muther (U). Time, 22s.

440 yard dash—Won by Muther (U), second, Pulleyn (V); third, Russum (U). Time, 52.7s.

880 yard run—Won by Quinn (U), second, Lockwood (V), third, Orton (U). Time, 2m 4.5s.

One-mile run—Won by Orton (U), second, Snell (U); third, Corliss (V). Time, 4m 50s.

Two-mile run—Won by C. Webster (V), second, Quinlan (U); third, St. Marc (V). Time, 10m 38.1s.

120-yard high hurdles—Won by Mott (V), second, Barry (V); third, Wilkins (U). Time, 16.3s.

220 yard low hurdles—Won by Mott (V), second, Barry (V); third, Wilkins (U). Time, 26.1s.

High jump—Tie for first, Grosvenor (V) and Goodrich (V), third, Mott (V). Height, 5 ft. 9 in.

Broad jump—Won by Barry (V), second, Goss (V); third, Breed (U). Distance, 21 ft. 3 in.

Pole vault—Tie for first, Earley (V), and Patterson (V); third, Wilson (U). Height 10 ft. 6 in.

Javelin throw—Won by Breed (U); second, Abley (V), third, Daley (V). Distance 164 ft. 8½ in.

Discus throw—Won by Shaw (U), second, Abley (V), third, Warden (V). Distance, 132 ft. 1½ in.

Shotput—Won by Warden (V); second Parker (V); third, Parsons (U). Distance, 38 ft. 6 in.

Frosh Tossers Stopped, 14-7

Green Mountain Junior College's hard-hitting nine put the Vermont Frosh to rout, 14 to 7, in a slugfest at Poultney Saturday.

The Mountaineers pounded Mickey Cochran, Fuzzy Evans' right-handed ace and Billy Mahar, his relief, for fifteen hits. Cochran fanned six, but was reached for ten safeties and eleven runs in the five frames he worked.

Kitten Track Team Wins Opener, 65-52

Paced by Leonne Paul, the frosh trackmen won their first meet of the season against Burlington High School Saturday, 65-52.

Paul won the 220 in 22.7 and the 440 in 52.8. Chas. Smith and Rich. Evans also won two events each for the Kittens.

Four Students Solo; Completing Course Soon

The four University of Vermont students enrolled in the Civilian Pilot Training Course have soloed and are nearing completion of their thirty-five required flying hours. C. C. Webster '44 has already passed his flight test and completed his hours while F. I. Pangburn '44, R. W. Page '45 and R. W. Page '45 hope to receive their licenses soon.

The course is sponsored by the University under a government approved and financed plan. The students get three hours credit for which they must spend ninety-two hours in the air (twenty-one solo hours) and seventy-two hours at ground school work.

The airport authorities are trying to have the members school in Burlington this summer. This will enable all those who have received their private pilot's licenses to get commercial licenses and instructor ratings. Most of the students in the Northeastern Airlines School now located in the Waterman Building, received their preliminary training on this course.

Betty Cramer '42 is the only girl pilot. Although she can not have come under the C. P. T. C. she is following the same plan and flies the same course as do the others. She has completed twenty-three flying hours and hopes to have her license before graduation.

"Two cokes, please." A common request but does the person giving this order realize that he is ordering as much or more caffein than there is in a cup of coffee, a little flavor, and sweetened water. Most cola and other soft drinks contain little nutritive value except the calories from the sugar. One receives little in return for money spent for soft drinks and coffee.

It is possible to drink only a limited amount of liquid daily. If much coffee and soft drinks are chosen, then milk is less likely to be included. Milk provides calcium for the building and repair of bones and teeth. One quart daily is recommended for growing children and a pint for adults. Unless at least two glasses of milk are consumed, it is practically impossible to obtain the necessary amount of calcium.

While milk is valuable because it supplies needed vitamins, especially vitamins A and G. The proteins of milk are among the best available.

If milk is disliked as a beverage, care should be taken to include in the diet foods made with milk such as creamed soups, chowders, white sauce, custards, puddings, ice cream, and cocoa.

Don't let other beverages, much less desirable, crowd out milk!

NOW—FOR COLLEGE MEN—A NEW OFFICERS' TRAINING PLAN

★ New Deferred Service Plan Allows You to Continue Your Education ★

In the skies over America the mightiest air fleet in the history of the world is mobilizing for victory!

So fast is it growing that there is a place here — an urgent need here — for every college man in America who can qualify for Officer's Training.

The U. S. Army Air Forces need Flying Officers and Ground Crew Officers. And many of them must come from the ranks of today's college students — men who make their plans now for the necessary Aviation Cadet training.

Thanks to a newly created Air Force Reserve plan, men of all classes — aged 18 to 26, inclusive — can enlist for immediate service or continue the scholastic work required for graduation before being called to active duty.

You must meet the requirements for physical fitness, of course. In addition, you take a new simplified test to determine your ability to grasp the training. A college man should pass it easily.

$75 A MONTH DURING TRAINING

Those accepted who wish immediate duty will go into training as rapidly as facilities permit. As an Aviation Cadet, you are paid $75 a month, with subsistence, quarters, medical care, uniforms, equipment.

In 8 months you can win an officer's commission as a bombardier, navigator or pilot — and be well started on your way to serve America and advance yourself in aviation.

Three Enlistment Plans for College Men

Juniors—Sophomores—Freshmen May Continue Their Education

1. A new plan allows Juniors, Sophomores and Freshmen, aged 18 to 26, inclusive, to enlist in the Air Force Enlisted Reserve and continue their schooling, provided they maintain satisfactory scholastic standings.

All College Men May Enlist for Immediate Service

2. All college students may enlist as privates in the Army Air Forces (unassigned) and serve there until their turns come for Aviation Cadet training.

3. All college students may enlist in the Air Force Enlisted Reserve and wait until ordered to report for Aviation Cadet training.

Upon graduation or withdrawal from college, men will be assigned to active duty at a training center as facilities become available.

If the necessity of war demands, the deferred status in the Army Reserve may be terminated at any time by the Secretary of War.

The new Army Air Force Enlisted Reserve Plan is part of an over-all Army Enlisted Reserve Corps program shortly to be announced. This program will provide opportunities for college men to enlist in other branches of the Army on a deferred basis and to continue their education through graduation if a satisfactory standard of work is maintained. In case of necessity the Secretary of War shall determine when they may be called to active duty.

It is understood that men so enlisted will have the opportunity of competing for vacancies in officer's candidate schools.

This plan has been approved in the belief that continuance of education will develop capacities for leadership. (Reserve enlistment will not alter regulations regarding established R.O.T.C. plans.)

MANY BRANCHES OF SERVICE

There are also commissions awarded in ground crew service. College men particularly will be interested in the requirements for Armaments, Communications, Engineering, Meteorology, Photography. If you have engineering experience your chances of getting a commission are excellent.

As a Second Lieutenant on active duty with the Army Air Forces, your pay ranges from $183 to $245 a month.

ACT AT ONCE

If you want to fight for America, this is where your blows will count.

If you want the best training in the world, and years of solid achievement in aviation — the great career field of the future — this is where you belong. Your place is here—in the Army Air Forces.

If you plan to enlist immediately, start getting your necessary papers ready for the Aviation Cadet Examining Board when it meets in your locality. For complete information, see your Faculty Air Force Advisor. You can take your mental and physical examinations the same day you apply. Get further information now.

NOTE: If you wish to enlist and are under 21, you will need your parents' or guardian's consent. Birth certificates and three letters of recommendation will be required of all applicants. Obtain the forms and send them home today—you can then complete your enlistment before any Aviation Cadet Examining Board.

The Biggest Job

Maybe you are wondering just why there is an ad on the front page. Maybe you wonder why it's the biggest thing on the page. After all, this is a newspaper, even if you may have doubted it at times, and news and advertising should be put in their proper places.

But what's the biggest thing going on just now? What is occupying top place in the attention of our leaders, and us, their followers? What makes the largest headlines and wears out the radio tubes? Sure, there's a war going on, and our biggest job and greatest interest is the fighting and winning of it. We can do other things; we can say our greatest task will be the winning of the peace, we can try to get away from it all, or keep on with business as usual. But there won't be other things, there won't be a peace to win, and there won't be any business unless we do the big job first, and right.

This ad isn't selling you anything. It is offering some of you, with the best of terms, the chance to do the job right. You can have your cake and eat it too. Complete your education, and then be an officer—a flying officer. What more could you ask, or get? Right now you have the best of chances of having your blissful schooling interrupted so that you can be a buck private.

John Dewey Club Initiates Forty

The final John Dewey Club meeting of the year was held Tuesday evening in the student lounge of the Waterman Building.

Approximately fifty persons were present. Professor Metcalf gave a brief but highly informative talk on the life of John Dewey and the founding of the club. Following this, new members were initiated, having become eligible by attaining a grade of at least B— in psychology or philosophy for one semester. Those initiated were: Ione Lacy '44, Dorothy Franklin '43, Margaret Fake '44, Katherine Doane '44, Martha Briggs '43, Margaret McWain '43, Clara Liese '44, Eunice Watts '44, Winifred Wrisley '44, Ruth True '44, Ramona Hathorn '44, Jean Sprague '43, Elizabeth White '44, Mary Quinn '44, Dorothy Collins '44, Barbara Lane '44, Irene Quimby '43, Florence Bevins '43, C. Gardner Hess '44, C. L. Holmes '43, W. N. Harvey '43, H. C. McNamara '42, H. Dowling '43, Ruth Butterfield '44, Mary E. Kelley '43, Peggy Palmer '44, Mary Perry '44, Selma Fienberg '44, Florence Levin '44, Anita Berman '44, Patricia McCormack '44, Claire Gravel '43, Celia Cioffi '43, Frances Juliano '44, Faye Lipman '43, George Goldsmith '44, Cleveland Denton '44, Faith Prior '43, Virginia Mitchell '43, Virginia Wright '44, Janet McDonald '43 and Mary Lindsay.

Persons who were unable to attend the meeting but were invited to join and signified their desire to do so were Mary Germaine '43, Abraham Swartz '42, Margaret McElfish '44 and Mary E. Davis '43.

Professor Walbridge of the physics department spoke on the contributions of physics to theories of cosmic revolution.

Officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows: President, Wendall Harvey '43; vice-president, Virginia Mitchell '43; secretary, Mary Lindsay; treasurer, Kathryn Doane '44.

Careless Observations

[illegible] has been commendable editorial comment in various papers throughout the country concerning the use of cars by college students. Most writers condemn such driving as unnecessary and thus unpatriotic in view of our present shortages of rubber, steel and gas. This is just criticism for most collegiate driving consists of going to and from classes by day and hunting for a place to run out of gas at night. The pursuit of knowledge even at an accelerated pace, does not justify the use of a car in wartime.

There is an exception to such condemnation, the much-maligned jalopy. Being the owner of such a car, not one of those dreamed-up creations that you can't get at with a canopener but a real job with a motor you can hear and see—and curse—is an education in itself. Many a car owner has become an expert mechanic in a week or else sold his car. It isn't necessary to become an engineer—thank goodness—to know the insides of one of those infernal combustion engines. And knowledge of how to take things apart, whether it be a jeep or a Jap, will come in handy in this war.

The physical development side of the question should not be ignored. Critics of our habit of riding around in cars say, and rightly so, "Learn how to walk and keep fit." But some owners of ancient cars carry this still further. Many of our best athletes get the main portion of their training not merely walking, but pushing a heavy 1928 touring car around town. They go to great shape and will give some flimsy excuse about being out of gas but they are really getting in shape for next week's track meet.

But there are the only excuses to sustain the use of cars by college students now. We read and hear words of how we must go all out to win the war. We gladly agree that we must sacrifice things that hurt—eventually. But do we realize that it is a choice of voluntarily making sacrifices now—or being told what to do without by Hitler and Hirohito—eventually?

Navy Department Alters V-1 Program

The navy has just announced certain modifications in the rules for V-1 which make it more attractive for men who will participate in this program. Following is a copy of the letter sent to the Navy Department:

The following changes in the V-1 Accredited College program are effective this date:

"(1) A student at the time of his enlistment will indicate his choice for either V-5 or V-7. The student may change his course later at his desires.

"(2) Students who thus indicate their desire for future V-5 status will thereby become eligible to take civilian pilot training during the freshman or sophomore years.

"(3) Under the original V-1 plan a student who for any reason failed to remain in college for two years or who failed to pass the V-1 classification examination with a sufficiently high grade was immediately put into active service as a V-1 apprentice seaman. Under the new plan any student in V-1 who fails to remain in college or fails to pass the examination will be permitted to go to one of the navy's flight training centers providing he can pass both the physical and mental examinations for prospective aviation officers. The mental examination will consist primarily of an intelligence test, which in the future will be given to all candidates for flight training. It now becomes possible for these students to become commissioned officers rather than apprentice seamen.

"(4) The standards for the V-1 physical examination will continue to be those applying to apprentice seamen."

Attention is also called to the fact that sophomores who enlist in class V-1 before the end of the present academic year may take the comprehensive examination originally scheduled for May 1, 1942, in March of 1943. Under this new plan they are, therefore, not to be transferred to class V-5 or 5-7 until the end of the next academic year. This gives sophomores an opportunity to complete another year of their college course.

F. Swift,
Dean

Honorary Societies

GOLD KEY

At the suggestion of President Mills, last Thursday the whole corporation staged a general clean-up day. All exam papers and other iron ware were given over for National Defense by the students.

Women aren't the only group who go in for a new Easter bonnet every spring. It is with great expectancy that we await the new headgear of the Gold Key members who have modestly admitted that they have been shopping around lately, especially in millinery departments. Rumor has it that Prof. B. F. Ladd will issue forth in one of the Daché creations.

BLUESTOCKINGS

The Bluestockings had a run Thursday night. They caught it up at Southwick, where they elected run-stops for next year. These are: Faith Prior '43, president; Mary Perry '44, vice-president; Margaret Delano '44, secretary; Margaret Palmer '44, treasurer; Alison Carr '44, social chairman. Professor Dean gave themselves a lisle reenforcement with gave a catch-as-catch-can speech. They ice cream brownies and put themselves away in favor of ankle socks until fall.

MORTAR BOARD

At the Mortar Board initiation banquet Tuesday evening Mrs. George Hagar acted as toastmistress, calling on Miss Margaret Rice '31, Mary Tuckerman '42 and Natalie Spear '43, who is to be president of the new Mortar Board group, for brief speeches. At the close Dean Simpson gave a very inspiring talk.

There are several pairs of skiis and ski poles under the stairs leading from the rifle range to the lower locker-room in the men's gym. Will ski troops and team members please check and see if they are yours?

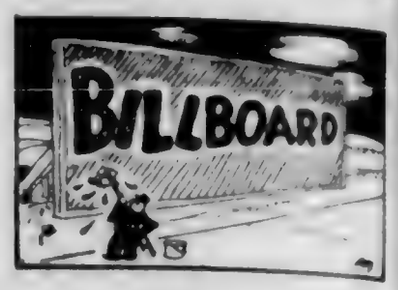
Sophomore Aides Held Initiation Thursday

[illegible] members of Sophomore Aides, sophomore women's honorary society will be initiated Thursday evening at 8:00 o'clock at Southwick. Priscilla Perkins, president of the present Sophomore Aides, said tonight.



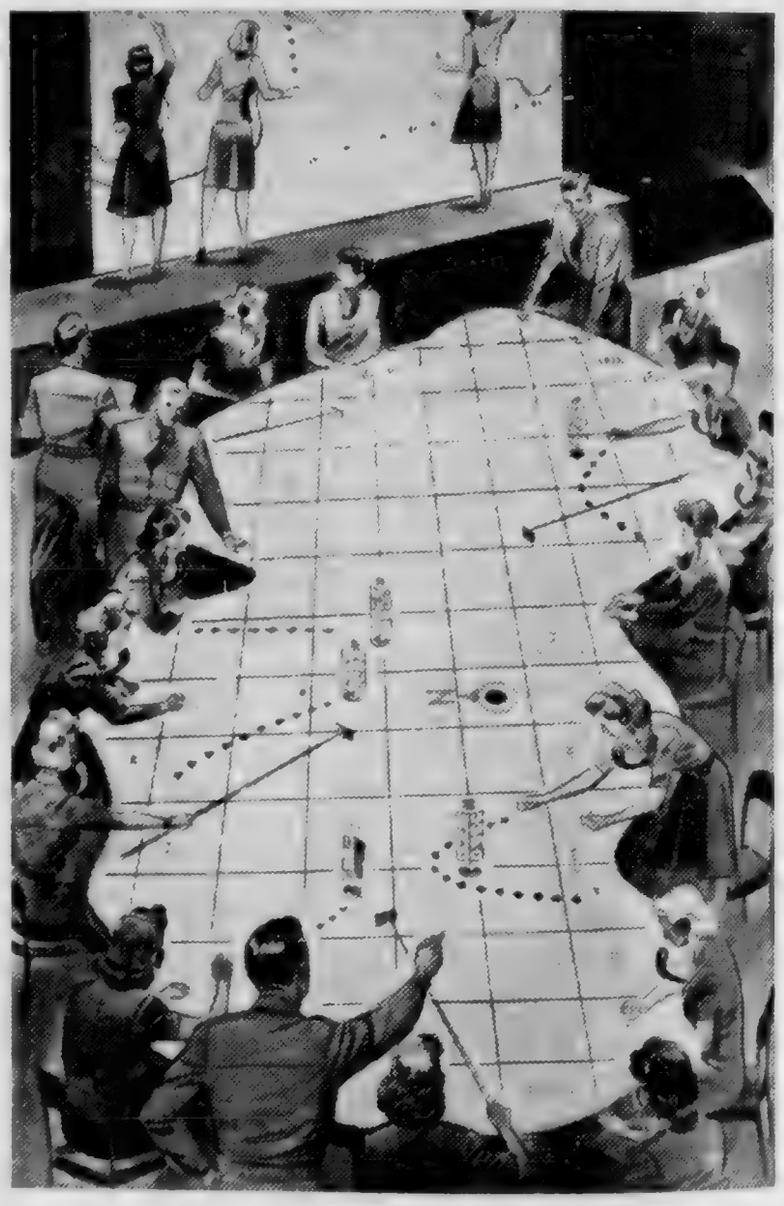
[illegible] will be required of all old and new Sophomore Aides.

A.B. Degree Breaks U.V.M. Tradition

Breaking a tradition of 138 years, Vermont, beginning next year will no longer require Greek and Latin for its A.B. degree. The A.B. degree will be given in 1943 to students completing the present classical, literary-scientific, social science and general science curricula. Sweeping aside many required courses, Vermont has now limited its required subjects to two years of English, one course in a foreign language of at least intermediate grade, one laboratory course in science, physical education for men and women and military science for men.

Each student is to have an adviser, and in consultation with his adviser he will choose a field in which he will do most of his studying. These fields are Language and Literature, Social Science, Mathematics and Science. The subjects required of the students in one of these fields is in addition to subjects required in general of all students. Chemistry students and secondary education students will continue receiving the B.S. degree.

BUY UNITED STATES DEFENSE BONDS AND STAMPS



There will be an important meeting of the University Players Friday, May 1, Room 1, North College, for election of officers.

SUMMER QUARTER AND SUMMER SESSION STUDENTS

All women students who plan to return either for the Summer Quarter, beginning June 1, or for the Summer Session, beginning July 8, are asked to consult the Dean of Women for approval of living places before making any final choice of rooms for either the summer quarter or the six weeks summer session.
Mary Jean Simpson, Dean of Women.

There will be a Gold Key Initiation on the steps of the Waterman Building on Tuesday, May 5, at 7.15 p.m.

There is a limited number of opportunities for employment in return for board and room during the long summer session. Any girl who is interested should leave her name at the office of the Dean of Women.

Friend or Enemy?

They're taking no chances

Day and night thousands of civilian volunteers at Army authorized observation posts report Aircraft Flash Messages to Army "filter" centers—by telephone. From this information, each plane's course is charted on filter maps... relayed to operations boards such as the one shown above—by telephone. Should checking prove the aircraft to be an enemy, the telephone would play an important part in the defense strategy... in warning endangered communities... in mobilizing civilian defense units.

Bell System men cooperated with Army authorities in designing and providing the telephone facilities used by the air defense system. This is but another example of a war-time job well done.

Kappa Phi Kappa Holds Annual Feed

National President Is Guest of Alpha Gamma

National Pres. Ralph F. Strebel, head of the School of Education, Syracuse University, and State Commissioner of Education Ralph E. Noble were the guests of Alpha Gamma chapter of Kappa Phi Kappa, national professional fraternity, at the annual spring banquet which was held last Wednesday evening on the third floor dining terrace of the Waterman Building. Pres. Roger W. Prior '43 presided.

Crisis

Commissioner Noble spoke very seriously concerning the crisis which those in the field of education are facing. Teaching today is a patriotic service, just as much so as many of the more glamorous services are patriotic. It takes more to be a teacher today than it did forty years ago, and those who are interested in it must, by word and by action, encourage young Americans to enter that profession and to stay with it, regardless of what better positions a country at war may have to offer. Education needs young men if America is to maintain its schools on just as high a plane during this crisis as in more normal times.

National President Strebel brought greetings from Nu Chapter in Syracuse University and expressed his admiration of the Vermont campus and the Waterman Building. Following up what Mr. Noble had said, he said that he was very much disturbed over the fatalistic attitude which is affecting the work of many college students. Highly intelligent leadership is needed in men of college caliber whether they are in the army or elsewhere. Even in the army men need all the education they can get.

President Strebel

Remarking on the war, President Strebel said that we've got to win it and we will win it, however long it may take. But after the war, what. We can never permit another catastrophe like this, and if we are to eliminate it, then it is only through education that it can be done. The continuance and perpetuation of the kind of civilization we want rests with education. This presents a definite challenge to the school teachers of America, a challenge to change the philosophy of life from the present-trended material one to one of spirit, morale and ethics. Teaching is a service to mankind that will be everlasting—providing for a better place in which to live. The teaching profession won't provide wealth, but it will provide abundant opportunities for service. And the only life worth living is the one that is challenged to service.

Appreciation was expressed to the outgoing officers for their excellent leadership during the past year and to the committee in charge of the evening's program. Officers for the coming year will be: President, Roger Prior '43; vice-president Robert Galipeau '43; secretary-treasurer, Alfred Amee '43; program chairman, Wendell Harvey '43; and faculty advisor, Dr. B. C. Douglass.

Men's Faculty Club To Hold Final Meeting

The Men's Faculty Club of the University of Vermont will hold its final meeting of the present academic year on Saturday, May 2, at 8 p.m. in the Faculty Lounge of the Waterman Building. The members of the Women's Faculty Club will be guests at this meeting, which will be addressed by Dr. Caroline Woodruff of Castleton.

Colorado University's enrollment last semester was 4,053, of whom 2,564 were men.

Dean Simpson Speaks At Buffalo Banquet

Dean Simpson was guest speaker at the 48th annual banquet of the Vermont Society of Buffalo, N. Y.

Linwood Law, native of Morrisville, chairman of the Buffalo banquet, arranged for Park Lane, May 1, as the scene of action. The first day of May is the birthday of Ira Allen, one of the founders of Vermont and the father of its university.

Miss Simpson, who has been dean of women at U. V. M. since 1937, spoke to the Vermont Society of Buffalo in 1935. She is a native of Craftsbury Common.

High School Boys Continue Studies

High school seniors and college students who prefer the army to the navy are now offered a new program for enlistment, according to an announcement from Dean Swift of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Offering deferment until the completion of four college years, the army suggests that those men now in college and those contemplating entering college this fall enlist in the Aviation Reserve.

Provided they meet physical requirements and maintain a satisfactory scholastic standard, they will be allowed to take their bachelor's degree, after which they will be absorbed by some branch of army aviation, probably in line for commissions.

Dean Swift says that complete details of the army's new plan have not yet been received but are expected soon. He invites inquiries from all high school men and others interested.

CAMPUS SING AND BLOCK DANCE

There will be a campus sing on Friday, May 1, for everyone. It will be held at 7.30 on the front campus, in front of the library. A Block Dance will follow and it will be the first one this year. Don't forget to come!

Michael Anselmo And Prof. Bennett To Give Recital

The spring faculty recital by Michael Anselmo, violinist, and Prof. Howard Bennett will be presented on Sunday, May 3, at Southwick Memorial at 8.30 p.m. Mr. Anselmo and Professor Bennett gave their first recital last autumn which was enjoyed immensely by all who attended.

Their second recital to be presented this coming Sunday will be composed of numbers especially appropriate for the spring season. The first number is to be Beethoven's Sonata No. 5 in F Major, Opus 24 ("Sprng"), which is composed of three movements, Allegro, Adagio molto espressivo, Allegro molto (Scherzo), Allegro ma non troppo (Rondo). The sonata is for violin and piano.

The second part of the program will consist of Cesar Franck's Sonata in A Major for Violin and Piano. This sonata also consists of four movements, the Allegretto ben moderato, Allegro, Recitative-Fantasia, and the Allegretto poco mosso.

The last number will be the Concerto for Violin, Opus 61 (Rondo) by Ludwig von Beethoven. All those who have heard recitals given in past seasons by Mr. Anselmo and Professor Bennett will be glad to know that they will have the chance to hear another one this year, and those who have not yet had the pleasure to attend a recital will now have the chance.

Sugar Registration Cards

All students who are eighteen years of age whose parents do not live in Burlington will be required to register for sugar ration books in the Waterman Building from May 4 to 7 inclusive during the hours of 9.00 a.m. to 5.00 p.m.

The father or mother of any student who commutes daily from an outside area will apply for the ration card for such individual. The space for registration will be designated in the Waterman Building on the bulletin board near the information bureau.

Methodist College Group to Meet Sunday

The Methodist College group is entertaining the Epworth League Sunday evening at 7.30. The league will bring the speaker, Mr. Morrill, who will talk and show pictures on the Philippine Islands. As this topic vitally concerns all of us, it should behoove some of you on campus to come and learn what you can about this part of the world. If you don't care to learn, you can always come and sing our hymns. We try to do our part, won't you try to cooperate?

Debaters Conclude Successful Season

Seventeen Colleges Met U. V. M. Varsity Team

Debating for the current year opened with the University of Vermont and Bates College taking to an exhibition debate at a debate clinic at St Johnsbury Academy, where there were assembled the coaches of debating and squads from several Vermont and New Hampshire high schools. During the season debates have been held with the University of New Hampshire, Keene Teachers College, St Lawrence University, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Boston University, Boston Teachers College, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Worcester Polytechnic Institute, Middlebury, Lehigh, Lafayette, College of the City of New York, Brooklyn, Upsala, Seton Hall and St Michael's. The majority of the intercollegiate debates have been of the non-decision type. In those cases where decisions have been rendered Vermont has won from Worcester Polytechnic Institute, Middlebury and Keene Teachers College. Close decisions have been lost to Massachusetts Institute of Technology and St Michael's.

Those active in intercollegiate debating this year are: Julius Cohen, Fulvio Barbieri, Dean Zwick, John Pelopulos, Abraham Swartz, and Robert Norton, Faye Lipman, Janet Clark, Carolyn Brown, Lola Blumberg.

A good sized freshman squad has participated in untramural debates as well as meeting other college freshman teams and high schools around the State. The members of the freshman squad, taking part in debating, include David Wheeler, Robert Smith, Peter Hochbrueckner, Henry Braibowich, Ruth Lindau, Frances Donahue, Adelle Berman, Doris Rindler, Mary Littell, Kathryn Marcott. Debates have been held with Middlebury freshmen, Dartmouth freshmen and the following high schools: Essex Junction, Bethel, North East Hardwick and Barre.

Gardnermen Face Soldiers

Fort Contingent Boasts Experienced Line-up

The varsity baseball team plays its first home game tomorrow, and in keeping with the spirit of the times, they'll be up against the Army. No, it's not that they're being coy about filling out their registration cards, but they are to tangle with the best of Ethan Allen.

What little could be ascertained about the post team indicates that they are not sending a set up: all of the soldiers have had baseball experience previous to their donning the khaki.

The men are drawn from the 84th Quartermaster Battalion, the 47th Ordnance Detachment and the Medical and Quartermaster Details of the 1110 C. A. S. U. Their coaches, who are also not unacquainted with the game, are Lieutenant Park, former coach of Thetford Academy, and Morale officer at the fort, Lieutenant Taft of the 84th, Lieutenant Guilbert of the C. A. S. U. and Lieutenant Misner of the 47th.

The soldiers will have Scott handling the big mitt at the initial sack, Ferruche, a former Class A player in the keystone position, and Karafchak, who played in the Buffalo intercity league, patroling the hot corner. Playing short will be Roog, a former high school and sand lot player.

On the lawn, there will be Sabel, a New York amateur in the number eight slot, while Edgley, a Manhattan College star, will handle anything that comes his way. Stavriou, who played in an American Legion League, starts in right field.

Gwudzy, up from the Connecticut Eastern League, will be on the mound for the Army, with Stanley, who has seen plenty of seasoning in semi-pro ball, the soldier backstop.

The Cats' starting lineup is not definitely known, but Larry Gardner will probably field the same team that was involved in the Winooski Park disaster.

Tommy Clairmont will cover first, while Larry Killick and Russ West will make up the keystone combine. With Hazen Wood still out with an injured gam, Milt Kaufman will fill in at third. Bill Benoit is due to patrol the pasture in left field, and sluggin' Sig Sysko and Joe Corbett will retain their center and right field positions as usual.

Commander-in-chief behind the plate is to be Joe Margolis. Just who will serve them up to the service men is not definitely known; the finger points to Big Al Shaw, however.

Catamounts to Open at Home Without Third-Baseman Wood

Veteran's Knee Injury Keeps Him On Bench

Coach Larry Gardner's nine must again do without the services of Hazen Wood, veteran third baseman, in tomorrow's home opener against the Post team, a doctor's report revealed today.

Wood pinned his knee in last week's Middlebury game. The accident removed him from further play in the middle of that contest and also kept him on the bench when the Cats met St. Michael's the next day.

The knee buckled in a play at third base when a Middlebury runner slid in in the fifth inning. Wood has had to hobble about ever since and hasn't even been able to engage in the daily workouts. It is doubtful that he'll be ready for Wednesday's game here with St. Michael's.

Milt Kaufman, jackrabbit utility infielder, is expected to be at third tomorrow. Kaufman, star basketball forward, appeared in Wood's place at Winooski last week and performed creditably.

Wood's hitting, however, will be keenly missed. A left-handed batter, he is a sharp and consistent hitter. In his one turn at bat before being hurt at Middlebury he slashed out a long three bagger.

Wood's loss is especially felt, coming as it does on the heels of the departure of Capt. Johnny Spasyk to the army. With Bob Doherty out of action for the season, Wood is the third regular the squad has lost.

Panther Net Match Switched to Here

The varsity tennis squad meets Middlebury here tomorrow in a match originally scheduled for Middlebury. The May 15 match with the Panthers will be played away.

The Catamounts' probable players, in order of their rankings, are Capt. Sam Foti, Vin Manjonev, Bill Wicker, Tom Keighley, Billy West and Wally Weisman. The doubles pairings include Foti and Manjonev, Wicker and Weisman, and Keighley ad West.

Beaten in their first two starts, the Cats seek to score their first win at the expense of the Panthers. Vermont lost in Connecticut last week to Connecticut University and Trinity.

Combs Pitches Frosh to Win

Coach Fuzzy Evans' freshman nine won its first game of the season Wednesday, routing Vermont Junior College, 14 to 7, at Montpelier. The frosh had previously tied one and lost one.

Ray Combs, sturdy lefthander, went all the way on the mound for the Kittens, distributing nine hits effectively. Combs struck out seven and drove out his team's longest hit, a triple, in the fifth inning.

The frosh pounded Preem Marineau, a righthander, for twelve safe blows, Billy Mahar, Chick LaPointe, Whit Switzer, and Bud Lippman collecting two apiece. LaPointe's pair of singles drove in four runs.

A five-run rally in the fifth inning iced the contest for the Kittens, and they added another score in the eighth, and three more in the ninth, allowing Combs to coast.

Young Austin Wood, Junior College catcher and brother of Vermont's Hazen Wood, hit a home run for his team.

Postmen Travel To Meet Colby

Mott Leads Runners Against Maine Foe

Coach Archie Post and his Cat tracksters embarked for Maine and Colby College this afternoon, set to post another victory on the books.

The Mules suffered a smashing setback at the hands of M. I. T. last week-end, thus boosting the hopes of the Green and Gold who were simultaneously trimming Union's medalists.

Capt. Bert Mott will lead the Vermont thinclads in tomorrow's fracas at Waterville. To date Mott has compiled one of the most enviable records that any trackster has been able to present in some years, and if all goes well, there will be no relinquishing of that goal tomorrow afternoon.

Johnny Reed looks like Post's second best bet, probably in the century and 220 yard run, while Bart Barry, completely recovered from illness will see plenty of action in the hurdles.

The Webster brothers will likewise be back in the running.

The following men are making the trip: Mott, J. Goss, Reed, C. Webster, F. Webster, Barry, Farley, Paterson, Goodrich, Akley, Pulleyn, Grosvenor, Parker, Chesarone, St. Marv, G. Daly, J. Corliss and Lockwood.

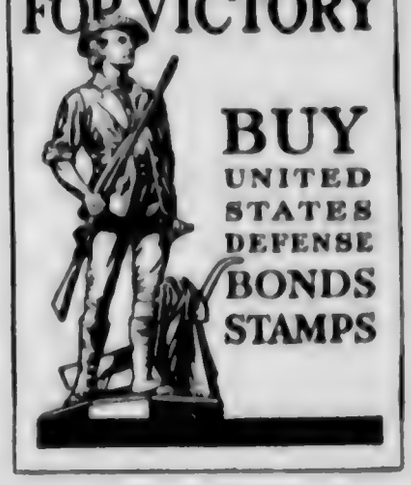
Mountaineers Nip Frosh Tracksters

Vermont's Kitten thinclads were today looking towards Wednesday's meeting with Lyndon Institute and St. Johnsbury Academy to boost their percentage back over the .500 mark.

The frosh tracksters took it on the chin from Green Mountain Junior College Wednesday at Centennial Field, 60½-50½.

Lennie Paul was the big gun for the Green and Gold, but his three firsts in the 220-yard dash, the 440-yard run, and the century failed to overcome the points that the Poultney lads amassed in piling up numerous second and thirds from start to finish.



Chas Smith and Win Jacobs traversed the low and high hurdles in record time to boost Sherry Fogg's hopes, while Charlie Andrews outplodded the field in the one mile classic.

Leggett of Green Mountain soared high in the pole vault to establish a new freshman record at Centennial. The mark set by the downstater was 11 ft. 9⅛ ins.

Home Ec Club Meets —Officers Installed

The final meeting of the year of the Bertha Terrill Home Economics Club was held April 29 in the Brick Barn.

The following officers for the coming year were installed: President, Florence Bevins '43; vice-president, Beverly Carr '43; secretary, Kathleen Easton '43; treasurer, Catherine Walker '43; publicity chairman, Lois Brown '45; program chairman, Marjorie Smith '43; social chairman, Ramona Hawthorn '44.

Shirley Needham is going to represent this club at the National Home Economics Association meeting held in Boston in the middle of June.

Miss Sommerfeld gave a very interesting and enlightening talk on clothes designed for the working woman for the duration of the war and on how the textile industry is being affected by the war. She has just returned from Washington, D. C., where she has been working on these things. She brought back an exhibit which the group found very interesting.

Enthusiastic Crowd Attends Prom In Gym Saturday Night

Jack Collins Proves To Be Best Local Band At Functions This Year

Saturday night highlighted Junior Week when an enthusiastic U. V. M. crowd patronized the Junior Prom.

Jack Collins fulfilled his promise and gave U. V. M. the best local band that has played at any function here this year. There was disappointment on the part of none that a big name band had not been secured for the Prom.

Jerry Paulison, the petite girl vocalist, rendered some solid hits and Wes Beandy lived up to his reputation of being the top skin beater in the State of Vermont.

A threefold purpose of having a local band was accomplished. The Security Fund was aided, the student was given a price he could afford, and the students realized that Jack Collins was a "comer" in the field of Jazz.

The gym was decorated in a spring motif with multi-colored crepe paper flowers scattered plentifully about the room. Gay-colored streamers were twirled from the ceiling and the whole effect was one of gaiety.

Thus our congratulations and compliments are herewith presented to the Junior Prom committee for a scintillating event.

Theatre Club To Present For Fund

"George Washington Slept Here," another comedy hit by George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart, will be presented by the Burlington Theater Club on May 5 for the University Security Fund. It is the first of two performances to be given in Burlington, the second being the following night for members af the Theater Club and soldiers from Fort Ethan Allen.

The play, which is enjoying a successful run in New York City, is locally under the supervision of Mrs. Paul K. French, wife of a member of the Medical School faculty. Both times it will be given on the stage of the Southwick Memorial building.

Prof. Elliott Merrick Author Of New Book, "Northern Nurse"

A new book has appeared on the booksellers' stands. It is Northern Nurse by Elliott Merrick, author of Frost and Fire and From This Hill Look Down.

Elliott Merrick is an instructor in the English department. He has written this time about his wife's adventures, heartbreaking, back-breaking work, in the Grenfell missions of Labrador.

Carrying the story from the time of Kay Austen's completion of training in an Australian hospital, with a montage of nursing in the bush country of Australia, through the job of caring for a neurotic female patient in Paris, Mr. Merrick starts his nurse off to Labrador when she meets another nurse, just returned from there, who tells of the opportunities for nursing service in the frozen missions.

Written in the first person, the tale carries conviction as it travels through windstorms, rain, and snow; riding canoes, dogsleds, and home-made barges; walking swiftly with snowshoes in twenty below weather and slogging through soft snow that packs to the racquettes in a thaw.

There are babies to be delivered whose mothers already have too many children; a three-house settlement all laid up with dysentery and no one within miles to help; hernia, appendicitis, with the mission doctor himself being operated on hundreds of miles away in Toronto; splints to make; teeth to pull. All these problems and a hundred others this northern nurse met and conquered.

Then there's the story of Christmas, with the snow up to the eaves, and the hunters back from their traplines for the night; the packages which had arrived months before with clothing and axes and knives; the Estey organ sent from the company in Brattleboro as a special gift to the mission, and the joy of the people receiving these gifts.

It's convincing. The people are real. One wants to know them better, to be part of the adventure, to join the mission and do a year's stretch up there in the clean, windwashed country and watch the sunset at 11 o'clock, and have a try at fixing the bursted water line.

Northern Nurse is published by Scribner's.

Dr. John B. Wheeler Noted Vermont Alumnus Dies

Studied Under Holmes; Was Famous Surgeon

Prepared by David S. Kramer '44

Dr. John B. Wheeler

One of U. V. M.'s oldest and most faithful grads died at the Mary Fletcher Hospital on Friday morning, May 1. There are very few men in this world today who have gotten out of life all the things that Dr. John Brookes Wheeler has.

He was born August 13, 1853, son of John B. Wheeler, Vermont '46, and the grandson of the Rev. John Wheeler (Dartmouth, 1816) who was president of the University of Vermont from 1833 to 1849. At the age of seventeen Doctor Wheeler met with an accident which deprived him of his right eye for the rest of his life. In the same year, 1870, he entered as a freshman at U. V. M. and was initiated into the Sigma Phi Society.

After graduating from the University with an A.B. degree in 1875, he attended Harvard Medical School and studied surgery under the famous surgeon and author, Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes. Doctor Wheeler has often told that Holmes was the only professor in the whole college of medicine at Harvard who had the ingenuity to keep his two o'clock classes awake for the remainder of the afternoon. Doctor Wheeler obtained his M.D. degree in 1879 and interned for two years at the Massachusetts General Hospital. Following this he took postgraduate courses in Vienna, Berlin and Strassburg.

Upon his return in 1882 he practiced surgery up until the early 1930's. From 1883 to 1884 he was the city health officer here in Burlington as well as being school commissioner from 1887 to 1889. He was instructor of clinical and minor surgery in the University of Vermont School of Medicine from 1890 to 1900. From 1900 to 1924 he was professor of surgery, thence as professor emeritus in surgery. He received his Doctor of Science degree from the University of Vermont in 1921, and in the same year sat for the oil painting that is now hung in the Billings Library. He Pilgrimage At 9 A.M. Senior Prom At 9 P.M.

The Class Day of the class of 1942 will begin at nine o'clock Friday morning, May 15. Sarah Wilson is the general chairman of this part of the Commencement program.

The Senior Class pilgrimage will take place at nine o'clock, Jerry Ditore is the chairman. During the ceremony the class will drape the statues of Lafayette and Ira Allen in academic gowns.

At ten a.m. there will be a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the University and the Agricultural College in the Wilbur Library at the Robert Hull Fleming Museum.

At 11 a.m. there will be a Phi Beta Kappa meeting and at one o'clock will be held the University Trustees' luncheon. Both of these events will take place in the Waterman Building.

At two in the afternoon there will be a rehearsal of Commencement, and at 3.30 the Class Day Exercises will begin on the College Green. The president's address will be given by M. Jeanne Woolley, the vice-president of the Senior Class, in the absence of John J. Spasyk, the class president. Roger Hunting is in charge of the Pipes ceremony, and the Pipe Oration will be delivered by Hazen Wood. Roger Hunting will speak for Boulder Society, and Fulvio Bardossi will address the undergraduate body. Loren Shores will present the Lafayette Address, and the Ira Allen Address will be delivered by Mary Tuckerman. The class poem will be presented to the class by Jean Young and Myrna French.

Barbara Butterfield is the chairman of the Ivy Ceremony, and Harriet Wood heads the Banner Committee. Fred Logan is the Class Marshal.

Following the Class Day Exercises the

Jones and Wheeler In VCA Chapel Service

The Chapel services, which were held in the Ira Allen Chapel, Wednesday morning at 10, were especially arranged by the V. C. A.

David Wheeler and Llewellyn Jones read selections depicting various scenes in the life of Jesus, after which the entire congregation sang "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God."

An organ selection "Prelude in C Minor" by Chopin followed the readings.

The services closed with the singing of "Nearer My God to Thee."

Key And Serpent Initiates Seven

Sophomores Wait Table; Entertain Girls' Dorms

On April 30, Key and Serpent held its initiation for the new members. Before the banquet, which was held on the terrace of the Waterman building, the seven sophomores made a visit at the girls' dining halls. Larry Killick and Samuel Otis displayed their knowledge of recipes and waitress ability at Robinson, while Frank Pierce went to Prospect House, John Reed to Warner House, Thomas Keighley entertained at Allen House, and Bob White and Bart Barry gave their charming and talented performances at Grassmount and Sanders, respectively.

Professor Tupper and Professor Rowell were guests at the banquet, which was attended by both this year's and next year's members of Key and Serpent.

Following the banquet, the informal initiation was continued in a tour of Allen House, the Theta House, the Pi Phi House, the Alpha Xi House, and the dormitories—Robinson, Redstone, and Slade. Deacon Killick presided over several ceremonies at the different houses with his little black book, "Government Administration." The initiation of the new members in their tails and top hats was very impressive and instaring.

The Vermont Cynic

The Official Student Newspaper of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College

VOL. 60 · MAY 5, 1942 NO. 53

After receiving a deluge of criticism on an editorial advocating compulsory election for class officers we have decided to come to a slightly more sane and democratic conclusion in the matter. This criticism is surprising, probably more people professed concernment in this than voted in the elections a short time ago.

Two of the possible solutions or remedies for the apathetic attitude shown by the students are: (1) Compulsory election; (2) abolition of class officers. We choose number two because of the unpopularity of number one.

There is no need of class officers now that U. V. M. has student government except perhaps in the senior class. The government is a body representative of each class. These representatives are elected from student body as a whole, not by class, and are not as easily affected by campus politics as are the class election farces since they include students from each section of college life and as a result the various class activities would cater to the various phases and groups of college life.

With no elections at all fraternity and sorority politics would be cut to a minimum. The class elections are the fraternities' greatest field of politics; almost every election in recent years has had a distinct tint of such politics. Not to cast any words at the present class officers most students consider the elections such a comedy that class officer berths are no longer the coveted spots they used to be.

R. W. Bisson '45, E. J. Coughlin '44, R. H. Galipeau '43, W. J. Ryan '44, K. H. Stokes '45.

The Owls have experienced an attack by an unknown marauder and an investigation regarding the two broken windows, is being conducted by local sleuth.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

Phil Chesarone '43 and Thomas Moran '44 were initiated on May 3.

DELTA PSI

The Junior Week picnic was held at Willie Wicker's camp at Cedar Beach. Swimming, eating, softball and other diversions were enjoyed.

Bob Mathacker from Delta Phi Fraternity at Union College visited at the Delta Psi House this week-end.

SIGMA PHI

A very successful picnic was held at Braelock on May 3, under the management of Dick Haye and Bob Pond. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morway chaperoned the picnic.

Joe Oakes, ex-'42 was a guest at the House over the week-end.

Sgt. Jack Burgess, ex-'42 will be in Burlington for a month while being transferred from the Infantry to the Air Corps.

PHI SIGMA DELTA

On Friday, May 1, a testimonial dinner was held for Edward Reiter, local attorney and former member of Epsilon Chapter of Phi Sigma Delta. At the dinner, recognition was made of the fourth wedding anniversary of Irving Lisman, an alumnus.

A fraternity Junior Week picnic was held for the alumni, the active members and their dates by Mr. and Mrs. Reiter at their summer home at the Sand Dunes. A baseball game was included in the afternoon's activities between the alumni and the active members.

Sam Levine of Rutland and Nathan Chernichaw of Newark, N. J., were guests at the Phi Sig House this week-end.

KAPPA SIGMA

After the brief shower on Sunday, the Kappa Sigs held their picnic at Oak Ledge joint. Four teams of softball were made up, the captains being Pontiff Cain, Larry Killick, and Pierre Lewkowicz. Playing ability was not considered to any extent. John Royer, Larry Killick and Joseph Corbett displayed their unusual talent in strategic methods of military attack during the afternoon activities. Pierre Lewkowicz honored the group with a solo as well as being a victorious captain in softball.

PHI DELTA THETA

The Phi Delt picnic was held at the summer home of Charles Carver at South Hero. Several of the picnickers went swimming in the icy lake and one group had a lovely boat ride until the boat sank. Bill Benoit '43 showed his exceptional ability in his former capacity at being a professional guard. Warren, J. P. Nestler, Alejandro Antonio Duque, Jr., and Martin Boucher visited at the Phi Delt House over the week-end and they also attended the picnic. If they were lucky and one of the few, they returned to Burlington without a docking.

SIGMA NU

Last Saturday the "Lodge" was the scene of a hot old time, but the Burlington Fire Department took things well in hand when the fire chief, 5 engines, two police cars, and a police inspector came to the "Lodge" to help the boys air out a smoke-filled room. A vote of thanks is owed Guy "Corby" for his heroic act of entering the smoke-filled room to save the only deck of poker cards at the "Lodge."

Herb Long went on a hurried trip to his home town to confer with his draft board. Results: Draft board reports that MacArthur will be able to hold out another month until Herb arrives.

Red Fowler is stil making a play at the old hit tune called: "The Vogler Boatman."

Final Flash: Air Flight Boys receive checks. All brothers will resume studying next week when heads have cleared up.

NOTICE

The last meeting of the Board will take place Thursday, May 7, in the Williams Science Hall.

All members please be present or accounted for at the usual time.

Advanced Military

All men going into advanced military are required to enlist first in the Enlisted Reserve Corps. If they fail, or are dropped at any time from either, they are subject to call immediately for active duty. But they are not subject to call while pursuing the advanced course.

Federal Inspection

The R. O. T. C. battalion of the University of Vermont was reviewed at the annual federal inspection, April 29 and 30, by Col. Edward L. Hooper. The American Legion trophy was presented to the best company, the Sons of the American Revolution medals to the outstanding military science students in each class, and the Loyal Legion saber to the captain of Champlain Sabers. R. L. Carlson '42, E. S. Germain '43, G. J. Holden '44, and R. R. Smith '45 received the Sons of the American Revolution medals. R. L. Carlson '42 received the Loyal Legion saber award. L. A. Weaver '43 got the Craig trophy for his first place in the Randolph Hearst meet. He also received the Connor medal for the highest cumulative score for the year.

U. V. M. Rifle Team, Notable Record for 1941-42

U. V. M.'s rifle team captured twenty out of twenty-six matches. This included the capturing of first place in the Randolph Hearst intercollegiate competition and a second in the First Corps Area intercollegiate matches.

In four matches shoulder-to-shoulder, U. V. M. dropped the one at Boston against Boston University, won over Harvard at Cambridge, over Norwich at Burlington, and took third spot in the New England Rifle League match at New London, Conn.

Dropping below the scores of Yale, U. S. Coast Guard, Pittsburgh, West Virginia and Montana State, in the regular national intercollegiate series of matches, U. V. M. won over Wentworth, Northwestern, Tufts, New Hampshire, Connecticut State, Bowdoin, Harvard, Norwich, Rhode Island, Lowell Tech., Worcester Polytechnic Institute, Brown, M. I. T., University of Dayton, Mississippi State, Gettysburg College, Maine, R. P. I., Ohio State and Stanford.

The team comprises H. E. Crossley '44, Burlington; G. J. Holden, Jr., '44, Burlington; W. P. Leamy '42, Fair Haven; G. Manson '45, Burlington; F. W. Miller '44, Longmeadow, Mass.; J. H. Pratt '42, North Clarendon; R. L. Swift '43, Fair Haven; R. P. Story '43, Rutland; J. H. Tennien '43, Pittsford; R. E. Waldo '44, Burlington; and L. A. Weaver '43, Starksboro.

Class Day Program

President's Reception will take place at Southwick at 8.30 p.m., with alumni cordially welcome.

The Senior Prom will also be held at Southwick, at nine o'clock. Nancy Goodwin and Allen Moore are the chairmen of the Prom.

Do You Know That:

1. The growth of the trees in Colonial Field is not affected by the amount of rain which falls during the year?

2. There are five needles on each of a White Pine and three on each of a Red?

3. The amount of wood formed by a pine tree is in direct proportion to the surface area of the needles on it?

4. Such great discoveries as these are produced on the south end of the fourth floor of Sci Hall?

This is the Gospel truth and was obtained in part from E. S. Irwin, research fellow in botany for the past two years. Mr. Irwin himself carried on the experiment concerning the relationship between the surface area of needles and the amount of wood formed. With the aid of a microscopic projector he was able to measure small portions of the tree trunk in the shape of paraboloids and then compute the volume of the trunk. This was a very lengthy task, extending from last summer until a short time ago. The surface area of the needles was obtained by measuring the cross-section magnified

They Fool-Proof Engineers' Labs

"We are as proud as punch of our new equipment, and we will be only too glad to have the old grads come back and weep on our shoulders because they didn't have anything a quarter as fine to work with," says Prof. R. E. McKee, head of the Electrical Engineering Department, about the new electrical engineering laboratory in the sun-lighted basement of the Waterman Building. Dozens of new motors are lined up in pairs the length of the room. At one end are those which handle direct current; in the center, those converting A. C. to D. C. power and back again; at the north end are the alternating current motors. Along the walls are new control panels. Testing tables, movable about the whole laboratory, have been constructed by the technicians. All equipment is protected with fool-proof switches. The old equipment dating from 1880 will be cleaned and mounted in the rotunda section of the laboratory. A

How A Freshman Picks His College

What are the things that help decide freshmen to go to a certain college?

A survey of the freshman class bears out the old belief that women nurture family pride. About fifty of them took out time to mention that some relative, a father, grandfather, cousin or sister had attended U. V. M. These relatives, they admit, may have had some influence in their choosing Vermont. There weren't more than a dozen boys who mentioned mothers or uncles at U. V. M., even though a check of the records shows that many of them did have fathers, grandfathers and great grandfathers who stalked the halls of the Old Mill.

One boy, however, was proud to claim direct descent from Dan Vilas.

How Did You Hear of U. V. M.?

How did you first hear of the University of Vermont? they were asked. Answers ranged from, "Living in Vermont, how could I help it?" and "Is there any other university this side of the Atlantic?" to, "My dad taught R. O. T. C. at U. V. M. before I was born and has always raved about the college," or "I was traveling through Burlington with my family when I was small, saw the campus and decided then to come to U. V. M."

Three boys said they chose U. V. M. to get Reserve Officers' Training.

Invitations to Kake Walk switched four girls onto tracks leading up to Burlington.

A couple of dozen students fell in love with the state because they summered here and thought it would be a good place for the winter, too.

The men and women were about equally divided who responded to the fond reminiscences of alumni.

High School Teachers

High School teachers had about twice as much influence over the girls as over the boys in recommending the University of Vermont. But twice as many boys as girls took into consideration U. V. M.'s high scholastic standing among educational institutions when choosing it.

About half the class said one of the deciding factors was some special course of study, such as Prof. Frederick Tupper's Shakespeare, or the College of Agriculture's nutrition course; the pre-medical and pre-law training, or the fully accredited Engineering College.

Several students, mostly women, said they were influenced by newspaper publicity in making the University of Vermont their educational choice.

Nearly thirty said they had had good times at high school conferences, 4-H conventions and contests, and music festivals held here at the University that they wanted more of it.

Twenty freshman men said they had captained high school athletic teams and planned to participate in college games. Six girls had had similar honors.

About a hundred students said they had received scholarships of one kind or another and hoped to earn more while at tending college here.

Freshmen Have Shrunk; Beat Oldsters, However

Amherst, Mass. (ACP)—The average freshman this year is younger, lighter and shorter than the average member of the class of '43, according to studies by Prof. Allison Marsh.

This year's average is 18.31 years old, as compared with 18.38; he weighs 147, a drop of four pounds; and his height is 69.8 inches, as against 70.01. One man out of five in both classes is six feet tall.

The drop in height and weight is a reversal of trend, Professor Marsh points out, for "compared with by-gone averages the present student is on the whole heavier, taller and younger than the giants of yesteryear." Improved environment, more medical care and more extensive physical education programs in high schools are factors in changing youth's features, he points out.

"On Wisconsin" Was Written For Minn.

Madison, Wis. (ACP)—The famous college song, "On Wisconsin" was originally written for the University of Minnesota.

Hard-pressed for money, William T. Purdy composed the tune to compete for a $1,000 prize offered by the University of Minnesota for a new football song. When Carl Beck of New York, a friend of Purdy, heard it, he wrote the words and presumed Purdy to give it to the University of Wisconsin instead.

Played for the first time on the eve of the Wisconsin-Minnesota game in 1909, "On Wisconsin" was an immediate hit. Since then it has been adapted, with changes of words, by numerous colleges throughout the United States.

When Purdy died in poverty in 1918, Wisconsin Alumni and friends gave $2,500 to his family. Later the state provided scholarships at the University for the composer's two children.

Mr. G. L. Millikan Receives Trophy

Alfred Amee Presenting Friendship Cup at Campus Sing

It was time to look at the past year there have been campus sings held on the library steps but none have compared to the sing as what it was participated last Friday night. Professor Millikan and the students in singing college songs and many old favorites taken from the Campus Sing books. Professor Millikan and the six students who have become as well known as their excellent voices sang three selections as their part proved was fun. Eva Lasky, Gail Klinger 42, Dorothy Armantt 44, Phyllis Taylor 44, Ita Casey 44, Florence Cudworth 42, Jean Hall 43, Marian Melby 43, Jean Vogler 44, Margaret Lange 44 and Dorothy Carter 44 sang "Black Out Blues" their rendition of "Blue Skies." The Sigma Phis during the course of the evening gave an impromptu sing for the singers.

Because Friday evening was Professor Millikan's last term to lead a campus sing it was in a sense a farewell. On behalf of the students of the University Alfred Amee expressed the student sentiment in paying hearty tribute to the leadership and understanding which Professor Millikan has so unselfishly given to the University both as a teacher and as a friend. He was presented with a cup as a token of the appreciation and activities which have meant so much to the school. Professor Millikan has assisted to a very great extent in promoting the campus sing.

After the sing, refreshments pop corn balls were passed out to everyone as they crowded over to the parking space at the north end of the Waterman Building where the Black V dance, the first of its kind was held. The weather may be termed only cool at the opening of the dance but the efficient organization and management of the campus sing and the dance is due to the capable efforts of Prof. E. F. Ladd, Prof. George Millikan, Alfred Amee and Marjorie Abell. The whole hearted cooperation of the student body and the donations made by most of the sororities and fraternities, namely Alpha Chi Omega, Alpha Xi Delta, Delta Delta Delta, Delta Phi Epsilon, Kappa Alpha Theta, Pi Beta Phi, Sigma Gamma, Kappa Sigma, Phi Delta Theta and Sigma Nu contributed much in making the event the success that it was.

A word should be said for Professor Ladd and his connection with the campus sings. He was the originator of the campus sing here at the University three years ago and it is because of his sincere interest and his great enthusiasm that the sings have been promoted and have had such success.

[illegible] Belardinelli, former Vermont [illegible] and basketball star, is currently [illegible] first-line pitchers on the U. S. Naval Air Station ball club, Jacksonville, Fla.

The Flyers squad, composed of many [illegible] college and professional players, [illegible] by George Earnshow, the great [illegible] who teamed up with Lefty [illegible] Connie Mack's world champion [illegible] Athletics a dozen years ago. [illegible]elli graduated from here with [illegible] in 1940. A three-sport athlete, [illegible] for Larry Gardner's nine, was a [illegible]ing center in basketball, and [illegible] on the gridiron. A member of Kappa Sigma, his home is in South [illegible], Conn.

[illegible] Anse has turned in some good performances for the Navy outfit. A few weeks ago, he went the route against the Boston Braves in an exhibition game, and although beaten, 6 to 1, he gave up only six hits and struck out as many. He was scheduled to start on the hill in the Flyers' latest game, against the University of Florida.

Belardinelli patterns his pitching style after that of Big Ed Walsh, the Chicago White Sox immortal. Anse studied under Walsh in the Northern League during his summers here. Walsh believed in leaning far back on his right foot at the completion of his windup. As he shifted weight, he would step far forward on his left foot to gain the greatest power from body momentum on the pitch.

Always a picture hurler, the six-foot, 200-pound Belardinelli says, "The harder I pitch the better I feel. I don't ease up on any of them." He is owned by the Washington Senators.

Cat Trackmen Humble Colby

Mott Gains Five Firsts As Mules Bow, 96-42

It looked very much today as though Bert Mott might find himself rated as one of the classiest runners in the East. Big Bert, Vermont's human cannonball, led the array of Green and Gold tracksters at Colby Saturday, copping five firsts and more than a quarter of his team's total points.

While Mott garnered the points and more than a little glory his teammates were not exactly taking life easy, but poured all they had into the meet and came away with a 96⅓ to 42⅔ win.

It was a highly underrated Cat that claimed its victory out over the northern collegians. Undoubtedly the Mules had visioned trampling the Vermonters under foot in every event even though they suffered a worse trouncing at the hands of M. I. T. last week-end.

Vermont rolled hard and fast Saturday afternoon and posted nine events out of a possible fifteen. This was the tenth annual classic for the two schools, and was staged on Seaverns Field.

As usual the home forces were weak in the weight department. Vic Lebednic, Colby's only threat, took the hammer and discuss, and placed a close second in the shot.

Bert started the ball rolling by chalking up first in the 220-yard run, outplodding [illegible] Reed. Following up, Bert [illegible] in winning performances in the [illegible] yard run, low hurdles, high hurdles and high jump.

[illegible] Lockwood was the newest face in the ranks of the Vermonters. Fully recovered from illness, the Hexathlon ace [illegible] the 880-yard distance in record time to bring home the bacon in the second event on the afternoon's card.

The Mules were handicapped by the [illegible] of two of their top rate runners. [illegible] the day to enter wedlock and [illegible] was out with a broken back.

Rats Have Personality Traits Same as Humans

[illegible], Calif.—(ACP)—Rats have [illegible] and personality traits paralleling those of human beings, believes Dr. [illegible] Tryon, University of California [illegible].

His conclusions are based on years of [illegible] during which he has determined that rats are better subjects for [illegible] and nervous reaction study [illegible] beings.

Dr. Tryon has established that the female rat is more "high-strung" and is capable of more complex and varied emotional responses than the male.

Twenty percent of the females, he found, are more emotional than the most emotional male. Likewise, 20 percent of the males are less emotional than the least excitable female.

He has found the emotional behavior of rats and other rodents varies from the "neurotic," or nervous, animal to phlegmatic rats, almost incapable of very great emotional reactions.

Fogg Preps Frosh For Lyndon Meet

Burning to avenge last week's defeat at the hands of Green Mountain Junior College, Coach Sherm Fogg and an array of freshman tracksters pulls out tomorrow for Lyndon Center.

St. Johnsbury Academy and Lyndonville, annually two of the State's leading high school track and field clubs will greet the Kittens.

If previous performances are any criterion, the lad to watch will be Lennie Paul, the 100-yard, 220 and 440 specialist. Fogg's second best will undoubtedly be Chas Smith in the hurdles and Win Jacobs in the broad jump and hurdles.

St. Mike's Nine Here Tomorrow

Carlson Likely Starter In Return Engagement

Bob Carlson, baseball coach Larry Gardner's most effective moundsman, is expected to take the hill at Centennial Field tomorrow as the Catamounts seek to avenge their fortnight-old loss to St. Michael's.

Carlson, cunning control exponent, was charged with the loss in the first Purple fray, but his hurling was scarcely at fault. The senior righthander allowed but two runs (his first to the Mikemen in thirty innings) in his five inning relief stint.

Carlson worked an inning in Saturday's affair with Fort Ethan Allen to loosen up his arm. He baffled the soldiers with his sneaky low ball, giving up no hits and permitting no balls to leave the infield.

The three other regular pitchers, Al Shaw, Clarence Akley, and Roy Alberghini, are all ready and on call. One of them will start Saturday's Middlebury game here.

Gardner has not solved his infield problem yet. With both Hazen Wood and Milt Kaufman, Joe Corbett may be pulled into third from the outfield, but the coach is not certain. There is a slight possibility that Wood may be available tomorrow.

Tomorrow's winner assumes first place in the state series. Vermont, St. Michael's, and Middlebury are currently knotted at one victory and one defeat apiece, a situation brought about by the Panthers' upset of the Purple last week. The Catamounts have a third game schedule with St. Michael's, to be played here May 16.

Fuzzy Evans' Frosh nine meets Green Mountain Junior College here today in a return game. The Kittens lost to the Mountaineers at Poultney, 14 to 7, in their first clash: Ray Combs, burly portsider who stopped Vermont Junior College last week, is favored to start, with the right-handed fastballer, Mickey Cochran, in reserve. This is the Kittens' last game.

Grid Card Lists Seven Tilts

Seven games comprise the 1942 varsity football schedule, released yesterday by the athletic office. The Vermont eleven usually books eight contests, but this year's engagement with New Hampshire was cancelled. Three games will be played at home and four away.

Newcomers to the schedule include, Hofstra College, of Hempstead, L. I., Rutgers, Mass. State, and Trinity. Besides New Hampshire, three other teams on last year's schedule will not be met. They are Northeastern, Colby, and R. P. I.

The schedule:

Sept.26—Hofstra, at Burlington.
Oct. 3—Rutgers, at New Brunswick.
Oct. 10—Mass. State, at Burlington.
Oct. 17—Union, at Schenectady.
Oct. 31—Trinity, at Hartford
Nov. 7—Norwich, at Burlington.
Nov. 14—Middlebury, at Middlebury.

New York. (ACP)—A semester of planned labor-camp activity somewhere in the country far from the student's normal environment would improve the curriculum of almost any college.

That is the declaration of Harry David Gideonse, president of Brooklyn College.

Citing the educational significance of CCC camp as "far greater than its immediate contribution to conservation and relief," Mr. Gideonse expresses belief it is a "pity" for this type of education to be isolated from the intellectual variety and "restricted to a less privileged group."

He bases his conclusion upon the "admirable results" achieved by the pre-Nazi Weimar Republic's labor-camps, which have been taken over by the Nazis for other purposes.

Little chance is seen for any such project immediately, since the educator believes the pattern of our formal education is now too rigidly set for any suggestion to be taken except in "playful fashion."

Middlebury Routs Tennis Team, 9-0

The Vermont clay courtsters played host to Middlebury this week-end out on the new tennis courts at Centennial Field. The day was definitely better for playing football than for tennis. The wind played havoc with the ball, the sky was overcast, at times it rained and play had to be temporarily halted and when it was all over, the Middies came out on top 9-0.

The score does not really tell the whole story. The Cats payed hard and furious. They were out there trying their best to make up for the losses to Connecticut and Trinity, and each set the Middies won they won the hard way. Many times Vermont led but they just couldn't put it over.

Capt. Sam Foti, number 1 man of the Cats this year led off and soon ran the score up to a set apiece, but his opponent was hot that afternoon and Sam couldn't put the winning point over.

That's the way it went all afternoon. The boys played hard, they played to win and even though they lost they still showed that with a little more practice the Cats will hit the win column.

Fort Outfit Beaten, 21-1

New Hurlers Pitch— Kaufman Breaks Leg

Scoring at will against an inept Fort Ethan Allen contingent, Coach Larry Gardner's Catamount nine put the soldiers to complete rout, 21 to 1, in the varsity's opening home engagement at Centennial Field Saturday. A handful of spectators watched the dreary goings-on, which terminated by mutual agreement after Bob Carlson had set the helpless Fort side down in the eighth.

It was no contest from the start. The soldiers had had no practice to speak of, with the result that they could do nothing worthy of a baseball adjective. Their batting was woefully weak, their fielding was sloppy, and their pitchers had almost no success in finding the target.

A Fifth Inning Accident Marred the Affair

The Catamounts lost a third baseman for the second time this year when Milt Kaufman, Hazen Wood's fill in, broke his right leg sliding into second base. The break was not a severe one, but Kaufman is out for the remainder of the season, of course. Wood is still benched with a knee injury suffered in the Middlebury game.

Vermont, with every uniform in action, made only nine hits, chiefly because there was a scarcity of balls to hit at. The three Fort throwers sprinkled eighteen bases on balls into the proceedings.

Reserves Hurl

Gardner let two of his spares, Dick Iby and Web Krupp, split the mound fun over the first seven innings, sending Carlson in for exercise in the eighth. Although the soldiers obviously offered no gauge for judgment, Iby and Krupp both gave hints of lurking talent. The first-named yielded six hits, all the servicemen got, in four innings, but he balanced them well and struck out a corresponding number, retiring the side on strikes in his last inning, the fourth. Big Krupp handcuffed his feeble opponents without a hit in three frames, fanning four.

Bill Conrad, veteran reserve, was the Catamount's strongest offensive operative. In successive appearance, he drove out two long extra bases, a double and a home run, the latter with two aboard.

Frank Gwudz, the Fort's first pitcher, struggled unsuccessfully against his own erratic tendencies for four innings. The Cats scored four times on him in the first without making a hit, and five times in the fourth on only two safeties. Gwudz issued twelve walks, the key to his downfall. He struck out seven and had the Cats hitless until Ziggy Sysko's bunt single in the fourth, but simply could not cope with his wildness. In the first inning, for example, no Vermont batter as much as hit the ball fairly. Six men walked and three struck out. Four runs.

While Gwudz was good and wild, his successors were merely wild. The Catamounts began to hit off them, piling up seven blows in three innings, two of which saw the full side bat around.

Kitten Netmen Lose To Montpelier High

Double tragedy seems to strike at the University of Vermont's tennis teams every time they play on the same day. Last week it happened when the Cats lost to Connecticut and Trinity and the Kittens to G. M. J. C., this week it happened again as the Cats lost to Middlebury and the Kittens to Montpelier High.

The score of the Kittens' game was 5-1.

The only bright spot of the match was the playing of Irving Goldstein who beat his man 6-4, 6-4.

It seems that the high school boys really had a good team because they started out right at the beginning to take the Kittens. That is, until they came to Goldstein who, as his score shows, halted for a brief moment the victory march of Montpelier.

Dance followed the reports of the sub-committees.

The Ice committee announced that a Block Dance sponsored by the committee will take place after the campus sing on Friday night.

At the last meeting of the Kempton Life Committee Marjorie Witham was chosen chairman and Faye Lipman secretary of the sub-committee. Miss Witham will confer with President Millis in the near future about the committee's plans for next year's Chapel periods.

The committee is corresponding actively with groups with similar purposes on other campuses and they have received many valuable suggestions including a very helpful letter from the President of Middlebury College.

The completed social calendar for next year will be handed in at the next meeting by the Social Committee which has been very busy working out the details of this program under chairman William Roesler.

Houghton Pearl reported for the Freshman Orientation Committee that their completed outline for the freshman program will be available at the next meeting after further meetings of the sub-committee.

The Finance Committee has notified all campus organizations that they must submit outlines of funds needed if they wish any allocations from the student activity fees for next year. They are working on a tentative allocation of these funds at present.

The next meeting of the officers and executive committee will be held on Tuesday, May 5, at 7:00 in the North Conference Room.

Respectfully submitted,
MARIAN EMERY,
Secretary.

Air Force Reserve Scheme Announced

I have just received the following release from the U. S. Army Recruiting Service, First Corps Area. Notice that this new plan gives college students an opportunity to complete their education except in the case of emergency. The Army officer has promised to send further information as available. Application forms and details about the plan may be obtained from Professor Butterfield.

F. Sumner Dean.

A new plan whereby college students may join the Army Air Force Enlisted Reserve and remain in school until they have completed their education has been announced by Major General Sherman Miles, Commander of the First Corps Area. Men between the ages of 18 and 20 years inclusive may qualify as Army Aviation Cadets and be placed in a reserve status until called to active duty.

After passing the Air Crew intelligence and physical examinations, students will be enlisted immediately as reservists with the understanding that they will be allowed to remain in college until completion of their education unless they are necessary because a demand for their services at an earlier date. Members of the Air Force Enlisted Reserve are actually privates in the Army and therefore not subject to induction under Selective Service.

Educationally qualified men who apply for Ground Crew training as Army Aviation Cadets are also eligible for enlistment in the reserve if they desire to further their college education. Information regarding the status of Ground Crew aspirants who do not meet the educational requirements at the time of making application is expected to be announced shortly.

Applicants for Ground Crew should, as in the past, send their three completed application forms, notarized, directly to Director of Personnel, Army Air Forces, Washington, D. C., attention Officer Candidate Section. The application must bear parent's or guardian's consent if the aspirant is under 21 years, and must in any case be accompanied by a birth certificate, three letters of character recommendation, and a transcript of the applicant's college record. Special arrangements can be made to request deferment of induction of Ground Crew applicants whose papers are being processed in Washington.

It was pointed out that all students who qualified before this new plan went into effect will be enlisted as privates in the Army Air Corps and placed on furlough until such time as they can be called to start their training.

Students taking pre-medical courses have a good chance of completing their college work if they will write immediately to the Office of the Corps Area Surgeon, First Corps Area Headquarters, 808 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston, Mass., applying for commission in the Medical Administrative Corps. On completion of their medical course and internship, they can receive commissions in the Medical Corps."

W. A. A. Notes

Tonight at six, Southwick will be the scene of the final W. A. A. banquet of the year. Around 175 girls are expected to attend. Fifteen Middlebury girls and their Dean are to be entertained as guests. Dean Simpson, Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Millis are going to be there also.

Natalie Spear '43 is the toastmistress, and both she and Sylvia Rennals '44 will give an account of this trip to Wellesley for the W. A. A. Intercollegiate convention. The honorary visitors of the various clubs will be announced and the names of the new members of All Sports Club will be given.

Priscilla Perkins '44 and Natalie Spear '43 are in charge of the arrangements for the banquet. Mary Quinn '44 heads the committee on food.

Rev. Ravi-Booth Gives Baccalaureate Sunday

War Will Test Inner Resources of All; Determine Our Worth As Individuals

"This war will test the inner resources of all of us and determine our worth as individuals," stated the Rev. Vincent Ravi-Booth of the Old Bennington Church in the annual baccalaureate sermon in the Ira Allen Chapel of the University.

Speaking before a large audience of seniors, alumni and parents, Mr. Ravi Booth, in a striking simile, compared all humanity to a group of ships.

"Some of us are sailing vessels," he said. "Others are power boats. The sailing vessel is at the mercy of the elements as it shudders before the storm or drifts idly in periods of calm. But," he continued, "the power boat, by virtue of the motive force hidden in its interior, is independent of the whims of nature. So the individual with inner resources, like the power boat, may ignore the buffets of fate and forge ahead with the added assistance of God's daily presence."

In a stirring conclusion, the speaker stated that he had only one benediction to give his hearers. "May all of you," he said, "resolutely face the obstacles in your life as a challenge of your inner resources. The person who never suffers a maladjustment is the least likely to achieve success."

The program was opened by the formal academic procession which formed on the front campus and slowly filed into the chapel. Prof. Raymond Avery Hall of the English department gave the invocation and prayer and Pres. John S. Millis read the Scripture lesson. The University choir under the direction of Prof. Howard G. Bennett, sang the anthem, "Hymn to Justinian" by Schvedoff, and two responses, "Nunc Dimittis" by Gretchaninoff and "O Loving Saviour" by Kalinnikoff.

Senior Prom Held On Friday Evening

President's Reception Precedes the Dance

The 1942 Senior Prom was held at Southwick on Friday night following President Millis' reception for the seniors. In line at the reception were Clark Miller '42 and Lois Harrington '44, Pres. and Mrs. Millis, Mr. and Mrs. Proctor Page, Dean and Mrs. G. F. Eckhard, Dean and Mrs. Elijah Swift, Dean and Mrs. C. H. Beecher, Dean J. L. Hills, Dean Mary Jean Simpson, and Prof. Frederick Tupper.

The reception hall and the ballroom at Southwick were attractively decorated with spring flowers. Music was furnished for the dancers at the Prom by the Catamounts. Casting jovial glances from the chaperones' corner were Mr. and Mrs. George Millikan and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Long. Punch and cookies were served to the more or less formal gathering. In charge were A. C. Moore and Nancy Goodwin, with R. L. Carlson chairman of the floor committee, D. L. Moran engineering the lighting, and Sara E. Rome in charge of chaperones.

It seems that before Southwick was built, the president's receptions were considerably different. Before President Bailey's day, the reception took the form of an informal farewell party at the president's home, when the seniors dropped in to say good-bye to him. Then the affair grew more formal, the deans took a part in the farewells, and an actual reception came about. It was held in the Billings Library, where all the tables and chairs were carried out to make room for the crowd. Immediately following the reception dancing was begun to the strains of an orchestra stationed before the fireplace.

Waltzes and foxtrots plus the special fancy steps of the successive years made the collected works of Tolstoy and Noah Webster, Charles Dickens, and Victor Hugo sway in their morocco leather bindings. Came Southwick and the end of the Senior Proms in the library. The beautiful ballroom on Redstone campus was first host to the reception and prom in 1938, and will probably continue as long as Senior Week schedules these two affairs rolled into one.

Security Fund Has Many Rallies Set

Chittenden Campaign Reaches $85,000 Mark

The Security Fund campaign still rolls on with much progress. It has been set forth on the campus with much enthusiasm, and the cooperation of the students, both individually and in organized groups has had a very great influence in determining the success of the campaign. The sum total of student pledges and contributions of campus organizations had reached $4,620 by May 6, and with more recent returns it is still greater.

Off campus activities have been increasing, and rallies have been held in many different cities, in order to reach the alumni and friends of the University. During the last week of April there were rallies held in Brattleboro and Bennington in Vermont, and in Massachusetts rallies were held in Springfield and Worcester. At these rallies President Millis was the principal speaker, and Doctor Beecher and Coach Larry Gardner have spoken at several of the meetings. The University sextet, which has been organized during the past year, has contributed greatly by furnishing entertainment at each of the rallies.

On May 4, a rally was held at St. Albans, which included those alumni and friends in Franklin and Grand Isle Counties. This club is expected to be very

Alumni Day Boasts Many Activities

Alumni Day was observed Saturday at the University. A special feature was the big alumni luncheon at noon, held for the first time in the new Waterman Building. Preceding it was a meeting of the Alumni Council presided over by Pres. Maurice Kelley, '14.

Following the luncheon was the St. Michael's-Vermont baseball game at Centennial Field.

In the evening the agricultural and engineering alumni held reunions. Usually a reunion of medical alumni is also held, but this reunion has been postponed this year until the Medical College Commencement in June.

Class reunion dinners were held on Sunday at various vantage points around the city. After baccalaureate services, a general open house was held by fraternities and sororities in the Student Lounge of the Waterman Building from 5 to 6. Guests and relatives of the students were received as well as members of the Greek societies themselves.

An alumni sing was held in the evening on the college green.

Classes to hold formal reunions this year were 1875, 1876, 1877, 1892, 1893, 1894, 1895, 1896, 1897, 1902, 1912, 1913, 1914, 1915, 1917, 1922, 1927, 1932, 1933, 1934, 1941, 1942.

The class of 1942 formally ended their education with formal commencement exercises, which began this morning at 10:00 a.m. in the gymnasium annex. This was the 138th commencement exercise at the University of Vermont and it was the first under the accelerated program caused by the war. This year the schedule of events was carried out as in years past, with the omission of degrees to the medical students, who will have a separate commencement date two weeks later.

These exercises climaxed a five-day period of busy activity for the seniors. From the end of final examinations last Thursday, through Class Day exercises on Friday, a busy Alumni Day Saturday, Baccalaureate Day on Sunday, plus numerous reunions, dinners, and speeches the seniors have scarcely ha dtime to breathe.

Academic Procession

The academic procession began at 9:15 on University Place. The long black robes of the graduating class filed silently into the gymnasium annex before a large throng of relatives, alumni, and friends. The University of Vermont orchestra played a selection, after which a prayer was offered by Dr. Vincent R. Booth of Bennington. Then followed the address by Dr. Albert Edward Wiggam, "Educating Ourselves For the Post-War World," in which he gave the outgoing members of the class of 1942 much interesting council and made many sage observations. Doctor Wiggam's experiences vary from life as an assayer and mine superintendent in Colorado to an editorial writer in Minnesota, from a Chautauqua and lyceum speaker up and down the country to an associate editorship of Eugenics News, in New York City. He has about 5,000,000 daily readers of his syndicated newspaper column, "Let's Explore Your Mind."

Medics Graduate Later

The reason for the continuation of the regular unaccelerated date for medical graduation lies in the fact that the dates for internships most of which are military were arranged to be met by July 1, leaving no necessity for a speeded-up program for graduation.

If you loyal grads and undergrads happen to be listening in at 7.30 p.m. on May 30 to Uncle Walter's Doghouse program broadcast by NBC, you will hear as a special feature of the evening, "Vermont Victorious," played by the orchestra. Better make a note of it!

Class Day Held Friday On Front Campus

[illegible] Class Day program was started by a procession [illegible] Day Chairman with a bugler and [illegible] down the College Green continued [illegible] to Track cup and gown and [illegible] alumni. Despite the inclement [illegible] in celebrating with the Centennial [illegible] was others of the many traditional [illegible] presented in that manner. [illegible] M.

[illegible] the statement the Junior and Centennial Committee began the day's [illegible] on the main floor of Old [illegible] Dr. and Mrs. Clark Miller were [illegible] the receiving line. [illegible] Miller, [illegible] of this senior class, [illegible] President Miller, [illegible] Dean Sawyer, Professor Prentiss, [illegible] Mrs. Aiken and Professor [illegible] [illegible] morning activities were [illegible] meeting at the Billings Library, [illegible] Lecture Hall & Mr. Ford Rogers [illegible] of the Waterman Building.

[illegible] a luncheon in the Waterman Cafeteria [illegible] greatly impressed [illegible] who had not visited it before [illegible] Convocation at Mansfield Chapel the [illegible] attended a commencement rehearsal [illegible] later. The height of the class [illegible] was the Class Day program held [illegible] the College Green.

The Springfield University of Vermont baseball game which was originally scheduled was substituted by a game with Fort Ethan Allen's 180th Field Artillery team.

The reception for seniors was Pres. [illegible] Mellis' first and was held at [illegible] Southwick. Also in the receiving line were Clark G. Miller, chairman of Senior Week; Lois Harrington, President Mellis and Mrs. Mellis, Mr. and Mrs. Proctor Page, Joseph I. Hills, dean of agriculture, Elijah Swift, dean of arts and sciences and Mrs. Swift, George F. Goddard, dean of engineering and Mrs. Goddard, Dr. Clarence H. Beecher, dean of mathematics and Mrs. Beecher. Miss Mary Jean Simpson, dean of women, and Prof. Frederick Tupper of the English department.

The Senior Prom, directed by the co-chairmanship of Nancy G. Goodwin and Allen C. Moore, featured dancing to the music of the Catamounts. In the receiving line at this affair were numerous members of the graduating class.

A number of alumni, guests of the seniors, enjoyed the dance, and thus ended a very successful Class Day, the 138th in the history of the University.

Following are the orations of the Class Day speakers:

President's Address

By JEANNE WORDLEY

On behalf of the class of 1942 I would like to extend a welcome to the parents, alumni, faculty and guests to the 138th annual commencement. We have looked forward to this graduation for a long time, but somehow the realization that on Monday we will become alumni of the University of Vermont brings with it mixed regret and sadness.

The University has grown close to us, and in our hearts, each and every one of us holds a love for the institution, its faculty, its campus and traditions—for the spirit that is Vermont. Working and playing together we have formed friendships with classmates that will never be forgotten. We are thankful to the administration and faculty for their inspiration and guidance through our four years. Even the more vibrant and changing part of our campus have given us not only knowledge from books but they, by their very being, have taught us how to live.

As we take our final glimpse of the campus on which we have lived and worked, things that have been natural and commonplace become more beautiful and dear to us. The good times we have had here together will soon come to an end, we will go our separate ways on Monday, leaving a cherished part of our lives behind. But we will always be united by the common bond of loyalty to the University of Vermont.

Our happiness that we are about to receive the highest award that our alma mater can give—our diploma—is tinged with a deep foreboding. More than ever before we face a distinct challenge. We go into a turbulent, war-crazed world, a world which is in a transient state. But there is a place for us in this world. We have need to be strong for the rate of our success depends on ourselves alone from now on. Let us be ever guided by [illegible] and the strength, [illegible] and the convictions.

These four principles [illegible] guide during the past four [illegible] these same principles which [illegible] a clean and healthy attitude [illegible] to view our life, its problems, [illegible] tribution to the world-wide [illegible] are not afraid of what [illegible] being we are aware of the [illegible] demands that we will be [illegible] and we are prepared to make [illegible] will see our path, now and [illegible] for we do cherish as a precious [illegible] the democracy and friendliness [illegible] campus. It has been our [illegible] will continue to be. [illegible] and the strength of our convictions [illegible] be our guides.

Lafayette Oration

By L. W. SHORES

[illegible] Ladies, Members of the Faculty and Guests:

I have always loved liberty with the enthusiasm which actuates the religious man with the passion of a lover and with the calculation of a mathematician." Thus spoke that brilliant French statesman whose name we commemorate at this time. We do not use this honor because the statue stands on our campus but rather because of his own connections both with our University and with our country.

It was well over a century ago that the aging General Lafayette during his memorable trip through Vermont laid the cornerstone of one of our early college buildings. But it was some time earlier, when as a young man, Lafayette added a much more historically significant cornerstone to that foundation on which this nation has rested so firmly for so many years.

Now one may ask—what is the value of the remembrance of a man past? Are we not then able to say that we have in this world patriot one of the greatest apostles of liberty that mankind has ever known—a man who even in his youth "loved America the moment he heard of her, and burned with the desire to bleed for her the minute he knew she was fighting for liberty."

Lafayette therefore, stands as a symbol not only in the bronze but in the spirit of those principles which are the bulwark of our republic and in a more restricted sense, of our University.

Thus far we have spoken of a principle realized—a concrete principle which we are now fighting to maintain. We have our liberty on campus and in nation, and we have that liberty in large part because of the efforts of those who have gone before. Our first task is to defend it, but are we merely going to preserve what we have already been given or are we going to make our own original contribution? We must! For our own original contribution will be world unity, that unity the utter lack of which threatens our very liberty. Through unity shall come cooperation among men and a liberation from the strangleholds of false beliefs.

Can we not see that science personified in the steamship, the telegraph and the radio has made isolationism not only an impossibility but a farce? Is it not self-evident that our attempt merely to maintain our own selfish liberty without unifying ourselves with the world at large has led to a condition whereby we are forced to go forth and share or be destroyed?

At this point one is reminded of these words of Terence, written many centuries ago—"I am a man, therefore nothing that concerns a man do I deem a matter of indifference to me." We as Americans must become world missionaries—we cannot draw back into our shell as we did after the last war. Now is the time for a universal show of Democracy.

And so, finally, let us turn our thoughts once again to the Marquis de Lafayette—a man whose very life is representative of a complete sacrifice to the ideals of Democracy—a man who would leave not only home but country so great was his love of Freedom. We in our turn must traverse oceans and other less navigable expanses—we must adopt for ourselves a patriotism that is not confined within the limits of a country but within the limits of a universe.

Ivy

By BARBARA BUTTERFIELD

The planting of the ivy by the graduating class has long been a tradition here at Vermont.

We the class of nineteen hundred and forty-two resolve to carry on this tradition.

The Ivy is held to be a symbol, a symbol of memories and ties to the University of Vermont. Each and every one of us in the graduating class will remember varied and different experiences of our college life.

Looking beneath my surface memories I find that I am especially thankful for the spirit of democracy which we are taught to live and believe in, here at Vermont.

The democratic way of life is built on four principles—the stone of truth, love,

What are the things that the mind will remember?
What are the things that the heart will recall?"

Saturday night quarterbacks in the Sugar House's din
Leave the horsemen far behind, bring Vermont's mail in.

Sunday morning hikers, seeking nature in the rough,
Up the Clara Bow trail, beautiful but tough.

Then there were those week-ends when all the girls got that sudden urge
To go humming down to Norwich for a week-end splurge.

It made the CYNIC and a few cynics

Was found weeks later reposing in a [illegible]

Keeping our men out of the draft, victims of the first aid force.

"Yes, there may be things that the mind will remember,
But what of the things the heart will recall?"

White chapel spire against a gray November sky,
The drift of rain along an ivy-covered wall,
A flaming campus flinging autumn's gold on high
And Mansfield's blueness rising back of Converse Hall
These are the (sort of) things the heart will best recall.

"Four years is a long time when one is young.
They have meant a lot to some things less
To others of us, but something to all of us."

Speech to Undergraduates

By FULVIO BARDOSSI

This being essentially a speech to the undergraduates, it is fitting that representatives of the outgoing senior class speak to them on their idea of education with which they have been directly connected for four years.

There seems to be a growing feeling today that liberal education is a passive force—something that can be shelved in a time of crisis. But the very idea of education is a fighting one, if not practically, certainly in the spirit.

One of the chief troubles today is the lack of faith in the spiritual and the over emphasis on the material aspect of education.

Yet, in a sense, our entire heritage is based on the ideal that the material is merely a basis for the true expression of the ideal. If we go back in history and look for names of men who have stood in the front ranks as fighters against tyranny and were protectors of liberty we will find that many of these leaders have been in a sense men of liberal education. They have battled more with the

Debating Team Had 15 Wins, 2 Losses

Dropping two out of the seventeen forays the men's debate team of Vermont has completed its 1941-42 schedule.

Starting with an exhibition debate against Bates at a debate clinic at St. Johnsbury Academy, the team demonstrated methods of material presentation to debaters from many Vermont and New Hampshire high schools.

Those active in interscholastic debating this past year were three seniors, Lucien Bardossi, Barre; Julius Cohen, Burlington, and Abraham Swartz, Boston, Mass.; Daan Zwick, a junior, Burlington; two sophomores, John Perognios, Bennington, and Robert Norton, Pleasantville, N. Y.

Talking through a series of debates, most of them non-decision, with the University of New Hampshire, Keene Teachers College, St. Lawrence, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Boston University, Salem Teachers College, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Worcester Polytechnic Institute, Middlebury, Lehigh, Lafayette, College of the City of New York, Brooklyn, Upsala, Seton Hall and St. Michael's, the team lost to Massachusetts Institute of Technology and St. Michael's College.

The debate programs at the University are in charge of Coach M. D. Powers. The new manager of men's debating is Daan Zwick of Burlington with David Wheeler, Morrisville, manager of intramural debating, and Jacob Katz, New York City, manager of debating publicity. The new manager of women's debating is [illegible] of Shelburne Falls.

Kathleen Benson Cited For Art Excellence

Miss Kathleen Benson, class of 1943, has received the award of a year's subscription of The Art News given by the Art Foundation of New York City to the student in the Art Department who has shown the greatest promise in art during the year.

Eighty strong, the first reserve officers' training corps unit passed in the United States formed ranks recently at the University of Wisconsin.

We Need Every College Man In Officers' Training

★ To Man the Mightiest Air Army in the World ★

Make Your Choice This Week For Present or Future Officers' Training

IF your blood boils at the very thought of an enslaved world . . .

If Jap treachery and Nazi savagery make you see red and itch for a gun—calm yourself with the promise that we shall pay them back with compound interest!

We shall—and you as a college man now have the opportunity of serving as a Flying Officer—a Bombardier, Navigator or Pilot—with that branch of service which will do that paying back in person—the U. S. Army Air Forces!

Under the new Army Air Force Reserve Plan—if you are a Senior or wish to leave school—apply now for your Aviation Cadet training.

You and your friends can share together the work and fun of flight training, and after approximately 8 months—earn the right to be flying officers in the U. S. Army Air Forces!

On the other hand, if you are a Freshman, Sophomore or Junior—you can, if you like, continue your studies under the Deferred Service Plan of the Army Air Forces—and become better prepared for Officers' Training later.

New Simplified Requirements

To qualify you must be 18 to 26 (inclusive), physically fit—and pass a new, simplified mental test which college men find easy.

When you are ready—and facilities are ready—you begin as an Aviation Cadet at $75 a month, with expenses paid.

If you have majored in science or engineering you can try for a commission in the ground crew—in Armament, Communications, Engineering, Meteorology, Photography.

As a Second Lieutenant on active duty, your pay ranges from $183 to $245 a month.

80% Have Won Commissions

Due to thorough training—about four out of every five Aviation Cadets this past year received Second Lieutenants' commissions—of which 67% are now flying officers.

The tremendous expansion of the Air Forces should assure rapid advancement in all branches. And after the war—you'll be ready for the ever-growing opportunities in aviation.

Settle Your Service Now

The years ahead are war years—and every college man should make his plans accordingly.

To make America supreme in the air we need every college man who can qualify for active or deferred service.

So take advantage now of this option. You may never again have such opportunities.

See your Faculty Air Force Advisor for information and help with details. Join the thousands of America's college men who are enlisting this week!

THREE ENLISTMENT PLANS FOR COLLEGE MEN

Juniors—Sophomores—Freshmen May Continue Their Education

1. A new plan allows Juniors, Sophomores and Freshmen, aged 18 to 26, inclusive, to enlist in the Air Force Enlisted Reserve and continue their schooling, provided they maintain satisfactory scholastic standing.

All College Men May Enlist for Immediate Service

2. All college students may enlist as privates in the Army Air Forces (unassigned) and serve there until their turns come for Aviation Cadet training.

3. All college students may enlist in the Air Force Enlisted Reserve and wait until ordered to report for Aviation Cadet training.

Upon graduation or withdrawal from college, men will be assigned to active duty at a training center as facilities become available.

If the necessity of war demands, the deferred status in the Army Reserve may be terminated at any time by the Secretary of War.

The new Army Air Force Enlisted Reserve Plan is part of an over-all Army Enlisted Reserve Corps program shortly to be announced. This program will provide opportunities for college men to enlist in other branches of the Army on a deferred basis and to continue their education through graduation if a satisfactory standard of work is maintained. In case of necessity the Secretary of War shall determine when they may be called to active duty.

It is understood that men so enlisted will have the opportunity of competing for vacancies in officer's candidate schools.

This plan has been approved in the belief that continuance of education will develop capacities for leadership. (Reserve enlistment will not alter regulations regarding established R. O. T. C. plans.)

NOTE: If you are under 21, you will need your parents' or guardian's consent. Birth certificates and three letters of recommendation will be required of all applicants. Obtain the forms and send them home today.

Barnett To Teach Painting In Summer

Herbert Barnett, director of the art school at Worcester Museum, recently spent a few days visiting the University Art School and looking over the surrounding countryside preparatory to his work here this summer. He was accompanied by Mrs. Barnett. Mr. Barnett is teaching advanced painting from June to August during the summer session at Vermont.

Mr. Barnett studied at the Rhode Island School of Design and graduated from the School of Fine Arts of the Boston Museum. He spent three years in France, Italy and England painting and studying the works of the old masters.

He has had several one-man shows in Boston and New York, and his work has been included in many national exhibitions such as the Golden Gate Exposition at San Francisco. He is represented in the collection of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and in many private collections.

SOPHOMORE AIDS

Sophomore Aides held their initiation at Southwick, April 29, at 8.00 p.m. Refreshments were served and everyone enjoyed herself at the social gathering. The new members elected their officers for next year. Harriet Pearl, president; Beryl Cheney vice-president; Janet Pike, secretary; Jean Smith, treasurer.

OMICRON NU

Members of Omicron Nu held their last meeting April 30 at the home of Prof. Bertha Terrill. Faith Prior and Virginia Mitchell were initiated. Virginia Mitchell was chosen president for next year and Faith Prior secretary and treasurer. Miss Terrill served refreshments.

Aviation Board's Program Announced

President Holds Formal Reception

The annual reception to the seniors was held Friday evening at 8:30 in the ball room at Southwick.

For many years, the president's reception has preceded senior prom. At that time the president extends his best wishes to the students who are about to be graduated.

As the years passed, the reception has become a more formal gathering. The deans of the colleges, administrative officers and favorite faculty members have joined with the president on such occasions.

Originally the reception and prom were held in the library from which had been removed desks and reading tables. Seniors looked forward to it as the one time in their collegiate career when they could disturb the silence of the "libe" with something stronger than a whisper. Since the completion of the Southwick building several years ago, the scene of the prom and reception has been changed to the newer building.

In the receiving line were Clerk G. Miller, chairman of the prom, Lois Harrington, Pres. John S. Millis and Mrs. Millis, Mr. and Mrs. Proctor Page, Joseph L. Hills, dean of agriculture, Elijah Swift, dean of arts and sciences, and Mrs. Swift, George F. Eckhard, dean of engineering, and Mrs. Eckhard, Dr. Clarence H. Beecher, dean of medicine, and Mrs. Beecher, Miss Mary Jean Simpson, dean of women, and Prof. Frederick Tupper, of the English department.

Seniors Smoke Pipe in Annual Celebration

Enjoying U. V. M.'s traditional accompaniment to the annual pipe oration on Class Day, these seniors joined their classmates in puffing contentedly on their corncobs.

Undergraduates

rob weapons but with ideas. One of our first protests against the inhumanity of war in the Trojan Women of Euripides and perhaps the finest example of an individual fighter with ideas and a liberal education is Socrates.

This then is the fighting heritage of liberal education. The material education is long used in its most extreme form in the Nazi regimes. It has been rightly called an education for death.

There are times when even a democratic government must teach its citizens how to die, but unless we also maintain the true heritage of the liberal education for life, we shall not have accomplished anything by destroying the Nazi ideal.

Therefore, undergraduates should be proud of their heritage and should answer the critics who called their studies impractical in a nation at war that they are contributing as much in a spiritual sense while waiting for a time when they will have to fight openly for those ideals.

Pipe Oration

By Hazen Wood

In America the pipe has always been a symbol of peace, but this year, as never before in our history that symbol is extinct. No longer may we sit around the council fire and smoke away our difficulties, no longer may warriors settle their problems by drawing on their long clay pipes. Instead, peace today has become a weapon of war in which nations force it on other nations in the realization of gaining more conquest and more spoils.

Up until a short time ago the pipe of peace burned on this continent, but now through no fault of our own this pipe no longer burns. However, let us not throw our pipes away and discard them forever, instead let us come closer to home.

The pipe should provide us the means by which in the future we may look back on happier days with a satisfaction derived only from a pipe, a comfortable chair by the fire and fondest memories.

In our four years of college here we have accumulated a reservoir of these memories to which we may turn throughout our lives. In the dark days ahead, let us call upon this reservoir to give us hope and faith and to show us that there still exist ways. Looking at the brighter side of life. Let us then use our pipes to bring forth these memories and remembrances.

Four years ago each of us went through experiences very similar to those which we are about to pass through again. Each of us again will have that strange awesome feeling of wondering what the future holds in store. Once again we have arrived at the cross roads of life and are about to embark on new experiences. Though the future looks more foreboding and more confusing, yet I believe that like the last four years, the next four will be happy ones. This may sound somewhat idealistic and yet as some great philosopher said in the past, greatest happiness is realized in struggle for that which we live.

Therefore, though we no longer smoke the pipe of peace, let us keep there a spark for the future and remember that the pipe of friendship glows like a lighthouse in a storm. It will not go out for we have had and has a plentiful supply of fuel and the flame is embedded deep within our hearts.

The final W. A. A. banquet held Tuesday, May 5, at Southwick, was a successful finishing touch for the year. Over 100 girls attended.

The new All Sports members were announced as follows: Helen McLean '43, Phyllis Savage '43, Natalie Spear '43, and Dorothy Thornton '43. Because so many of the sophomore girls had passed the requirements for the All Sports Club, an intermediate list was announced, and emblems awarded to the following: Betty Preston '43, Irene Quimby '43, Natalie Beal '44, Ruth Buttles '44, Nancy Fawcett '44, Edna Gates '44, Barbara Lane '44, Agnes Mulholland '44, Priscilla Perkins '44, Mary Quinn '44, Sylvia Runnals '44, Phyllis Taylor '44, Marjorie Anthony '45, Hope Hinman '45, Mary Thornton '45.

The following cups awarded in the different sports were given also; the Badminton cup to the Pi Phis, basketball cup to the Town Team; the Ping-pong cup to Edna Scheu '45; and the All Sports cup to McCormick.

Miss Priscilla Perkins '44 and Miss Mary Quinn '44 were in charge of this last W. A. A. affair.

Although Clemson College offers no course in journalism, the student newspaper, The Tiger, and student yearbook, The Taps, both are rated as "All-American."

strong and to have much influence because of its nearness to Burlington.

The local campaign in Burlington and Cattenden County, with a goal of $75,000, has passed their goal and has reached the $85,000 mark.

On May 6, the alumni and friends over the entire state of Connecticut conferred at Hartford in an effort to back the University in the Security Fund drive; and at Washington, D. C., where there are 125 alumni, time was taken out for winning the war for the U. S. A., to help win the financial war for U. V. M. In Georgia, at Fort Benning, Major Tudhope, formerly of the faculty of the Military Science Department of Vermont, is organizing a rally to be held at the Officers' Club, and it is expected that twenty-five alumni who are officers there will be reached.

After Commencement, a new series of rallies will be held here in Vermont. They are scheduled as follows: Tuesday, May 19, Newport, Vt.; Wednesday, May 20, St. Johnsbury, Vt.; Thursday, May 21, Morrisville, Vt.; Friday, May 22, White River Junction, Vt.; Monday, May 25, Middlebury, Vt.; and Tuesday, May 26, Randolph, Vt. When these rallies have been completed, every friend and alumnus in the state will have had an opportunity to support the University.

During the month of June, it is planned to hold rallies at key points throughout the entire country in an effort to conclude the first intensive phase of the campaign. By June 30 it is hoped that not only the required $150,000 in cash will have been collected, but also as much as possible of the $200,000 which will be matched by the state.

Hanover (Mass.) College and later his M.A. He studied philosophy at Colorado College and Cornell gave him an honorary D.Sc. in 1929. His alma mater gave him an LL.D. three years later.

Author

He has been the author of several books on psychology, heredity and eugenics. Doctor Wiggam is a member of such scientific societies as American Association for the Advancement of Science, American Genetic Association, Association for the Study of Human Heredity, and American Eugenics Society.

Famous as a psychologist writer and lecturer, Doctor Wiggam it is said, can take the most intricate scientific objects which he discusses learnedly with college professors and make them understandable and interesting to the average man. He recently returned from Hollywood where he made a number of psychology investigations to show that actors are much smarter than they are painted to be.

The awarding of commissions in the United States Infantry Reserve followed the address along with the administering of the oath. Twenty seniors were given commissions in the Reserve as second lieutenants and will report to active duty shortly at Fort Benning, Ga.

Then followed the long procession of some two hundred and twenty robed seniors for the conferring of degrees after which prizes and honors were announced. The strains of "Champlain" filled the auditorium and the benediction was given by Doctor Booth, ending the commencement exercises.

The seniors in the College of Medicine who ordinarily have graduated with the academic seniors, will have a separate commencement of their own on Saturday afternoon, June 13, at four o'clock at the Ira Allen Chapel. There are thirty-six seniors graduating this year. These services also mark a departure from the customary procedure in that they are to take place in the chapel instead of the gymnasium annex.

Orations

Ira Allen

[illegible]

Most men's memory and a fact about Ira Allen himself, that "Necessity is a cruel, cruel spur." He founded it in desperation prompted wholly through the fact that he had failed and despaired of every thing in the world.

And if that period of stress and ire in the late eighteenth century through the present decades were the University rendered the service in trouble, so today in the present struggle and in the national struggle it will be successful.

Granted by man, the University of Vermont was the first century college to admit women and the first college to grant them equality in Phi Beta Kappa. There have never been any religious restrictions and the liberal teachings of its instructors have never been stifled.

In a state not noted for its broad minded opinions it is amazing that such liberal thought has been fostered since the University's birth. This thought leads to the making of a better democracy—one that will have the ideals of cooperation and justice.

In this difficult period of readjustment of our social, political and economic life it is more than ever important that we students get a thorough understanding of the complex problems we are facing today. We are living in history-making days. It is not sufficient that we learn the elements of these subjects. We must know the significance of them all.

Surely the complete critical process may include both contemporary impressions and appeals to the authority of the past as a basis for judgment but the person who has accepted one method or the other only has stopped short at one stage in the process and has thrown undue emphasis on his own preference. We must have learned all opinions all three sides to the question. You know what they are, don't you? Yours? His? And the correct one.

Even the Constitution of the United States has to be interpreted. In a thousand cases has not the Supreme Court judged the law? And still more disturbing, how many times has that august tribunal completely reversed its decision? Even the most authoritative and the ablest of these gentlemen has been known to change his mind. Indeed we would say that those who never find it necessary to change their minds or to modify their opinions have very little mind to change. A change of mind is not a sign of weakness but of strength.

This liberal thought will lead us who have had contact with it to understand the significance of the words of Ira Allen and upon learning the significance we will be able to stir others to meet the challenge in true manner.

Certainly appropriate today as they were long ago are these words of his: "Each man is accountable to his Creator for the part he puts taken for on the conduct of the present age depends the liberty of millions yet unborn."

Harold W. Melvin M. C. A. Delegate

Harold W. Melvin Jr., executive vice president of the Middlebury Christian Association, was on the Vermont campus this week end conferring with the members of the Vermont Christian Association. Mr. Melvin's visit was for the purpose of bringing the work of the two service organizations into closer coordination.

Mr. Melvin said that great strides had been made at Middlebury towards making their comparatively young society one of the most important and most necessary functional groups in the college. Although the resignation of President Moody threw a little uncertainty upon just what will happen in the immediate future, it is considered that the Association will continue to gain ground.

At a meeting with the V. C. A. Planning Board, many topics of mutual interest and concern were thoroughly discussed. It was regrettable that the V. C. A. and Middlebury C. A. were unable to enjoy their annual banquet together. This event is one of the highlights on the calendars of both societies, and it is hoped that another year it will be possible to convene together at least once.

UNIVERSITY PLAYERS! — Important meeting Wednesday afternoon, 4.00 P.M., in 1 North College.
WENDELL HARVEY, Pres.

President and Mrs. Millis

Francis Colburn, Young Painter, Added to U. V. M. Faculty

Once more the University is pioneering by adding to its faculty an artist-in-residence in the person of Mr. Francis Colburn, talented young painter. As far as is known Dartmouth College is the only other college in New England employing an artist-in-residence.

With this fine new instructor comes a new course to our curricula. Meeting on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays from 1.30 to 4.30 it gives six hours credit. The cost will be relatively small as painting will be done on paper instead of canvas. Much practice work in design and composition will be done in charcoal. Landscape study, anatomy and a variety of subjects will be touched upon although the course will depend to a large extent upon the interest of the students who enter the course. Mr. Colburn emphasizes that he intends to develop students along their own lines rather than having the student copy his style.

Born in Burlington

Mr. Colburn was born and brought up in Burlington, his father being principal of B. H. S. After being graduated from U. V. M. with his Ph.B. degree, he went to study under Stefan Hirsch at Bennington College where he worked as Director of Publicity. While he worked and studied, his wife worked in the college library.

Through Hirsch he became interested in a national competition and through this he won one of the ten scholarships to the Art Students League of New York City. Having been selected from hundreds of applicants from all over United States and Canada, he immediately started study under Harry Sternberg, Raphael Soyer, and Yasuo Kunyoshi for a year. The next year he returned and studied privately under Sternberg, during the year doing a mural with his instructor for the Roebling Steel exhibit at the 1939 World's Fair.

Son Born

At this moment he returned to Vermont when his son David was born. Mr. Colburn remarked, "Not only was it cheaper to have a son born in Vermont, but I'm also easier in my mind having him brought up in Vermont."

For the past three years, he has been teaching art in Barton Academy, spending his summers in Craftsbury.

His pictures have been shown in many nationally known exhibits including the Exhibition of Contemporary American Art at the World's Fair of '39. From his mid-western shows, the University of Oklahoma has procured one painting for its permanent collection. During the latter part of October his private showing will be shown in Fleming Museum, going directly from there to the Knoedler Gallery in New York City.

Honor Societies Entertain Frosh

Something new in the way of freshmen orientation was the Freshmen Picnic held Wednesday evening on the campus behind the Old Mill and subsequently in the cage. The picnic, arranged by the honor societies, was largely attended by both boys and girls and took the place of the Big Sister-Little Sister picnic in former years held on the Redstone campus. After being separated into couples, the freshmen enjoyed a light supper in charge of the Sophomore Aides and Gold Key men and were entertained by exhibitions of Kake Walking by B. Mott '43 and J. Williams '43, a skit put on by the members of Staff and Sandal, cheers led by M. Allen '43, a presentation of the football team and songs with L. Killick '44 as master of ceremonies. The members of Staff and Sandal and Key and Serpent were in charge of the entertainment committee while the members of Boulder Society and Mortar Board acted as general hosts and hostesses.

Phi Sigma Delta Awarded Trophy

Phi Sigma Delta topped the campus in all-around ability for the year. This, in effect, sums up the words of George Little, as he presented the coveted Traynor Trophy on behalf of Key and Serpent to Bob Steinman '42 of the Phi Sigs at the final baseball game of the season on May 16 of last semester.

The awarding of Traynor Trophy, given each year to that fraternity which has proven itself outstanding on the campus throughout the year in interfraternity competition, signalized the termination of a season which witnessed possibly the closet competition in recent years.

The trophy, begun in 1930 in memory of Edward L. Traynor '32, captain-elect of the baseball team fatally injured in an accident is awarded each year on a point system. This point system includes numerous and varied activities. Among these are athletics, scholarship, Kake Walk activities, and participation in various campus functions. Phi Sigma Delta, high point organization of the year gathered winning points in baseball, basketball, scholarship, and Kake Walk.

152nd Freshman Class Invades Vermont Campus

Sophs Win—Frosh Spirit Not Dampened

Although the freshman far outnumbered the [illegible] of the class of '[illegible] it is generally agreed with the total lodgment of a member of Domicile the [illegible] Memorial Library society that the sophomores are the victors of the Freshman Fight held last Friday night.

Following the traditional water battle in the spectators and participants formed their customary snake line and carried the celebration to Church Street and back.

End of Freshman Week Finds Class of '46 Well Oriented

[illegible] your phone tell me where I can find [illegible] and with a multitude of questions the class of 1946 invaded the campus of the University of Vermont. The "bewildered freshmen" spent last week from Monday through Saturday learning those necessities which will enable them to find the cafeteria at any time of the day or night, and also the correct building in which their classes are supposed to be. From the payment of the registration fee through taking their first glimpses of chapel, the class of '46 has progressed rather well, with no casualties as yet reported.

Preliminary Events

The preliminary events of last week were designed "to acquaint the new student with all the conditions under which he will be working and to instruct him in advance in the privileges and responsibilities that become his as a student in the University." The first appointment for the incoming freshmen was on Monday, September 14 in the afternoon, when both Pres. John S. Millis and Joe Corbett, president of the Student Government, welcomed the group to U. V. M. Then followed payment of registration fees. These students enrolling in the Arts and Sciences were then addressed by Dean Swift, those in Agriculture, by Professor King and Dean Carrigan, and those enrolling in Engineering, by Dean Eckhard. A campus tour, conducted by Gold Key, finished the afternoon program. The first day's events was concluded with a campus sing conducted by Professor Long in front of the Waterman Building.

Tuesday morning saw the entire body taking the Intelligence Test, and the afternoon witnessed payment of tuition.

President Millis Addresses First Convocation Fri.

Urges Students to Make the Most of Present Opportunities

On Friday, September 18, an old custom was reinstated on our campus. The student body assembled in the chapel for an opening convocation. Prof. E. J. Pooley and Prof. L. S. Rowell were marshals of the day.

The convocation was opened with an invocation by Rev. R. A. Hall of the English Department. Following the prayer Michael Anselmo, accompanied by Miss Miriam Marston, played a violin selection.

The convocation struck a definite wartime note. President Millis, admitting the difficulty of giving advice in these times, addressed the old and new students. Doctor Millis stated that, although human intelligence and imagination had made mankind ready for a world brotherhood, science had indicted humanity by turning its forces to destruction. Selfishness of man is to blame. Renewed faith is the answer. He urged the students to dedicate rather than resignate their energies and ambitions to continual examination of current events; to be more alert; to ask the How, Why and Wherefores. President Millis further added that concentration should be on personality and individuality in college life. Personal past values are becoming more important than academic credits.

President Millis assured the student body that U. V. M. men enlisted in the reserve corps would not be called to active duty during the semester even though they reach selective service age. He based this statement on a letter from the American Council of Education in Washington. The letter said that there was no indication that either men already enlisted in the reserve corps or men enlisting during this semester before the end of the semester will be called.

Doctor Millis added that in colleges, as in all schools, students would not be taught more concentrated or more distributed courses but more probably different courses altogether.

The convocation closed with the entire congregation singing "Champlain."

Prospective Medics Get Application Blanks

Students intending to seek entrance to the Medical College for this coming session which begins in April, 1943, should obtain application blanks from the Dean's Office, Room 6, Medical Building, if they have not already done so. These blanks must be filled out and returned immediately.

Y. W. C. A. Starts Drive on Friday

Religious, Knitting and G. S. O. Projects

Every year the Young Women's Christian Association of U. V. M. makes its membership drive in the fall. This year the membership tickets will be sold in the Waterman Cafeteria on September 25. The officers, Patricia Pike, president, Alison Carr, vice-president, Barbara Liske, secretary, and Elizabeth Deming, treasurer, with the members of the Cabinet will be on hand to enroll you as a member for the coming year.

The Y. W. C. A. is the oldest organization on this campus, and its activities are many. In previous years the girls have helped at the Settlement School and at Rock Point; this year the work of the organization will be devoted to three main projects. The G. S. O., the Girls' Service Organization and one of this year's projects, has been formed to work with the U. S. O. by ushering at plays and serving on various occasions. The religious work will be carried out in cooperation with the Student Religious Life Committee in conducting the Vesper Services which were begun by the Y. W. C. A. This year as of last year knitting for the Red Cross and the Blue Jackets will be one of their projects.

The Y. W. C. A. has charge of the Freshman Camp at Hochelaga and conducts the Freshman Mixer each year among its other activities.

Remember, girls, Friday, September 25 is the membership drive. Everyone should join!

The Vermont Cynic

The Official Student Newspaper of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College

VOL. 66 SEPTEMBER 22, 1942 NO. 1

[illegible] welcome the [illegible] class to the University of Vermont. We would congratulate the others and underclassmen also U. V. M. and hope to impress the Freshmen by telling the great opportunities which they have and congratulations they are given if grades are well enough because we imagine that they already have a full three weeks in the last few days by personal contact [illegible] We [illegible] to remind our new college mates of a number of facts on which we considered a point for them to be aware.

During the past few years our University has gone through a major financial crisis. Just a few years ago there was even a rumor about that U. V. M. might close down. It had no President, it had no money and no about to end in sunday the whole situation was very dark. Yet in face of all of this darkness the student body, the faculty and alumni rose up as one and drew Government up from the dregs and put it on the road to recovery. A new President called the Waterman Building was completed a drive was staged to obtain funds and from all over the country alumni and friends came to the support of the college. The point we are trying to get over to you freshmen is that the other three classes, faculty and alumni have done a fine job in saving and building up our University. They expect you to continue the work they started, but it is by no means finished to carry out the final steps of the job at least four years to bring the recovery to a grand and glorious [illegible] We might also say a word to the upperclassmen and to remind them that their job is not done, you did well last year but must continue to do work in order to complete the drive many students have Security Fund Pledges, we hope these are paid.

Freshmen—The Cynic is the official University of Vermont newspaper, it is published every Tuesday and Friday and is obtainable free of charge (fee [illegible] out of $15 activity fee) on the afternoon of these two days at the Universities [illegible] Letters, criticisms and articles are welcome

Home Economics Department Offers New Four-Way Program This Year

With the opening of the University this fall a new four way program goes into effect in the Home Economics Department. After several years of planning the department is now organized to give training in many [illegible] fields. A student may now specialize in general home economics, teaching of home economics, clothing, textiles and related arts, or food and nutrition.

The field of home [illegible] economics is a result of the various phases of home making. It includes [illegible] family [illegible] [illegible] management and social background. It prepares a [illegible] preparation for one's own home.

The other three fields are rather [illegible]. The student who specializes in Home Economics education will be fitted for a professional teaching career. Those choosing clothing will study textiles, clothing construction, design, merchandising and consumer problems. A girl with a [illegible] in food and nutrition [illegible] in the Home [illegible] [illegible] will be prepared to become a dietitian in a hospital or in any other type of institution having food problems or for positions as food specialists or demonstrators.

Beginning this fall eight new courses are being offered. Textile chemistry, children's clothing, history of costume, costume design, experimental food preparation, institutional food preparation, institutional management and food economics.

The girls taking foods and nutrition will use the facilities of the large modern kitchens of the Waterman cafeteria and will prepare food for people eating there.

Other additions to the curriculum have included [illegible] additions to Morrill Hall [illegible] two new laboratories are being set up [illegible] for dietetics work, the other [illegible] and related arts courses.

Last, but by [illegible] least is the addition of three new members to the faculty to meet the newly created teaching load. They are Miss Helen Underwood of Clinton Ia. who is an assistant professor

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

It might have been a serious week-end at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon House as it appears but [illegible] Sunday [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] will be Ugli Smalberg who has set to take anything seriously. According to Commissioner [illegible] John "Ape" Nolan will [illegible] at a low rate of interest to the Samuel Street [illegible] Bill Fowler seems exaggerated that he needs the [illegible] at the Ecumenic Manor. Pat Barrington is all up in the air about the [illegible] Don Morgan is manufacturing a tank about. It doesn't sound safe for Don because some part of his body must be exposed. Sam Putnam should be sitting the headlines soon for he is fighting the Germs guys in New Guinea. Al Shaw is deploying on the field at Fort Wheeler and ambidextrously too! Paul Pullman is in the arms in Wyoming. Sherb Searl is at Fort Benning and Flea [illegible] is in Middletown, Pa. in the air corps.

SIGMA NU

Over at the Sigma Nu Lodge things are pretty quiet as yet but only because Harry Parker went to Barre with Norm Beaumen and Russ West and Bob Bloomer have come into the house in time for bed each night. Norm fondly referred to by his buddies as "Tubelegs," only regrets that Coach Evans wears smaller shoes than he does. The Lodge will be enjoying a few more laughs this year due to the fact that Johnny Reed is moving in. During the summer there have been some changes made. Norm Boyden is an old married man. In the armed forces is Mac McRell at Camp Croft. Don Moran is in the air corps where, it is said, he is uneasy over the ups and downs of it all. Dave Neil is in the army. Herb Long is in a hospital in Maryland where he is being treated for an old football injury sustained while here at the University. His brother, Cliff, is in the air corps as a bombardier.

DELTA PSI

According to the fellow who answered the phone at the Delta Psi House, the most interesting and startling bit of news was the fact that one Donald Ryan prepared breakfast on the morning of September 20, 1942. The coffee was good, and the fellow who answered the phone was [illegible] you guessed it, Don Ryan. Sam Otis spent the summer preparing for the bar. He was bar tender at a summer resort where he lost a strong bite. Bill Sisson has spent a delightful summer with the ladies in the medical college. He refuses to admit that one of them slapped his face for getting fresh. Reflex action, he claims. Senator "Pookins" Little has moved to his winter quarters. You girls can reach him by calling the Last Wing Blue Room at the Delta Psi House. Bob Patterson is at Plattsburg in the army. Ed Curliss is in Texas also in the army, while Hazen Wood is in the South. Norm Strassburg is in the Coast Guard in Maine. Stu Evans will be going October 8 into the Royal Canadian Air Force.

PHI DELTA THETA

I dreamt I dwelt in marble halls. A call at the Phi Delta House was answered by Don Nutter who paused briefly to collect himself. The collecting must have been good. He warns that Bill Benoit is on the loose again. Paul Walgren is back and already complications have set in. Lon Cushing is here again giving it another go. I'm sure that all his friends wish him the best of luck in this shining example of pure perseverance. Chet Flynn is back at the warpath looking for another feather in his cap. Don Nutter is looking for a hat. Mathews Cigaretta with [illegible] rumba classes in his den between the hours of 1:30 a.m. and 1:30 [illegible] welcome to these limited hours. Jim Macdonald is in the Armored [illegible] at Fort Knox and was here for a short time last weekend. Joe Hendricks and Lew Bissonette are in the Naval Air Corps. Frank Logan is in Candidates Class for Marines at Quantico, Va. Upon completion of the course he will be commissioned as a Second Lieutenant and go to Officers Training School. Charlie Conroy is an officer in the Naval Air Corps.

TAU EPSILON PHI

It was hard to arouse anyone at the Tau Epsilon Phi House. It seems everyone was watching movies of the final touch football game of the year last year with the Kappa Sigs. Coach Moose Savin was explaining the mistakes and illustrating how they may be rectified. Moose or sometimes called "Daylight" Savin said that he has some good boys coming up from New York who are excellent touch footballers. He fixed them all up with board jobs at the house, and all of the boys came back two weeks early for preliminary practice sessions. The first tea dance of the year was held last Saturday and was run of with great success according to Melvin Gipstein, the very capable chairman. Professor Ladd and Mrs. Ladd chaperoned. No one from TEP has gone into the armed forces of America. The only boys lost were those who have transferred or who were lost due to serious injuries inflicted in last year's touch football contests.

LAMBDA IOTA

There was not an iota of noise coming from the Lambda Iota House save the sound of the cultivated voice (or is it harrowed) of "Nail" Doherty, the renowned bathroom baritone. Harris Thurber has been making one night stands in most of the local night clubs, but he seems to be held over at the Black Cat for a return engagement, and it is said that he threatens a longer run than "Tobacco Road," which is a very good before-breakfast trot. "Punch" Howe, Second Lieutenant-to-be, reports that he has been doing his "Column Right" and "Column Wrong" all summer. Larry Burningham has gone into the navy, and rumor has it that he took along his pet pack of cards. Dick Kipp, last year's basketball luminary, has gone into the Coast Guard. Red White has completed his preliminary course and is commissioned as a Second Lieutenant in the Marines. He is now at Quantico in Officers' Training School and doing very well. In a recent letter he sends his regards to all his friends at U. V. M. and hopes to get up here for a few days. Baxter Cummings '40, '41, '42, and '43 is married!

PHI SIGMA DELTA

At Phi Sigma Delta we find the boys involved in preparations for their first tea dance which will be ably handled by Stan Feldman, a capable socializer. He advised that the theme will be a military secret. It is also a military secret how Newty Goldman passed Freshman Military. Professor and Mrs. Long will chaperone at this unique and unusual tea dance on Saturday, September 26. Last week brother Sid Sisselman and Bernie Kvasnicer spent a few days at the house [illegible] and Redstone] prior to their entrance [illegible] officers training. "Warriors" Warsaw [illegible] the Army and Marines [illegible] respectively.

KAPPA SIGMA

At the Kappa Sigma [illegible] outstanding bit of news [illegible] an informal gathering [illegible] night. The highlight of the [illegible] the rendering of a sweet [illegible] one of the most beloved [illegible] American history, Christ[illegible] The song was sung by [illegible] kowicz, who immediately [illegible] "Himself Unconscious." [illegible] sorts were played, and one [illegible] in a quadruple tie between [illegible] tugheri, "Count" Conti [illegible] and "Quiff" Amour. This [illegible] a long, drawn out affair. [illegible] Maley '41 was present to [illegible] Irish tenor to the occasion. He should have lended it to Bob [illegible] Conti did very well as fourth [illegible] trio. "Snail" Cain [illegible] Sigma has a large number of [illegible] army. More recent members [illegible] Rice, who is about two weeks [illegible] graduation from Officers' Training [illegible] for the Marines. Latest word [illegible] Misty wants to go into the [illegible] troops upon his graduation. [illegible] Beauchemin and Dick Heath [illegible] Army, as is Whizzer White. [illegible] ardson is in the air corps [illegible] coast. Clarence Akley was here [illegible] short while before returning to [illegible] the Army.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

It seems that the A. T [illegible] the other night. From [illegible] pearances it was a real get-together. Chris Bicoulis was the [illegible] shin dig at which fourteen [illegible] grand old-fashioned time. Mike [illegible] returned to school after spending a [illegible] summer of eating. He hopes [illegible] that boyish figure once again by [illegible] to keep up the pace set by Bill [illegible] Mike and Chris spend their spare [illegible] trying to keep Mike's [illegible] Phil Chesarone walked into a [illegible] the other day in scrimmage, and [illegible] sports a "massive mouse" at [illegible]

SIGMA PHI

The Sigma Phi's have yet to [illegible] phone in for the school year so that [illegible] difficult to keep in touch with them. They lose two good men to the [illegible] soon when Dick Page and [illegible] are called. They both are expecting to go in the very near future. This leaves everything will be all right in the hands of Bob Pond. Bob [illegible] as long as they don't leave a [illegible] hands to clean up after the likes of Sutton and Co.

Ready for Stiff Schedule

Rhode Island State Eleven Threat to Green and Gold

New Backs Sparkle In Early Workouts

Varsity coach Lyle C. (Fuzzy) Evans leads his 1942 Vermont eleven to posture at Centennial Field Saturday the Catamounts squaring off against rugged Rhode Island State in a Homecoming Day clash.

Rhode Island replaces Hofstra on the Vermont schedule the Long Island school having abandoned football for the duration. The Rams are expected to present a more formidable hurdle for the Green and Gold, who are shouldering a job of no mean proportions in tackling Rhode Island and Rutgers in successive weeks.

Happily, Evans has one of the largest U. V. M. squads in years upon which to work. Upwards of fifty candidates, including newly eligible freshmen, are engaged in the daily scrimmages. Among these the coach can lay hands on a dozen variously seasoned veterans, several excellent sophomores, and one or two highly recommended frosh.

Key players are the co-captains, Bill Benoit and Phil Chesarone. Under Evans' interpretation of the Georgia Tech T-formation, this pair calls the plays, Benoit from his running guard slot on the offense, and Chesarone from center on the defense.

A complete set of new backs are operating from the T and the familiar single wing set-up. Pete Kadzis, heralded freshman out of Boston, is at fullback, with sophomores Chick LaPointe and Norm Beaulieu at the halves and either Monk Martin or Mickey Cochran at quarter, depending upon Martin's still dubious scholastic status.

Behind these are the speedy scat back, Johnny Reed, and Harry Parker, Ed O'Connell, Bob Bloomer, freshman Ernie Bushway of Bellows Falls, and others. Evans still has hopes for the eligibility of players of the quality of Tony Lewkowicz, Billy Mahar, and Frank Ecklund.

Up front, line coach Sherry Fogg is building a unit around Chesarone and Benoit. Don Nutter is at the other guard, with Paul Walgren and Dwight Eddy at the tackles and Bart Barry and Len Kunken at the wings. First line reserves include tackles Reg Prior and Art Kehoe, guard Newtie Goldman, center Bud Lippman, and Don (Red) Murphy, light but gritty freshman end from Bellows Falls.

Coach Fuzzy Evans

The versatile backfield lists LaPointe, Kadzis, Beaulieu, Reed, and Parker as strong runners, LaPointe, Beaulieu, and Kadzis as passers, and Kadzis, Cochran, and Martin as punters.

Most obviously improved of the returners is Kehoe, the heavyweight tackle. Art is now hard and aggressive. A fast learner and a keen student of the game, he has developed into an outstanding dropkicker.

Rhode Island will arrive here with a veteran team and a well advertised passing attack. The Rams hope to make Vermont a way station on the way to meeting Brown, whom they next face.

Musicians to Meet for First Time on Wednesday

A meeting of all people interested in the Chapel and University Orchestra will be held in the Music Building, Wednesday September 23, at 4:15 p.m.

Candidates need not bring their instruments to the meeting, the purpose of which is to discuss the time of rehearsals, the possibility of combining the two orchestras in part, plans for augmenting the organizations.

The Chapel Orchestra accompanies the Choir at the Christmas concert and the oratorio in the spring, and plays occasionally at the Chapel services. The University Orchestra gives a concert with the Glee Club in January, and plays for the opera and at Commencement.

Although attendance at the meeting does not commit anyone to membership all persons who wish to be considered candidates for the instrumental groups are expected to be present.

Freshman Class Meets President

[illegible]

The Rev. J. Graydon Brown, of the Congregational Church in Rutland, will be the speaker at the first Wednesday chapel service at the University of Vermont. Reverend Brown is a favorite speaker at young people's conferences. The public is invited to attend the services on September 23, at 10 o'clock in Ira Allen Chapel.

Convocation

Friday evening after another day of abbreviated classes and an opening convocation for the entire student body addressed by President Millis, the annual tug-of-war between the Sophomore and freshman classes took place. The frosh, turning out in an overwhelming majority, were nevertheless sufficiently ducked by the sophs to lose that classic. Immediately following their ignominious defeat, the freshmen, promptly formed for the traditional snake-dance, touring both the campus section and downtown en route.

The events of a rather busy preliminary week were culminated by a tea for women at Southwick on Saturday at 4:00, and the annual freshman mixer Saturday evening. The mixer, largely attended, was held for the first time in the Waterman Building, in the cafeteria, at eight o'clock, Saturday evening.

The Rev. Hugh Vernon White, D.D. was the preacher at the first vesper service of the year in the Ira Allen Chapel on Sunday at four.

The only event scheduled on the freshman program which has not as yet taken place is the English placement test, which is scheduled for Thursday, September 24, at four, under the direction of Professor Carleton in the gymnasium.

NOTICE

Glee Club rehearsal will be held in the Music Building, Wednesday, September 23, according to the following schedule:

The Men's Glee Club, 7.00 p.m.

The Mixed Glee Club (Men's Glee Club and Choir Women), 7.30 p.m.

The Women's Glee Club, 8.00 p.m.

No try-outs are necessary. Watch bulletin board for further notice.

Try-outs for the Choir will be held Tuesday, September 22, 4.00 p.m., at the Music Building, 70 Williams St. Watch bulletin board for further notice.

There will be a meeting of the treasurers of all organizations, Thursday, September 24, at 7.30 p.m. Attendance is required. Meeting will be held in North Conference Room No. 115, Waterman Building.

JUDITH FLETCHER,
Treas., U. V. M. Students.

There will be a meeting of all News Editors, Reporters and Scrubs of the CYNIC, Friday, at 3.30 p.m., in the Student Lounge. All freshmen interested in scrubbing the editorial side of the CYNIC are asked to be present at this meeting.

Meeting of the Ariel Staff, Wednesday, 8.00 p.m., South Conference Room, Waterman Building.

Storm of Colors Greets Students as Frosh and Societies Sport Chic Caps

[illegible] at Vermont brings with it a fourth [illegible] headgear for the men of [illegible]. The freshman mailmen remains the same and the more dapper members of the class of 46 may be caught [illegible] on campus at wondrous adjusting their caught-grosgrain caps to a raunty angle. This will go on for a while at least until the frosh have proved their prowess on the field of battle.

Those upperclassmen who have proven themselves and who have been elected to the sophomore honor societies are distinguishing themselves with smart hats of different types which they will continue to wear through the year. The old [illegible] cap which was built along the lines of the German University cap [illegible] was a neat dark green pork-pie [illegible] straight and embroidered gold key [illegible] for Cleef.

The [illegible] key and Serpent members are said to be partial to the snappy military effects which has invaded our [illegible] peaceful campus. The juniors are sticking to their old tassel effect type [illegible] with the staff essay and the [illegible] insignia of their estate.

Nothing can change the caps of those [illegible] few who are elected to membership in Boulder [illegible] honorary. There [illegible] and a lot of activities [illegible] privilege of wearing [illegible] caps.

As for the women [illegible] ten most of them [illegible] kind of hats until [illegible] them resort to their [illegible] chiefs—peasant style.

NOTICE

The Business Staff of the Cynic and all who wish to scrub the Business Staff will meet Wednesday September 23, at 4.00 p.m., in the Conference Room 140, main floor south wing Waterman Building.

The meeting is compulsory for former members of the staff who wish to continue on the staff. New scrubs are needed.

Several Changes in Faculty Personnel New School Year

U. S. Armed Forces Cause for Wholesale Changes in Faculty

September, 1942, on U. V. M. campus brings many changes, including several new faculty members and members of the administrative staff. These changes affect many departments.

The Zoology Department has two new instructors, Miss Gertrude Cristiansen and H. H. Webber. Mr. Webber is a graduate of the University of Texas. Miss Christiansen is a graduate of Wilson College and received her master's degree from Wellesley this year; she replaces Mrs. Antoinette Loudon.

New instructor in chemistry is John W. Patterson, Ohio State University. The physics department boasts a new laboratory assistant, L. W. Burgess.

Miss Muriel Hughes is a new instructor in the English Department. Mr. David Ellis has been added as instructor in history.

N. N. Allen, University of Minnesota, is in the College of Agriculture as asso-

Frosh Mixer Climaxes Week of Orientation

Frosh men and women were further acquainted among themselves as a result of the freshman mixer, held last Saturday in the Waterman Building. Following by a few days the Frosh picnic, first of its kind, it was the climax of a full week of orientation and general getting-acquainted. Music was by the Catamounts, that scintillating band of college musicians.

Apparently, a larger number than was anticipated turned out for during the pre-dance entertainment, a number of the class of '46 were sitting in remote corners and even standing the entertainment featured the teaching and leading of college cheers by Jack Williams and Bob Lockwood. The results were deafening. They were followed by the U. V. M. sextet, who were well received despite a few fluffs. The sextet, lacking its full membership, was comprised of Bob Norton, Bob Goss, John Goss, Ernie Stockwell, Steve Moore, and a high school filler in Dave Wheeler. Wendell Harvey was M. C. for this part of the program.

College notables were in the receiving line greeting the freshmen, and among these were Dean Simpson, Prof. and Mrs. Long, Malcolm Eddy, Patricia Pike, and others. Those noted as doing a good share of the work at making the mixer a success were Ruth Jordan, Bibby Deming, Lou Jones and Red Fowler.

Enlisted Reserve Corps Plan Is Explained to Students

The news issued by the press during the last few days has caused much uneasiness among students now in college and those planning to enter college. For the benefit of our student body the more general part of the latest information received (September 14) is herewith quoted.

General Requirements for Selection

1. Candidate must:

a. Be a male citizen of the United States married or single.

b. Be not less than eighteen years of age and have not reached his forty-fifth birthday at the time of enlistment. Students who have not become eighteen years of age will be included in quotas assigned to colleges provided that they agree in writing to enlist in the Army Enlisted Reserve Corps upon reaching the age of eighteen. The number of such students in each institution will not exceed 25 per cent of the total quota for the first-year men.

c. Agree to serve in the Army for the duration of the war and six months thereafter unless sooner terminated by the President.

d. Be educationally, mentally, physically, and psychologically qualified for appointment to an officer candidate school in accordance with prescribed standards.

e. Be accepted by and actually in attendance at the campus of an accredited college as a regularly enrolled full-time resident undergraduate student at the time of enlistment. Upon graduation from college a student enlisted in the Enlisted Reserve Corps who is especially qualified for necessary advanced study or research work considered essential to the war effort may be recommended by the institutional authorities to continue his studies.

f. Not have received his notice of induction from a local draft board at the time of his enlistment.

Operation of the Enlisted Reserve Corps Plan

1. In each institution there will be a twenty-member specialty designated by the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy who will be the official representatives of the Army and Navy in all matters pertaining to the Enlisted Reserve Corps programs.

2. Enlistment in the Enlisted Reserve Corps will rest with the regular recruiting officer governing the operation of the Re-

V. C. A. Delegates To Attend C. V. L. C.

Committees Elected At First Meeting

The members of the V. C. A. Cabinet held their annual Fall Convocation in the Conference Room, at the Religious Life Committee Room, '56 Waterman Building. The duties of the Cabinet and the meeting of an committee with power to act for the year 1941-42 were present. Prof. R. A. Hall, Executive Secretary for the faculty committee on religious life was present. Prof. M. D. Flower, the V. C. A. faculty adviser, was unable to attend on account of war work.

Conference Delegates

Plans were made to send three delegates and one delegate at large to the Connecticut Valley Leadership Conference which is to be held September 25, 26, and 27, at the Springfield College Freshman Camp, Springfield, Mass. Two alternates were chosen for the delegation.

Our look at most of our local communities and church groups and their inadequate resources for the task which faces them in these times of conflict should cultivate a shadow of doubt concerning us all of the tremendous importance of doing all we can to make the full impact of our tradition and mission felt through our Commission and Cabinet work this year.

Never has there been a period in history or the history of the Student Christian Movement when a greater challenge was presented. We can be equal to it only if we lay hold of all the spiritual, mental and physical resources available.

New Committees

Two new committees were created and vested by the President with power to act.

The Membership Committee: Alfred Auer, Chairman, and Wendell Harvey, Wendell Earle, and Malcolm Eddy.

Fall Conference Committee: Reginald White, Chairman, Wendell Earle, and Llewellyn Jones.

The Director of Deputations, Reginald S. White, called a meeting of the Deputations Committee for Thursday night of this week.

It may be added that the V. C. A. Cabinet plans to bring to the campus a speaker of international renown as the keynote of the Fall Conference which will probably be conducted in conjunction with the Y. W. C. A. and the C. C.

The meeting was adjourned after the next date was set for Wednesday of next week.

Fraternity—Interested Frosh to Meet Sat. A.M.

As a preliminary to the official rushing season there will be a special meeting for freshmen men Saturday morning at 8:00 in the cage. Military classes will start at 7:00 on this day to enable President Marsh and representatives of the various fraternities to address the freshmen. They will give short talks on the general interests question. The regular season social starts on Monday and will be the same as it has been in operation in the official rushing rules in the U. V. M. Fraternity Guide with no exceptions. The usual beer banquets will be eliminated. Ralph Kilburn, president of the Interfraternity Council, announces that the governing body has decided that cider and doughnuts will replace the more sumptuous repasts of the last three days of rushing this year.

Dr. Gerald Windt To Visit Vermont

Dr. Gerald L. Wendt, currently doing at the School of Chemistry at Pennsylvania State College, [illegible] director of science [illegible] of the Sun Valley World's Fair [illegible] was [illegible] of the science section of Town Meeting, will be on the campus of the University of Vermont September 29, 1942. Arrangements have been made to have [illegible] Women's [illegible] students and [illegible] of the University.

The meeting will be held in the lecture room of the Fleming Museum, Tuesday, September 29, at 4:30 p.m. Doctor Wendt has had broad training in the field of chemistry, and will be the speaker. All interested in scientific work are invited to attend.

Enlisted Reserve

3. Subject to the possible call to active duty by the Secretary of War as the necessity of our program of mobilization requires, only the completion of the one year college course, plus such basic military training as may be prescribed by the Secretary of War, shall be required before induction into the Enlisted Reserve Corps. Students who have completed the basic military training prescribed by the Secretary of War and who have been called to active duty before completing the one year college course, shall be given credit toward graduation for the college courses they have satisfactorily completed.

4. Students who have completed the one year college course will be called to active duty at the completion of this program. In those colleges where both accelerated and normal programs are offered, credit may be granted by Enlisted Reserve Corps committee.

(1) Those pursuing an accelerated program will be called to active duty at the completion of this program. In those colleges where both accelerated and normal programs are offered, credit may be granted by Enlisted Reserve Corps committee.

(2) Students who are not enrolled as full-time resident students under regular or cooperative programs are not eligible for enlistment in the Enlisted Reserve Corps program.

(3) Students enrolled under a full time cooperative plan are eligible for enlistment in the Enlisted Reserve Corps.

(4) The amount of time which a student may remain in college shall be the normal time within the four year maximum, specified to meet the requirements of graduation for the class in which he is currently registered at the time of his enlistment.

c. A qualifying examination will be given to all students near the end of their sophomore year. This examination may not be taken more than once. Those students who do not meet the standards established by this examination are to be called to active duty as enlisted men at the close of the term or semester in which enrolled. Nevertheless, if they thereafter demonstrate sufficient qualifications, they may be eligible for vacancies in officer candidate schools on the same basis as any other enlisted men.

5. Students who withdraw from college during their course of study will be ordered to active duty in the Army in their enlisted status. Colleges will report to the Commanding General of the service command each student who withdraws or is dropped from the college rolls. It is impossible for Enlisted Reserve Corps enrollees to transfer from one college to another.

"Parade Magazine" Shoots Scenes in Vt. Sorority House

Parade Magazine chose the U. V. M. [illegible] Wednesday and Thursday, September 9 and 10, the [illegible] Theta house as the scene of "shooting" the story.

Peggy Flint '44 was chosen to play the part of the beautiful freshman being put through the ordeal of rushing and pledging. The script for the pictures depicting sorority rush activities is centered on [illegible] but to the U. V. M. way of [illegible] was exceedingly realistic.

The story centered about Peggy, and the other U. V. M. girls served as [illegible] representing other members by the sorority and rushing group.

Bruce Gallup, a Columbia graduate and former Associated Press reporter, prepared the script and chose the models. He had an interesting story to tell about [illegible] in London at the time of the "blitz."

Vera Lorna who "shot" the scenes, is the photographer for Life magazine. She is a young blonde and rather [illegible]-looking. Actually, she came here from Russia and spoke with a delightful Russian accent.

She had as her assistant, a young appearing post-graduate who had arrived here recently, in this country, from France. He too was Russian by birth, but had spent his life prior to coming to this country in France.

Parade Magazine is a pictorial magazine similar to Life, Look, Pic and other magazines of that category.

Those modeling other than Peggy were: "Sis" Lynch '43; Janice Preston '45; Phyllis Savage '43; Ita Casey '44; Ruth Jordan '45; Justine Whalen '44; Barbara Fiske '45; Lorraine Guild '45; and Marion Byrnes '43.

U. V. M. Enrollment Decreases Little

The latest poll of regularly enrolled students in the four colleges of medicine, arts and sciences, agriculture and engineering at the University of Vermont shows a count of 1,173. The figures, according to the office of the registrar, are not complete, but it is impossible that late entrants will materially change the numbers and study trends.

Last year the number in the four colleges stood at 1,277, making a total drop this year despite war casualties, of only 104, or slightly less than ten percent, with late enrollments still coming in. Most of the decrease occurred in agriculture, home economics, education and business.

This year's loss of 104 is entirely accounted for by the two lower classes. The juniors and seniors have returned with a small increase in numbers over the corresponding classes last year. The sophomore class on the other hand, is smaller by some twenty-five percent than the sophomore class of last year, and the freshman enrollment is down about ten percent. The men, contrary to expectations, still outnumber the women.

The enrollment in the College of Medicine and the College of Arts and Sciences remains about the same as last year. Because of a reorganization of the courses in arts and sciences it is difficult to follow the registration sheets, but it is known that the freshman enrollment exhibits a natural gain.

The engineering courses another war-conscious course, also picked up enough additional freshmen this year to give the College of Engineering a ten percent increase over last fall's figures and the largest freshman registration in twenty years.

All those interested in doing advertising work for the CYNIC, contact Julius Goldberg either at Tau Epsilon Phi House or call 2565.

Experience is not required—Males not subject to immediate draft may apply.

A recruiting Army Board representing the Army, Navy and Marine Corps will visit the University in September or October for the purpose of presenting the opportunities in the various branches of service to college students.

Harriers Train For Union Duel

Schenectady Meet First For Cat Squad

Varsity Coach Archie Post is getting his Green and Gold track team into shape rapidly and quickly for the first match with Union October 3. All the runners are working hard and waiting impatiently for the starting gun of the season. Among the large number of men who have turned out for practice are newly eligible freshmen and quite a group of seniors. The team has a good backbone consisting of Captain Bud Hoyt '43, Merle Crown '43, Johnny Buttles '43, "Erny" St. Mary '43, McLaren '44, Johnny Corliss '44 R. Mershon '45, F. Andrews '45, and H. Goodell '45. The rest of the men who have shown promise in the past have greatly improved their running ability although they have still far to go.

Coach Post remarked that cross-country running is one of the phases for conditioning men in Army, Navy and Marine Corps. He knows that such exercise among civilians not only keep them fit but also builds stamina and quality of being able to take it. This as we all know is essential to the war effort. Coach Post also pointed out that he welcomes anyone for the cross-country team because it is the best way to condition oneself for other sports. The men out for the team are as follows:

Captain Bud Hoyt, '43, Duncan Corliss '43, Merle Crown '43, "Butch" Earley '43, Len Harrington '43, E. St. Mary '43, Daan Zwick '43, Dick Clark '43, Mart McLaren '44, Johnny Corliss '44, Curt Webster '44, Ronny Mershon '45, "Hoty" Pearl '45, D. Divine '45, E. Andrews '45, H. Goodell '45, Bobby Ker '45, Howdy Bryden '45.

Among the freshmen are many men of varsity caliber. The list of freshmen are as follows:

Kadzis and Soph Trio In Starting Backfield

Martin Eligible to Team With Beaulieu, La Pointe

By Pete Reynolds

Reputedly, Rhode Island State is one of the strongest, if not the strongest club that the Cats will face this fall. And it is also no new story that the Rams have plenty of power in the air and on land as well.

The big point, and possibly the deciding factor in the whole setup will be the performance that Evans' running backfield will unfold. With Chuck LaPointe, Norm Beaulieu, Pete Kadzis, and Monk Martin due to start for the Green and Gold flock the paying gentry may well watch for some fancy stepping from the home forces.

All the same, the Rams will not be standing by if pre game dope holds true to form. The Rhode Island State club has a lad by the name of Toby Coates that will bear watching well. Coates is the ace backfield man for the Rams, and if his injured back is healed sufficiently, he'll be one of the main cogs in the invaders machine.

According to all advance predictions, the gate should be appreciatively bigger than the formerly signed Hofstra crew would have drawn. The little Long Island College hashed its complete gridiron schedule due to wartime conditions.

In case Barry is still troubled with the cold he contracted earlier in the week, freshman Don Murphy from Bellows Falls will get the call at the end spot.

In the backfield it will be LaPointe and Beaulieu at halves, Kadzis, another freshman at full, and Martin at the quarter slot.

In addition to these men, diminutive but speedy Johnny Reed, Mickey Cochran Ed O'Connell, Bob Bloomer and freshman Ernie Bushway are scheduled for replacement.

There will be an important meeting of all CYNIC scrubs tonight, at 7.30 p.m., in Room 259, Waterman Building.

All those people wanting to scrub the CYNIC are expected to attend. Assignments will be made at that time.

Schedule of October Dances Shifts a Bit

There's been some changes made in the schedule of the Saturday night dances for the next few weeks. First because fraternity rushing does not end until the week of October 5, Interfraternity Dance has been postponed until October 10, the original date for Mortar Board. Mortar Board will be the following week, on October 17. Key and Serpent dance has been brought up to October 3. As yet the plans for the Key and Serpent dance are a secret but a novelty setting is expected.

The revised schedule is as follows:

Key and Serpent October 3, Interfraternity October 10, and Mortar Board October 17.

Cynic Staff Promotes Reporters and Scrubs

By way of encouragement to all those hardworking CYNIC reporters and scrubs of last year, the following promotions are announced by George Little, editor:

Reporter to news editor, Jean Sprague and Rose Woodard '43; Pat Crowley, Sylvia Runnals, Elinor Nolan, Florence Levin, Alison Carr, Marilyn Eimer, Phyllis Fein, Margaret Fake, Ruth True, Ita Casey, Margaret Lillie, Ester Gustafson all '44; Stephen Moore, Katharine Perry, Rose Eisman, Bernice Lieberman, David Frank all '45.

The following scrubs are promoted to reporter: Edna Gates, Cleone Riggie, Trude Sherman all '44; Judy Marquis, Glendeen Samuelson, Joyce Byington, Mary Ashe and Frances Donahue all '45.

Carnegie Room Opens; Program for Friday

The University Carnegie Room will be open Monday through Thursday afternoons from 2 to 5 p.m., Saturday morning from 9 to 12 a.m., Monday and Friday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m.

On Friday afternoons at 4 p.m. the Music Department plans to have a planned program of recorded music. This Friday, October 2, the program will consist of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony and Act 2 from Peter Grimes by Britten.

Engineers' Honor List Made Known

Summer Quarter Results In High Marks for Some

Heading the summer quarter's first honor list in the College of Engineering at the University of Vermont, with average grades of 95 or better, are D. L. Clark, a junior, from Wattsfield, and H. E. Crossley, another junior from Burlington. Both of these men have been consistent placers on the list during their college course.

Attaining an average of 92.5 or higher are F. R. Marshall of North Adams, Mass., another consistent performer, and H. W. Jones of Burlington. Marshall is a senior and Jones a junior.

Four men attained average grades of 89 or better. Two of them, M. C. Blodgett, a sophomore from St. Johnsbury, and M. L. Riggs, a senior from Richmond, have made former lists. The others are R. W. Bennett of Orleans and R. F. O'Grady of Essex Junction, both juniors.

In the 85 to 89 group are 11 seniors, five juniors and two sophomores. The seniors are: W. T. Chapin, Essex Junction; O. R. Clark, Barre; R. C. Darling, Campello, Mass.; A. B. Delano, Shoreham; R. W. Earley, Burlington; J. P. Hoyt, Milton; R. B. Newton, Hyde Park; W. J. Stetson, Colchester; M. F. Stevens, Island Pond; R. S. Stockwell, Hartford, and J. H. Tennien, Pittsford. The juniors are: B. D. Barry, Methuen, Mass.; C. E. Carver, Jr., South Hero; M. L. McLean, Jamaica; W. H. Page, Hyde Park; and J. W. Reed, Oakfield, N. J., while the two sophomores who complete the list are M. L. Eddy, Burlington, and M. J. O'Grady, Essex Junction.

Y. W. Mass Meeting To Follow Supper Held at Southwick

300 Members Enrolled in Drive Last Friday; Three-fold Plan Formed

On Tuesday night, September 29, there will be a supper at Southwick at 6 o'clock for all the members of the college Y. W. C. A. The supper will be followed by the annual Y. W. mass meeting. Even though they may not be able to attend the supper, it is an urgent request that all Y. W. C. A. members attend the Mass Meeting, which is at 7:30 o'clock in Southwick.

The membership drive of the organization was held in the Waterman Building on Friday, September 25, and resulted in the enrollment of more than 300 members. The Y. W. C. A. has always been the largest campus organization, except for Student Government, which was instituted last year. The supper, which culminates the drive this year, is in charge of Ruth Burnell '43 and Penelope Easton '44. All members who eat in college dining halls will not be taxed for the meal but members from outside the University dining rooms will be asked for a small charge.

The mass meeting after the supper will be held in order to acquaint the new Y. W. C. A. members with the aims of the organization and its program for the coming year. The 1942-43 activity plan is three fold, including work with the Girls' Service Organization, war relief knitting, and Religious Life activities. There is no other campus organization devoted entirely to assistance in these fields, and there is a great need for the accomplishment of the work the Y. W. C. A. is fitted to do, especially at this time. Each member is seriously urged to attend the supper and mass meeting, particularly the mass meeting on Tuesday night in Southwick.

Outing Club Joins With Local Hikers

Dauntless Swimmers Brave the Downpour

In spite of Heal and high water, the Outing Club is off to a successfull start this year. War has knocked the tires from under transportation plans for mountain hikes, and Sunday's rain gave many would-be hikers cold feet, but fools still rush in where angels fear to tread.

The scheduled hike to Butler Lodge for which eighty-three persons signed up was changed, after Hiking Chairman Bob Waldo ran into too many obstacles put up by OPC, ODT, WPB and the rest of the Washington alphabet. Special transportation is now impossible to get for pleasure purposes. The [illegible] outing was cooked up by Daan Zwack and Cleveland Denton, with the cooperation of the Burlington Section of the Green Mountain Club. Seventeen foolhardy drips slipped and swam their way through all sorts of water to Colchester Point, where they found shelter in the camp of Miss Persis Holden. A fire, food, songs, and a nameless brew prepared by Frances Donahue made life worth living. Thus fortified, four people went swimming—and swore that they enjoyed it—and a square dance was perpetrated. The freshmen obligingly cleaned up the camp, and the group [illegible]. The outing was a success. Mother Nature posted, and everyone was simply elated.

Paul Walgren, Phi Delta Theta, is the newly appointed Business Manager of the [illegible].

Present Day Students Carry On as did those of 1917-18

I've been reading an account of the University's part in the Great War of 1914-18 as published by the War Service Committee of the University of Vermont. It seemed to me a rather timely topic and I thought some of the information I picked up would interest you.

One of the first moves toward preparedness was the Students' Instruction Camp held on our campus in the summer of 1914. Three hundred and fifty young men from institutions located in over 20 states besides Vermont were enrolled when the war was precipitated by the murder of Archduke Ferinand.

Company C

In the spring of 1916 Company C of the University battalion answered President Wilson's call for National Guard units to be sent for active duty on the Mexican border. Commencement exercises were interrupted to give the company a hearty send-off. The fine record turned in by Company C earned for the University a place in the "distinguished" class announced by the War Department as a college excelling in military drill and the study of military science. In 1916 the University battalion was organized as a branch of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps.

January, 1917, saw an agreement of the country's medical schools, including Vermont's Medical College, which put into existing curricula a course especially adapted to medical, sanitary and surgical training for the army and navy.

An enthusiastic meeting of virtually every man in college was called on April 5, 1917. Resolutions were unanimously adopted which included military drill for Juniors and Seniors; continued athletic and social activities until such time as they might interfere with University military preparations; and a resolution to refrain from volunteering for any service individually or collectively until after consultation with President Benton and Capt. S. A. Howard, Commandant.

Pres. Benton

President Benton was the great leader of U. V. M. from 1911 to 1919. He met with the women of the University in the chapel on April 5 and appointed a committee under Prof. Bertha M. Terrill to work with a committee of women students to direct the efforts of the college women toward preparedness. Seventy percent of the women enrolled in classes arranged by Captain Howard.

Practically all the student body of the

How many students at U. V. M. are interested in winning $5.00? For the best picture or snapshot, judged on photographic merit and campus interest, the sum of $5.00 and even more, according to the number of students who participate, will be given. The pictures are to be candid, group shots illustrating typical Vermont students in some interesting college activity. All pictures with their negatives (both signed by owner on margin) are to be given to George Jean Holden or Barbara Lane before November 1. The judges, who will be chosen from members of the faculty, will be announced next week. All pictures will automatically become the property of the CYNIC and the Ariel.

Student Union Will Hold Mass Meeting

The first Mass Meeting of the year will be held Wednesday evening at 7:30 at Southwick. Attendance is compulsory for all college women living under Student Union Rules. It is through these four mass meetings a year that the women students at Vermont may come directly in contact with their own government. Installation of House Committees on the campus will take place Wednesday night.

Rams Run-up 49 Points In Second Half Debacle

LaPointe, Soph Back, Scores Cat Touchdowns

By Phil Koussos

Completely outpassed, outrushed, and generally outplayed in their initial gridiron battle, Vermont's pigskin toters went to work with a vengeance this afternoon in preparation for the looming Rutgers battle.

Of the 2,500 paying gentry who were in hand for the smashing 70-13 victory by the Rhode Island State starwarts Saturday, there was not one who would not have been content with the four half score as the final decision. But the Rams were of a different opinion.

At half time the score read 21-13 and loyal Green and Gold fans were inclined to be optimistic about the performance that Fuzzy Evans' lads might uncork following the intermission period, but their hopes were short lived when the downstaters took possession of the ball after Vermont had rolled up two successive first downs.

The Cats' two long touchdowns were exhibitions of some beautiful broken field running by Chuck LaPointe. The first one, engineered soon after Rhode Island had chalked up seven points came by virtue of a 66-yard run by LaPointe. Taking the flip from center on his own 34, the sophomore sensation executed some fancy broken field running to score.

The second Vermont touchdown came in the second quarter. The Vermont club took to the air in this period with Beaulieu tossing 'em up. In all, he tossed four passes for short gains before LaPointe snagged a 15-yard heave with one hand, and stepped over from the five yard line. Norm booted the extra point; the score read 21-13, and so until half-time.

Vermont was down on the Rhode Island 36-yard line when the Blue warriors took things into their own hands. Dwyer took the leather to the 37-yard stripe, but was stopped virtually for no gain. However, the story of the second play read like this. Cure received the pass from center on his own 37, and skirted the end for a 63 yard run, and six points. McCabe, one of the flashiest point after kickers that Centennial has witnessed in some seasons came in to convert and the score read 28-13.

From that point, the R. I. gridsters scored almost at will. Rhode Island's second and third touchdowns in the second half came on intercepted Vermont passes. Iquello snagged the first one on Vermont's 25-yard line, and in five plays the Blue racked up another six points. The point after was good and the score read, 35-13.

In the early half of the third period, the Cats started a march from their own nine-yard line, and in three plays had garnered a first down. On the second play Kadzis flipped a long one intended for LaPointe, but everyone was there except a Vermont receiver and Topazio hauled it in roaring across for another tally.

Frat Sports Point to War

Intramurals to Stress Strength, Stamina, Skill

The University of Vermont's Intramural Sports Program has been cut down and streamlined this year to meet the demands of a nation at war. Some sports have been dropped and others perhaps will be if lack of interest warrants it. Athletics which will best strengthen, condition, and harden the men of the University are to be stressed, according to Director of Intramural Sports, Archie Post. These are: touch football in the fall, basketball, indoor track, and handball in the winter, and softball and track in the spring. Sports such as these require strength, stamina, skill and are most adaptable to a program designed to further the physical prowess of its participants. Others such as tennis are dependent upon the interest showed by the student body. Golf, horseshoes and badminton have been definitely dropped for the duration.

The inter-fraternity football loop will swing into its fall schedule in the near future with some of the houses already getting into shape for the first games. Although there is no tackling, of course, in this sport there is plenty of contact and it is deemed by Director Post a fine conditioner besides affording many boys who do not play varsity ball an opportunity for the fun and thrills which football offers. He looks forward to another red hot season such as last year's "round robin" in which the TEP's emerged victorious with the Kappa Sigs in second place.

No tennis is at present being planned by the intramural directors. However, a tournament may be arranged if enough court enthusiasts show sufficient interest in the near future, although fall weather is not ideal for tennis.

Managers will also be needed to scrub intramural sports. This offers a good opportunity to gain proficiency in managership and would be well worth the time and effort of scrubbing.

This year intramural sports will, more than ever, offer the opportunity to every man in school to improve his physical prowess and condition. It is hoped by Director Post and his staff that the program will be popular and worthwhile to all.

Mott Scores In Nationals

His name is Elias Bertram Mott, Jr. But don't let that fool you. Bert, otherwise known as the Galloping Ghost, is just about the most phenomenal man Vermont has ever placed on a cinder path.

In the I. C. A. A. meet at Worcester, Bert defeated Ed Duggar of Tufts in the 220-yard dash. He starred again at Schenectady by placing five times in the Union meet, and went on to take 21 points in the Trinity contest held at Centennial Field.

Mott won the New England A. A. U. 220 yard low hurdle event in the meet run at Boston College Field June 6 and took second in the 100-yard dash finals, scoring eight points for U. V. M.

His showing here encouraged the New England A. A. U. to enter him in the Nationals held at Randalls Island, N. Y. This is how Bert stacked up against the country's top runners:

Junior Championships—100-meter dash—fifth, 200-meter low hurdles—fifth.

Senior Championships—200-meter low hurdles—sixth.

Mott's showing netted five points for the Green and Gold, truly amazing for a man who never engaged in competition before entering college.

Track Coach Archie Post, solely responsible for developing Bert's running abilities, now hopes to enter Mott in cross country this fall. The Cat harriers, weakened by the loss of the Webster boys, face a stiff schedule, so don't say we didn't tell you, when Bert pulls down some firsts among the hill and dalers.

Pres. Roosevelt Addresses Colleges

Declaring that winning the war will be little comfort if the American people are not prepared to make a lasting and worthy peace, President Roosevelt addressed in a message read into many camps that the challenge of the new day for American colleges is very great.

The message was addressed to Everett Case, Colgate University's new president, and was transmitted today to more than 1,000 persons representing 34 states and the districts of Columbia and Puerto Rico gathered on campuses.

"May I take this occasion to extend felicitations to you and to Colgate University," President Roosevelt wrote. "You will no doubt wish to build upon the achievements of Colgate's distinguished past but you will also find problems facing you quite unprecedented in the history of the institution. In a sense, therefore, you will be writing this to one chapter and starting another.

"The challenge of the new day for American colleges is very great. All our energies at the present must be devoted to winning the war. Yet winning the war will be futile if we do not throughout the period of its winning keep our people prepared to make a lasting and worthy peace.

"This time the peace must be global the same as the war has become global.

ATTENTION PRESS CLUB MEMBERS—There will be a meeting of the Press Club, Wednesday afternoon, at 4:00 p.m. New members from the freshmen and sophomore classes are cordially invited to attend. The meeting will be held in Room 140, Waterman Building.

MARGARET CASSIDY, President.

Rev. C. S. Jones To Speak Briefly

The Rev. Charles Stanley Jones of the First Congregational Church of Burlington will be the speaker for our second Chapel service next Wednesday, September [illegible]. The Religious Committee of student [illegible] wishes to assure all students that the Chapel services will last [illegible] minutes, so that Chapel goers will [illegible] time to reach their [illegible] classes.

It is [illegible] to believe that that voice shall represent the aspirations of a people determined that mankind everywhere shall go forward to its destiny. The goal of that destiny is maximum freedom for the human spirit.

"I congratulate you on the great opportunity that is yours and hope that you will find the keenest satisfaction in undertaking the difficult task."

Harlan Fiske Stone, chief justice of the United States, and Joseph Clark Grew, former ambassador to Japan, were among the four men who received honorary degrees at the inaugural program. Both received an honorary doctor of laws degree. Rufus M. Jones, president of the American Friends Service Committee, author of 48 books and professor emeritus of philosophy at Haverford College, received a doctor of humane letters degree, and George D. Stoddard, new commissioner of education and president of the University of the State of New York, received a doctor of letters degree.

Dr. Harold W. Dodds, president of Princeton University; Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, pastor of Riverside Church, New York City; Dr. W. H. Cowley, president of Hamilton College, Clinton, and Mr. Case were among the speakers of the day.

Construction is starting on an agricultural engineering laboratory at Iowa State College.

Present Day Students Carry On

Signal Corps

That summer the University was selected as one of the few institutions for training Signal Corps men for the U. S. Army. The North and South wings of Converse Hall were turned over for the use of the Signal Corps men. A school for radio and buzzer operators was established and a regular telegraph station was set up in the old Medical College building, now the Experiment Station.

President Benton was appointed a member of the permanent committee on Education in May 1917. In September he sailed for Europe to take charge of Y. M. C. A. work in Paris and to establish canteens at points of embarkation. He had been granted a year's leave of absence by the Board of Trustees. Administration of affairs was placed under the direction of the Board of Deans and Dean Emeritus Justin Smith Morrill.

The opening of college was postponed until October 10 and the University Senate voted to discontinue intercollegiate athletic contests. At a meeting held in December 1917, the Senate voted to omit mid-year term examinations. They recommended to the Board of Trustees that spring vacation be omitted, closing college on May 8, so that men might be released for service.

Home Economics

For girls in the Home Economics department a shortage of rooms developed. To make a Service flag for the University. This flag which was 10 by 16 feet in size, was dedicated in the Commons. An address was delivered by Congressman Porter H. Dale recently returned from a visit to Europe and Near East.

Following Commencement in 1918 a school for mechanics was established for carpenters, blacksmiths, machinists, and automobile mechanics. The baseball cage became one big garage. Facilities of the Engineering Shops were used for other mechanical work. Many of the men for the new schools were quartered in Middle Converse Hall. Others occupied cots set up in the Gym. Y. M. C. A. rooms were fitted up in the Old Mill and a large room on the first floor of Morrill Hall served as Hostess House. Almost 600 men were enrolled at once in the war schools and several successive classes received these courses of instruction.

Colonel Leonhaeuser University commandant assumed command. The campus and buildings became a military post for the time being with sentries posted and strict military discipline observed. Large barracks, a drill hall, a large dining hall extension on Commons Hall and various other temporary buildings were constructed on the back campus for the use of the men attending the war schools.

Mrs. Harvey Jordan told me about how excited the students were when, shortly after commencement in 1918 the tower of the Old Mill was struck by lightning. The east wing was badly damaged by the fire which broke out. Reconstruction of the building was directed by Comptroller Guy W. Bailey whom we remember as an beloved late president.

Summer Session

A special summer session was held for Medical seniors making it possible for them to graduate earlier and enter the service.

Rigid sanitary and safety rules, the terror of influenza spread over the whole country. Physicians and nurses literally worked themselves to death in many instances. The thousands of cases of flu in Vermont made it necessary for students at the College of Medicine to be sent out to various distant communities. College did not open until October 28 due to the epidemic.

In the fall of 1918 the S. A. T. C. or Students Army Training Corps was instituted. College students became privates in the army and navy at the same time continuing their academic instruction. Military and physical [illegible] were also enrolled in courses. The S. A. T. C. members were formally inducted on the front campus in the presence of the Signal School and the Mechanical School. The men were divided into companies and assigned to barracks. The University of Vermont was once again an armed camp, the previous time being during the War of 1812. New barracks had to be built and the fraternity houses were taken over to house the men. When the flu broke out among them, the Sigma Nu and Sigma Phi houses were turned into hospitals.

Lieutenant Disliked

It is told that one of the lieutenants quartered in the Owl house was cordially disliked by all his men. One night, they arranged to put out all the lights just before he came in. When he entered, they grabbed him and mussed him up pretty thoroughly. When he'd had a good beating, they turned on the lights again and "discovered" to their amazement that the victim was none other than their superior.

Mrs. Jordan recalls that a rope was stretched from Morrill Hall past the gym to the Old Mill during the flu quarantine. The men of the S. A. T. C., the Signal Corps and Mechanical School had to remain on their side of the rope while their families and friends stood a suitable distance back to talk with them.

Forty of the S. A. T. C. men were ordered to an Officers' Training School in Kentucky and several engineering students were sent to the Coast Artillery Officers' Training School. However in November the S. A. T. C. was discontinued when the Armistice was signed without ever having had a real chance to prove themselves.

A recess was granted from December 13 to January 2 following which college work began as usual—only more so. A full year's work was crowded in to slightly more than four months.

Many of the S. A. T. C. men and those who had entered the service returned to college. The temporary buildings were razed and after three years of military activity, a civilian atmosphere returned to the campus.

Old Stars of University Players to Coach Plays

At a recent meeting of the University Players dramatic society the plays and coaches were chosen for the three one-act plays which that society will present on October 28.

"The 12 Pound Look" will be coached by Janet Hackwell '43 with Wendell Harvey '43 as her assistant. "Moonshine" will be coached by Horace Goldberg '45, with Sylvia Wellwood assisting. And Patty Page '45 assisted by Patty Pike '43, will coach "The Last Straw."

On Pilot Training At Vermont in '42

Inside Story Given On Cafeteria Casdnouds

September, 1942, brings many changes to the U. V. M. campus, among them we find the establishment of the Northeast Airlines Pilot Training School in the Waterman Building. By this time the freshmen are all well acquainted with the Waterman Building, but are probably still "in the dark" about the Pilot Training School.

In the spring of this year the training school moved to the University, where a ground school and link training division are now housed. The N. E. A. is now doing war work and consequently cannot publicize the details of its duties, so we will give you a general idea of the nature of its work.

Staffed and equipped to graduate a class of eight controlled flight officers weekly, the Northeast School is a model pilot training center. At present there are about eighty students enrolled, some of whom are commercial students taking cross-country and instructor courses for private reasons. Thus a system of mass training on a staggered plan is each week preparing classes of CFO's who will eventually take their place in the United Nation's non-combatant services.

No women are permitted to take the training in the Northeast School. The N. E. A. student body is composed of men from twenty-one states in the Union, most of them being college graduates. The cost in cash for the training is almost nothing. Each student receives a "wage" during the training period and upon completion of the course he enters into contract with the U. S. government for non-combatant service for one year.

Prospects for expansion of this flying course far beyond anything heretofore contemplated are in the offing—expansion that may create a regional training center with Burlington on the focal point of several airports and subsidiary ground school units.

Thus it is hoped that with the introduction of the Pilot Training School to the University, new horizons for both aviation and institutions of higher education will be born.

Group Talks on Chapel Attendance

The members of Pilgrim Fellowship, the young people's group of the First Congregational Church, enjoyed an informal evening Sunday September 27, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jones 16 S. Winooski Ave. After singing and refreshments had loosened the group a bit, we, with Prof. George Dykhuizen's help, attacked the question concerning student attendance at chapel hour. Professor Dykhuizen put us students in our place by telling us the only reason we didn't attend was because we were too lazy, a fact which is absolutely true. As is true with most discussions, no real decision was reached.

This week Pres. John S. Millis will help to straighten this question out further. Please come, everybody who is interested.

Would You Donate A Quarter to Help Save Human Life?

Prof. Evans Exerts Energy to Establish Blood Plasma Bank

Would you be willing to contribute a quarter to help save a human life? That is the question which Prof. Paul Evans, chairman of the drive for the Vermont Blood Plasma Bank, is asking every college student in the state of Vermont. Professor Evans, dynamic head of the University of Vermont History Department, is exerting his energy and enthusiasm toward establishing the Blood Plasma Bank. After chasing him back and forth across the campus, I finally caught up with him at his home where he was kind enough to spend an hour of his valuable time in explaining this plan to insure Vermont against catastrophe should one of Mr. Hitler's bombers pay us a call.

The Development

"The development of plasma," began Professor Evans, "is one of the greatest medical discoveries in the past decade, comparable to the development of the sulfa drugs." Formerly when a blood transfusion was necessary a donor had to be found with the correct type of blood and the tranfusion given almost immediately because blood cannot be preserved more than a few days. Wholesale blood transfusion, as would be necessary after a bombing or similar catastrophe, would be virtually impossible under these old conditions. Plasma, on the other hand, does not have to be typed, is speedy to administer, and above all, an endless supply can be stored.

What It Is

"What is this miracle called 'Plasma'" I asked. "It is," he continued with as much speed and gusto as he has in history class, "the whole blood with the blood cells removed."

Blood is drawn from the donors and is then processed in such a manner that the plasma can be drawn off. The plasma can be preserved in two ways, by refrigeration or by drying. Vermont had hoped to use a drying process but will not be able to obtain one as the army and navy

Judges Announced For Ariel Contest

Photography Contest Added to Ariel of '43

Professors L. B. Puffer and B. F. Ladd will judge the entries in the Ariel's snapshot contest. In case of a tie in the judge's decision, a third faculty member will be called in to settle the dispute.

The rules of the contest are easy, and the Ariel board hopes that everyone will enter the contest.

1. Submit as many prints and negatives as you will to George Holden or Barbara Lane before November 1.
2. Confine the subject matter of your snaps to unposed groups on campus, in the lab, on field trips, at the dorm, in fact anywhere on campus.
3. Size of prints submitted will not influence the judges.
4. All prints and negatives become the property of the Ariel, but marked negatives will receive careful treatment and the Ariel staff will endeavor to return them to their owners by December 15.
5. Prints will be judged on (a) adaptation to the snapshot pages of the Junior Yearbook and (b) photographic technique. The first topic counts heaviest in the mind of the judges.

Sorority Rushing Gets Under Way; Parties Begin

Subtle Approach Again on Campus As Sorority Women Start Rushing

Informal Garb to Be Worn at Picnic

Perhaps Idea for Coed Fatigue Suit Released

Next Tuesday night, October 6, at six o'clock will mark the opening party of W. A. A. In years past this event has taken the form of the famous "Boatride" across Champlain. Here the upperclass girls mingle with the freshmen in an easy, friendly manner. Old clothes, and that means slacks, good humor and a big appetite were in order. Some of the more ambitious even climbed mountains (or should we say thickly wooded hills).

Pleasantly weary as the day drew to a close, the girls revelled in the new found friendship as the ferry made its last trip back. And then, who of us upperclassmen will ever forget how "Champlain" was sung as the boat docked, once again. Tired eyes looked back to watch a sun setting over a flaming lake. Purple majestic mountains sprawled where we had climbed hills. Silently each pledged to return the following year, while seniors just looked back and wondered.

Another year has rolled around. No gas, no rubber; the ferry doesn't run any more. What to do? Suggestions came from all sides, but at last one struck the fancy of all. It isn't a new idea, but as we might say, "Something new has been added." The council decided upon a hot dog roast out behind Redstone. Big bonfires will be around, and you can have all you want to eat. But you want to know what's new? The freshmen, of course! Sure, we've seen them around, but do we really know them? Let's get acquainted. Everybody is going to be there. We are all going to sing, and though we may not be able to see the lake, at least we can see the circling hills. Yes, get out your old clothes, put on your good humor, and roll out a huge appetite. That's all you need so come along.

For those living in town and those eating outside college dining rooms, the cost will be twenty-five cents. You don't have to be a member of W. A. A. to join the fun so follow the crowd along to Redstone if you don't already know the way.

New Officers Plan Press Club Year

The first meeting of the U. V. M. Press Club was held Wednesday in Room 140, Waterman. Margaret Cassidy '43 newly-elected president presided. The other officers are: Ruth Bonnell '44, vice-president; Mary Williams '44 secretary; Dorothy Winnett '44, treasurer; and Rose Ferraro '45, social chairman.

Miss Cassidy outlined the work and purpose of the Press Club to the new members. Each member is to spend at least an hour a week in the Press Office writing about U. V. M. students and their activities to hometown local and school newspapers.

There is still plenty of room for new members. So come on all you freshmen and upperclassmen too. Get in touch with Margaret Cassidy or leave your name and schedule in the Press Office. Work starts Monday.

Attention all freshman women! Read notices on Bulletin Board about meeting Miss Simpson, Dean of Women

Our [illegible] at Vermont [illegible] September 8 [illegible] its start. The next three weeks will be devoted to the all-important phase of Rushing. Each house will hold open house tonight, on Tuesdays from 7:30-8:30 p.m., and on Friday afternoons from 4:00-5:30. This is the best chance for upperclass women to get to know the freshmen and for freshman to become acquainted with each sorority group, so all can remember the motto "get to know you." On Saturdays open rushing will be observed. On the following three Saturdays from 1:00 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. freshmen can accompany sorority groups to games, teas, parties, etc. provided every girl goes "Dutch." The last week of October will be devoted to formal rushing when the final banquets are staged by the sororities. The neutral period is to be November 1, when the only contact of freshmen and upperclassmen will be a courteous greeting. November 2 is the day of signing up and pledging. Freshmen are advised to go to every possible open house in order to get to know each sorority group. Tuesday evening open house will not be considered a social evening for freshmen.

Discussion Topic Of I. R. C. Unknown

What's Your Guess? $64 Question Follows

The first International Relations Club meeting of this year will be October 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the South Lounge at South-wick.

Wendell Willkie's statement on the situation has stirred anew comment on this vitally interesting subject. So it is particularly timely that Doctor Long and Professor Evans should take their stand and present their views to the I. R. C. and all others interested. It is interesting to note that these men are not merely taking a stand for the exchange of opinions for one evening, but are presenting their own conflicting and opposing views on this topic with their best arguments for their beliefs.

At this time especially it is increasingly important that we should take an interest in America's part as a nation in the world today. To do this we should enter into such an organization as the I. R. C., whose main purpose is to provide an opportunity to express or hear the expressions of others concerning vital issues of international affairs at stake today.

The I. R. C.'s purpose is to deal with such matters in an impartial and impersonal manner. Such a discussion is an open challenge to all students at this University. Club membership is open to all students enrolled in good standing in the University.

Speakers during the year will include many state and national notables. This club therefore is particularly valuable to Political Science students. However it is the concern of all students.

For further enlightenment on the subject attend meetings.

Key and Serpent "Vic" Dance on Saturday

Key and Serpent, the junior men's honor society, will hold a "Vic" dance in the Waterman cafeteria Saturday night at 8:30. The admission will be 25c a couple.

Cafeteria

[illegible] many have been a number of complaints about the way things are being run in the Commons cafeteria. Students, faculty and employees [illegible] are complaining, among those who [illegible] the new set-up regarding the cafeteria system seem to be the following: [illegible] especially [illegible] the cashier's system. Finding somebody [illegible] and usually the person behind [illegible] is very busy. A short [illegible] figure for a light lunch or supper put many to shame [illegible] the full menu during lunch hours. Crowded [illegible] and [illegible] are getting the whole works. Perhaps these small [illegible] could be corrected with a long enough meeting around [illegible] The dining [illegible] is unlike [illegible] to good restaurant and [illegible] comparable with the students. Of course the closed doors [illegible] the women out for their noisy regular meals [illegible] for those [illegible] some [illegible] a place to [illegible] but in spite of the advantages of having these [illegible] the majority use the [illegible] set up much better and [illegible] for the ones who use it.

Other [illegible] be encountered but the main reputation is useless. We realize that a cafeteria is a great milestone in the life of U. V. M. and also that the staff is trying its utmost to function it at a high standard. We figure that if there is enough are many aware of the faults observed and experienced by the students that they will seek to rectify these errors a meeting where all will go toward much better cooperation, with the student body find ever greater efficiency because it students like any arrangement they will go far in helping to make it function smoothly.

The needs noted and improvements suggested above are only those observed by this writer and are to be viewed arbitrarily and with several grains of [illegible] student body in general seem dissatisfied with present set-up. Elections we suggest many changes.

Registration

A new system of registration was tried this year to register classes for the fall term. The new system worked well with one exception which was obvious to all. This one fault was the last step to be taken in the procedure that being the handing in of all cards to a booth in the corridor just outside the entrance to the cafeteria. This booth was inadequate to handle the reception of these cards, students were forced to wait in a line which stretched half way around the cafeteria and sometimes necessitating a two hour wait. This last arrangement ought to have a few faults overlooked Dr rector of Admissions Kegley is aware of this wrong and will right it. The rest of the system is a great improvement with the receiving of this last step the system will be perfect require all the available drying machines for their supplies of plasma which cannot be refrigerated.

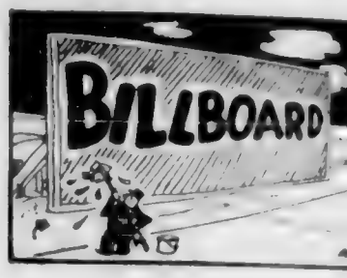
The bank is taking advantage of the enthusiasm engendered by the war to build up a large stock of from three to six thousand units of plasma that will be a perpetual protection for the state. There will be no charge for a unit of plasma, only the assurance that a relative or friend will give a pint of blood back to the bank. At present practically all the money required to provide for the laboratory has been obtained, but there is not enough for the working expenses of the bank. It is to raise this money that the college fund has been instituted. Every college student in the state of Vermont is being asked to give at least a quarter.



This bank is a cooperative enterprise in which all the people of the state are taking part. The Vermont Blood Plasma Bank is the only state organization of its kind and is an investment in the future of Vermont.

Home Economics Students Practice What They Preach

In an overstuffed room on the third floor of the home economics practice house at the University of Vermont were some decrepit dining room chairs, window shades, an old iron bedstead, lamps, a new enamel top for the kitchen aid table, wicker furniture and a feather puff. The walls were dirty, the floor unwaxed, the painted woodwork grimy.

Seven home ec girls and $4.12 made a difference.

The seven girls, deciding to practice what they had been learning, threw out the junk. One of them cajoled the painter into painting the woodwork and tinting the walls. The problem now was the furnishings. Something was needed in the way of a bed chairs, table, dressing table, lamps, curtains, pictures. The girls with little to spend went at the job.

They cut down an old bed, adding a spring and mattress, instead of buying a new bedstead. This, covered with a fitted spread made of unbleached muslin and trimmed with blue bias tape, provided the center of attraction in the room. A top was shaped and [illegible] crate, the whole thing was draped with muslin [illegible] An old-fashioned shaving mirror 1900 vintage was painted [illegible] it. We are living in a time when barbarism is camped at the door of humanity. All over the world the press is one of the great weapons of this sweeping horde. In one country after another the mind of man is being turned into a single-track unit. The mind, senses, and desires of men are being drilled into one ideology. Man's news is being chewed and masticated for him in words by those in power before being handed out. Everything possible is done to prevent him from seeing humanity beyond the nation. The individual is being destroyed and it is the absolute destruction of the individual that the substance of barbarism reign.

Cross-Country Squad Travels to Schenectady

By Mercy Kelly

Tomorrow Coach Archie Post's as yet untried cross-country squad travels to Schenectady, N. Y., to open the current season against Union College. Led by Capt. Prescott Hoyt '43 the Green and Gold harriers have completed approximately three weeks of conditioning and practice and are in tiptop shape for tomorrow's meet.

Gone are last year's great brother duo, the Webster brothers, Fred and Charlie, but the Cats will have a number of experienced cross country men at the starting line.

In addition to Captain Hoyt, they are: Merle Crown, Dick Clark, and Daan Zwick. All of these lads are seniors and will be running their last year for U. V. M.

Martin McLaren and Ev Andrews have shown good form according to Post and in addition to Len Harrington and Johnny Buttles, will be the bulwark of the Cats' scoring punch.

Post has been putting his charges through their paces on the local course which stretches three and six-tenths miles over gruelling terrain, and will undoubtedly be in top shape against the Vermonters.

The Vermonters will take eight men on the New York junket for the clash with the Maroon and White. Although Manager Ray Pestle would not release a final list of entrants last night, he stated that time trials would be the deciding factor in picking the definite starters.

Series Rivals All Even; 1-1

Musial's Hit Scores For Rookie Beazley

The New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals headed east today all squared at one game each. The World Series opponents resume competition in New York tomorrow.

Stan Musial, the highly-touted rookie outfielder who failed the Cards in their last inning rally Wednesday, redeemed himself before St. Louis fans yesterday by singling through the box to send Country Slaughter home with a run and clinch victory for his team, 4 to 3.

Johnny Beazley, twenty-one game winner in his freshman year, pitched all the way for the winners. Beazley stood the New Yorkers on their ears for seven innings while the Cardinals were erecting a 3 to 0 lead. But the Yankees nullified this margin with two out in the eighth inning, when Roy Cullenbine singled, stole second, and scored on a hit by Joe Di Maggio. Charlie Keller tied the score with a long home run.

After Musial's hit had regained the Redbirds' lead, the Cardinals were forced to stave off another Yank threat in the ninth. Key factor here was a long throw from the outfield by Slaughter, which cut down pinch runner Tucker Stanback at third base.

The teams play three games in the Yankee stadium, returning to St. Louis if sixth and seventh games become necessary. Manager Joe McCarthy of the defending world champions may be saving his spectacular recruit, Hank Borowy, for the starting pitcher's role in tomorrow's game. Spud Chandler, who worked a little relief in the opener, is still the choice, however. Billy Southworth has two southpaws ready to go in, Max Lanier and young Howard Pollett. Lanier is expected to go.

On campus general sentiment leans toward the underdog Cardinals who won over many fans in the magnificent drive to overhaul Brooklyn last month. Odds at the New York offices of betting promoter Jack Doyle, however, still gave the Yanks a 9 to 5 edge. This may be attributed to the rough manner with which the New Yorkers treated Morton Cooper ace St. Louis righthander, on whom the Cardinals were pinning hopes for two victories. Cooper, whom the Yankees rocked from the hill in St. Louis Wednesday, is expected to take the mound at the Stadium in Sunday's fourth game.

The Yankees are hopeful of clinching victory in their three game home stand. They are confident of winning at least two of the three which potentially would carry them back to the Mound City with only one win needed and probably both Tiny Bonham and Red Ruffing ready to pitch.

Touch Football Tourney Nears

Columbus Day Contest Opens Interfrat Schedule

Archie Post, director of intramural sports, released the interfraternity league touch football program yesterday. Ten fraternities and the Independents are represented in the tourney, which opens on Columbus Day with a game between Sigma Nu and ATO. All games are to be played on the back campus gridiron.

Phi Sigma Delta tangles with Delta Psi October 14 and the Independents meet Phi Delta Theta October 16 in other opening round games. Lambda Iota and S. A. E., who drew byes past this round, clash on October 19. Other byes went to Kappa Sigma, Sigma Phi, and Tau Epsilon Phi, all of which play winners of first-round games.

The tournament regulations follow:

1. Eligibility List of names from each organization. (See rules of eligibility in Intramural Handbook. Copy of same in Physical Education Office.)

2. Rubber-soled shoes must be worn.

3. Colored playing shirts shall be drawn from and returned to the Physical Education Equipment room by team managers.

4. Games shall start at 4.10 p.m.—shall be played on back campus. Any team not ready to play on time shall forfeit the game.

5. Trophy. (See Intramural Handbook.)

6. Entrance Fee. None required this year.

7. Decisions of officials shall be respected. Protests on rules interpretation only will be allowed.

8. Teams entered must be willing to furnish at least one official for work in the league.

Eleven Set For Rutgers

Eddy at Guard—Prior, Parker New Starters

By Phil Kaufman

With a week of intensive blocking, tackling, running and passing drill under their belts, 27 Vermont gridsters were to-day on New Jersey trains ready to hand Rutgers plenty of trouble and likewise to avenge last week's crushing defeat at the hands of Rhode Island State.

Rutgers is an unknown quantity as far as the Green and Gold is concerned, although their last week-end's performance against Manhattan might lead some loyal fans to feel very optimistic indeed over the Cat's chances of racking up their first victory.

The Jaspers took the Rutgers crew for a ride in a warming-up game Saturday and the Manhattan school hasn't been particularly strong during the past few seasons.

The Green and Gold gridiron tutors pulled out of Burlington on the noon train Thursday for Elizabeth, N. J., where they will be quartered.

The latest bright prospect for Coach Fuzzy Evans is the addition of 190-pound Frank Sugrue to the club's roster.

Only a freshman, Frank, who hails from Waterbury, Conn., has shown such promise that he was seriously considered to start at right tackle, but Roy Priore's experience gave him the nod for the starting assignment. According to Evans, Frank will see plenty of action against the Jerseyites.

Red Lippman, disabled guard who fractured a bone in his left hand last week-end, will make the trip and serve as spotter for the press box gentry.

The lads were scheduled to workout in the Elizabeth high school stadium this afternoon, brushing up on a few points before tomorrow's game. Following the game, the Vermonters will embark for New York City and bunk in the Hotel Biltmore, more recently known as headquarters for the Security Fund in that area.

Evans' starting eleven will be virtually the same as took the field against the Rams a week ago. The only changes will be Dwight Eddy's appearance at left guard, and Harry Parker in for Kunken at right end.

The probable starting lineup is as follows: Barry, left end; Walgren, left tackle; Eddy, left guard; Chesarone, center; Benoit, right guard; Prior, right tackle; and Parker, right end. The backfield will be comprised of LaPointe and Beaulieu at halves, Kadzis at fullback, and Martin in the quarterback slot.

Ralph (Chick) LaPointe, the lad who did some fancy broken field running against the Rams and scored Vermont's only two six pointers, will be calling the signals offensively against the New Jersey gridiron club.

Events leads after this week's tough session on the field that a backfield man should be the ticket to replace Bill Benoit who has been calling the numbers since the opening of the season early in September.

Those who witnessed this week's drill on Centennial were of the opinion that the Cats should look vastly improved over last week-end. Even Fuzzy and Sherm Fogg felt hopeful that the club would turn in a better performance, especially the line. Fitments of the Rhode Island game proved beyond a doubt that the lads were barely flapping on tearing Blue clad backs as they went crashing through time after time.

Rutgers, which has evidently been in the doldrums at more than one period during the season if Coach Harry Rockafeller's "we'll snap out of it or I'll know the reason why" attitude is any indication, has been working hard in preparation for their opener against Vermont.

According to Rockafeller veterans Nick Lassoe and Don Jones had virtually clinched two of the backfield assignments, but the fight was on for the other two berths as the club went into the final week of drill.

U. V. M. Sponsors Eight-Week Glider Pilot Course

The University of Vermont is sponsoring an eight-week course for glider pilots as part of the Army Air Corps Enlisted Reserve Corps, with Dean George F. Eckhard acting as coordinator and Prof. Howard G. Millington as assistant coordinator. This school is not connected with Northeastern Air Lines. The quota is twenty pilots and classes are held at the Waterman Building while the flying is done at the airport.

Latin-American Art In Fleming Museum

The Fleming Museum of the University of Vermont has received from the New York Museum of Modern Art a notable collection of paintings by contemporary artists from the Latin-American countries, which will remain at the museum until October 15. These are being unpacked, and will be hung as soon as the present exhibit of salon photographs has been removed.

Dr. H. F. Perkins, director of the museum, states that the paintings may be seen at any time, although the regular showing will not be ready until Sunday. For those who are unable to come in the daytime, at least one evening showing will be arranged, the time to be announced later.

This collection has been exhibited in a number of important art galleries of the country. It came here from a gallery in Newport, R. I., and will continue its tour after art lovers in Vermont have had an opportunity to enjoy it.

Vermont Will Have Girl Cheerleaders

Possibly you may remember or you've at least heard that during the year '39-'40 there were girl cheerleaders at U. V. M. But the Athletic Council didn't like them I guess for they made a rule that there be no more.

However, with the appearance of Sis Warden at the Pep Rally last week, the old flame was rekindled, for when girl cheerleaders were suggested fifteen girls signed up. These young ladies were very enthusiastic about the whole thing—filled with the proverbial vim, vigor and vitality. In fact ten of them have loads of new cheers, stunts, tumbling acts and so forth all planned.

Surely we cannot let the "3 V's" of these coeds go to waste. With a little support of the student body the Athletic Council might be persuaded to at least give them a trial performance!

There will be a second meeting of Newman Club in the Student Lounge of the Waterman Building, at 10 o'clock, Wednesday morning, October 7. This meeting is very important since election of new officers will be held, and it is imperative that everyone be there. Father Cassidy, chaplain at the Bishop DeGoesbriand Hospital, will be present.

Key and Serpent Dance Helps Football Team

200 People On Hand with Stag Line Well Satisfied

About 200 people who attended the Key and Serpent Vic Dance in the cafeteria Saturday night will help buy the football blankets which will be awarded at the end of the season. Everyone appeared to be having a grand time without that distracting howling in the stag line, so noticeable last week. The many spots of red throughout the crowd cheered the aspect of the floor and raised the morale of all, including Professor and Mrs. B. F. Ladd, the chaperons. A 1942 alumna, Joene Agard, our well-known member of Mortar Board, was seen among the dancers. Sam Otis, Tom Keighley and Larry Killick, from his sick bed, were in charge of the affair.

G. S. O. Enlists 200; All Y. W. Members

Emphasis to Be On Actual Service Plus Dances, Sings

The exhausted, overworked women of this city, headed by Mrs. Pease, who keep the wheels spinning at the U. S. O. seven days and nights a week, have turned to the college girls for aid. The Y. W. C. A., the only organization on the campus in a position to help, has responded. Already there are 200 girls in the Girls' Service Organization and many more are expected to join. Those girls who could not join before because of shortage of blanks, may obtain them the middle of this week from Alison Carr or at the Dean's office. The girls fill in on these blanks their religious preference, their sorority and their interests and abilities. All blanks should be returned as soon as possible to the Dean's office.

This year the girls will have an opportunity to serve at more than merely the Saturday night dances. There will be an opportunity to entertain and to enter into group sings. Emphasis will be placed on the actual work side such as service in the kitchen for suppers etc. As of last year there will be dances, roller skating and splash parties. All girls who go should be members of G. S. O. In the "Y" room there will be an opportunity to sign up for these parties.

All girls who, over a period of time, serve twenty-five hours become permanent members of G. S. O., receiving a pin and membership card. This membership card is her pass to any U. S. O. Building in America.

The Y. W. C. A. also sponsors knitting this year and bandage rolling will be added if enough desire it. Wednesday night at 7:15 there will be a meeting of the Y. W. C. A. council in the Religious Life office of the Waterman.

There will be a meeting of the Independent Women, Thursday night, at 7:30, at Southwick. All Independent Women are invited.

Bluestockings To Drive For Members

Speaker to Be Selected For Coming Open Meet

The Bluestockings membership drive for the month of October starts Monday, Oct. 5. Members will be admitted on a competitive basis according to literary ability. Prospective members are asked to write two manuscripts which may be deposited in a box left in the "Y" room. The manuscripts will be judged by members of the Bluestockings. The authors will be kept anonymous during judging.

The rules for the manuscripts are as follows:

1. Each candidate must submit two manuscripts showing her ability to write two kinds of material, i.e., a poem and an essay, a short story and a poem, or a story and an essay, etc.

2. Typewritten manuscripts would be preferred but legible handwriting done in ink on one side of the paper will be accepted.

3. Any girl not under warning may submit her work, freshmen or upperclassmen. No one should hesitate to try out for there is no fee involved.

4. Each manuscript should be signed with a pen name, and the writer's real name enclosed in a sealed envelope bearing the pen name on the outside.

5. A box will be placed in the "Y" room of the Old Mill for the manuscripts. They will be collected and discussed at the next meeting of Bluestockings.

6. Membership is by invitation only.

The Bluestockings strongly urge people to try out for membership. Later on in October an "open meeting," that is for all interested in Bluestockings, will be held. A speaker, unselected at this writing, will address the group. The final date will depend on the engagement of the speaker. Watch the Cynic for further notice regarding this meeting.

Evans and Long To Discuss 2nd Front

Professor Evans and Professor Long will present their own personal and opposing views on the topic "2nd Front Now or '43?" at the first International Relations Club meeting of the year.

The discussion will take place at Southwick—South Lounge Wednesday evening. The meeting will be open and everyone is welcome. Especially at a time like this every student should take an intelligent interest in such an organization as the I. R. C.

Prominent speakers throughout the year will carry out lecture and discussion programs on subjects of vital interest to us all. So all out for I. R. C.—2nd Front Now or '43?

[illegible] Zwick '43 and [illegible] Felopulos '44 will take the affirmative.

Coach Powers

The debating team guided by the highly successful coach, M. D. Powers, charter member of the T. K. A. at this University [illegible] Daily Lunch, at a wonderful record over the past years. More than 130 colleges were engaged in about 700 debates since 1927. The debating team is the only team on this campus which has represented this University in almost all of the forty-eight states and has done so successfully. From Bates College in Maine to Florida southern college U. V. M. men and women have travelled to show Vermont at its best. Harvard, Princeton, Yale, N. Y. U., Tufts and Cornell are only a few of the many colleges engaged in debates.

A big schedule is in the making for this year and only the final word of the budget committee of the Student Government is necessary to start things moving. Campus debating activities will be reorganized completely. Intercollegiate debating will again find our debaters all over the East. A debate with Bates College one of the outstanding debating colleges in the country is planned for November. U. V. M. was also invited to take part in the Dartmouth College tournament in which many colleges will participate. The tournament will also be in November. Harvard, N. Y. U., and

Chapel, University Orchestras Merge

Pappoutsakis to Direct; First Rehearsal Thursday

[illegible] Chapel University Orchestra will hold its first rehearsal of the season this Thursday evening at the Chapel, inaugurating some changes in policy which will ultimately result in an organization of practically full symphonic proportions on the campus.

The new orchestra is a combination of the former Chapel and University orchestras, augmented by prominent instrumentalists from among the residents of Burlington. It will assume the duties of both the former organizations, which have included Christmas and Lenten-Easter programs with the University Choir, a midyear symphonic concert shared with the Glee Clubs, an opera, occasional Chapel services and appearances at Class Day and Commencement. The orchestra will be conducted by Mr. Demetrates Pappoutsakis except when accompanying the choral organizations, on which occasions Prof. Howard G. Bennett will assume direction of the combined vocal and instrumental resources. Mr. Michael Anselmo will be concert master.

Applications for membership are still being received, and will continue to be considered until October 15. Players of orchestral instruments are requested to communicate with the Department of Music.

Students Blood Plasma Drive Oct. 6

[illegible] October 15 has been designated Blood Plasma Bank Day. [illegible] Physical Examinations will be held [illegible] Registration will be held from [illegible] in the Gym. Students, faculty and townspeople are urged to help [illegible] Committee assignments will be announced [illegible] Chairman.

It is asked by Lieut. Leonard that all students be on hand this day. Lieut. Leonard is also desirous of securing the names of those who will donate blood to the plasma bank. Should any of the organizations of the College be desirous of securing a speaker to explain the campaign, Lieut. Leonard will be glad to do so. It is hoped that a large number will donate blood to the plasma bank. Should any of the organizations of the College be desirous of securing a speaker to explain the campaign, Lieut. Leonard will be glad to do so. It is hoped that a large number will donate blood to the plasma bank.

What is Purpose of the Vermont Blood Plasma Bank?

It is intended to fill immediately a gap in our civil defense program. Vermont now has a specially trained air raid first wardens, its special police organized, and nursing personnel ready in case of enemy air raids. But not one hospital in the state has an adequate provision of plasma for treating the casualties that would result from such raids.

After the war is over it is intended to go on, without scrapping a lot of its equipment, serving the ordinary peacetime needs of our people. As doctors are learning increasing use of plasma in their daily practice these needs will continue to grow.

Blood was discovered a number of years ago but it has never been in universal use in Vermont. The Green Mountain State now has a chance to promote the greatest advances in medical science in the twentieth century. Every contribution will be a step towards welfare of the state during the war as well as after the war.

Bert Mott Dies Suddenly Last Night

The whole Vermont campus mourns the death of Elias Bertram Mott, Jr., who died of a heart attack in his sleep last night at the Phi Delta Theta House. His death came as a complete shock because, so far as was known, he was in robust health. Bert, as he was commonly known, was an oustanding campus leader and athlete, being a member of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity, Boulder Society, Key and Serpent Society, twice captain of the varsity track team, a sport at which he excelled and was the greatest star in Vermont history, business manager of the Ariel and a member of the advanced R. O. T. C. course.

All of Vermont extends their deepest sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Mott of Morristown, N. J., and to the brothers in Phi Delta Theta.

NOTICE

Out of respect to the memory of the late Bert Mott, social events of the week-end including tonight's Pep Rally and tomorrow's Interfraternity Dance have been cancelled.

Mass. State Game Pep Rally Tonight

Gold Key Sponsor in Interest of Freshmen

Tonight all Vermont will turn out to give its football men a rousing vote of confidence.

The occasion will be the Gold Key sponsored Pep Rally to be staged in the college cage but there will be a double meeter to-night's round of cheering.

The primary fact will be tomorrow's gridiron battle with Mass. State but the secondary reason will afford freshmen another chance to get better acquainted with Vermont and her traditions.

Nothing is compulsory about tonight's battle of songs, cheers and yells. But every student on campus is urged to attend in a concerted effort to build school spirit to the maximum.

All freshmen who appear on the scene are requested to don their green caps and carry out the tradition that has characterized U. V. M. for three main long years.

Said an Gold Key representative: "In the freshman we have great material on campus, as the University to wear their green caps that we don't want them to come to the rally. There is no hope in the distant future, but tonight, a tradition that is dear to the campus and the college and we feel that the freshmen will find their support of this tradition one of the greatest pleasures of our campus."

In addition to freshmen, Gold Key has requested all house presidents to be present also.

[illegible] short program [illegible] the cage a large bonfire will be [illegible] on the back campus weather permitting.

Helena Anderson Newman Club Pres.

At a meeting on Wednesday evening the Newman Club elected officers for the coming year. The result are as follows:

President, Helena Anderson, '43; vice-president, James Dionne, '43; secretary, Ita Cass, '44; treasurer, Robert White, '44.

At present a board consists of the following: Margaret Cassidy and Robert Hennessey of '45; Patricia McGonagle and Pete Lucy of '44; Margaret Dunn, Ray and Vincent Welch of '45; Pete Ryan and Clarence Burke of '46.

Father Cassidy, chaplain at the Fletcher-DeGoesbriand Hospital gave a short talk outlining the program for the year. Father Cassidy was formerly chaplain of the Freeman Club here at the University, and he is well qualified to speak to the Wednesday meetings for we are indeed fortunate to have him as our [illegible].

Because of the Rushing meetings on Wednesday evening there will be no meeting if attended necessary.

Mortar Board Poll Seeks A-1 Man

New Precedent to be Started at Fall Dance

[illegible] night of the annual fall Mortar Board Dance is again drawing nigh, [illegible] of the month to be exact that we dance the night is not going to be just another "normal Mortar Board Dance." Dance is going to be a special added attraction!!! First of all the decorations this committee by Janet Hackett and will be based upon a patriotic motif. Mortar Board is bringing right up with the times and we feel it, keeping with this theme there will be elected the A-1 man of campus for a [illegible].

The method of election will be as follows: Every girl with the purchase of her ticket will be entitled to one vote for her idea of whom the A-1 man on campus should be presented to her date will be given to choose whomever she thinks was deserving of that worthy title. The name of the man receiving the largest number of votes will be announced at the dance which will no doubt be the high spot of the evening.

For maybe a challenge to every woman at Vermont to beat her ticket right away and cast her vote for that A-1 man. Mortar Board will have a table outside the gym where votes will be cast starting this coming Tuesday. Tickets will be $3.50 per couple. Get busy now, girls and find out what is going to prove to be one of the biggest dances of the year.

The whole Vermont campus mourns the death of Elias Bertram Mott, Jr., who died of a heart attack in his sleep last night at the Phi Delta Theta House. His death came as a complete shock because, so far as was known, he was in robust health. Bert, as he was commonly known, was an oustanding campus leader and athlete, being a member of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity, Boulder Society, Key and Serpent Society, twice captain of the varsity track team, a sport at which he excelled and was the greatest star in Vermont history, business manager of the Ariel and a member of the advanced R. O. T. C. course.

All of Vermont extends their deepest sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Mott of Morristown, N. J., and to the brothers in Phi Delta Theta.

Casts for Group Plays Chosen by Dramatic Club

At the tryouts held in North College Thursday and Friday, October 1 and 2, the casts were chosen for the group plays that the dramatic club will present this fall.

The members of these cast are as follows: for "The Doctor Found Love," Doris Hall, Jay Gallagher, Phyllis Robinson, and Robert Aylward; for "Moonshine," Guy Nevins and Mervyn Merriam; for "The Stop Mother," Margaret Miller, Phyllis Barber, Maurice Kelley and Jack Welcome.

Delta Alpha Chapter of Delta Phi Epsilon Sorority will hold open house on Tuesday, October 13, from 7.30-8.30 p.m., in the North Lounge of Southwick.

So Sorry

Campus current picture shows that there is a very good reason for the closed doors at the Waterman Cafeteria. It seems that they have become warped and the services of a carpenter will have to be enlisted in order to remedy the situation. Also service in the cafeteria cannot be speeded up because of the difficulty of getting help. We feel that the students will be more tolerant of the few slight inconveniences to them when they realize the true situation and will join with us in congratulating Miss Underwood on her fine work.

Washington, June Agreement on Local Joint Procurement Boards.

1. It has been found that further duties will undoubtedly be placed by Army or Navy on the present armed services Local Joint Procurement Boards, which will be more readily accomplished if the Chairmanship and the Secretaryship of these Boards be vested in officers of the Army and Navy, respectively. Therefore, the Joint Agreement of June 4, 1942, which is effective October 1, 1942, by agreement of the undersigned, is hereby modified effective October 1, 1942, by substituting in lieu of paragraph 4 (a) thereof the following:

(a) The duties of senior procurement representative and chairman of the Local Joint Procurement Board will be performed by an officer of the Army or Navy, as may be agreed upon by the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy.

2. The Army Service Forces Procurement Agency will designate the Army officer who will perform the duties of senior procurement representative and chairman of the Local Joint Procurement Board at Boston, Massachusetts, and the Navy Department will designate the Navy officer who will perform the duties of senior procurement representative and chairman of the Local Joint Procurement Board at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. The Army officer designated to perform the duties of senior procurement representative and chairman of the Local Joint Procurement Board at Boston, Massachusetts, will be relieved from duty as chairman of the Boston, Massachusetts, Local Joint Procurement Board on October 1, 1942, and will thereafter perform the duties of senior procurement representative and chairman of the Local Joint Procurement Board at Boston, Massachusetts, as provided in this agreement. The Navy officer designated to perform the duties of senior procurement representative and chairman of the Local Joint Procurement Board at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, will be relieved from duty as chairman of the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, Local Joint Procurement Board on November 1, 1942, and will thereafter perform the duties of senior procurement representative and chairman of the Local Joint Procurement Board at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, as provided in this agreement.

3. Except as modified herein, the June 4, 1942, agreement shall remain in full force and effect.

4. (a) This agreement will be announced by the Local Joint Procurement Board at its next meeting after the receipt thereof.

(b) Each of the Services will issue such instructions as may be necessary to implement this agreement.

5. This agreement will be announced by the Local Joint Procurement Board at its next meeting after the receipt thereof.

6. This modification of the June 4, 1942, agreement will be announced by the Local Joint Procurement Board at its next meeting after the receipt thereof.

7. The Army Service Forces Procurement Agency will designate the Army officer who will perform the duties of senior procurement representative and chairman of the Local Joint Procurement Board at Boston, Massachusetts, and the Navy Department will designate the Navy officer who will perform the duties of senior procurement representative and chairman of the Local Joint Procurement Board at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. The Army officer designated to perform the duties of senior procurement representative and chairman of the Local Joint Procurement Board at Boston, Massachusetts, will be relieved from duty as chairman of the Boston, Massachusetts, Local Joint Procurement Board on October 1, 1942, and will thereafter perform the duties of senior procurement representative and chairman of the Local Joint Procurement Board at Boston, Massachusetts, as provided in this agreement. The Navy officer designated to perform the duties of senior procurement representative and chairman of the Local Joint Procurement Board at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, will be relieved from duty as chairman of the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, Local Joint Procurement Board on November 1, 1942, and will thereafter perform the duties of senior procurement representative and chairman of the Local Joint Procurement Board at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, as provided in this agreement.

8. This modification of the June 4, 1942, agreement will be announced by the Local Joint Procurement Board at its next meeting after the receipt thereof.

9. The modification will become effective at each college at the earliest practicable date but in no case later than November 1, 1942.

10. On and after the effective date of the change at the college freshmen and sophomores attending the college who are eligible for enlistment only in the Army Reserve, as above, will not be enlisted in the Army Reserve until they have stated their choice of service (with consent of parent or guardian if a minor) on Joint Army-Navy-Marine Corps-Coast Guard College Procurement Form A.

11. Each such freshman or sophomore who enlisted in the Army Reserve (AERC or Army Air Forces) on or after October 1, 1942 but prior to the effective date of the change at his college will be required to state his choice of service (with consent of parent or guardian if a minor) on Joint Army-Navy-Marine Corps-Coast Guard College Procurement Form A as soon as practicable but in no case later than November 1, 1942. Such choice will be made freely and will be considered as final.

12. When such an enlistee who has chosen to serve his country in a service other than the Army becomes eligible for enlistment in the service of his stated choice, he will be discharged from the Army Reserve. His discharge papers will be forwarded by the Army Command authorized to effect enlistment in the designated Navy or Marine Corps officer authorized to effect enlistment. Such officer will not deliver the discharge papers until after enlistment in the Naval Reserve or Marine Corps Reserve. If enlistment is not effected he will return the discharge papers with statement as to reasons for return, otherwise to be full forward notification to the late of delivery.

13. Each student now enlisted, or who shall be subsequently enlisted in the Naval Reserve or in the Marine Corps Reserve and who is now attending or shall attend a college at which the terms in effect make it advantageous for him to take the Army [illegible] Course will be transferred upon the Naval Reserve or Marine Corps Reserve upon request of the Armed Services Representative at the college concerned, such enlistment to the effective date of release at the college (paragraph 1 (c) above) for the purpose of enlisting in the Army Reserve. The discharge papers will be forwarded to the President of Military Science and Tactics at the college for delivery or release in accordance with the provisions established in paragraph 1 (d) above. The change of services as stated, with consent of parent or guardian if a minor, on Joint Army-Navy-Marine Corps-Coast Guard College Procurement Form A prior to enlistment in the Army Reserve will be made freely and will be considered as final. Where the stated choice is other than the Army subsequent enlistment will be carried out in accordance with paragraph 1 (d) above.

Hershey L. Stevenson,
Secretary of War.

[illegible]
Secretary of the Navy.

In accordance with 1 (c) (1) of the above, the modification is effective this date (October 9, 1942).

At first his versatility showed itself to good advantage for he was a standout at varsity soccer, golf, swimming and tennis. At gymnastics Ed particularly excelled, swimming the 50- and 100-yard free style. Once competing against exclusive Cheshire Academy here, the Springfield boy's club he walked away with three first places. That same night speedy Ed was anchor man on the relay team and although facing a 20-yard [illegible] as he hit the water came through well a surging finish to bag his points [illegible] the meet.

At Vermont Ed has continued his sought athletic career with football and track. Besides competing in these two major sports he has been lifeguard and swimming coach at the Community Y for the last three years.

The International Relations Club will be represented at the Carnegie Foundation Meeting of the National I. R. C. at Colby Jr. College, New London, N. H., this fall, if transportation facilities permit. At this meeting, the U. V. M. delegates will suggest the Vermont Campus for the National I. R. C. Conference next year.

There was a large group at the first meeting of the organization Wednesday night. Professor Long and Professor Evans discussed the where and when of a second front in the war. Each professor had 15 minutes in which to state his opinions. The audience then questioned the speakers. Professor Evans and Professor Long agree that a second front should not be opened in Western Europe until the Allied Nations have enough power to overcome the enemy and some extra for good measure. They disagree, however, on an immediate second front in Northern Africa.

Among the speakers during the year will be several other faculty members, Governor Willis and Mrs. Margery Cunningham, a military resident of Corregidor for 15 years. All students who wish to join the I. R. C. call Patty Page.

The Locker Room

by Bert Rowell

The first duty of a newspaper man, by the [illegible]ly established tenets of his profession, is to report facts. His concern is the who, what, when, where, why, and sometimes how. The sphere of his assignment does not include his own sentiments. He has merely to operate a literary mechanism. The printed page, in the hands of its reporter, is not to suffer, to rejoice, to argue, to plead, to crusade. Emotion makes a barren ink.

But occasion to slip the pencil's bonds does arise, and will continue to arise, so long as names make news. And this is the document of a reporter who is faced with such an occasion, but who finds himself incompetent, verbally inadequate, and far too immature to cope with it.

We are striving to be compassionate without being maudlin, to be sincere without being flowery. So we feel that simplicity is, after all, perhaps best in taste.

Paths of Glory

A word for Bert: We've lost a fine personality and a simply amazing athlete. It was obvious from the start that he was to become the greatest runner Vermont has ever known, and before he had completed his first varsity season Bert Mott was a legend. This boy who had never run a footrace in his life before coming here blossomed overnight into a wonder runner, a fabled one-man team. The best competition he could get—Middlebury, Union, Colby, the vaunted Duggar of Tufts—Bert took 'em all on and ran 'em into the ground. He retired undefeated.

And a word for the campus: They say there isn't much spirit here at U.V.M. Don't you believe it. You're not rah-rah and you're not joe college because you are Vermont. But you're loyal and fast and gritty, and you're well bred. This way material spirit lies, rather than being boisterous ad nauseam.

You were troupers in this crisis. The show had to go on, and it did go on, with just the proper shade of deference and restraint. It was the sort of performance that whispered way down deep: cogni parte carere mei.

Which is exactly the case, Bert.

Funeral of Bert Mott Held Yesterday In Morristown, N. J.; Many Fraternity Brothers Join Family In Final Tribute

The late E. Bertrand Mott

Mysterious Death Ended Outstanding Career As Athlete and Leader

[illegible] Monday. Funeral [illegible] E. Bertrand Mott, [illegible] athlete and senior [illegible] leader, were held at the E. A. [illegible] and the Funeral Home at [illegible] afternoon.

Burial was in the Presbyterian Cemetery in Morristown.

Six of Bert's fraternity brothers served as the bearers. They were: Hunt president William L. Benoit, Warden S. R. Pulleyn, W. J. Murray, J. W. Williams, D. J. Sutter, and F. K. Pulleyn. In addition, a large body of Phi Delta Theta brothers attended the rites.

In addition to his parents, Beatrice Copeman and Elias Bertrand Mott, Bert leaves a younger brother, John. Bert was born on October 2, 1921.

The sudden death which shocked students and faculty alike into a stunned silence cut short what all who knew him claimed to be a probable career in the field of track. Mott was the University's outstanding figure in this department, and held the honor of being the only man ever to hold the captaincy of the track team in his junior year. Had he lived, he would have carried the honor next spring.

In addition to his honors in the sports field, Bert was recognized as a leading figure in campus life. His mysterious death brought a sorrowful climax to a week of rushing and pledging, of which he was Phi Delta Theta chairman. But he was not alone a fraternity man. His other honors included membership in Key and Serpent, junior honorary society and Boulder, senior men's honor society, business manager of his yearbook, member of Champlain Sabres, military honor society.

Faculty Unanimous in Praise of Scholar, Leader, Athlete and Friend

There was still gloom on Vermont's campus today—and rightly so. Students went about their tasks in silence, still unable to believe that so perfect a specimen of life as Bert Mott would no longer be there to greet them.

Words alone cannot express what everyone felt deep inside today, for the deeds of man spoke for themselves without clarification.

Administrative and athletic heads made the following statements upon hearing of the tragic death Friday morning:

President Millis

I am sure that I speak for the entire faculty and student body when I express my sorrow occasioned by the death of Bert Mott. His cheerful disposition, energy and loyalty were an example to all of us. He will be missed from the college community, and I know that he will be long remembered.

Dean Swift

"Bert" Mott was one of those men whom a college cites as an example of the well-rounded student. His scholarship was good, he was an outstanding athlete and he took part in other extra-curricular activities. Pleasant, friendly, not spoiled by success, he was liked by all and as a member of Boulder and an outstanding senior he would have played an important part on the campus this coming year in molding student opinion in the present crisis.

We shall all miss Bert for he was a fine man who gave every promise of becoming a useful citizen and a graduate of whom the University of Vermont would be proud.

Graduate Manager Gardner

Words are so inadequate to express the degree of loss of fine young men typified by Bert Mott.

Men of his unusual characteristics with whom we are fortunate enough to work are a source of great pleasure and make the duties of this office increasingly enjoyable.

He made a tremendous contribution to this department and to the University.

We are deeply grateful for his presence among us.

Coach Archie Post

In the fall of 1939, there appeared with the entering freshmen on the Vermont campus a tall, long-legged kid, answering to the name of E. Bertram Mott, Jr., and hailing from Jersey. No fanfare of trumpet hailed his arrival among us, even as none sounded his leave taking from us. Like all freshmen, his qualifications, his characteristics, his abilities were unknown and untested.

Unbeknown to him or to us, he had but three years of life in which to live and work and play with us. In that short time, he proved to us and to all who knew him that he was a man, a student, a leader, an athlete par excellence, and a gentleman.

In our work together, I came to know him as few others on the campus knew him. During my span of work here, it has been my pleasure and privilege to know and work with many grand boys. But for none have I felt greater interest, respect, and affection. Bert was a lad whom I would have been proud to call my son.

Bert has left us. And that which he embodied of mental and physical attainment is no more. But the example of his courageous, fighting spirit cannot be taken from us. In words so similar to those of our cousins across the sea, may we say, "Bert Mott is dead! Long live Bert Mott!"

Home Ecers Hold First Meeting

The Home Economics Club held its first meeting of the fall semester last Thursday evening, in the club room at the "Brick Barn." Norma Charest entertained at the piano with popular music as the members were assembling.

The business meeting was called to order by Florence Bevins, '43, President. The secretary's report of the last meeting was read by the secretary, Kathleen Easton, '43. Catherine Walker, '43, treasurer, gave the treasurer's report. The roll was called. The president then outlined the program for the year and it was agreed that meetings would be held on the first Thursday of each month.

Shirley Needham, '45, gave an interesting account of the National Home Economic Association Meeting which she attended last summer in Boston. Virginia Mitchell, '45, then spoke briefly on Omicron Nu, Home Economics honorary society.

A short party followed at which the freshman members were further acquainted with their fellow "home ec'ers," and light refreshments were served.

Engineers to Meet

There will be a joint meeting of the three engineering societies — A.I.E.E., A.S.M.E. and A.S.C.E. Tuesday evening, Oct. 13, 7:00 p.m. in the Fleming Museum Auditorium. The speaker will be Prof. R. G. Chapman. Also movies on Arc Welding.

Cider and doughnuts will be served.

All engineers are invited.

To An Athlete Dying Young

The time you won your town the race
We chaired you through the market place
Man and boy stood cheering by,
And home we brought you shoulder high

Today, the road all runners come
Shoulder high we bring you home,
And set you at your threshold down,
Townsman of a stiller town.

Smart lad, to slip betimes away
From fields where glory does not stay
And early though the laurel grows
It withers quicker than the rose.

Eyes the shady night has shut
Cannot see the record cut,
And silence sounds no worse than cheers
After earth has stopped the ears:

Now you will not swell the rout
Of lads that wore their laurels out,
Runners whom renown outran
And the name died before the man.

So set, before its echoes fade,
The fleet foot on the sill of shade,
And hold to the low lintel up
The still defended challenge-cup.

And round that early laurelled head
Will flock to gaze the strengthless dead,
And find unwithered on its curls
The garland briefer than a girl's.

Fraternity Notes

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

Lee Sanderson, '43, Kenneth Stone, '43, and Bob Sanderson, '44, are spending the week at the house.

Our daughter Douglas, '45, and George Stanley, Jr., '45, are to make the varsity football team in which Walter J. Dupuis, Jr., '43, is to be captain.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

Pete Strohberg has been laid up with a injury all this week.

Hal Pulling was recently appointed rushing engineer at the chapter house.

Several members visited their respective homes last week-end. Those included Franklin K. Pierce, '44 whose interest in Montpelier is not purely parental.

DELTA PSI

The Delts had a tea last Saturday afternoon in honor of the alumni. Dudley Davis poured. Otto William, '43, and Milton Kaufman were guests. Elmer Nicholson, '38, was a visitor from Montpelier.

KAPPA SIGMA

Fidlay Killick and Tony Lewkwitz announce that they are the proud owners of a motorized scrap iron heap that runs—downhill. Larry is, at present, diligently working in his laboratory trying to utilize the great power of H_2O as fuel. Right now the contraption is rusting peacefully in the Sies back yard.

Coach Vinnie Manjoni's football charges are in grand shape and promise their followers something to follow them for.

Roy Alberghini had his Petty pictures stolen and wants it known that he considers this "Petty" larceny.

Lieutenant J. G. Maxwell makes his debut Saturday night.

SIGMA NU

Complete list of Sigma Nu Pledges:

Dick Debus, Joseph Mele, Al Sawyer, John Wriston, Rob Roy, Bob O'Grady, '44; Norm O'Grady, '45; Mark McLean, '44; Hilton Jones, '44; Jim Aseltine, '44.

Dick Clark, '42, has returned to school this year. Porter Dale, a transfer from Weslevan, will be an active affiliate with the Beta Sigma boys this year.

SIGMA PHI

Pat Moore, '42 and Helaine Fuller of Burlington, will be married in the Episcopal Church Saturday afternoon at four o'clock. Pat is expected from Georgia late Friday afternoon and the brothers expect to celebrate the last evening of his bachelorhood in fine style.

Bob Pond decided on a two weeks' vacation in Florida starting immediately.

Now that the brothers have finished settling their World Series bets, it seems that many of them came out even. Luke Hamlin was in New York last week-end to check up on the ball clubs. Must be he doesn't believe the radio and the papers.

Sigma Phi announces the pledging of Robert Walker Ker, Jr., '45, and William Dana Flanders, Jr. '46.

A banquet was held in honor of the pledges Thursday night at the Star Restaurant. Andy Gallup, '46, was so enthralled by the Soundies that he nearly forgot to eat.

Ace Moore, '42 and Helene Fuller of Charlotte were married in a simple but beautiful wedding on Saturday afternoon at St. Paul's church. Ace is now in the ground force of the air corps and will be stationed in Detroit.

Punch Pyle '46 and Chuck Warner '46 are moving into the house.

TAU EPSILON PHI

Billy Lederman wishes to announce his engagement to Helen White of Everett, Mass. To prove it he is busy growing a moustache.

Sam Ziskind has returned from Springfield where he was accepted into the Navy V-7 program, while Jack Rabbit Robinson still hopes that carrot juice will do the trick.

Sadly disillusioned Heise returned from Yankee Stadium where he wore out his lungs on behalf of McCarthy's boys.

Reginald Hagnus, the Tep successor to Galento has been appointed house detective. Already he is tracking down the abductor of Dazzling Stroyman's fountain pen.

Girls Needed to Spot Pilots, Also Planes

All during the summer months the young married women of Burlington have "spotted" airplanes in the Old Mill tower. Next Monday the [illegible] under the leadership of Mrs. Ellsworth, house director at Converse Hall, will be returned to the women on the hill.

At the last student union mass meeting Miss Simpson urged girls to sign up for this vital war service.

To date only about twenty girls have answered the call. Miss Simpson needs from 100 to 150 volunteers. Although all these girls will not work during the same week that many are needed to arrange a schedule. Any girl who can possibly spare the time is urged to turn her name and hour plan into the Dean's office as soon as possible. It is planned that the girls will work two hours at a time. The important thing to remember when you spot airplanes is to wear warm, protective clothing.

Something New Has Been Added

BARBARA TENNIEN

Each week finds many interesting books appearing in the Billings Library. These books are varied in character and comprehensive in the fields they cover. Among them there are books which either entertain or instruct. Anyone who inspects these books will be repaid in dividends of pleasure. The college students should take advantage of this opportunity.

Here are just a few samples of the many fascinating books to be found among the new purchases of the library:

Writers in Crisis

By MAXWELL GEISMAR

This interesting book shows how Lardner, Hemingway, Dos Passos, Wolfe, Faulkner and Steinbeck have influenced and have been influenced by American life. To read this account is to view, through the creative eye, the period of the golden twenties and the frightened thirties. The difference between these two decades illustrates the wide range of experience through which we have passed during this period of turmoil.

Napoleon in Review

By GEORGE GORDON ANDREWS

This is a series of ten studies designed to review certain aspects and characteristics of Napoleon and his work. The book is a revaluation of the subject in the light of the most recent research and modern critical analysis. Here we find new light on Napoleon's character, achievements and his place in history.

The Pre-Raphaelite Tragedy

By WILLIAM GAUNT

"The high light of the picture is of course Rossetti, that brilliant, wayward, neurotic humbug." The book is a portrait of a genius who maddens his friends by his slovenly inertia and moody selfishness and at the same time slowly weakens his creative spirit by morbid dreams, hatreds, drugs and remorse. Other interesting characters who appear are the prosperous Millais, the turbulent Morris, Ruskin, the gentle Burne-Jones and the charlatan adventurer Howell. The whole work is informing and extremely readable.

Norway and the War

Edited by MONICA CURTIS

Here we have a documentary record of one of the most flagrant instances of international trickery—the invasion and subjugation of Norway. The work provides most of the printed evidence available and will appeal to readers of all types.

The Vampire Economy

By GUENTER REIMANN

In this book, an authoritative study of business under Fascism, the reader will discover a clear cut picture of business life under Hitler which is most revealing. The phenomenon of a stock exchange in a totalitarian state, the manipulation of State and private investments, the effects on world trade, and the working of the Four-Year Plan are all thoroughly examined.

Cat Harriers Meet Bowdoin Friday

With two weeks practice time since their last meet, the Green and Gold harriers are getting into fine shape for their only home encounter of the season, on Friday, October 16, with Bowdoin

Hoping to rack up their first win of the season for the home fans, the hill and dalers will meet with some tough competition from the Bowdoinites. To help offset this threat from the North, Coach Archie Post hopes to have the services of Harvey Goodell, Freshman star of two years ago, who has been nursing a bad case of shin-splints for the first part of the season, but who should be ready to go Friday. He is also looking to two Freshmen, Lepper and Morrison, to increase the power of the varsity. Lettermen Hoyt, Crown, St. Mary, and McLaren, stars of the Union meet, are expected to show good form again Friday.

Randolph Aggies Eke Out 29-30 Win Over Frosh Runners

Taking first and fourth places, the Farnsworth brothers of the Randolph Aggies sparked their team to a close 29-30 win over the U.V.M. Kitten harriers, in an informal meet here last Saturday. Fred Webster's newly formed Hinesburg club fell far behind into third place with 72 points.

In second and third place were Lepper and Morrison, Archie Post's freshman stars. These two clocked times of 11.08 and 11.16 respectively, over a better than two mile course, which would lead some to believe that they will see action next Saturday against Bowdoin in varsity competition.

The first ten men lined up as follows

1. S. Farnsworth (R)
2. Lepper (V)
3. Morrison (V)
4. Farnsworth (R)
5. Shortsleeve (R)
6. Sullivan (V)
7. Russell (H) } Tie
8. Milligan (V) }
9. Goff (R)
10. Small (R)

Two new curricula, one to prepare physical therapists and one for occupational therapists, will be instituted at the New York University school of education next fall.

Evansmen Prepare for Union Trip Middlebury Nearly Upsets Dutchmen

Improved Vermont Squad Seeks Second Triumph

Vermont's victorious Catamounts, tasting blood from their first kill of the season last Saturday, will hit the trail again this week in quest of more big game. Union College is the potential victim, and the Dutchmen had better beware when the Cats invade Schenectady on the 17th for they have well-proved the sharpness of their fangs and claws.

That the Green and Gold was a much better team than had appeared on Centennial Field against Rhode Island State was very obvious to the fans who witnessed last week's clash with the Massachusetts invaders. The tackling and blocking was better, the running was harder, but the most outstanding factor was that the Cats had developed a passing attack which was going to give their forthcoming opponents plenty of headaches. Norm Beaulieau pitched strikes all afternoon to the delight of the touchdown hungry customers, and both counters were direct results of his educated arm. The other backs also showed plenty of stuff during the fracas. Pete Kadzis revealed himself as a plunging, powerful runner. Chick Lapointe was his usual scintillating self and Monk Martin played an excellent defensive game. The line too, deserves its share of the credit as time after time it piled up the Mass. State offense and stopped it cold. The Catamounts have shown great improvement in every game so far, and with the state series looming up next month, will be ready to try their claws on their Green Mountain rivals.

Vermont will have to be in top shape though, to take care of Union next Saturday when they invade the Schenectady campus. The Maroon and White boasts a veteran eleven, with a hopper dopper aerial attack equal to that of the Cats. The Dutchmen pulled a Hollywood finish against Middlebury last week nosing out the Panthers 14-13, with a thrilling 80 yard drive down the field with minutes left to play. Union has two dead eye leather slingers in fullback Hal Enstice, and left half Bartlett, both of whom led the assault all afternoon. The man to watch on the receiving end of this combination is Siegal, the right half, whose glue fingered catches featured the contest, as he romped across the goal for one of the deciding touchdowns. Their fans are not exclusively razzle-dazzle artists however. They all can back the line, especially Freshman Enstice who sparked the Union attack against the Blue and White.

The forward wall of the N.Y. upstaters is also strong. Although weak in the opening stanza of the Middlebury fracas, the Union line held well during the remaining quarters and came through with several last-ditch, goal-line stands when it made the difference between victory and defeat. Sharpe, heavy pivot man, came to the fore when he recovered a fumble, to set up the 2nd tally.

Coach Fuzzy Evans' gridders have thus far sustained no serious injuries, with the exception of Bud Lippman who is still out with an injured hand. Lennie Kunken suffered a twisted knee against the Massachusettes Staters, but it is evidently nothing of a serious nature and he will be back in the line-up for the practice sessions this week.

This Is Where You Came In

Walt Domina, last's highest scoring back last year, swung into stride Saturday with three touchdowns as his Norwich Horsemen swamped Worcester Tech, 44 to 6, for their third straight win. The Cadets are undefeated.

Middlebury came close to winning its first of the year, but a last-ditch Union rally gave the Dutchmen a 14 to 13 triumph. Union plays host to Vermont in Schenectady Saturday.

Union Boasts Great Aerial Attack And Fine Runners

U. V. M. Band Has Girl Leader

By MARY ASHE

Our U. V. M. band has a new and exciting leader this year, and I am sure everyone has seen her, smartly twirling her baton, and putting the boys through intricate drilling. Her name is "Sis" Warden, and she hails from Bluefield, West Virginia. When asked why she selected Vermont as her college, she told me that her mother and father are natives of Vermont, and that she herself was born in St. Johnsbury. "Sis" is 18 years old, and has spent 17 of those years in the South.

As girl twirlers are more or less a rarity and an object of awe and admiration in the eyes of the public, I asked "Sis" how she first happened to become interested in twirling and how long she had been at it. She told me her father had charge of the Legion Drum Corps, and eight years ago when girls were first admitted to the corps, she became interested in the art of twirling. With the constant aid and assistance of her father, she has indeed become an outstanding figure, as a girl twirler.

At present "Sis" is taking the Liberal Arts course, and her main interests are physical education and aeronautics. Her chief aim and ambition is to be able to get the required number of hours to ferry planes.

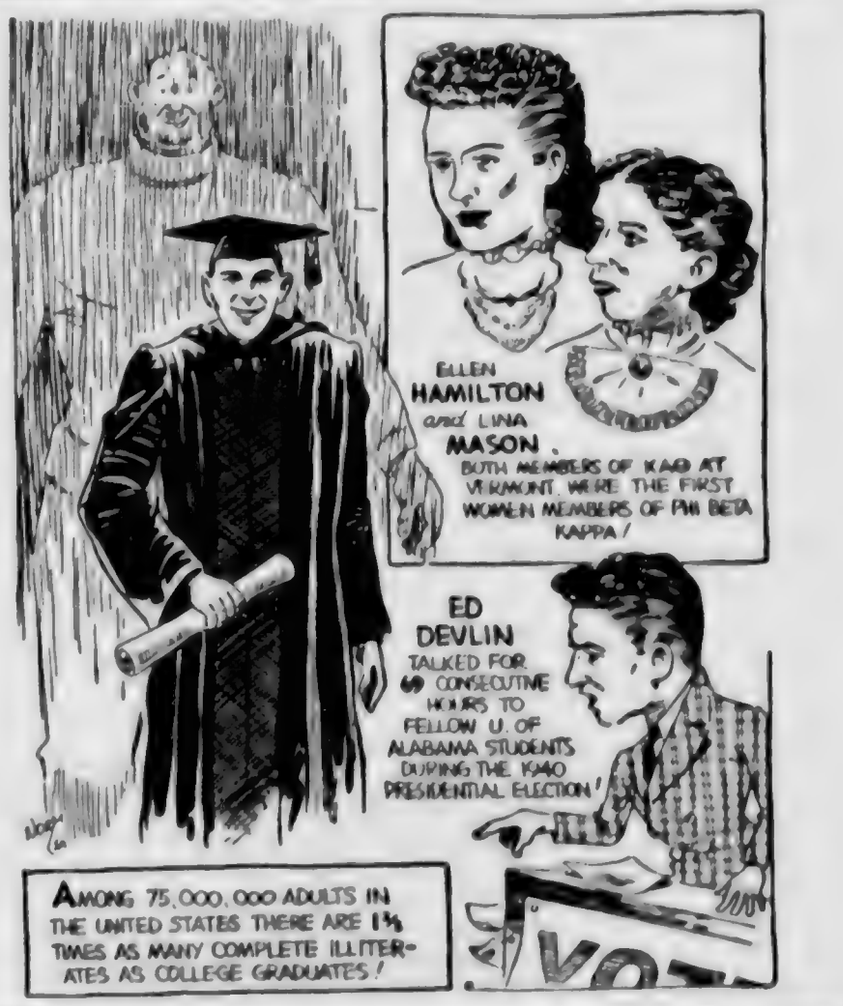
"Sis" Warden is a girl whom we will all be hearing a lot about this year, both because of her charming and pleasing personality, and her outstanding ability.

T.E.P. Gridders Given Tough Pre-Season Drill

War has struck the Tep House. Under the supervision of "Scientist" Joseph a gasless, motorless, horseless movement is underway. The "Scientist" calls his wartime chariot a bicycle. It even moves.

The football team is being put through a tough pre-season training with "Windy" Stroyman calling signals. "Butch" Glazin, the intramural terror, is living up to expectations. In order to keep his weight down, he is being subjected to a very strict diet.

Sev Comen believes in closer American-Canadian relationship and with this purpose in mind is making periodic good-will visits.



Tep was pleasantly surprised to seeing Major David London, U.V.M. '27, of the Air Corps back at the chapter house.

We wish to take this opportunity to re-express our condolences with the late Bert Mott's fraternity brothers at the Phi Delt House. His memory shall linger for years with all of us.

Rev. John Hopkins To Be Speaker at Vespers on Sunday

The Rev. John Henry Hopkins, D.D. of Grand Isle, rector-emeritus of the Church of the Redeemer in Chicago, will be the vespers speaker at the University of Vermont, Sunday afternoon, Oct. 18, at four o'clock.

Doctor Hopkins, who is a graduate of the University in the class of 1883, has been rector of churches in the East and Middle West, and served as a regimental chaplain during the Spanish-American War. He is the author of several books on religious subjects, and is, besides an organist composer and authority on church music. Hymns composed by Doctor Hopkins are in use in many of the church hymnals.

Pres. John S. Millis will preside at the service in the chapel, and the reading of the scripture will be by the Rev. Percy C. Ladd of the College St. Congregational Church.

Delta Alpha Chapter of Delta Phi Epsilon Sorority will hold open house on Friday, October 16, from 4.00-5.30 p.m., in the North Lounge at Southwick.

Miss Simpson to Speak to Morrisville Women

Miss Simpson, Dean of Women, plans to go to Morrisville, Monday, October nineteenth. While there, Miss Simpson will speak before the Women's Club of Morrisville and she will also address the girls of the High School on the subject of "Education in the Future."

Independents Elect Officers and Plan Meetings

The Independents held their first regular meeting of the year Monday evening in the Ping Pong room with 16 present. The following officers were elected: Carl Urie secretary; Bob Bickford, manager of intramural sports.

It was decided to hold the regular meetings on the first Thursday of each month. A special meeting was called for Monday, October 26 to make arrangements for the Independents' dance to be held November 14.

Any independent men interested in participating in intramural touch football, softball, basketball or bowling should see Bob Bickford.

Mortar Board Dance Tomorrow Evening

Vermonts' A-1 Man To Be Announced There

As the week draws to a close campus curiosity increases concerning the selection of Vermonts A-1 man. Will he be a senior. Will he be a freshman. Your guess is as good as Mortar Board's. Many votes have been cast, but they are not going to be counted until Saturday. This is one secret that is not going to leak out we hope.

There was some misunderstanding about the statement which appeared in the last issue of the Cynic about corsages. Girls do not usually receive them for Mortar Board. But if some gallant young man insists on sending a corsage Mortar Board merely suggests that a stamp corsage would be very appropriate.

Due to changed orders the 187th will not be able to play for the dance.

Everyone Welcome to Pi Phi Breakfast Sunday

Sunday's big event at the Pi Beta Phi house is the Pi Phi breakfast to which everyone is welcome, with a slight charge of 25c for breakage. It will last from 9 to 11 in the morning of course and a wholesome meal will be enjoyed by all they promise. Marion Stoughton and Esther Gustafsen are in charge, and Mrs. Rutledge, the house mother, will chaperon.

A hot tip says that Rayden Prouty will be doing dishes, assisted by other sophomores.

There will be a meeting Wednesday, at 4.30 p.m., in the Art Center, of all those interested in the formation of an Art Hobby Group.

The food was far from satisfying those who wanted blood soup and ketchup but it was tasty and [illegible] the surprise of many who had previously decided benefit supper consisted of nothing but ice cream and cake and a glass of milk. [illegible] the majority of people to capacity. Everyone partook of sandwiches, cookies, potato chips, apples and pearls, every jaw was working furiously, even bubble gum.

Janet Duke Reed '43 headed the committees and decorations were displayed and collected by Corinne Hollowell '43 while Jane McAuliffe '44 and Bobby Deming '43 were taking care of the food and publicity angles.

Kappa Alpha Theta would like every one of the persons and organizations who so willingly and kindly cooperated to know that their work and contributions were gladly received and greatly appreciated. Thank you for helping. And thank you, everyone, for coming.

Missionary-Author Coming to Vermont

Rev. E. Stanley Jones to Speak at Convocation

An event of unusual religious significance will occur the last of this month at the University of Vermont when the Rev. E. Stanley Jones renowned missionary to India and author of the world-read and much-translated "The Christ Of The Indian Road" will speak at a University convocation as well as at smaller meetings with interested students. The convocation will be held on Friday morning at 11:40 in the chapel with classes dismissed in order to have the time free.

Mr. Jones in sponsoring under the auspices of the college Executive Committee on Religious Life composed of representatives of the various faiths and denominations and is presented that in addition to the chapel convocation there will be [illegible] meeting in the Memorial Auditorium Dining. The Christ Of The Indian Road" at least two other of Mr. Jones books have inspired the last [illegible] The Christ Of Every Road and "The Christ Of The Round Table."

The aim of this new committee which has been inaugurated as a part of the religious program recommended by President Lyon G. Miller is to coordinate all the religious [illegible] of [illegible] U., [illegible] to [illegible] and [illegible] a [illegible] social and religious [illegible] among the students. American Youth Needs Faith Is The Theme Of Ninety-Eighth Y. M. C. A. Founder's Day

The growth of totalitarianism and its hold upon the youth of many countries proves that "a living faith, even in an evil cause, is more powerful than skepticism or superior ideals halfheartedly held," Eugene E. Barnett general secretary of the National Council of the Y. M. C. A. said today. He pledged the organization to acceptance of "a crucial and inescapable responsibility as our American young people seek that faith in God and in the future which will make every present sacrifice worth making."

Mr. Barnett Speaks

Mr. Barnett's statement was made in connection with the observance of Y. M. C. A. Founders' Week, marking the ninety-eighth anniversary of the establishment of the "Y" by George Williams.

More than anything else youth demands a cause in which he can believe and to which he can wholly give himself," he said. "American youth are beginning to get clear as to what they are called upon to fight against. Hitler has made plain his word and deed the new order which he would fasten on the world. Japan's warlords have thrown off their masks and have become increasingly frank about their new order in East Asia. American young people see an evil and intolerable threat in these 'new orders' to say nothing of the devilish means employed to establish them. They are meeting that threat with determination.

Fresh Faith

"Something more however, is needed to set free in the determination with which these young men are going forth to war and to make it glow with burning enthusiasm. They need a trust and kindling faith in the ends for which they fight. To fight for the preservation or the restoration of the world as we have known it in the past is not good enough for the simple reason that that world incomparably better though it be than that offered by the totalitarian aggressors is not good enough.

Mr. Barnett declared that the "American dream" that has made this country great is threatened by destruction not born in the hard years of the depression. The same thing happened in Britain and France, he said, when the dynamic ideas of the three great western democracies became doctrines to which men paid lip service rather than vital principles of action from which they passionately believed.

In the battle of our fathers we have enduring foundations on which to build but we do not need look not to the past but to the future. Mr. Barnett said. "What kind of a world are we trying to build? For an intelligent, creative and daring answer to that question the youth of America, in the United Nations and in the world stand waiting. Our elected representatives in Washington have a terrible responsibility in seeing that an answer is forthcoming. Actually, however, the answer must come from the people at church and school and press and other democratic grass roots sources to voice deepest hopes and deepest convictions.

Youth Center

"Because it is of the people" because it is Christian and because for more than a quarter of a century it has been a rallying center for youth in all parts of the world the Young Men's Christian Association accepts its full and crucial and unescapable responsibility as our American people pray that faith in God and in the future which will make every present sacrifice worth making.

Thanks

The Blood Bank campaign came to a very successful conclusion yesterday afternoon. Members of the Committee wish to express their gratification for the fine turnout shown by the entire student body and to thank those members of the honorary societies who put their time and energy on the project.

The Security Fund office wishes to clarify a statement made in a previous issue of the Cynic to the effect that the Security Drive has gone over the top. This statement is true as far as it goes in that an immediate goal has been reached but they wish to inform students, faculty and alumni that the total and final goal has not been reached and the Security Fund is anxious and ready to accept contributions due on this final amount.

The Life of William Bainbridge, Esq., of the U. S. Navy

[illegible]

Victoria's Heir

[illegible]

When Edward VII ascended the throne of England in 1901 he was said to be the most widely known person in the world. Everyone admired him. He had seen the rise to power of the middle class. He had witnessed the change in quarrels of princes change into power politics of national states. As Prince of Wales Edward VII was the only statesman in the aristocratic order in every sense was he was "the second in every rank." This is the story of that great but tortured change.

De Witt Clinton

by Dorothy Bonet

The fate of De Witt Clinton, here presented in its full form for the first time, is a drama of the birth of New York State and the latter conflicts which accompanied it. Both Aaron Burr and Tammany sought to destroy the influence of De Witt Clinton. The power of both, though great, was no match for this man. Mrs. Bobbe has brought forth a new and startling picture. Clinton as his intimate friends knew him, as his family loved him, and as his foes hated him.

Men's and Women's Christian Associations, and whatever local, state and national agencies are available. Study and discussion groups are planned, and an observance of Interfaith, or Brotherhood, Week and also a Religious Emphasis Week, are under consideration as immediate objectives.

The committee includes: Prof. George Dykhuizen, chairman; Prof. Raymond A. Hall executive secretary; Miss Constance Brown, Prof. John DeForest, Prof. W. L. Gardner, Dr. Arthur Gladstone, Prof. Catherine Nulty, and M. D. Powers. Professor Hall will be available in the committee's offices for interviews with students on any matters pertaining to the work of the committee, the religious groups on the campus or in the churches, the campus religious program or the students own religious problems.

Professor Hall will also serve as adviser to any groups who desire it and [illegible] will act as coordinator [illegible] the groups. Rabbi Weine of Johnson will be the adviser of the Hillel Foundation group and the Rev. Robert [illegible] Northfield, an alumnus of the University will act in that capacity for the Newman Club. Miss Charlotte Ferguson of the state Y.W.C.A. Dean Mary Jane Swenson of the University, and Miss Eleanor Wade state student secretary of Y.W.C.A. will be advisers for their groups and Mr. Powers for the Christian Association.

These together with the new student committee on religion and the [illegible] groups on the campus will form the Religious Emphasis Week Committee. Professor Hall and the [illegible] groups on other campuses will meet once a month with the Committee for Religious Life.

Many Notables on Hand For Colorful Ceremony

The ceremony will mark the culmination of the first instance of a cooperative effort between the N.R.A. and a [illegible] in developing a marksmanship program. It inaugurates a policy which has interested the government, and will be promoted in other college communities.

The course here has been sponsored by the N.R.A. with the cooperation of the University of Vermont and with the backing of the Outdoorsmen Conservation and Game Club and the Burlington Rifle and Pistol Club. The two last named organizations have instructed the 45 successful candidates, who have been trained as N.R.A. rifle and pistol coaches, and who are now available as future instructors.

In addition, N.R.A. attendance certificates will be presented to 61 members of the Civilian Defense Women's Volunteer Drivers' Corps and to members of the attendance course who have not yet qualified as instructors. Eighteen members of the University of Vermont summer session, who are not connected with either of the above groups will also receive awards.

Friday evening's program, with Prof. Henry Jordan as master of ceremonies, will open with music by the R.O.T.C. band under Conductor Joseph F. Lechnyr. In the absence of Pres. John S. Millis, Prof. Paul D. Evans will address the candidates and this will be followed by the presentation of certificates.

On the platform with Professor Jordan will be Mayor John J. Burns of Burlington, Mrs. Gerald F. Preston, head of the Women's Volunteer Drivers' Corps, who will make the presentations to her unit, Dr. Gerald F. Preston, organizer of the N.R.A. Rifle and Pistol School and president of both the Fish and Game Club and the Rifle and Pistol Club, who will give out the awards to the members of these organizations, Major Francis P. Simpson, head of the department of military science at the University, who will make the awards to the summer session members, Henry Criswell, secretary of the Fish and Game Club, and Robert Dress, who holds the same office in the Rifle and Pistol Club.

Doctor Preston, as organizer of the course, gives great credit to Col. G. F. N. Jones, assistant state head of the Connecticut department of military science, and to Maj. Willett Foster, for their support of the movement, and to Sergeants [illegible] and [illegible] both of the military department who have acted as instructors.

Invitations for the program have been sent out to patriotic and civic organizations, and the interested public of the city are [illegible] to participate in this unique ceremony, the first of its kind ever to be held in the United States, which will take place at eight o'clock in the auditorium on the lower floor of the south wing of the Waterman building.

The College Front

[illegible] question a college could pose right at a time when so many men and women are fighting [illegible] Are we a college student and what do we call ourselves? Are we a college [illegible] or are we college men?

Right now, based on light school enrollment in the home town, the fellow who has no knack of knowing [illegible] the army or navy or marine corps. He is not sure which he will be in, but he knows he will be in one of them. He is not sure when he will [illegible] a uniform, but he knows he will have one. He is not sure [illegible] college. He is not sure [illegible] but he knows he will [illegible] something. He is not sure [illegible] but he knows he will [illegible] something. He is not sure [illegible] but he knows he will [illegible] something.

[illegible] you. Isn't [illegible] a compliment, a real [illegible] to be called [illegible]?

[illegible] is going to be going to college [illegible] "Oh, just another college student," say that it is the best compliment [illegible] to be called such. He must [illegible] because he is living up to the standards [illegible] a college student are in the fighting services of [illegible]?

Read this over again. It is what a thinking person thinks of our position [illegible] is certainly the most [illegible] we can expect.

We should not have a [illegible] considering college a privilege so it follows [illegible] not be [illegible] for entering the army. With the draft age now down to 18 years, it would take people a long time to graduate a person. The draft is going to soon get a little faster than usual. If there is going to be a college [illegible], it must be that students are working towards the end of making themselves best prepared to serve where their country's war effort calls for them.

Some people will kindly and gently make you feel good by telling how the world will need trained and educated people after the war. Others will get them first, praise the greatest and say that your training is needed to help win the war. We are finding out that winning the war is just a little bit harder than we thought it would be. And it is certainly harder than going our placid pre-war ways.

To be equal to the task makes just that much more effort while we have the chance. Why should we be called? Why should not be found wanting.

D. M. Z.

Killed in Action

The war is getting closer to home as Americans here are fighting the war overseas. Announcement of the death at Local Board Office in Northeast Florida, Sgt. Lorenzo Lee, graduate of Rutland High School, and former student at this college, has been received by relatives here. Lorenzo was the first student to be killed in the service of his country. He was a member of Phi Sigma Delta fraternity.

Mr. Four by Twelve

Chick Holds Scoring Lead

[illegible] a Pointe, Catamount halfback star, held his position as leader in Eastern [illegible] ring circles Saturday, the Associated Press discloses. La Pointe's two touchdowns [illegible] hiked his four-game total to 48.

[illegible] has made two scores in each [illegible] Rhode Island State, Rut[illegible] State, and Union. A scorer's [illegible] credited him with a third goal in [illegible] contest, but this was made by [illegible] frosh fullback, and the six [illegible] subtracted from La Pointe's [illegible] tally.

[illegible] has scored all but ten of Ver[illegible] 58 points. Kadzis' touchdown and [illegible] points by Norm Beaulieu make [illegible] trailing ten.

[illegible] Walt Domina, of Norwich, trails [illegible] two points. He has tallied six [illegible] and seven extra points. Third [illegible] is Bill Hart, Delaware full[illegible] with 42. Domina may well forge [illegible] ead this week-end. His Cadets oppose [illegible] eleven which has yet to win, [illegible] while Vermont remains idle.

Cadets Triumph Over Coast Guard

Norwich and Middlebury preserved their respective streaks Saturday. The Cadets humbled previously unbeaten Coast Guard Academy, 13 to 6, while Middlebury was losing, 26 to 6, to Colby. Walt Domina scored one Norwich touchdown to remain on the heels of Vermont's Ralph La Pointe in the national scoring race.

[illegible] Post's University of Ver[illegible] upset Johnny Magee's [illegible] team, 25-36, on the home course [illegible] to rack up their first win of [illegible] season.

[illegible] Allen Hillman and Joe [illegible] Bowdoin clocked identical times 19:08, on a course a little better than [illegible] half miles long, to tie for [illegible] the meet. But that was all [illegible] Bowdoin as ten second later, Captain [illegible] Hoyt of Vermont, leading six [illegible] golden jerseyed Vermonters, swept [illegible] the finish line to take third place. [illegible] ran a good race to land [illegible] rth place and Ernie St. Mary was not [illegible] behind with a fifth. John Corliss [illegible] Dutch Farley finished sixth and [illegible] enth, and Freshmen Bob Brisbe and [illegible] were eighth and ninth.

[illegible] was very well pleased with [illegible] team work that bunched these seven [illegible] together, thus clinching the meet. [illegible] running of Captain Hoyt, [illegible] seconds behind Allen Hillman [illegible] Joe Carey, who turned in outstanding [illegible] performances. Phi Delt, Owl Gridders Win

Down TEP's, SAE's In Interfraternity Plan

Thus far the touch football league has seen the pre-season favorites gain decisive wins, while several underdogs have come up with some major upsets.

In the opening encounter, the SN's were trounced handily by the powerful ATO aggregation. Scoring in every period, the ATO's rang up 40 points, while displaying plenty of ability and scoring punch.

The Phi Sigs, using their vaunted aerial attack showered the Delta Psis 34-12. A fast-breaking offensive with lots of aerial strength clinched the game for the highly-touted outfit.

In a fast-moving game, the Phi Delts, drubbed the Independents, 27-12. The boys from the marble house looked good in winning and are a real contender for top flight honors.

In a Saturday game the Owls defeated the SAE's to the tune of 30-18. Boasting a strong outfit, the "Owls" simply carried too much power for the boys from Summit Street.

In this week's games the Kappa Sigma and ATO's meet in a tussle, which promises to be a great battle. Both teams have won their initial encounter and each will be out seeking higher laurels.

The Sigma Phis and the strong "Phi Sigs" meet in a Friday game. The Sigma Phis are yet untried, and they must be considered the underdog going into their first game. The Phi Sigs, on the other hand, have proclaimed themselves real threats by virtue of their decisive win last week.

The Lower bracket of the league which consists of those teams which have lost one game, begins this week with the SN's and Delta Psis meeting in the first game on Tuesday. The Independents and SAE's tangle on Thursday in the second game of the loser's bracket.

Mud Bogs Air Attack—Enstice, Bartlett Star

[illegible] Rowlands

[illegible] and battered Union and [illegible] gridiron power primarily by the [illegible] advantage evening footing with them [illegible] 6 last night at Byrne.

The Cats, who had [illegible] took possession [illegible] and outplayed a Mass. State [illegible] eleven, succumbed to the attack of Union College, 26-12.

Old Jupiter Pluvius showered every [illegible] but good luck on the Cats, stalling them from the opening gun until half time on the ground and in the air.

The hopper-dipper passing combination of Norm Beaulieu and Ralph La Pointe failed to click as the heavens opened up to make the Schenectady school's playing field a veritable quagmire.

Time and time again Norm would fade for one of those famous touchdown flips, but the slippery footing caused the sensational halfback to fall more than once in the attempt. Out of a total of ten passes, the Cats were able to complete but two compared to Union's seven completed aerials in fifteen tries.

It was all Union during the first half as the Dutchmen, paced by Hal Enstice and Bob Bartlett, ran and passed to a nineteen-point lead at half-time.

Scores on Kick-off

Thoroughly brought to life at half time, the Cats continually threatened in the final two chapters. Vermont's scoring spree opened however, in the second quarter, with Ralph La Pointe doing the damage. Regarded as one of the East's best runners, and the leading scorer in this section, La Pointe took Union's kick-off and chalked up six points.

Easily the highlight of the damp afternoon, it was this broken field running presentation of eighty-five yards that sparked the Cats. La Pointe took the ball on his own fifteen-yard marker and sprinted the distance for the initial counter. Beaulieu came in to boot the point after, but the attempt failed, and the score read Union, 19 Vermont, 6.

Although Vermont was offensively on its toes in the third and fourth periods, the Garnet managed to crash over for another tally in the third canto. Hal Enstice, Union's tossing hero, and Bob Bartlett combined to chalk this one up, the former heaving the leather to Bartlett, who stepped over for the goal. Bartlett calmly stepped in to kick the extra point, and to hang up Union's scoring power for the rest of the afternoon.

Tally After March

In the final quarter the Evansmen came to the fore again as La Pointe climaxed a drive from mid-field which the Red and White were unable to cope with. Ralph ran this one over to keep his average of two touchdowns per game in fact.

To say that a first-half jinx hit the lads hard would be far from misstating the case, for the Cats couldn't seem to click in the initial periods. Some observers even went so far as to dub them the "gut'less wonders," but the last half wiped away any doubt that the Green and Gold would be a pushover for Unions in two weeks, that is, if Beaulieu and La Pointe are able to get their passing attack into working order.

Fuzzy Evans' proteges escaped Saturday's New York junket without serious injury. Scotty Ingram who played some scintillating fifty-nine minute ball for Vermont received a smash in the mouth that cost him a broken tooth and a cut lip, but the former sparkling High School player will be ready to go against Trinity.

A strong and well-deserved cheer to Saturday's defeat was the awarding of A-1 honors to Norm Beaulieu. The fans were unanimous among the students combined to elect Norm as their choice for A-1 star of campus.

Captain Billy West and Wendall Harvey were the only Vermont men to come through in the singles both winning their duels with ease. In the doubles, Harvey and his partner, Warner Black, were the lone U. V. M. victors.

Next on the schedule was St. Michael's College. The Mikeman didn't even press the Cats who won handily as West, Wicker, Harvey, and Black won their singles and the duos of West and Wicker, and Harvey and Black emerged victorious in the doubles. All of the Green and Gold netmen played hard, slashing ball. Their shots were flat and speedy and they were really clipping the white lines all afternoon.

On Saturday, October 17, the Vermont team journeyed to Middlebury for a return match with the Blue and White. Because of transportation difficulties only half of the combine arrived in Panther-Town, and the result was a Middlebury victory. The depleted Vermonters put up a valiant fight however. Black tied his match 7-7, Wicker was outclassed 6-0, 6-2, and Harvey won his third singles of the year 6-4, 6-4.

Committees Report At First Meeting Of Student Govt.

Letters were read from the Student Association Committee of Plattsburgh State Teachers College and the Farmington Community Concert Association, concerning the appearances of musical artists in the area and on the campus.

It was moved and passed that Robert Wilder '44 act as chairman of the Finance Committee in getting out and selling tags to raise money.

Nominations are to be made from the floor also for an Executive Committee member to replace Wayne Dudley who went into the armed services. Election for this office will be held soon.

The meeting was adjourned after it was announced that the officers and executive committee members will meet with the Student Conference Committee on Tuesday, October 19 at 4:15 in the South Conference Room at Waterman.

Respectfully submitted,
MARILYN E. EMMER,
Secretary, U. V. M. Student Govt.

Besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Otis, he is survived by three brothers and a sister. James C. Otis Jr., is with a weather detachment in South Carolina. Robert Samuel Otis a junior at the University of Vermont. David Otis, a sophomore at Middlebury College and Miss Janet who is employed at Fort Hugh Wood.

A memorial service for Lieutenant Otis will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 in the First Methodist church.

Gold Key to Give a Smoker for Freshmen

Plans are being completed by the Gold Key for a Smoker for Freshmen in the Student Lounge at Waterman Building at 7:30 Wednesday evening. Program will consist of speakers chosen from leaders in campus and one or two representatives from the faculty. These speakers will be followed by singing, refreshments and smokes. There is a possibility of an Industrial Movie.

Party or party at the freshmen chosen alphabetically will be invited to line up material for next year's Gold Key and give one an equal chance.

important has been left out of education. They have come to realize that religion is necessary in the life of every man and woman.

Moreover, this war has made thinking people realize more than ever the need of God in education. The Most Reverend Bishop expressed the hope that this war, cruel and terrible as it is, may teach the world that it cannot toss God out of life, that it cannot toss God out of education, that it cannot toss religion out of the lives of men and women and expect them to find peace and happiness.

Youth's Battle

It is the youth of this generation who are going forth to battle with the world to uphold the heritage and the ideals of their faith. If they haven't religious faith, then their generation and the world about them will be the losers for it.

Information on Enlisted Reserve

Procurement Board Will Come Here Nov. 3

The joint Army Navy Marine Corps Coast Guard College Procurement Board of the First Service Command will be at the University of Vermont on November 3. At that time, a mass meeting of the students will be held, probably in the evening, at which time representatives of the Army and Army Air Corps, Navy and Naval Aviation, and Marine Corps will speak relative to the aim and needs of their respective branches. Following the mass meeting open house will be held later in the evening or on the next day where students, who so desire, may meet to ask general questions.

At this time, no actual recruiting will be carried out, and no commitment to recruit specific individuals will then be made.

Later (probably within two or three weeks) a Joint Recruiting Board will visit the University for the purpose of interviewing, selecting, and actually recruiting the individual applicants.

Requirement for Enlistment

Students enlisting must meet the respective physical requirements of the various branches. For enlistment in the Enlisted Reserve Corps, the physical requirements are those for admission to the Advanced R. O. T. C. Course. The physical requirements for Army Aviation or Naval Aviation are more severe in that one must have perfect vision.

The age limits for students are Army, 18-26 inclusive; and Navy, 17-25 inclusive.

All applicants for enlistment should have an authenticated birth certificate, parent's or guardian's consent if under 21, three letters of recommendation from responsible persons who are in a position to testify as to the applicant's character, etc., and if the applicant is seeking enlistment on a deferred basis, he must have a statement from the Dean of his college.

Miss Hoffmann New Dance Instructor

All you girls interested in the Modern Dance Workshop Group, probably already know that we have a new dancing teacher this year, Miss Hoffmann. Her home is Washington, D. C., but she doesn't mind the cold weather—so far.

She attended the George Washington University, where she majored in Physical Education and she received her Master's Degree from Wellesley. She told me that she has been interested in dancing ever since she was eleven years old and she has had teaching experience during the summer months at her college.

Definite plans for the coming winter dance program have not been made so far but Miss Hoffman promises modern, square and social dancing as a part of it.

Final Sorority Rushing Parties Begin on Friday

Entertainment For Freshmen Continues Until Following Friday

On Friday begins the "closed period" in rushing for freshmen, transfer and upper women at the Vermont campus. Beginning Friday and continuing for a week each sorority will give its final party. These parties are veiled in deepest mystery but we do know they will be formal.

Alpha Chi Omega has the first party Friday at the house. Of course Mary Perry is in charge ably supported by Sylvia Runnels, Barbara Hall and Harriet Nelson.

The home of Mrs. Hoyt on South Prospect Street will be the scene of the Sigma Gamma party Monday night. Florence Smith is in charge.

Co-chairmen Jean Sprague and Pat Crowley promise a grand party at the Pi Beta Phi house on Tuesday night.

Kappa Alpha Theta's final party will be at their house Wednesday with Elizabeth Deering and Allison Carr dividing the chairmanship.

Thursday night will see two parties in full swing. Delta Phi Epsilon will hold forth at Southwick under the management of Florence Segre, rushing chairman, and Marjorie Rubin, social chairman. Sylvia Wellwood will lead her Alpha Xi Delta sisters in a party at the house.

The last final party a week from Friday night will be at the Delta Delta Delta house. Peggy Hunt, the chairman, will have as her aides Jin Casey, Barbara Webb and Daisy Geer. Mary Butler will be found later leading the clean-up committee.

Students Coach Two One-Act Plays

Morgan and Nichols Portray Mountaineers

Two one-act plays are to be presented Friday evening, October 23, at 8:00 p.m. in the auditorium at Southwick. Both casts have been carefully chosen and promise good sound entertainment.

The first play, "The Step Mother," under the direction of Patty Pike and Patty Page, concerns a lady novelist, ably played by Phyllis Taylor, whose step-son, Maurice Kelley, falls in love with her secretary, Margaret Miller. She disowns him but a reconciliation occurs in the course of clever amusing scenes. Jack Williams plays the role of the doctor who is deeply attached to the lady-novelist. Be sure to see how the step-son brings his mother to his way of thinking.

The second play, "Moonshine," directed by H. Goldberg and S. Wellwood, has a cast of two characters. The revenue officer, or Mervyn Morgan, is captured by a moonshiner, Guy Nichols. The revenue officer, talkative and clever, tries to trick the not-too-intelligent mountaineer out of shooting him. Then comes a surprise ending. The dialogue is strictly from "back in the hills" and you'll believe it when you hear Morgan and Nichols.

Both of these plays have been well directed and promise to be well worth the effort.

Alpha Chi Dessert Hour

The Alpha Chis held a very successful dessert party at the house on Wednesday evening. Apple pie a la mode, chocolate cake and ice cream were served to over 200 people. In charge were Shirley Hall '43, Faith Prior '43 and Cynthia Bailey '43.

Open Meeting of Debating Club Wed.

Round Table Discussion On India Situation

The debating club will hold an open meeting next Wednesday, October 28, at 7:30 p.m. in the Waterman Building, Room 16.

The meeting will take the form of a round table discussion on the topic: "Resolved: That India should receive the right of self-government immediately." The topic will be introduced by Bob Norton '44 and Phil Kelsey '43. Carl Innerfield and Dave Wheeler '44 and an unknown quantity (negative). The constructive speeches will be cut short to allow open discussion to all present. Like Katz '44 will be chairman.

Everybody interested is cordially invited. The topic is of special interest because it will be debated with nine light model debates at the tournament in Dartmouth on November 21 and 22, to which Vermont will send two teams of two. Vermont will meet very tough opposition at that time as almost all the larger New England colleges will send their teams there. So if you want your school to win bring your suggestions to the meeting next Wednesday.

U. V. M. Suggested As Naval Air Site

Lieut. (J. G.) George Markham of the first naval district of Boston has just spent the greater part of two days in a thorough inspection of the facilities of Naval aviation training here. While on his tour of U. V. M. he met all of the instructors, visited all class rooms observed the aviation student in their class room work and studied the time schedule.

Next he visited the airport where he examined the method of keeping records, inspected the aircraft and made a one hour flight over the territory used by the trainees for practice flights.

Although the assignment of Naval training men is not in the hands of the Navy but under the C.A.A. Lieutenant Markham was willing to state the recommendation that Naval men be sent here for flight training. It is planned that the first quota will start training about the fifteenth of November and that the men will receive eighty weeks of intensive training before the arrival of the next contingency.

Reverend Hall Will Speak Sunday at Collegium

The guest speaker at Collegium this Sunday will be Rev. Raymond Hall, secretary of the Committee on Religious Life. He will speak at the meeting at 7:00 which follows the supper starting at 6:00. Don't forget everyone is cordially invited to both. Come early for good food, good discussion and good fun.

W. A. A. Membership Drive Next Week; Sign at Cafeteria

Girls Plan For Cabin For Active Members

Attention, Girls! Do you enjoy hiking, skiing, skating parties and week-ends in the mountains. Do you like swimming parties and golf tours, pound pushing hikes. Doesn't it feel fine to get out doors in the fall or any time of the year and make your month active. Yes, that's what we thought and we agree. But we're not just sitting around and dreaming. You see W. A. A. Council has been working behind the scenes planning events for every possible week-end. What for? It's one of Judd's many plans to get all the active members of the W. A. A. closely united for the good of our club. We even hope to have a cabin and a winter week-end. But that is only hope at the present time. However, if we receive the enthusiastic support of every girl in the University, we feel sure that our hopes will be realized.

The next week we are beginning a membership drive, one of the biggest set. As you already know, to be a member of W. A. A. you have to be a member of your club and next week Thursday will be your chance to sign up.

Members of the cabinet will be around the cafeteria every noon until completion of the drive and all girls who sign up for their club select will receive their activities the week of November 1. In connection with the drive a tea will be held in the cafeteria on Thursday, November 5 at 4:00 p.m. Here the cabinet members will be introduced and the purpose of the drive explained. Refreshments will be served.

W. A. A.

Phil Savage '43, President of W. A. A. Women's Athletic Association announces that the annual sports week in the indoor sports will begin the week of November 1. All girls who are interested are requested to sign up next week in the Cafeteria.

The most interesting names of the sports and managers are as follows:

Skiing, Harriet Pearl, riding, Diane Lesher, golf, Mac Lib Metcalf, rifle, Helen Henderson, Mary Bassett, tennis, Pete Hart, Clare Coe, basketball, Dottie Geer, and the association basketball manager, Barbara Bassett.

U. V. M. Student Committees Meet

On Sunday afternoon, October 4th, a joint meeting was held at Southwick by the Student Government Committee on Religious Life and the Senate Committee on Religious Life at which certain statements were drawn up concerning the relations of each committee to each other and to such campus organizations as the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. C. A. The more immediate problem discussed was that of putting before the college community an outline of the plans of the committees for this year and the years ahead, as well as making suitable preparations and announcement of the first campus-wide event sponsored by these committees, the University Convocation on Friday, October 30th, at 11:40 when E. Stanley Jones, world famous missionary to India, author and Christian leader, will speak. It was decided that this event should be presented at a convocation on Wednesday, October 28, at 10 a.m. in the Chapel two days before the University Convocation for Doctor Jones. This presentation will be made by members of both student and faculty committees.

Southwick Doings

On Friday evening at Southwick at 8 o'clock a group of one act plays will be presented.

The ladies of the faculty will hold a business meeting at Southwick on Monday, October 26 at 3:00 p.m.

Sad to admit, Fortie is not a singer. He failed to measure up to the high standards of the Glee Club, being pronounced quite definitely of the "shower-bath contralto" variety.

Fortie, a natural-born debater, decided next to join the Debating Club. His addition to the club noticeably boosted its membership.

At present our young hero is looking forward hopefully to the first meeting of the newly established Art Hobby Club.

Here ends the first saga of For T. Six. His explorations of our campus organizations revealed both bright and dark spots. He and others like him are trying to improve the situation where such improvement is most desirable. You ask how I know all this because I am For T. Six.

The Locker Room

By Bill Rohrer

There is something about Norwich that brings a bad taste to most U. V. M. mouths. The student-athletic personnel here tolerates Middlebury and is indifferent toward St. Michael's [illegible] nor unpleasant flavor lingers [illegible] about the Cadets during football season. Its source [illegible] years not beyond our [illegible] Vermont teams warmed [illegible] Middlebury game by playing [illegible]. The little military [illegible] and how resented this, and [illegible] the time when its elevens [illegible] up and smite this haughty [illegible].

[illegible] each day is at hand. It [illegible] a cold Northfield afternoon [illegible] years ago, when the [illegible] battled a Taylor-made [illegible] team to a scoreless tie [illegible] into full sunny splendor [illegible]ington in 1940. That was [illegible] Cadets marched over here [illegible]ished on Centennial field [illegible] sophomore, Walt Dom[illegible] walled the cowering host [illegible] to 7 defeat.

[illegible] came on even stronger [illegible] again defeating Vermont, [illegible] serves correct. And with [illegible] victories already executed, the [illegible] edition appears to be at some [illegible] of peak. The team is in full [illegible] dispatching formidable op[illegible] as fast as they bob up. Even [illegible] the Maroon prepares for Middlebury, and around the corner is [illegible] New Hampshire, a mighty [illegible] to anybody's unbeaten record. [illegible] busy as they are in kicking [illegible] rivals, winning the war, etc., [illegible] Cadets still find time to rub a [illegible] salt in the Vermont wound. [illegible]

[illegible] we quote cadet Rog Noden, [illegible] writer for the Guidon, the [illegible]tsmen's official feedbag — beg [illegible] mouthpiece.)

Well, maybe La Pointe of Vermont is the leading scorer in this [illegible] of our country, while Capt. [illegible]alt is only third. But when it [illegible] to real football, I'll take good [illegible] V. M. For its team play that [illegible] a championship team — not [illegible] individual star. And when the [illegible] take on U. V. M., here is one [illegible] that will not be surprised, [illegible] when La Pointe is stopped— [illegible] M. is stopped. But the same [illegible] of our gang. There is [illegible] the entire squad, and Stan [illegible] (note—Coach Stan Keck) is [illegible] at every possible chance to [illegible]self, by not playing one man."

No Lone Wolf

[illegible] Jack La Pointe is nobody's [illegible]man, but he's a good, in[illegible]standing, small college [illegible] and though the team he [illegible] has been quagmired in [illegible] of the season. Chick is [illegible] admit that he hasn't been [illegible] that goal alone all these [illegible] team is doing its part. [illegible] Vermont a hopeless team. [illegible] is green and running in [illegible] Its record shows three [illegible] But the team has been [illegible] at least spasmodically [illegible] defeat. It has a kind of [illegible] strength, a wistful sort of [illegible] that appears and vanishes [illegible] scoring play, flashing just [illegible] for you to say: [illegible] "That was it! Why don't [illegible] that way the whole game?" [illegible] we're expecting victory [illegible]. Far from it. But [illegible] like the Cadets to refram[illegible] ing the Vermont dignity [illegible]gnance. We called you [illegible] Norwich. We take it [illegible] meant small.

Catamount Hill and Dalers Trek To Williamstown - Purple Strong

[illegible] Post [illegible] Vermont Harriers [illegible] meet [illegible] at Williamstown, Mass., to take on the Williams College team.

Coach Post is counting [illegible] and hopes Huntington [illegible] will have Harrington [illegible] Captain Bud Hurt, Len Harrington, Lamos, Curtiss, Moss Crowell, Marty McLaren, and Dick Tupper. The seventh and eighth men will probably be Ernie St. Mary and Morrison, a freshman. Zwick Andrews, Arms, and Milligan are training for the last two berths and will be ready to step into the contest [illegible] places as does St. Mary and Morrison don't go.

Time trials were held Wednesday over the varsity course, and in the final practice, Thursday, each man was put through a light workout. Wednesday's times were not very good. Hurt, the winner, doing the three-and-one-half mile course in 19:52. However, Coach Post was well satisfied with the workout, in which he may have discovered a new freshman, Moran. Moran running the course for the second time this fall, completed the journey in 21:06, just one second behind the veteran Arms.

Goodell Still Out

Harvey Goodell, although he is now well on the road to recovery from his shin-splints, won't be able to run tomorrow. The soreness is gone from his legs, but it will take some time for him to get back into running shape again. Coach Post hopes to have him ready for Middlebury, at least.

Coach Plansky of Williams will field a thirteen man squad to race against the visiting Green and Gold. Williams has had only one previous meet this season which resulted in a 24-31 win for Middlebury. The loss of last year's stars, Chapman, Griggs, and Moore, has made itself felt, but Captain Dave Brown and Maurice Goodbody, who placed first and third respectively in the Middlebury meet, are constant threats. Coach Plansky is hopeful that his boys have profited by the experience gained against Middlebury, and will realize their potentialities tomorrow.

La Pointe Was 6-Man Ace

Sophomore High Scorer Starred at Winooski

By Pete Rowell

If Vermont had depended on its thus far meagerest season to bring it any mention in the Easy Chair would become figurative poetry in these parts, deemed to its disappointment.

But the Cats have received their share of publicity by the gallant members of the newspaper profession these fall afternoons thanks to the sensational play of one Ralph LaPointe.

While the Green and Gold has been tossed into submission in three out of four gridiron tilts Little Zuno as he has been promoted by various members of the local sporting elite has managed to rack up enough touchdowns to set him off as the East's leading scorer.

Ralph is not, suffice it to say, one of those overnight sensations, the type that comes to college without the least knowledge of the ancient game, and turns into a rip-roaring, hipper-dipper ball player in a season.

LaPointe hails from an athletic minded family. An older brother, once a member of the now extinct Northern League, played with Burlington's own Cardinals, and carved himself quite a nitch in the sports annals of the Queen City before going up to the farm system of the Washington Senators.

Ralph took his first crack at football while matriculating at Winooski High School. Although the school across the river has not played the regulation game for some years now, while a freshman, LaPointe starred with the Green and White eleven.

In his sophomore year, "Chick" gained some of his shifty playing habits as a member of the six-man football team that the school introduced.

In addition to football, Ralph compiled a neat record on the basketball court, and in the spring stepped in where his brother left off on the diamond.

Not satisfied with sticking strictly to high school ball, especially after the introduction of the six-man style, Ralph donned the uniform of a Burlington semi-pro club in the fall of 1939, and added more glory to an already, impressive record.

After graduation, LaPointe entered Vermont Junior College winning four letters in football, basketball, baseball and track. At V. J. C. he was rated as the state's leading junior college athlete.

It was at Vermont however that LaPointe really began to be considered as a leading gridiron specialist. Last year's undefeated Frosh eleven carried the brunt of LaPointe's scoring, Ineligible for varsity competition, Ralph contented himself with playing the sensational role of Frosh star.

This year, however, LaPointe has been the spearhead of the varsity attack, and has been the leading ground gainer in every game. Against Norwich, Ralph scored two touchdowns, and against Coast Guard, he scored one touchdown, and passed for another. Against Middlebury, he scored one touchdown, and against Springfield, he scored two touchdowns.

Ralph is a junior at the University, and is majoring in Physical Education. He is a member of Phi Mu Delta fraternity, and is a member of the Varsity Club.

Kappa Sigs Advance In Interfrat Tourney

The strong Kappa Sigma outfit toppled the highly touted A. T. O. team into the ranks of the defeated by virtue of a 44-27 win.

The Kappa "Sigs," scoring in every period, finished strong to win by a wide margin. Opening their bag of tricks the boys from Main Street showed plenty of aerial [illegible], dashing and a strong running attack which was featured by sometimes sidestepping by diminutive Ernie Conte and the ever-present Larry Kellick. Kellick, on numerous occasions, scored via the air lanes, passing to fleet-footed and [illegible] targeted ends.

The A. T. O.'s defenses proved to be their downfall. Their defense was inadequate to halt the passing attack that centered around Conte, proved to be the winning factor. The A. T. O.'s getting off to a slow start, showed power in the late periods, but the gap was too wide and they fell short by several touchdowns. Outstanding on the losers' team were Bergeron and Peacock. The A. T. O.'s threat [illegible] up ball, but were unable [illegible] a touchdown all account[illegible] team.

In Friday's game the Kappa Phi's are out to win the IFC pool. Sunday was Alpha Tau represented the Sigma Phi's have been [illegible] plenty of practice and talent and they hope to upset the much favored Phi Sigs.

The Kappa Sigs by winning Wednesday have earned the right to play in the semi-finals. They will play the winner of the encounter between Sigma Phi and Phi Delt.

The Phi Delts and not many could give the T. E. P.'s much of a game, which promises to be a repetition the score of that contest had most the Delts in a very tough battle.

In the [illegible] Kappa Phi's [illegible] eliminated themselves by winning handily over the Sigma Nu team.

Hallowe'en Dance Declared Success

Saturday night saw the Waterman cafeteria the scene of a gay and lively Hallowe'en dance sponsored by Staff and Sandal. The cafeteria was brightly decorated in the traditional Halloween fashion with pumpkins, skeletons, and colorful autumn leaves. The Catamounts furnished the music which was above their usual par. Mr. and Mrs. Long and Professor and Mrs. Carpenter were in the receiving line. The large attendance and the good time had by all made the annual Staff and Sandal dance a great success.

There will be a meeting of Staff and Sandal Thursday evening at 7:30 p.m. at Southwick.

House Directors Discuss Health

Join Miss Cummings And Health Council

A joint meeting of the Executive Council of Health Council and the House Directors of girls' dormitories and private houses was held on Thursday, October 22.

It was the desire of the Health Council to obtain the viewpoint of the House Directors in regard to health problems in the houses on this campus. It was a very successful meeting and was attended by many of the House Directors. The following were present at the meeting: Mrs. Willard, Grasmount, Mrs. Pilcher, Redstone, Mrs. Underwood, Elmwood, Mrs. Lewis, Robinson, Mrs. Bosworth, Saunders, Mrs. Loudon, Slade, Mrs. Johnson, Allen House, Mrs. Graves, Prospect, Mrs. Richmond, Roberts, Mrs. Moody, Claggett House, Mrs. Sanderson, Alpha Xi Delta, Mrs. Wells, Tau Delta Delta, Mrs. Dodge, Kappa Alpha Theta, Mrs. Fraser, Alpha Chi Omega, Mrs. Rutledge, Pi Beta Phi, Mrs. McCormick, Mrs. Gettins, and Mrs. Dresser.

During war time, the Health Problems of even greater importance. To call it to the attention of the college students posters will be placed in the college buildings and in the college houses. Penelope Easton and Marion Dunn will distribute posters on nutrition which point out the necessary foods on a well balanced diet. There was great emphasis placed on table eating habits, lighting, and mental hygiene. The House Directors were able to discuss which of the health habits need the most attention. Dean Simpson and Assistant Dean Harris were able to learn from the House Directors what measures should be considered in regard to the health conditions which exists.

U. V. M. Instructor Doing Important Research in Vision

Dr. Lorrin A. Riggs At Brown University In Laboratory

One of the most original pieces of war work being done by faculty members on leave from the University of Vermont is the research in the field of vision being carried on by Dr. Lorrin A. Riggs, instructor in the psychology department who is now working in the psychology laboratory at Brown University and at Fortress Monroe, Va.

Doctor Riggs' services were requested by the National Defense Research Council, as he is one of the few men in the country qualified for work in this field.

For some years Doctor Riggs has been working on the electric currents given off by the retina of the eye when affected by light, a form of research which in the past has been done almost exclusively with animals as subjects.

In the psychology laboratories at the University of Vermont Doctor Riggs perfected the first method of measuring the action currents of the retina of the human eye. So delicate is the work and so small the currents to be measured that he found it necessary to work in an enclosure like a telephone booth and screen out the electricity in the air. Even the X-rays mentioned in the neighborhood or a powerful radio broadcast could interfere with the experiment.

Doctor Riggs is the son of Pres. Ernest Riggs of Anatolia College in Salonika, and his boyhood was spent in the orient as a member of a prominent missionary family.

When his father was made secretary of the American Board of Missions Doctor Riggs came to this country. His education being carried on in Melrose, Mass. and at Dartmouth College.

He received his Ph.D. at Clark University in Worcester and before coming to the University of Vermont was for a year a post doctoral fellow of the National Research Council working at the Johnson Foundation of the University of Pennsylvania Medical School.

TO ALL TREASURERS

Will you please do the following by October 28. In my box in the CYNIC office will be a sheet of paper. On that sheet will you please put LEGIBLY the name of the organization, the faculty adviser's name, your name as treasurer and the numbers of your requisition book. An example follows:

Mortar Board — Miss Simpson — Helena Anderson — Book Nos. 251-275.

This is extremely important, for unless this information is in by October 28, your organization will not be able to get either credit at the Bookstore or funds from your account.

If you haven't a requisition book, and the Accounting Office handles your funds, will you please get one immediately from the Accounting Office.

Dean Swift Replies to Interfraternity Council

Believed Initiation Ruling Had Support of Fraternity Conference

[illegible] October 6, 1942

To the Council of the Greeks

Dear [illegible]:

[illegible] received yesterday as a final report on a motion taking that the University [illegible] pledge [illegible] during [illegible] dinner [illegible] meeting. I was very much surprised to read this since the Interfraternity Council had discussed the two recommendations at the last meeting. I understood us doing so a letter to me last spring. Under date of March 26, 1942 I wrote to Professor Carroll Wilson to [illegible] the recommendations of the Council.

The President has instructed me to draw up regulations governing the dates at which it is intended to pledge men to fraternities. These will be presented to him and to the University Council for approval and adoption at the Council dinner at noon.

I should appreciate it if at the next meeting of the Interfraternity Conference you ask the Conference to consider this matter and send suggestions to me. I cannot, I cannot guarantee that their recommendations will be adopted but they will at least serve as a working basis. Presumably such regulations would include a stipulation that all initiates be regularly enrolled full time students at the University that they have completed one semester at the University with credit of at least eleven hours, or such amount as may be specified by the Council. A further stipulation might well be that such initiates be not under warning or that their scholastic average be above a certain standard. Very tentatively indeed I suggest one of last grades in academic subjects at least three or "C" or better and not over one failure.

"Such a regulation would automatically put off initiation until the first semester grades had been received.

Some time later the letter was returned to me with the following statement written at the foot:

"This is to be presented and considered as a requirement for [illegible] Council." Robert E. Hemenway, Secretary.

The Council stated by this order that the letter had been considered by the Interfraternity Conference, that the Conference had accepted the suggestions made, which were here followed by Council action, and had no suggestions to make. Certainly the Council did not wish to make any drastic ruling without consulting the Interfraternity Conference and believed that it had done so and obtained approval from the Conference.

Yours very truly,
DEAN M. SWIFT
Secretary, University Council

Sororities Hold Final Parties

Freshmen to Enjoy Full Week of Fun

The last week of formal rushing is well in its way now. Of course the final parties are for members of Thursday. One party has already been given on the second but six others are still to come.

Mrs. Hoyt of South Prospect Street will play hostess to the Sigma Gammas and their guests Monday night. Florence Smith is in charge and plans indicate a hang-up party.

The Pi Beta Phi house will be the scene of festivities Tuesday night with co-chairmen Jean Sprague and Pat Crowley pulling the strings to make the show go on.

Kappa Alpha Theta will be having their party at the house on Wednesday with the plans now in the able hand of Bibby Deming and Allison Carr.

Both Delta Phi Epsilon and Alpha Xi will hold their parties Thursday night at Southwick and the chapter house respectively. The D. Phi. E. party is under the direction of Dr. Lorin rushing Chairman and Marjorie Rubin, social chairman. Sylvia Wellwood is the head entertainer's seat for Alpha Xi.

The Delta Delta Delta barbeque will swing out Friday night to finish up the rush. are held in the able hands of Peggy Hunt with assistants Ida Grace Barbara Welch and Dianne Gore. The necessary clean-up committee is headed by Mary Butler.

Alpha Chi Omega Has First Party

Final Party Season Starts With a Bang

The Alpha Chi set a gayer tone ... for the final parties by having the best party that masterpiece. Tuxes were only outdone by formals and they were given the best in background food and entertainment.

The food was equally in and on the board tables there was the key fraternity symbol of the season worked out in evergreen boughs and carnations. Each couple was given a carnation as a clip for their hair in further advance their appearance. The party was formal and most of us say one girl looked her best.

The food was wonderful and the meal was culminated by the traditional dream cake ceremony. There was table singing all during the meal.

The group was then entertained by the singing of Margie Southworth with two solos. Next came Bob Goss to sing and then the famous double quartet which is entertainment in any man's language.

Thanks and congratulations are due to Mary Perry, chairman of the party, and to her very able assistants Sylvia Reynolds, Barbara Hall and Harriet Nelson.

All juniors must have their proofs returned to the receptionist in the Billiard Room of the Waterman Building by Wednesday, October 28.

Presenting

For T Sig [illegible] fraternity [illegible]

It took Lester only a short while to realize that unlike a similar club that gave him the full benefits of fraternity His admission to become a brother was even greater than that of the pledges in previous years He knew that he would be given only a year or two before the President's personal greetings might call him into the armed forces

Because of all this Lester was quite pleased to learn that he had not long to wait for the initiation. But his joy was to be short-lived. A University Senate decree was issued banning all initiation until the second semester, gave him great concern for those benefits which he had hoped to derive from an earlier than usual initiation His first thought was to protest to the President. Then the members of the fraternity to which Lester had pledged promised to look into the matter for him

How things will eventually turn out [illegible] But Lester is praying We know he may ever go to Chapel How he goes about it will be revealed in our next thrilling installment

Seven members [illegible] of Texas football [illegible]

The Locker Room

By Ted Rodger

Easily the most interesting aspect of this Vermont football season is the remarkable scoring record of the Catamount halfback, Ralph LaPointe. Here is the extra ordinary case of a player, of a young man [illegible] the poor fortunes of [illegible] insists upon fraternizing [illegible] nation's gridiron elite. [illegible] enforced idleness was fatal to his chances for honors, with such contenders as Steuber of Missouri and Crowder of Georgia enjoying what Chick remains in the Eastern competition largely to his state rival, Domina, who stayed under wraps while Norwich scored over Cadets, 31 to 6. Domina, star of the Cadets' offense, is saved for this week's invading Norwich New Hampshire Wildcats.

The Vermont-Norwich clash at Northfield may provide a ting-a-ling offensive duel between this high-scoring pair. Less than a touchdown separates them (LaPointe has scored 43) and their teams each have one more game before meeting each other.

Wild Cats Dangerous

New Hampshire, meanwhile, prepares to meet the greatest menace to an undefeated season it has thus far encountered. The Cadets bump into the surging New Hampshire Wildcats who have kept their own streak alive by shading Rhode Island State 14 to 13. New Hampshire is out to give Norwich no quarter in the game which may determine the first-ranking small college team. With abundant reserves, a fine line, and a back, Theo Fitalis, who can match Domina, the Wildcats may even be favored.

The Vermont coaching staff and a number of the players traveled to Norwich to scout the Cadets for the Norwich-Middlebury game. These explorers were impressed, of course, by the Cadets' strength and polish, but they had more to say of Middlebury. Pete Gent, for instance, thought the Panther line did a superior job in opening the Norwich ground game. Even the usually taciturn Don Faulkner waxed eloquent in praise of the Middlebury spirit, pointing out that the Panthers, without a victory in three starts, had small grounds for discouragement.

No Weak Sisters

Even though Middlebury's 1942 record has not touched closely, respect for the Panthers increases. Williams, with Joe Carraciola's eleven in its midst, lost to Williams also defeated the same Princeton team that Brown Saturday, and the Panthers recorded its unbeaten string with a 47 to 6 victory. Nor was Middlebury too feeble in its losses to Amherst and Colby. In fact Middlebury, won by two touchdowns, lost to Vermont, was lucky to win by a single point, one-point win at Norwich.

Vermont's next opponent, Middlebury, met misfortune Saturday. The Panthers fell prey to Coast Guard Academy 35 to 7. Coach Dan Jessee's team is not really that bad, as their showing displayed itself to be a vast advantage earlier this season. But in checking up on the Panthers, the Catamount squad will find traces of last year's Trinity team. Trinity won this one, 9 to 0, on a speedy halfback Charley Ferris is back this year, scoring the winning touchdown.

Domina Sidelined as Norwich Takes Panther, 31-6

[illegible]

Norwich University [illegible] Homecoming entertainment of [illegible] crushed Coach Jim Lynch's [illegible] last Saturday morning [illegible] as the Cadets [illegible] Panther ranks [illegible] Domina, the Panther [illegible] 31 to 6. Led by [illegible] Chris Zenich and powerful [illegible] Chuck Muller, the Maroon exhibited a [illegible] passing attack which the Middlebury [illegible] could not stop.

Norwich [illegible] after only a few minutes of play. Middlebury [illegible] kicked. Norwich [illegible] and Muller [illegible] Middlebury [illegible] Norwich [illegible] was [illegible] Middlebury [illegible] 10 [illegible] Muller [illegible] in the end zone and the Cadets had 6 points. The [illegible] failed.

U. V. M. Professor Finds Meteorite

Found in Vermont, Only Iron Ore in N. E.

Do you know where there is a meteorite?

According to Prof. Charles G. Doll of the Geology Department of the University there is no official record of a meteorite having been found in Vermont. Neither the maps nor literature devoted to such learned subjects include Vermont among those favored states in which a little bit of heaven has fallen in the form of incandescent iron.

But Professor Doll found a meteorite in Vermont this summer while on a geological field mapping trip and saved the honor of the state. He found it in a high pasture near South Strafford and thinks there may be more scattered around the high pastures and the low pastures of the state. If there are he wants to know about them in order that Vermont may take its rightful place among those chosen regions on which disintegrating comets have showered their blessings.

The meteorite found by Professor Doll weighs five pounds and two ounces and is shaped roughly like a flatiron with triangular top and bottom. When discovered it had the appearance of a small chunk of rusty iron. It was unusually heavy for its size and responded to a magnet. On rubbing a section of it down with a piece of rock it took on the white sheen of a tin can. It was subsequently cut and etched, and microscopic examination showed the unmistakable lines peculiar to meteorites.

Meteorite iron is especially hard. Professor Doll explains, as it contains a certain percent of nickel and other elements. There are iron and stone meteorites. The stone meteorites are usually blackish or dark gray in color and heavier than ordinary stone. Neither iron nor stone meteorites have been reported from Vermont. Such meteorites are of all shapes and sizes, some weighing several tons. The largest recorded weighs in at thirty five tons. Professor Doll states that if anyone finds a meteorite weighing a ton or two he may as well drop a card before bringing it in for inspection. At present, according to such records as are available Professor Doll's find ranks as the only one of its kind in New England, although stone meteorites have been discovered.

Hillel Club Will Organize on Vt. Campus This Year

Started Last Year, Will Continue With Rabbi Weine Directing

Last year a branch of the Hillel Club, a Jewish religious organization was started on the campus when Rabbi Stoller the first Rabbi to speak in Ira Allen Chapel, met the Jewish students and entertained Burlington after chapel.

This year the Hillel Lodge of B'nai B'rith and the local organization are founding this foundation and have secured the services of Rabbi Max Weine of Rutland, as director. The organization meeting was held October 4 in the Student Lounge where Doctor Rabinowitz from New York was the speaker. Here two representatives from each fraternity and from the independent group were elected to form the executive. These eight meet once a week with Rabbi Weine in the Religious Committee room where plans are being made among other things, for study clubs and a monthly newspaper. Meetings of the entire group will be once a month.

The first Hillel group was founded by Rabbi Benjamin Frankel at the Hebrew Union College after he was a student there and saw the aimlessness and lack of leadership of growing Jewish student body.

The first year of the new Hillel foundation was a harried one. The funds for salary, administration, rent, and maintenance had to be won by convincing individuals that here was a practical and useful service. After a year of pioneering at Illinois with a totally new student technique Rabbi Frankel succeeded in convincing B'nai B'rith that in its widening program of service to the Jewish community the sponsorship of the Hillel foundations had a natural place. From then on with finances on a comparatively secure and responsible basis the experiment Hillel was assured.

The name was to be linked with the best traditions in Jewish life, hence it was considered that no name would carry greater significance than that of the gentle sage of the first century B.C.E. who was one of the outstanding scholars and teachers in Jewish history.

You Too Can Dance SaySoph Aides

Sophomore Aides will sponsor a beginners' dancing class at Southwick Memorial beginning Wednesday, November 4. For three weeks the girls will meet from 7:15 to 8:00 o'clock and the boys from 8:00 to 8:45 o'clock. The time is subject to change on account of the new schedule. The two groups will then meet together. Miss Hoffman of the Women's Physical Education Department will teach the steps with the aid of Walter Haynes at the piano. Only those students who do not know how to dance and wish to learn are urged to attend. The men will leave their names with Mrs. Longden in the News Bureau and the women will leave theirs with Mrs. Hodgdon in the office of the Dean of Women.

Capt. Norman Myers Under General MacArthur

Capt. Norman Myers, a graduate from the 1934 class at U. V. M. is now a member of General MacArthur's staff in Australia. On being interviewed by an Australian reporter on his native state Myers told the reporter to think of marble, granite and maple sugar when thinking of Vermont. He also referred to it as "the Unspoiled Vacation Land."

WAACS Visit Dean Of Women at Vt.

Nov. 12 Is Date Set For City Hall Rally

Lt. Viola Pierce and Lt. Lucretia Spencer of the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps visited the office of the Dean of Women for a short time Wednesday afternoon during their tour of Burlington to make plans for a rally in the City Hall. Next Thursday Lt. Lieutenant Pierce, Spencer, and Lieutenant Spangler of the corps are stationed at Fort Ethan Allen to explain the duties of the WAAC's are carried. Their goal is to enroll members to get an Education assistant, dental assistant, weather observer and other forms of service in which men in the combat units are now employed. The WAAC's will serve in non-combat duty, but may volunteer to go overseas at that time. Beginning December 1, 1000 women will start to train, each week and approximately the same number will leave each week. They do not expect to make new jobs but will take over those which men are doing.

The Women's Auxiliary Army Corps is run on the same manner as the regular army camp. With reveille at 5 A. M. retreat at sunset broadcast at 6 P. M. the women must be in their barracks at 10 P. M. Fifty cents and thirty five hours a week is the salary. A chance is necessary for bringing a class of a higher wage at battening each button. It does not depend on the wealth of their husbands, the nature of the guilty ones appeal to the jury but if found guilty they have only twelve and twelve are held in their own cells. Appeals are taken to the attorney.

Because the land is the greatest builder of arms outside the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps is arranged to recruit women over 21 and under 44 who have the ability to play bingo and canasta. They will be accepted into the organization without the usual delay between application and admittance.

"The women selected within the next few weeks" said Lieutenant Pierce "will stand a very good chance of becoming

Parade of Opinion

Speed-Up For Girls?

While the question of acceleration ceased to be an open issue for the men's colleges soon after Pearl Harbor, it is still debatable for women's education, in opinion of Roswell G. Ham, President of Mount Holyoke College.

An immediate and obvious comment, he feels, would be that since women of college age are not concerned with the draft, there should be no necessity for them to advance the year of their graduation.

"But" he continues, "that answer takes for granted certain premises which may not be altogether sound. First, that this is a mans war, and, second, that college women should continue in the leisurely process of liberal education, against the day when the world will need their philosophy and art.

"Such a view would assume that the present way of acceleration is only concerned with the attainment of skills and sciences to win the war, and that for the duration they are dedicated to an illiberal and unbalanced scheme of education. Of this danger both the men's and women's colleges are well aware, but the latter are equally aware by this time that total war takes no account of sexes.

"The second argument, that women constitute a reserve against the future, is more tenable.

"We are posed with two problems. One, whether the program of acceleration is worth while for the women's colleges during the period of the war, and another whether it may not be a permanent and justifiable outgrowth of the present emergency. For the first I have very little to add to the argument.

"Leaving aside the argument that acceleration carries with it a whole train of headaches for the administrator, we may examine for a moment the chances of its continuance after the war. The arguments against compressing a four-year college into three years have to do with the maturity of college students and with the standards of their education.

As to the matter of maturity, there is certainly a point of diminishing returns, but it would hardly seem to be determined by a three as opposed to a four-year course. If only it were a matter of a specified amount of knowledge to be accumulated doubtless we could pack the four years into two.

"These arguments concern both men and women. The men's colleges are committed for the duration; if this is to be a long war the women increasingly will have to bear their part and unless all predictions are awry they will not be expected to lag behind.

"It will serve us well to have open minds. But this might also be hazarded, that when the American public discovers that there is nothing sacrosanct about four years it will not easily revert to educational ways."

Quotable Quotes

Ever since 1431, when Satan sounded Manchester in defiance of her saints of tradition, we have witnessed a steady deterioration in all international relations. National states which above can override the basis of international relations and the law of the jungle is not to prevail, seems to have lost its moral force. Nothing has stood in the way of those nations whose lusting built great military establishments, have chosen to disregard the moral law. They have swept on from victory to victory. Nothing will prove these except smashing them. We are confronted with more than the conception of a world war. We are confronted with a revolution in human affairs comparable with the extinguishment of the Roman Empire which introduced mankind into the Dark Ages. If the aggressor nations win this war new Dark Ages will encompass us and a new scientific slave order will take the place of our present order of free men. Veterans to Work Out Three Times Weekly

Basketball practice for the Catamounts will begin Monday. Coach Fuzzy Evans announced that a picked squad of ten men will begin the pre-season practice Monday evening at five o'clock on the Memorial Auditorium court. Until the close of the football season, practices will be held three times a week on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. On November 16, a general call for all candidates will be issued.

The boys invited to the first practices are the three returning lettermen Capt. Bob Doherty, guard, Milt Kaufman and Harry Kallock, forwards, and two freshmen, George Henderson, and Albert Johnson. Henderson hails from Pittsfield, Mass., where he had an outstanding season at the forward position for Pittsfield High. Al Johnson played at Newton High of Newton, Mass. last year. Also out for practice will be last season's squad members Reno Conte, Gil Mathieu, Jerry Dolinski, Bob Bennett and Tom Clairmont.

K S Squad Wins, 39-12

Routs Phi Sigs to Gain Finals—TEP's Score

Extra!

Kappa Sigma's powerful touch football squad rolled over Phi Sigma Delta yesterday, 39 to 12, to enter the Interfraternity League finals.

In a game played on a field of doubtful merit, the beautiful TEP's defeated a fighting Phi Delta Theta team 25-18. The game itself was up and tuck affair and really a contest until the final gun as each team moved about the field using backfield tricks desirable to impress a mid-season foe. But all important there, the extra point after touchdown proved to be a winning margin for the victorious TEP's. Three times the Phi Delts tallied to gain their only second point after touchdown with the TEP unit each scored adding a point by making good every conversion.

The Phi Delts scored quickly in the first step to show the TEP's got an equalizer over the touchdown stripe. The Phi Delts struck back as Ed Mahon intercepted late beautifully up field throwing a bullet pass to Dave who scored easily.

The scoring record went hay-wire as each team seemed unable to regain its footing and start a touchdown drive.

In the third period, the Phi Delts made it 18-7, as they again scored. But suddenly the TEP's arose, and with a lightening thrust they scored on a long pass, closing up the score to 18-14. So it went until the last period, when the TEP's scored their last touchdown to win going away—21-18.

By virtue of their win, the TEP's will meet the Oxonians in a semi-final encounter next week.

The Kappa Sigs, and Phi Sigs squared off in yesterday's headliner. Both teams displayed plenty of talent with ample reserves. The tussle a semi-final was all important, as the win for Kappa Sigma means a crack at the championship for the '42 season.

In the other league the two undefeated teams, the SAE's and the Sigma Phi's meet today.

University of Minnesota students called into service before earning their degrees are given individual certificates.

Dr. James P. Bird, Professor of Romance Languages at Colgate College since Feb. has taken over duties as visiting professor of spanish at American University.

Girl Debaters to Meet Bates Team

Debate Will Take Place At I. R. C. Meeting

The U. V. M. Women's Debating Team will meet Bates College this Wednesday, November 4, at 7.30 p.m. at Southwick. The debate will be part of the International Relations Club meeting scheduled for the same time.

Lilla Blumberg '44, and Frances Donahue '45, will uphold the affirmative of the topic: "Resolved: That the United Nations should establish a permanent Federal Union with power to tax and regulate international commerce, to maintain a police force, to settle international disputes and to enforce such settlements and to provide for the admission of other nations which accept the principles of the Union."

The debate will be a non-decision contest with the Bates team promising to put up a very good showing. In a few weeks the U. V. M. Men's Debating Team will engage Bates College in a verbal fight and it will be up to Vermont to take the train to New Hampshire. Bates College has always offered tough opposition to Vermont with its teams having won international fame.

At the annual I. R. C. conference the University will be represented by seven students active in the I. R. C. The conference will be held at Colby Junior College, New Hampshire, on Saturday November 7. The delegation consisting of Doctor Long, Patricia Page '43, Cliff Joseph '43, Jean Davison '44, Justine Whalen '44, Priscilla Perkins '44, and Ruth Jordan '45 will attempt to bring the annual conference to this campus next year.

Dean M. J. Simpson Speaks on College Life at Collegium

Dean Mary Jean Simpson gave a most enlightening talk on extra-curricular activities and their part in college life, at the meeting of Collegium Sunday night. Those attending only wished that more might have been there to hear her, as what she had to offer was of vital concern to everyone.

Miss Simpson revealed that there are 87 organizations on this campus alone. Membership in many is restricted, but there is certainly at least one of these activities to interest every student on campus. For a well-developed personality, integration into the college program of well-chosen extra-curricular activities is certainly to be desired. Taken in moderation, such activities will not lower scholastic standing, but will definitely contribute to the well-being both of the individual and of the school. Active participation in some one activity by each and every student is a goal to be attained.

There will be no meeting next Sunday, as members are assisting at a supper being given for the U. S. O.

Girls in Charge of Rushing Present Their Groups to Freshmen

One of the most ... and ... has come to an end at the Freshman ... at Vermont. Now all that remains ... Sorority rushing is the pledging.

It all began last Monday night when Sigma Gamma played host at a formal dinner party at the home of Mrs. Hoyt on South Prospect Street. Those who kept the show running smoothly were Winona Little '45, Marjorie Smith '43, and Florence Smith '43.

Three Ring Circus

The big Pi Phi Three Ring Circus came off Tuesday night under the able showmanship of Pat Crowley '44, and Jean Sprague '43. Little autographed elephants were the favors of the day. Carolyn Provost '44, Betty Farnsworth '45 and Peggy Durfee '46, put on a twirling act with their batons. An acrobatic dance, a Hawaiian dance and a Sophomore class skit kept their guests well entertained.

Kappa Alpha Theta's Dude Ranch Party started at the home of Harriet Pearl where first course was served in the game room. Intricate handmade cowboys were the favors. Then the party retired to the Diamond Horseshoe Night Club, featuring Tommy Keighley's orchestra. Coffee was served later in the reception room. The howling success of the party may be attributed to the co-chairmen, Bibby Deming '43, and Alison Carr '44.

Guy Nichols Butler, ushered thrilled girls into the Alpha Xi Delta House on Thursday night. The high spot of the evening was a magician and his magic tricks.

Ingenuous Girls

The same night at Southwick, the Delta Phi Epsilon put on a bang up formal party for their rushees. Those ingenious girls presented a shadow play written by themselves in poetry. Thanks go to Flo Levin '44, and Marjorie Rubin '45, for their smooth work.

Friday night the girls were ushered to the Delta Night Club on South Willard Street. First course was in the cocktail lounge and then came the big dinner. During dinner a floor show was given by Joan Eldridge '43, June Hoffman '43, Betty Hawkinson '44, Ita Casey '44 and Dot Johnson '44. Those who pulled the strings and kept the party running in such fine style were Shirley Wedge '44, Myra Gray '44, Barbara Webb '44 and Ita Casey '44.

Military Open House Saturday

Open house in the Military Department will be held saturday, November 7, and elaborate plans have been made. The first display will be the weapons of the infantry soldier. The assembling, operation, and uses of ten weapons will be shown. An added attraction will be captured German equipment, including a helmet, machine gun and bayonet.

The complete field equipment of the infantry soldier will be laid out with a pup tent set up, and some military student will model a full field uniform.

There will also be five War Department publicity films showing pictures on the manufacture of bombers and tanks and the safeguard of military information.

On Saturday afternoon at the Norwich-Vermont game there will be a flag raising ceremony and the R. O. T. C. Band will drill with a Cadet battalion.

Activities for November Released

Registrar's Office to Issue Lists Regularly

Below you will find a copy of the University Calendar for November. It is realized that this is an incomplete list of the activities which will be taking place on the Vermont Campus during the month of November.

Dean Simpson and Mr. Riggs plan to edit a regular monthly calendar. All organizations should, therefore, make it a special point to send to the Registrar's Office, Waterman Building, a list of all events of which they have knowledge on or before the fifteenth of November for the next calendar covering the month of December. If they have your full co-operation the December issue will be much more complete than the November issue which you will find below.

The purpose of this calendar is: (1) to avoid conflicts in so far as possible, and, (2) to give more publicity to the events which have been scheduled.

E. Stanley Jones Talks at Chapel

On Friday morning at 11:40 in the Chapel, Rev. E. Stanley Jones celebrated missionary and lecturer, addressed the student body and members of the faculty on the topic "What Must a Modern Person Believe?" Rev. Jones expressed his confidence in the young people of today by stating that "with the power of religion behind the endeavors of youth the youth of today can reconstruct a new world. My generation failed in putting the two together but the youth of today can and will succeed."

Rev. Jones has been asked many times what needs of life can the young people of today follow with the world in such turmoil and confusion. Rev. Jones states his answer in these few words:

"If you can find a better way of life than Christ's way, take it. If you follow Christ you must surrender yourself entirely. It is His purpose to follow him costs you everything. It's not cheap! His way works. I know and I hope you try it."

Prof. Dobbin, of the Philosophy department introduced the speaker. The Chapel Choir participated and the convocation closed with the audience singing the first hymn. (Continued)

The Vermont Cynic

The Official Student Newspaper of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College

VOL. 43 NOVEMBER 3, 1942 NO. 13

During the past few weeks many wild rumors concerning the future of U. V. M. and its duration have been floating about the campus. These rumors have ranged all the way from "There will be no Christmas vacation because students can not use the trains" to "The College is going to fold up after mid-term exams except for engineers, medics and chemists."

Such rumors made by irresponsible elements in the student body do much to undermine College morale. The College has finally risen out of its financial rut but still finds the going pretty tough. This gossip does not build up the student and Alumni opinion of the College at a time when it is most needed. This talk also does much to keep the student body on edge.

Nobody knows what will happen in the future. But it certainly would be much better for us to stick to our work and forget all those rumors. Rumor is the scourge of a warring nation, it is being driven out nationally and we would be helping the national cause as well as U. V. M. if we dropped such gossip here and prevented the starting of any more in the future.

Presenting

Four T. Sixes were discussing the Wednesday morning to be more exact, since they decided to attend Chapel on the very next.

Lamenting many an unused hour they figured out that they needed a considerable number of hours to be credited with the required spiritual guidance. As the following day found it, the chapel bells faded in the distance. When he entered the Waterman Building he was surprised that the Cynic had not reported the changes in Chapel activity. A glance at the bulletin board revealed to him the names of the absentees who had made Dean's list many years ago.

And following the throng he arrived at the Cafeteria. Despite crowded tables he heard the roar of the Chapel silence. That hungry look was, after all, really hungry—but not spiritual.

For T. Six was not to be fooled again. Next Wednesday he took a census to find out what happened to the students during the time devoted to Chapel. Here briefly are the results. Out of almost 700 people whom he checked, 310 attended either regular or Newman Club Chapel, 285 attended Cafeteria, while another 95 were to be found in the library.

"Ha, said For T. Six, things aren't as bad as I thought last week. Not all roads lead to the Cafeteria."

Last Wednesday Forty again attended Chapel. The size of the crowd was misleading, because the establishment of religious life on this campus will take ten years. This according to the optimistic utterances in Chapel. Thus Ira Allen's "One Hundred and Sixty-one Year Plan" will finally come to a conclusion.

For T. Six concluded: Chapel attendance is not as bad as some want us to believe. Yet, there is room for improvement. But it is up to the administration also to provide a good Chapel program at all times. That the student body will respond in more than a lukewarm manner was evidenced by the mass attendance last Friday; as For T. Six was quoted in the local press, "The most inspiring speaker I ever heard."

N. Y. A. Carries On Under Stress

The College N. Y. A. program for the current year, up to November first, with the limited funds available has been arranged to cover as nearly as possible all the departments where N. Y. A. workers have been employed in the past. This year's N. Y. A. budget is less than 50 percent of the one for last year. For the current year, earnings per person have been set to average between a minimum of $10.00, and a maximum of $15.000 per month.

The departments served and the number of students working follow:

Administrative Departments	6
College of Agriculture	12
Home Economics Dept.	4

[illegible] She may think that the views she so forcibly expressed in [illegible] and her own, but she's not. They've been kicking around [illegible] long as I have and probably longer.

Aside from the letters published in Cynic have dealt with the lack of action [illegible] students. And some have been rather pointed. When [illegible] a student get to thinking about [illegible] to boiled over and wrote a "letter to the Editor."

Not the editors of Cynic have done their share of boiling too. Fulvio Iacobucci banged his Phi Bete head for a year against the wall of student indifference before he gave up. A whole issue of the Cynic the now-forgotten "Wake U's U. V. M." issue was wasted on the student coffee.

No Julia Fletcher's indictment of the student body is not new, but it's nice to hear someone else say it.

Just setting in practice for Thanksgiving. I have a bone to pick. Julia bemoans the lack of interest in the Student Government, and then she gets mad at the fellow who has enough interest to wonder "What's Student Government done. What's it good for?"

Not everyone is on the inside of Student Government. There is a mess of freshmen around who may never have heard of it. There are probably many upperclassmen who, after attending the birth of Student Government last year, are wondering what kind of a baby it is, and whom it takes after.

I happened to read in a CYNIC last year that I was appointed to a committee of the Student Government. A while later I was told that we were going to have a meeting, but it was called off because someone had a date or something. It must have been a pretty good date, because as far as I know, that committee has not yet met.

I know you can't expect U. V. M. students to be interested in much. But you can't expect anyone to be interested in something he doesn't know about. Perhaps it would be a good idea if the Student Government issued a Report to the People, or if Joe Corbett gave us a Fireside Chat. Some of us have tried doing what Julia suggested—getting underneath and pushing. It was a long way down, and some of us are wondering what's above us.

DAAN ZWICK

The Vermont CYNIC:

This democratic organ has as its duty, the expression of student opinion. Permit this freshman to expostulate his ideas concerning the following.

There are two kinds of evils in connection with student cheering at University sport events. One is the complete absence of both cheering and cheer leaders; the other, even more disgraceful, is the half-hearted cries extracted by some hard-working but naturally despondent leaders.

To the opposing congregation, this feeble attempt seems ridiculous and, I maintain, is ridiculous. When "the other side" has a large-sized following, the spirit of rivalry is tremendous. An attempt is made to out-cheer the other and the student actually feels the impulse to implore his team to fight.

I consider the most heartening and gratifying cheers, those spontaneous cries of "Hold that line!" "Hit them again!" "Bowl 'em over!" "Watch that guard, out there!" "What a bum!" The concerted tongue movement of a group of students to express an oft-repeated and now trite expression is, in itself, the stifling of true emotion.

To sum up these incoherent threads, where it is possible to combat, vocally, the opponent's following, cheer leaders and set verses are well and good. But here at Vermont, the only cheering should be that uttered under the imperative of uncontrollable excitement. Let us abolish this antiquated and inappropriate corset for expression of school devotion. God knows, those poor cheer leaders have earned a rest!

Kappa Sigs to Oppose Victor; SAE's Triumph

In a game of utmost importance, a power laden Kappa Sigma team downed a hopeful Phi Sigma Delta outfit Thursday 39-12.

The game itself proved to be a startling push over for the decidedly stronger Kappa Sigma team. With the "Mighty Reno" Conti, running and passing the Phi Sigs dizzy, the Kappa Sigmas scored almost at will. Killick and Corbett, proved two thorns also in the sides of the Phi Sigs.

Running their plays from the almost universal "T" formation, the Kappa Sigmas simply outran, outpassed and outplayed the losers. Joe Corbett proved to be a bulwark of the forward wall for the Kappa Sigs, as time and again he snared aerials from the fleet backs that showed a superior talent in hitting the bull's eye throughout the whole game.

By virtue of this win, the Kappa Sigmas have earned the right to play in a title contest. They will meet the winner of the T.E.P.-Owl game, which will be played today.

The S.A.E.'s strengthened their grip on the loser's league title, as they downed the Sigma Phis Friday in a lopsided affair, 27-6. The S.A.E.'s proved to be a strong "combo" that took advantage of every break to turn the game into a rout.

Cats Conquer Hilltoppers, 21-14— New Hampshire Trips Norwich

Late Field Goal Wins For Wildcats 16-13

[illegible] Norwich University's Cadets [illegible] two [illegible] seasons went plummeting [illegible] victory as the Wildcats of New Hampshire took a thrilling last minute decision from the Kaydets 16-13. Both clubs were deadlocked at 13 all with [illegible] minutes of [illegible] of the fighting when Ray Goodfellow, substitute tackle came into the fray, dropped back to place-kick, and hoisted the ball between the uprights for a perfect field goal, spoiling the [illegible] Cadets' unbeaten record.

The first half was all Norwich. Two lightning drives down the field netted the Horsemen their two tallies of the game. The first was the result of a 45 yard power push that had the stands on their feet all the way. Down to the New Hampshire 17 the Maroon went with Walt Domina flinging a pass to Chuck Miller for 6 points.

The Cadets had no sooner kicked off when they gained possession again as the Wildcats punted. Another blitzkreig was on. With Miller, Stone, and the indomitable Walt lugging the leather, Norwich charged 70 yards and again went over the New Hampshire goal.

New Hampshire came back with fangs bared. Powerless until the last minute of the first half against the Norwich power attack, Theo Fitanides hurled a mighty, long-distance pass to Ralph Pine, who went over standing up. 13-6 at the half.

The second half opened with plenty of fireworks on both sides. Norwich staged a breath-taking offensive, making four first downs in a row. Zipper Zoukis and Chuck Miller led the Horsemen down to the New Hampshire 25 yard marker and it looked like another counter for the home-towners. They were held for downs however and the Wildcats took over. They punted out of danger and another Norwich advance began, to die a disappointing death on the visitors 37 as Zandinowsky intercepted Milt Raville's forward. An exchange of kicks followed which drove the Cadets back for the first time really deep into home territory. Domina fumbled on a line buck and the Granite Staters recovered. Try as they could the Wildcats could not dent the Maroon forward wall and they lost the ball on downs. Domina redeemed himself with a beautiful punt to the opposition's 45, but Seawards ran it back to the Cadet 32. Again the sturdy Norwich line held and again they kicked out.

Jayvee Eleven Blanked, 20-0

By Bill [illegible]

As a preliminary to the big battle two weeks hence, the Vermont Kittens and the Middlebury Panther's Cubs did battle Saturday on Centennial Field, with Middlebury victorious by the top-heavy score of 20-0.

The Blue and White showed to power in the opening stanza as backs Ed Kalgallin and Bill Calkins ripped off long runs, but the Vermont line held in the pinches and kept its goal unscathed during the first quarter.

Midway through the second period, Bill Krupp kicked to the Blue and White 45 yard stripe, and on the first play, Kilgallin passed to right end Johnny Maguire who raced 50 yards to the four yard line before he was brought down. From here Phil Dunham crashed through center for the initial six points, and Gil Merrick added the extra point on a run around left end.

Middlebury took the second half kickoff 60 yards in six plays to tally again. Bill Calkins passing to Johnny Maguire, who ran thirty yards for the score. Phil Dunham carried the ball through the line for the conversion. After four Vermont plays Middlebury again received the ball, and on first down, Bill Calkins toted the leather 68 yards to a touchdown, only to have it called back on a clipping penalty. The last six points were finally scored, when midway through the last period, substitute back Cliff Hendrix broke away on a 78 yard jaunt.

For the losing Green and Gold, Duke Reid and Charlie Bianco were standouts all afternoon. Bearing the brunt of the Cat's offensive, they charged, bucked, ran, and passed in an attempt to score for their team, but the forward line leaked like a seive and the blue shirts of Middlebury poured through. Recovering a blocked kick on Middlebury's 41 yard line, in the third quarter, Bianco sparked Vermont's only serious threat for a score; a sustained drive that carried to the six yard line and there petered out when Bianco was injured and forced to retire from the game, temporarily.

Beaulieu and La Pointe Score Against Trinity

By [illegible] Knudsen

If Norwich [illegible] was proud of the fact that Vermont has never been one star in its [illegible], Saturday's 21-14 victory over Trinity should pave [illegible] them [illegible] that.

It was LaPointe and Beaulieu again this week-end, but the Cat's victory [illegible] whose brigade support the Trinity goal-defy scoring two [illegible] tries as gunners and proving generally a better running back for the occasion than his high scoring teammate.

The Episcopalians, a team that had [illegible] held Union to a [illegible] couldn't avoid the Cats claws and the Green and Gold ran and passed hell to [illegible] the second in two starts.

Saturday's victory puts the right side of the ledger boosted her chances of trimming the Cadets when they meet this week-end at Centennial. The Horsemen succumbed to the harsh measures of the University of New Hampshire, thereby taking some of the proverbial wind out of their sails.

The great Domina crashed once but once for the Kadets, and inadvertently set up a Wildcat score by tossing a perfect one in the hands of a waiting New Hampshirite; all going to prove that the great man can be stopped.

Vermont opened her scoring spree in the second period. The Cat's aerial combination did the work. Beaulieu heaved two long ones into the waiting arms of LaPointe, who, minutes later, stepped over from the five yard line to put the Green and Gold in the van.

At this point, Ralph vacated his scoring perch, and Beaulieu went on to chalk up fourteen points on his personal score card.

The second score, likewise a second quarter affair, came with a deluge of passes and runs that brought Vermont down to Trinity's five yard marker in quick order. Beaulieu took the pass from center and weaved through tackle to score.

Trinity likewise fared well in the last portion of the first half. The Hilltoppers initial score came via the air lanes. A Black to Kelly pass caught the Cats off guard, and Trinity made it 14-7. Trinity tied it up in the third canto as the celebrated Dubovic came to the fore. In another great passing exhibition that traveled a total of twenty-eight yards, the Hartford giant stepped across to knot the score.

The rough treatment by the Connecticut lads brought Vermont out of its momentary daze. It was a 60 yard kick-off drive that clinched matters. And it was Mr. Beaulieu that made things "all happy like" for everybody concerned when he stepped across from the five yard line for the third touchdown.

Norm booted two of the Cats extra points, and LaPointe took a pass for the third. Trinity's Black accounted for a duo of single pointers by placement kicking.

The Green and Gold played a great offensive game against the Trinitarians. Evans' linemen were blocking viciously all afternoon, opening the big gaps for Beaulieu's meanderings, and paving the way for more than one sensational passing play.

Huskies Rout Middlebury

While U. V. M.'s football warriors were beating Trinity College for the first time in years last Saturday, and the Norwich Cadets were losing their first game of the season to New Hampshire, the Middlebury Panthers were taking a 32-0 drubbing from Connecticut State for their fifth loss of the year. Sadly depleted by injuries and losing more men every week, the Blue and White haven't much of a football team left. Gone is valiant Bob Adsit, this year's co-captain, at least temporarily via the injury list. Gone are many more of the Panther crew, who at the start of the current campaign looked like quite a ball club. It's not the team's fault, nor the coaches. It's just that right now the eleven is so undermanned that it can't win ball games. Maybe when the Panthers meet U. V. M., two weeks from now they'll be in better shape.

The Blue and White didn't have a chance against the assaults of the Connecticut backs last week-end. Holding the visiting power-house to a lone touchdown in the first half, it was the old story of a good team with no reserves to speak of, tiring so greatly in the last half that they had no strength to hold the opposition. In the third quarter, the Huskies opened up with all they had and the Panthers just couldn't stop them.

"I never saw a fighting man who didn't cherish the very thought of a pause with Coca-Cola. That goes for workers in factories, too. Ice-cold Coke is something more than the drink that answers thirst. It adds the feel of refreshment.

"In war, Uncle Sam restricts the supply. But there's still enough for many refreshing pauses."

Are You WAACY? Then Answer the Following Ten Questions If You Can

Here's a brief questionnaire on the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps. Answer seven of the following questions correctly and your batting is good; answer eight—one excellent; answer ten, and you're appointed corporal. Hubby's rule: If you answer only your correct date that you asked soldier who phoned you last

1. What is retreat?
2. What is a dog tag?
3. What does "police up" signify?
4. What is the purpose of the W. A. A. C.?
5. What brick buildings at Fort Des Moines were converted into barracks for auxiliaries?
6. Why do W. A. A. C.'s Drill?
7. Can you buy an army "gig" at the P. X.?
8. Do W. A. A. C.'s wear ruffles and flourishes on their olive drab underclothes?
9. Who can join the W. A. A. C.?
10. What British General recently addressed a W. A. A. C. Officer Candidate class at its graduation ceremony?

1. Retreat, a ceremony held at Army Posts at five o'clock each afternoon, signifies the closing of routine duties for the day. The bugler sounds retreat, the cannon booms, and the band strikes up "The Star Spangled Banner." At the last note of the national anthem, every W. A. A. C. comes to attention, salutes the flag as it is being lowered, and drops her salute when the music ends.

2. A dog tag is a small light, metal oblong, on which is stamped a W. A. A. C.'s name, her serial number, the year she took her tetanus shots, her blood type, the person to notify in case of an emergency, her religion. Dog tags are worn by all military personnel at all times.

3. "Police up" is the army term for housekeeping. It means keeping your barracks so clean that your commanding officer can run his inquisitive finger around the bottom rung of a chair, and find no dust.

4. The Women's Army Auxiliary Corps was organized to make available to the national defense, when needed, the skills, knowledge, and special training of the women of the United States.

5. At Fort Des Moines was once a cavalry post, there was a row of brick stables behind the row of brick barracks. For conservation purposes these stables were converted into barracks. They are very comfortable—and attractive—spacious red brick buildings with cream interiors, and large brown beams across the ceiling. Individual closets have been spaced all along the large sleeping room of each barracks, which houses 150 women.

University Starts Scientific Study Of Copper Mines

The Geology Department of the University of Vermont is making an active and scientific study of Vermont's long abandoned copper mines at East Corinth, Vershire and South Strafford which are now being reopened.

These mines, according to Prof. Elbridge C. Jacobs, head of the University's Department of Geology, have been worked intermittently for over a century. Before the discovery of the great western deposits the Ely Mine at Copperfield in Vershire was the largest copper producer in the United States, yielding in the 1870's and 80's some 33,000,000 pounds of the red metal. Bad management, miners strikes and inferior methods of extraction brought copper mining in the state to an end in the 1890's says Professor Jacobs. Since then efforts have been made at various times to reopen the mines, but the drop in the price of copper after the last war and the business collapse of 1929 rendered these attempts unsuccessful.

It has become increasingly evident, Professor Jacobs adds, that vast deposits of copper are still remain in the mines and assert only modern methods of mining and concentration and proper business management is using them into successful production.

Last winter the Vermont Copper Company was formed by George A. Ellis of New York and Bennington and his associates in a patriotic effort to increase the state's important copper production of the country and federal experts believe that in all probability the enterprise will be successful. The company expects that summer production will begin in a few months and will result not only in war time success but will become a permanent industry taking its place with the asbestos granite, marble, slate talc and lime industries for which Vermont has long been noted.

The Department of Geology at the University assures Professor Jacobs is ready to do all in its power to aid this enterprise, and is already helping by a study of the geology at the copper deposits.

"Here is an opportunity rare in the East," he declares. "Our young geologists to study mining geology and it is hoped to find scientific employment in the mines."

Bean Supper and Pep Rally Tonight

Student Government Sponsors Big Affair

Tonight the Pep Committee of the U. V. M. Student Government is adding a big Bean Supper and Pep Rally to the events of this "open house weekend." Last year 1,200 of the U. V. M. family congregated at the first Bean Supper proposed by President Millis to be the "kick-off" for the U. V. M. Security Drive. Preparations for an even greater success are being made this year. The cafeteria will be closed, and board in the women's dormitories and men's fraternities will be shut down so that the entire student body may come to the Bean Supper in the cafeteria. Waterman and Robinson student waitresses will start serving the beans at 6.15.

Members of the Pep Committee and Sophomore Aides have taken over the publicity for the supper, June Hoffman has charge of the decorating. Key and Serpent directed by Larry Killick have planned an hour and a half of entertainment.

The entertainment falls under one heading—Pep Rally for the Norwich game tomorrow. During the day Key and Serpent has chosen the ten best hobos. Master of ceremonies, Phil Robinson will announce the final winners at the supper. The football players will be introduced. Fuzzy Evans, Larry Gardner, Sherry Fogg, and co-captains Bill Benoit and Phil Chesarone will speak. The famed Fire-Eaters will sing. The R. O. T. C. Band will be on hand in the rotunda to assist the cheerleaders in raising vigorous Vermont cheers. A group of twirlers trained in the Burlington High School Band have been organized by Harriet Pearl to give a twirling act. President Millis and Proctor Page will speak to the students. Key and Serpent will toss cigarettes.

The Pep Committee thanks the members of the student body who have made suggestions and assisted with these plans. Hats off to Miss Underwood and her staff upon whom the burden of the supper lies.

Communion Sunday To Be Held Nov. 8

At the meeting Wednesday morning it was announced that the first Communion Sunday of the year will be on November 8. The Newman Club will receive in a body at the Cathedral at the 9:00 o'clock Mass. There will be a section reserved for the Newman Club.

Tuesday evening at 8:00 in the Waterman Student Lounge, the Newman Club will hold its monthly meeting with Rev. Robert F. Joyce, Chaplain. The speaker will be the Reverend P. A. Barry of Ludlow, Vermont, formerly Chaplain of the Newman Club. Father Barry was a classmate of Knute Rockne at Notre Dame.

It has been requested that the meeting begin promptly at 8:00 so that the meeting may adjourn at 9:00.

"Vermont Valley" Author to Be Here

Walter Hard, Poet, To Address Students

Writer of Vermont humor and local color, Walter Hard, will speak at the Student Lounge, Waterman, Tuesday, 8 p.m. Sponsoring him are the Bluestockings Society and Student Government.

Mr. Hard was born in Manchester, Vermont and is one of those 5th generation Vermonters. Among his works are "Vermont Valley," "Some Vermonters," "Salt of Vermont," "A Mountain Township" and "Vermont vintage." As a co-author with Margaret Hard he wrote an informal guide to Vermont called "This is Vermont."

Among those who have heard his readings are the New England Federation of Women's Clubs, New Hampshire State Teachers' Convention, Boston Book Fair, University of Middlebury Women, Ethan Allen Club of Burlington, New Jersey College for Women, etc. He often reads to college groups, for example, Williams, Dartmouth, Harvard, Wesleyan, Goddard and numerous other New England Colleges. Said Mr. Hard, "I can read as long as my listeners remain conscious." It is evidently not difficult to remain conscious as shown by this Christian Science Monitor quotation: "... With the native idiom he has preserved the wit terseness, the devastating shrewdness and independence of the Vermonter." Carl Rollins of the Saturday Review Literature said of Walter Hard's poetry: "... they are redolent of the hard biting humor of the Yankee—they reflect a life that was hard and in many ways unlovely, but which had its compensations."

Student Government is Alive to Campus Problems

Officers and Executive Committee Set Up Efficient Organization

[illegible] Last March the system of U. V. M. elected class officers and an executive board [illegible] to be in the hands of a democratic governing body at Vermont. [illegible] was the first step in the trend toward [illegible] participation in a part of Lawyer [illegible] affairs. This Executive Committee has functioned for about six months. Their duties, responsibilities and powers were not established by precedent nor by a dictator but by student law. They were asked to make Vermont from a [illegible] from a University which entirely lacked student control in its affairs. These freedom students were doubtless green and puzzled. Every step they made was without precedent—can we do this? Is [illegible] in order? How far can we go? These and other questions were constantly in their minds. Meetings of this body followed the representatives on the board brought up all the pet gripes of the entire school. They made every effort to dig up things that U. V. M. lacked things that it could do ways that would benefit the students and make the University one which they would honor and respect. After every meeting the secretary published in the Cynic the minutes of that meeting and every detail which was carried at the session. The action was expressly for the student body to read, to know just what their governing body was doing. Many students excitedly called to try to see what was going on, they expected to be called on the phone and have the minutes read to them. Perhaps the President could explain all that had transpired to each individual student.

Executive Board

Once a month the Executive Board met with a faculty committee and discussed problems which involved both groups. Minutes of these meetings were immediately typed and copies sent to each body and are on file for anyone desiring to read them. President Millis was consulted upon every decision made by Student Government. Once on occasion when a misunderstanding arose a member of the organization would discuss the affair with the President and attempt to clear it over-hand. As to what specific

Maxie Ahrens to Play At Boulder Informal

Max Ahrens and his Clubmen will furnish the music for an informal dance Saturday night, November 7, sponsored by the Boulder Society. It will be held in the cafeteria with the price of admission 55c per couple and dancing is from 8:30 to 12:00.

The committee in charge of this dance is M. Kaufman, H. Dunbar, F. Swett, G. Tuttle, and L. Corbett.

Boulder wishes to remind everyone of the Musical Program at 8:15 at Southwick with President Millis reception following it. There will be plenty of time to attend these functions and then come to the dance at the Waterman afterwards.

Rev. Timothy Lew Visits University

Chinese Religious Editor Coming Nov. 8

The Rev. Timothy Tingfang Lew, Ph.D., D.D., S.T.D., of Yenching University, Peiping, will speak at a student religious meeting at the University of Vermont on Sunday evening, November 8, at 7:30.

Doctor Lew is a prominent figure in the Chinese church as editor of some of the most progressive religious periodicals of China and as chairman of the Religious Education Fellowship of China, a national and interdenominational organization.

He has been on the faculties of both Yenching and National Universities, creating graduate and lecturer at more than a dozen American colleges and universities, and has been one of the Chinese government's members of the legislative Yuan, the highest legislative body of China.

Mrs. Lew, whose full name is Lew Wu Tseh Tang, and who is coming with her husband, has also played an active part in the educational, political and religious life of China. She has been Dean of Women and Professor at the National Universities at Peking and professor at Yenching and the National University of Peiping, president of many women's political organizations, and Associate Editor of the Education Of Tomorrow Weekly. In 1937 she was Chinese delegate to the World Educational Conference.

The meeting will be held in the student lounge with the Y. W. C. A., the Vermont Christian Association and the student Committee On Religious Life as hosts. The young people's groups from the local churches have been invited to be present.

Over Two Hundred Coeds Become W.A.A. Members

Two hundred and twenty-nine University of Vermont co-eds are members of W. A. A. as revealed by the final count. All members are requested to see the managers of their respective clubs as soon as possible.

The following girls were elected to the honorary varsity team in tennis:

Marger, Anthony '45, Barbara Burnham, '45, Eleanor Kaniewitz '46, Ruth Richards '46, Betty Rome '46, Rachel Giddings '46, Nancy Fleming '46, and Pete Hart '43.

Rosemary Thayer '44 and Alma LeVere '43 will be co-managers of square dancing during the winter sports term.

Military Science Department Shows Combat Uniform

A soldier in full combat uniform will be a feature of the display planned by the Department of Military Science and Tactics of the University of Vermont in connection with the University Open House on Saturday, November 7, according to Major Francis P. Simpson, head of the department.

The Military Department, in common with other departments of the University, is working up an elaborate demonstration of its equipment and class work facilities, including an exhibit in the gymnasium of weapons in use by the infantry, machine guns, automatic rifles, service rifles and pistols, and a special showing of samples of German equipment, a machine gun and service rifle in the possession of the department.

A pup tent, ready pitched with the full equipment issued to a soldier in the field will be another feature. Sound movie shorts of military subjects issued by the War Department as publicity, will be shown.

At the game with Norwich in the afternoon, there will be a cadet unit on the field with the band and a flag raising ceremony will precede the contest.

You can help save 29,000 hours a day

ONE second saved in each of the 106 million telephone calls made every day would add up to well over 29,000 hours—would help greatly to keep lines open for vital military and war production calls.

A single second is that important. So answer promptly, giving your location and name, and keep your conversation brief. When making a call, be sure you have the right number—use the directory—call Information only when it's really necessary. And please don't use Long Distance to defense areas unless your call is urgent.

The Bell System has a big job to do. By saving seconds you may make room for a vital war-time call.

TEPS Enter Final Round, Downing Owl Gridders, 20-7

Victors to Oppose Kappa Sigma Squad

In a game played before a chilled crowd a superior TEP gridiron squad defeated a befuddled Owl team 20-7. The game, which shaped up previously as a real tight battle was in reality almost a rout. The TEPS once they gained momentum could not be stopped as they outpassed and outran a scrappy Owl team at every turn.

This win, gives last year's champions a chance to defend their laurels against a strong Kappa sig outfit. They will meet in the championship tussle at a later date, which will be decided by the captains of the respective teams.

The game, itself, was highlighted by some very fancy runbacks savage blocking and some wide-open passing that kept the hardy onlookers constantly in a state of suspense. The TEPS flashed their renowned aerial attack that has spelled defeat for six mate other hopeful contenders. The TEPS' bag of tricks included everything from "around the end sweeps" to an intricate "basketball pass" that simply amazed the opponents. A fellow by the name of Stroyman, stole the show again for the TEPS. He sparked his mates to several scores meanwhile, harrassing the Owls with his peculiar deceptions which allowed him to either run or pass. He was outstanding, but much credit must be given to his team mate, who blocked and covered, in order to make his plays effective.

A lanky end, Grazini and a former freshman standout, Phil Waldman, proved to be valuable assets to the TEPS, as they constantly clicked on passes that seemed to be destined for failure. Not only did they go great guns offensively they also showed a superior talent for nabbing the Owls backs deep in their own territory.

We could go enumerating and singling out individual players who seemed outstanding for the TEPs. But that would prove futile, for it is the team itself that was victorious, two placed as a unit as a team, with only one objective—to win.

The Owls, directed by basketballer "Nads" Doherty, couldn't seem to get started. They had all the equipment but they were unable to prime the pump; and they only prevented a shutout by scoring on the last play of the game. The Owls showed the effects of plenty of practice and precision, but something was lacking they just couldn't function properly.

The Owls employing a 3-2-2 defense couldn't solve the tricks formations of the TEPs and continually they were caught flatfooted, as a pass snatcher sifted through to gain considerable yardage for the winners.

Post Selects Trip Harriers

Runners Compete for Places in Boston Run

BY BILL SYKES

The end of a two week rest period for Coach Archie Post's Vermont harriers ends Sunday, when the boys set out for the New England Intercollegiate run at Franklin Park, Boston, on Monday afternoon. The team has been steadily improving its standing in this meet, placing tenth in 1940 and fourth last year in a field of thirteen. Rhode Island was the winner last year, setting a new low scoring total of 23 points. Junior Bob Nichols, in winning for the Rams, set a new track record of 20:38.

Minus the Webster brothers, their scoring aces, of previous years, the Green and Gold is depending upon Captain Bud Hoyt and Marty McLaren to keep them up high in the final standings.

In an informal triangular meet, held last Friday with Burlington and Waterbury High Schools, the U. V. M. kittens came out on top, due mostly to the efforts of Bob Morrison, promising freshman star. Morrison ran a neat record time over the freshman course of 16:27, only seven or eight seconds over the record and well under any times made by last year's frosh leaders. Vermont kept her score down to 25 with B. H. S. easily taking second place over Waterbury who piled up 63 points.

Monday, November 2 saw the team participating in a handicap race, which Capt. Bud Hoyt won, clocking a time of 19:45 over the regular varsity course. As usual he was followed by Marty McLaren in second place.

Thursday afternoon the decding time trials were held, and each man tried so hard to win, that the first nine men finished within nine seconds of each other. After having Johnny Corliss and Len Harrington flip for the seventh place slot, Coach Post released the following roster for the Boston trip, late last night: Capt. Bud Hoyt '43, Marty McLaren '44, "Mule" Crown '43, Ernie St. Mary '43, Bob Morrison '46, Frank Moran '46 and Johnny Corliss '44. Moran ran a beautiful race to place himself among the select seven. "Dick Lepper '46, also ran well to bring himself up with the first nine, but is being left behind" said Coach Post, "because a layoff right now will get him in better shape for the Middlebury run, where he will be badly needed."

Cochran in Backfield Against Favored Cadets

Norwich Heavy Choice In Traditional Game

BY TOM KNOWLTON

Vermont will [illegible] and [illegible] tomorrow.

The ancient feud between Norwich and the Cats will crack wide open at 2 o'clock on Centennial before an expected open house crowd of [illegible] persons.

In the wake of a week's strenuous drilling under the tutelage of Coaches Peggy Evans and Stewie Legg, the Cats will be the class mark for Stan Keck's rolling Horsemen to hit.

Two sharp defeats at the hands of the mentors reduce the home dopesters to the favorites of the Green and Gold gridders, and Evans' proteges will be only too glad to even the score against the Maroon by chalking up their third win in six starts.

Walt LaPointe-Bourdeau and Walt Domina tie up in the afternoon's battle it will be the greatest exhibition of passing and punting that the Green Mountain State has witnessed in the [illegible] season or any other for some years, as a matter of fact.

According to our spectators, Stan Keck will let the Hurricane Domina run rampant for fun on the Worcester, New Hampshire field the nonpareil boy is just now displaying last week.

The verbal battle waged between the sports editors of this paper and the left tackle cohort on the grid game and present incumbent of the sports desk of the Norwich gazette, has helped little to temper the hostile feelings between the two schools.

According to this reporter's spotting Domina is planning to carry the leather [illegible] Vermont's goal enough times, to better LaPointe's passing score, but the Cats will have more than a box cold word and a team to contribute against the cause.

At this point it looks as though the Vermont ball totters will be deposed the services of their quarterback Pete Kadzis. Pete was called home on the sudden death of his mother and will probably not report for practice's finish.

Dizzy Dog-trotted Monk Morton to the fullback slot where the former Rutland athlete fought well, having pulled some excellent quarterbacking out of the bag so far this season. Monk Cochran will get the call to replace Morton at quarterback giving the secondary, the envelopers of Lee Gill's freshman backfield.

The fact that Norm Beaulieu shone brightly last week in Hartford proved beyond doubt that Evans has more than one scoring threat to his field. Henderson, veteran Vermont lockset to the high scoring mark at LaPointe, just pointed out that Ralph was all and everything that Vermont owned. Saturday's 21-14 upset of Tennis, put the wet blanket on the predictions of those who prognosticate.

With the exception of the shift in the backfield Vermont's starting lineup will be very much as has faced opposition earlier in the season. Ray Pfeil will replace Frank Dupree at right guard in the starting lineup with the rest of the crew intact.

In place of Zeeper Zeeker, one of Keck's right hand men will be the dominating Domina at left half back. Otherwise the Cadet mentor will start the team that vanquished Middlebury two weeks back.

Probable starting lineups:

Vermont		Norwich
Barry	le	Eddy, C.
Cressman	lt	Pfeil
Pfeil	lg	Prior
Packer	c	Cochran
Beaulieu	rg	Beaulieu
LaPointe	rt	Martin
Morton	re	Eddy, J.

Post Explains Need For Physical Training

During the year 1941-42 war hit our country. At the start of the second semester 1941-42, the Men's Physical Education Department gave out the opportunity to every [illegible] in the physical fitness program. Many of our [illegible] men, others did not.

Now with the winter program for 1942-43 about to start Monday, November 16, the Department again offers you the opportunity to enroll in a conditioning program.

We realize that many of you are hard pressed for time, are carrying heavy study schedules, are working part time to board or room or both. But we realize too that very soon a great many of you will be leaving school for Uncle Sam and undergoing the severest test, both physical and mental that ever you have experienced. Some of our recent graduates, some of your own former classmates, can vouch for this statement.

Hence we cannot emphasize too strongly that for your own good present and future, you should grasp every opportunity to condition and toughen yourselves physically that your physique and your morale may be well above par when you are called to duty.

Financial Committee

This Committee has taken over the allocating of the student activity fee and council, collocated the funds in channels which are more beneficial to faculty and students alike. They have established a contingent fund to sponsor such special events as the newly originated freshman picnic or the securing of special artists to appear before the students, etc.

The entire job of budgeting, requisitioning and allocating is being handled by this committee, a great saving for the University and a democratic measure for participation of students in handling these funds.

Pep Committee

This Committee formed for the purpose of fostering more student interest and activity, has sponsored street dances, campus sings, football rallies and is entirely responsible for the Bean Supper and Hobo Day held Friday, November 6, in the cafeteria.

Social Committee

The social calendar for 1942-'43 was made out by this Committee and represents the preferences of the student body read of its social functions. Each month this committee secures a revised edition of the next month's social schedule and publishes it in the Cynic for the benefit of all who wish to read it.

Students Discuss Culture Program

Question of Clinical Assistance Brought Up

At its regular meeting at 4.30 on Tuesday, November 3, with President Joseph Corbett presiding, the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved and the roll read.

The first new business of the meeting was discussion of arrangements for having Walter Hard, famous Vermont poet, appear on the campus under the joint auspices of Student Government and Blue Stockings, the literary society. Student Government is to pay half the cost of the appearance out of the allocation for such purposes.

The question was brought up of having regular clerical assistance for Student Government financial work, which is large enough to warrant employing part time some person skilled in such work.

Names were suggested for further discussion at the next meeting for nominations to fill the vacancies left by Janet Dike Rood ex-'43, Vice President, and Wayne Dudley ex-'43, Executive Committeeman. At the next meeting the officers and executive committee will draw up a slate of nominations to fill these positions. After it has been posted the regular nominations by petition will be in order before a general election.

The next regular meeting of the officers and executive committee will take place on Tuesday, November 10, at 4.15 in the South Conference Room at Waterman.

Respectfully submitted,

MARILYN L. ESSLER,
Secretary.

G. S. O. Meeting Scheduled Wed. In Student Lounge

Membership Cards To Be Distributed To Charter Members

GIRLS' SERVICE ORGANIZATION TRAINING MEETING WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1942 7.30 P.M. STUDENT LOUNGE, WATERMAN

All girls who have signed up for service of any kind with the Girls' Service Organization, either last spring or more recently, are asked to meet for a brief training period on Wednesday evening in the Student Lounge.

Copies of the G. S. O. Manual have now been received from the national office, also the membership cards. These will be distributed at that time.

Please make an effort to be present, and if unable to do so, please notify either Alison Carr, G. S. O. chairman, or the office of the Dean of Women before 4.00 p.m., November 11.

MARY JEAN SIMPSON,
Dean of Women.

As stated in the announcement from the office of the Dean of Women in this issue, the Girls' Service Organization mass meeting is scheduled for 7.30 tomorrow evening, Wednesday, November 11, in the Student Lounge.

Charter members from last year and all the girls who have signed up for G. S. O. this year are urgently requested to attend. Alison Carr '44, chairman, asks all girls who have not yet handed in their applications to bring them to the meeting.

Dean Simpson, Mrs. C. H. Pease, and members of the Women's Hospitality Committee of Burlington, will be present to distribute membership cards to charter members and those who have completed requirements this year and to explain the requirements and duties of the varied G. S. O. services that these girls have agreed to help in.

About 125 girls registered this fall in the G. S. O., many of whom have already nearly completed the twenty-five required hours of service. The G. S. O. in Burlington offers opportunities for all kinds of services. Among the many and varied activities of the G. S. O. are organizing Sunday night suppers; planning short entertainment programs; visiting at the post hospital; serving as information clerks; answering telephones in the G. S. O. building; and gathering lists by telephone of girls in the G. S. O. for weekly activities; and acting as social partners for dances, game nights, sport activities and other social events. Alison Carr '44, Chairman of the G. S. O. on this campus, states: "There are enough girls who have signed up for the G. S. O. to make it possible for these activities and many others to make the College G. S. O. a concrete aid to the U.S.O. in Burlington without putting any large function over a time spent on any one individual."

We Dood It! Cats 14, Norwich 10

By Pete Robinson

The mighty Horsemen have been hoisted!

And it took a hard hitting, inspired University of Vermont eleven to completely upset the dope and ride rough shod over the Norwich state title bound crew Saturday afternoon, 14-10.

It was a win that even the most loyal followers of the Green and Gold were a bit dubious to concede before game time, but the Cats were unbeatable.

Norm Beaulieu and Ralph LaPointe romped all afternoon to set the Vermonters ahead in virtually every department, completely outclassing the play produced by the magnificent Walt Donma and company.

With this win neatly chalked up on the right side of the ledger, the Cats worked out lightly yesterday afternoon, but were expected to get down to business this afternoon in preparation for the week end meeting with Middlebury.

Although the Panthers received the savage attack of the Coast Guard to the tune of 52-0, the Middmen will be eager to knock the spirited Green and Gold from its present perch.

NOTICE

Wednesday, November 11, will not be a University holiday. Classes will be held as usual on that day.

This year due to the accelerated program there will be one day's recess only for Thanksgiving, that is Thursday, November 26, will be a University holiday. There will be no change in class hours on Wednesday, November 25, and Friday, November 27.

The attention of students is called to the following extract from Part II, Section 4b of the Regulations of the University of Vermont:

"A student . . . who absents himself without permission secured in advance from the Dean of his college, from any University exercise or exercises on the day immediately preceding or following a recess or holiday . . . . may be placed on probation. . . . While on probation the student shall be excluded from beneficiary aid for the current half year, from employment for a remuneration by the University, and debarred from membership in athletic teams, musical, dramatic, debating clubs, publication boards, and other analogous University organizations."

The above regulations will apply to all classes Wednesday, November 25, and Friday, November 27.

F. SWIFT,
Secretary.

Walter Hard Comes To U. V. M. Tonite

Walter Hard, writer of Vermont humor and local color, will read from his work tonight at 8 o'clock in the student lounge of the Waterman Building. The occasion is an open meeting of Blue Stockings Society, which sponsors his appearance in cooperation with Student Government.

Mr. Hard has read before college groups, women's clubs, and conventions all over New England and nearby states. He is described in the Christian Science Monitor as combining "the wit sometimes characteristic of Yankees, and is considered to be "Vermonter."

In this presentation Vermonter Hard, Mr. Hard has published a number of books, among them "Vermont ... Mill ... Mountain ... and "Salt in Vermont."

It is hoped both students and townspeople will take advantage of the opportunity to hear a person who possesses Vermont lore.

Dorms, Sororities Select Candidates

R. O. T. C. Unit Chooses From Them Coed Major

The Military Ball is just around a couple of corners and a short Conga away and mention of the ball brings to mind loveliness resplendent in the raiment of the Army Major. Yes girls, it's time for you to select those girls of your choice to be candidates for co-ed Major to preside over the Military Ball December 28 and R. O. T. C. Federal inspection next spring.

In order to facilitate the selection each sorority and dorm as a unit there are at least two girls to put up one girl from that house to be the candidate. When you have chosen one from your group you must present to either Richard Greenwood or Howard Moreland who live at the A.T.O. house on Summit Street, before Tuesday November 17 a photograph at least 8 x 10 in size and a typewritten list of the College activities in which your candidate has participated. These will be made available to the members of the R.O.T.C. unit and they will vote by secret ballot to elect the co-ed Major. The identity of the queen will remain unrevealed until the night of the Ball.

Religious Groups Hear Report on Convention

On Tuesday evening at 7:30 in the Religious Office of the Waterman Building the Y. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. cabinets and the Student Committee on Religious Life met together to hear a report on the Conference on Intergroup Work at which representatives of the religious groups on campus attended.

Evelyn Lucier, Marjorie Baker, John Cowie, Llewellyn Lowe, and Gregory Falls, who had charge of the activities at the conference, made their very interesting and beneficial to the Committee on Religious Life.

The Goodrich Classical Club will meet at Southwick Tuesday evening, November 17. Professor Kidder is in charge of the program.

U. V. M. Spirit Large Item

Crowd Sensed Win Despite Cadets' Airs

by MONTY KELLEY

Last Saturday afternoon Vermont won the football game which no one thought it could win. U. V. M. fans trooped down to Centennial Field to cheer the boys on with the hope that they could hold the Norwich powerhouse to as few touchdowns as possible. But much as they hoped and prayed for victory over the Maroon, few dreamed that the Cats would take this one. Why, Norwich had three full teams. They had the great, triple-threat Walter Domina, they had big Chuck Miller, they had Cris Zoakes, they outweighed Vermont in practically every department. But the underdog Catamounts just refused to be impressed by this awesome array. The Green and Gold proceeded to outfight, outplay, and what is more, outscore the confident Horsemen. Vermont rooters came away from the game deliriously happy for with that inspired last quarter drive for the winning touchdown, they saw, as did everyone else that Norwich pigskin supremacy in the state was smashed. The Catamounts had for the first time in four long dreary years beaten the big, bad boys from Norwich.

U. V. M. also demonstrated that the team with the most spirit and fight wins the game. Past records mean nothing. Norwich was a good, clean-playing ball club, but last Saturday U. V. M. was undoubtedly the best team on the field. Fuzzy's boys were keyed up to that pitch when nothing could stop them. The people in the stands could sense it as well as the players. Every time Norm Beaulieu faded back to throw a pass, or Chick LaPointe crossed the line of scrimmage lugging the leather on one of his swivel-hipped runs, the Vermont partisans surged to their feet almost as one man. The tension was electric. Everyone could feel that something was up, even in the first quarter when the Cadets led. The way the Cats tackled and blocked. The snap with which they came out of the huddle and shifted. The spirit of the lads as they fought from behind for a good share of the contest, all indicated that the day was to be U. V. M.'s.

Harriers Sixth In Boston Run

Hoyt Places Thirteenth As Rhode Island Wins

Boston, Monday, (Special)—Running at Franklin Park, Boston in the thirteenth annual New England Intercollegiate Cross Country meet, this afternoon, Coach Archie Post's Vermont harriers placed sixth in a field of twelve entries. Capt. Bud Hoyt was the first to cross the finish line for the Cats, placing thirteenth. Following him were Marty McLaren in twenty-sixth place, Ernie St. Mary, thirty-ninth, Len Harrington, forty-second, and freshman Frank Moran, forty-seventh. Up against some stiff competition, the Vermont team ran very well and all finished in good condition.

Rhode Island State, led by Bob Nichols, easily captured first place with the phenomenally low score of twenty-two points. Nichols leading 169 runners covered the four and one-half mile course in 21.15, somewhat under the record of 20.38.4.5 that he established in the event last year. Two Rhode Island State teammates followed him across the line to assure the Rams, last year's winners, of a successful defense of their team title.

Deflation of Horsemen Wins Universal Favor

By BILL STYLES

Never have we seen a team more surprised and completely dumbfounded than was Norwich. It was a beautiful case of absolute over-confidence playing against the inspired underdog's strong determination to win; a combination that spells an upset every time.

If nothing is ever accomplished by this win other than to put a vocal damper on the followers of the Horsemen, it can still be considered a success. We refer in particular to Rog Noden, sports writer for the Norwich Guidon who said, earlier in the season, that although LaPointe was the East's leading scorer, and Domina only third, he (Rog Noden) would still take Norwich because of its team play. He went on further to predict that when Norwich stopped LaPointe, U. V. M. would be stopped. We suggest that Mr. Noden had better retire with his sports column and Walt Domina to some secluded retreat and think up a good excuse and perhaps an apology for the insult on Vermont's dignity and intelligence.

Domina has played his last game for Norwich. He had hoped to be able to pass LaPointe in the high-scoring column, and close a brilliant career with a successful afternoon, but Vermont had other ideas and Domina, perhaps for the first time in his career, became just another halfback.

During the half we heard a remark passed in the Norwich dressing room that Vermont was just a first-half club. The fact that Norwich took the ball from Vermont only twice during the last half, ought to take care of that nasty little rumor.

Although LaPointe scored his usual touchdown, and the initial one, to be sure, his team mate, Norm Beaulieu was doing the really spectacular offensive work. Bucking the line most of the afternoon he plowed through for numerous first downs, and if the ground route wasn't open he took to the air, flinging his accurate passes to LaPointe, Barry and Kunken.

Speaking of passing, lots less of it was attempted by either team than had been expected.

Stan Keck: "I'd like to say that the Vermont boys really deserved to win. Every man on the team played a great game and the team in general has obviously reached a peak of excellence."

Fuzzy Evans: "I've been waiting three hundred and sixty five days for this."

When Vermont was knocking on the Norwich goal for the first time in the second quarter, the U. V. M. band rendered taps, a piece which probably summed up the Norwich feelings exactly.

Panthers Crushed By Coast Guard

While Vermont turned the table and sent a hard-riding Norwich eleven back to Northfield licking its wounds, Middlebury, likewise was putting up its ranks after absorbing a 52-0 defeat at the hands of the Coast Guard.

The [illegible] could not be stopped as they rolled on their way against the Panther team, comprised mostly of reserves. The Academy scored two touchdowns in eight minutes to set off the powerhouse drive.

To date the Blue and White has not chalked up a win on their record books, although they'll be set to knock off the Cats who are eyeing the state title.

Cagers Stress Fundamentals

Sharpen Ball-Handling In Informal Practices

Basketball isn't here as yet by any means, but with the last football game of the current year coming up this week-end, it won't be long before the Green and Gold courtmen will be going into action. Led by veteran Capt. Ben Doherty, and boasting several veterans of last year's successful squad the Catamount basketeers are looking forward to a big season.

For the last week the lads have been working out at the gym every night in preparation for formal practice which gets under way next week under Coach Fuzzy Evans. No actual scrimmages have taken place as yet, but drills stressing ball-handling and passing have been used. The cagers are also getting their eye on the hoop, and should be really dunking them through the net when Coach Evans starts looking them over on November 16.

Last year's varsity remainders, Larry Killick, Bob Doherty, and Milt Kaufman have been showing their familiar court savvy, as have Tommy Clairmont, Reno Conti, Jerry Didinsky, Gil Manheim, and Bob Bennett, reserves of last season. Two [illegible] who are showing great promise are Al Johnson, former standout at Newton (Mass.) High, [illegible] and George Henderson, one of the best hoopsters ever to emerge from Pittsfield High in that same state.

When the gridiron season ends, other candidates will report and Fuzzy should find plenty of talent to fill his varsity squad of 15 men.

Grid Finalists Meet Tomorrow

Kappa Sigs, TEPs Clash In Interfrat Play off

The first half of the championship touch football game will be played tomorrow on the back campus. The second half of the game will be played Friday afternoon. The game is divided into two halves, with each team having 40 plays per half. Intramural Director Archie Post said the team captains decided that darkness would prevail long before the second half was under way if the game was played on one afternoon. The solution was solved when two dates were set, on which the game would be played.

The encounter, between these two teams promises to be a real battle all the way. Strangely enough, the TEP's and the KSs met last year in the championship game and the TEP's came out on the long half of the score to defeat the scrappy KSs. This year the KSs are gunning to wipe the slate clean by upsetting the defending champions.

Both teams this season have completed an impressive string of victories. Improving with each contest, the TEP's and Kappa Sigs easily bowled over their weaker opponents and now the time has come for these two top fighters to clash in their biggest game of the season.

The Kappa Sigs, have been sparked all season by "Speedy Reno" Conti, and basketballer Larry Killick. Their line has been outstanding in their play all season affording good offensive and defensive tactics, a necessary element in the ultimate success of any ball club. The KSs have had a varied strategy combining both an aerial and a ground attack to ring the bell all season. Reno Conti has been spectacular in some of his end line jaunts, and undoubtedly, he will be a key man in the looming championship game.

The TEP's have proven themselves real champions by virtue of their undefeated record, this year, they have flashed a "razzle dazzle" style of football that has paid dividends. Led [illegible] by the names of Strayman and Abrahams, promise to make it tough for the Kaps to upset the champions. The TEP's play a wide open game, plenty of hard running, scores of passes and all the rest. The TEP's are out to win, they've proven that they are not merely a passing flash, any team that beats them, can consider themselves, a better than average club.

The officials for this contest will be those old but jovial gentlemen, Vermont Cognetta, Tubs Hamlin, and Mal Mosher.

The Independents will hold a dance Saturday evening, November 14, in the Cafeteria. The Catamounts will play from 8.00 to 12.00. Admission 15c.

Ladies of Faculty Sponsor Thrift Shop Sewing Room

All Clothes On Sale At Reduced Prices; Help on Alterations

A week [illegible] the work on the University campus in which all University women will be interested.

It is sponsored by the Ladies of the Faculty as their particular service program for 1942-43 and it is called the Thrift Shop.

The Thrift Shop is located in the locker room of the north corridor near the Dean's offices and it is open regularly to Dean's appointments from 2:30 to 4:30 and at other times by request.

The Thrift Shop is furnished with a sewing machine, cutting table, ironing board and dresser. Here sewing materials and all the essential equipment for simple dressmaking. Here are collected the outgrown clothes which each year are donated by faculty women, former students and friends both in Burlington and elsewhere who realize the small amount of money many of us have for clothes and are glad to pass on hats, shoes, coats, evening dresses, sweaters, etc., in the hope that some one may be able to make use of them.

Advice from Faculty

Heretofore these things have been received by those directors, faculty women or by the Dean of Women, and whenever some individual need came to their attention, it was met if possible from these supplies. If never much of what came it required complete renovation and remodeling to be of use and as no one was available to advise the girls how to do this, good material was wasted.

[illegible]

an appropriation by Mortar Board, plus donations from interested friends have provided the furnishings and equipment now in the Shop.

Sewing Machine Available

Any girl who wishes to have the use of the sewing machine to run up a skirt, hem her curtains, or make a costume may get the key to the Thrift Shop at any time between the hours of 9.00 a.m. to 3.00 p.m. from the Office of the Dean of Women.

Mrs. Ernest Braun, Mrs. Fraleigh, and Mrs. Carroll are the Thrift Shop Committee, and one or more of the committee will be on hand each Friday afternoon to receive and distribute clothing, give advice, and provide any needed service in connection with the project.

At present there are evening dresses, wraps, shoes, sweaters, hats, etc., on hand, and it is the hope of the sponsors of the project that, as part of our war effort, the girls will [illegible] this opportunity to save [illegible] not in any sense a charity [illegible] designed to save waste and [illegible] use of what is available [illegible] chance to learn how to [illegible] more up-to-date and [illegible] ruining your budget.

"The Coke's in"

"That's the happy greeting heard today when a new supply of Coke arrives at a cooler. Folks wait for it... wait because the only thing like Coca-Cola is Coca-Cola itself. Customers smile and start moving up to pause and be refreshed.

"There's a cheerful spirit about this way of accepting wartime restrictions. Morale is high."

Student Gov't Suggestion Box

Will Collect Ideas From Student Body

At the meeting of the officers and executive board of the Student Government held November 10, it was suggested by the president and agreed upon by all that a Question Box should be set up for the collection of suggestions and ideas from the student body concerning the Student Government. This box will appear in some prominent spot in the Waterman Building within the next few days.

Many students may have suggestions for improvement of the general student movement set-up or criticism (constructive or otherwise!) concerning the management or execution of its programs.

The Question Box—perhaps better termed a Criticism Box or Suggestion Box—will offer all students an excellent opportunity to participate in their student government. The statements or questions may be written or printed on any size paper, on either or both sides, in ink or in pencil—legibility is the sole requirement! The suggestions need not be signed.

Here, then, is an ideal chance for every student to air his personal opinion or to get that pet gripe off his chest. Many responses will be indicative of a growing school spirit.

The Goodrich Cassical Club will meet at Southwick, Tuesday evening, November 17. Professor Kidder is in charge of the program.

Vermont will face a two fold motive when they face off against Middlebury tomorrow.

The first will be to clinch them undisputed down-state crown, [illegible] and the second will be to roll up their best undisputed state championship since 1938.

In 1939 Norwich and Vermont both trounced the Panthers and ended up in a 0-0 tie to divide state honors.

If seasonal averages can be any criterion, the Green and Gold should pound out a decision over the Blue of Middlebury.

The Middlemen have looked far from impressive so far this season, having dropped seven games in as many starts which is another way of saying a contract basketball.

While Middlebury has been chalking up the record including a 31-6 lacing from Norwich, the Cats are riding on a

Fall Murder Play Next Friday Night

10 Students to Unfold Detected Crime Plot

On Friday evening, November 20 at Southwick, the local and college communities will see the annual fall production of the University Players. "A Murder Has Been Arranged" under the direction of Mrs. Wilmetta Sproul Taggart who has directed many other dramatic successes in the past.

"A Murder Has Been Arranged" is an exciting mystery play. The crime is committed right before the eyes of the audience, so that the usual element of mystery which pervades a play of this sort is not present. The play is very original and absorbing.

Emlyn Williams, the author, has instilled into the play an intangible element of mystery and apprehension. Blessed with originality, "Murder Has Been Arranged," is a drama of absorbing interest, a "spooky" feeling encircles the atmosphere.

President of the newly-organized Dramatic Club is Wendell Harvey, a former member of the University Players which is now the nucleus of the club. It was the new group which directed and presented the two group plays some weeks ago.

The cast includes many students whose reputations as actors and actresses have already been well established on campus. Bernice Ticherman '45 as Miss Graze, Wendell Harvey '43, President of the Dramatic Club as Cavendish, Janet Hackwell '43, Sylvia Wellwood '44 as Mrs. Arthur, and Franklin Fowler '43 who plays the role of Sir Charles Leper have all played in major college plays and Mervyn Morgan '46 as Maurice Mullins and Maurice "Monty" Kelly '46 as Jimmy North, both gained recognition for their excellent first performances in the one act plays produced last month. Two new faces will be seen on the Southwick stage, with Olga Schoelles '46 in the role of Mrs. Wragg and Jean Vogler '44 as a mysterious beautiful woman.

"A Murder Has Been Arranged" has all the promise of being one of Mrs. Taggart's usual successes. Don't forget Friday, November 20 at Southwick!

Health Council Open Meeting, Dessert Hour

What's that? A "Social" Hour next Thursday?

Yes, the Health Council is sponsoring a "social" with dessert served at [illegible] ber 19 at 8:00 at Southwick. Marjorie Anthony is in charge of the dessert, followed by a business meeting [illegible] appointment of [illegible] Dean [illegible] charge of future [illegible].

Committees are all urged to attend, and the success of the [illegible] are cordially [illegible].

Student Elections Coming Nov. 20

Suggestion Box to Be Placed in Cafeteria

At a regular meeting on Tuesday, November 10 at 4:15, the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved and the roll call of officers and executive committeemen read.

There were no individual committee reports beyond that of the success of the Bean Supper which was organized by the Pep Committee.

Nominations were made to fill the vacancy left by Janet Lake Boyd '43 '44 for Vice President.

The following names were proposed:

George Little, Jr. '44
Natalie [illegible] '44

The following four names compose the slate to replace Warren Dudley '43 '44 as a senior member of the Executive Committee:

John H. Williams '43
Wendell Harvey '43
Daan Zwick '43
Frank [illegible] '43

Balloting the Vice President and Executive Committee member will take place on Friday, November 20 in the Waterman entrance from 8:30 to 5:00 o'clock. Any additional nominations for the two offices must be made by petition of 50 or more students, such petition to be presented to any one of the officers of Student Government on or before Wednesday, November 18.

The final business of the meeting was the passing of a motion to establish a suggestion box in the Waterman cafeteria for criticisms and suggestions by the students of the U. V. M. Student Government. The meeting was adjourned after the announcement that the next meeting will take place in Dudley, November 17 at 4:15 in 213 Waterman.

Respectfully submitted,
Marjorie L. Dunn,
Secretary.

Kappa Sigs See Ration Board To Get Cane to Raise Sat. Nite

Just once every year comes the Bowery Brawl
That Kappa Sig function, the best of them all.
When History, Ethics and Home Economics,
Math, Psychology, French, Electronics,
Cow Care, Pitchfork, Industrial Geography,
Give way to a night of East Side choreography.
The house dimly lit with candles all flickery,
Bobs with shadows of each pseudo Terpsichore.
No polka, no schottische, no two-step mazurka,
No old fashioned hoofing or Gay Nineties jerker,
But plenty of rumba, not to mention La Conga,
Learned in six easy lessons from Madame La Zonga,
The Can Can and others, even La Cucaracha,
Make one tingle in places not easy to scratch-a.
For hours it goes on with the music's wild surge
As the dancers respond to its rhythmical urge.
The gals, God bless 'em, can get over the hurdles,
Having checked at the door their restraining girdles.
And so, like all things, it must come to an end.
They'll sleep late on Sunday. No class to attend.
There's the usual session of "Good Night" barrages,
Then the Brawlers all trip in their carcass garages,
To dream of the evening with memories so dear
But thanking 'im gods once a year our Brawl can occur.

In other words, Kappa Sigma will hold its annual Bowery Brawl Saturday night as a climax to the Middlebury game. Co-chairmen, "Tommie" Albergheti and "Dinner" Mangines, have plans that border on the extravaganza. They have hired Ed Hamel and the colored "Cotillion" Ensemble engaged as bartenders. Entertainment will be furnished by the pledges featuring Dutch Enright and his Flemish Girls.

Due to restrictions imposed by the Fire Marshal's admittance will be by invitation only.

The Vermont Cynic

The Official Student Newspaper of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College

VOL. 61 NOVEMBER 13 1942 NO. 16

[illegible] grossing up a scope at a recent Middle Easts Day, after that we were amazed to discover that they were quite unanimously panning the old Cynic.

Since the Cynic seems to hold the unenviable record of offering [illegible] comments of other college papers don't know we feel that it is not an old Vermont custom to take things sitting down, we shall attempt a little retaliation.

The Daily [illegible] appeared as a Miami Student Knocker which commented caustic on the editorials, compliments and criticisms of a number of college papers. This sometimes petty task has the interest and presumption to comment on several papers that conclude that the Tech Daily is still tops in college journalism.

Quote the Daily: "The Vermont Cynic intrigues us with its name and then disappoints us by being completely mystical. Maybe that's better than being completely unmystical. By refusing to comment about its specific tactics or any news policy, hasn't the paper lost a friend or two?"

We'll continue this general review of all college papers and received next week, but unfortunately we think the Tech Daily is still tops in college journalism.

Incidentally the Daily believes that every week at the present Cynic have inherited that now we must adhere to it very rigidly. this is merely the title of the paper since 1888 and we had nothing whatsoever to do with choosing the title or forming the editorial policy. We did not inherit a editorial policy from our editors without our college memory (3 years) and even if we did would we necessarily maintain such a policy. The argument given by our cynical Cynic critic is equally as foolish as expecting the Detroit Free Press to give away each issue free of charge and for the Baltimore Sun to come out only on sunny days.

Trying it off the [illegible] admits that on rare [illegible] occasions pokes appear twice in the same issue of that paper. We have also noticed jokes and tardy long stories twice and even more times in the beloved Daily. Certainly in the future a glance at our salt peeked so called tops in college journalism will bring forth a little more criticism from our Cynic.

"We Like Our Beauty Sleep"

What is the opinion of the U. V. M. students concerning the recent change of classes to one-half hour later than the former time. As might be expected, views on this subject vary from strong enthusiasm through indifference to quite antagonistic attitudes. By making a survey of opinion, we have obtained from the students definite information which we shall here present. The following opinions are among those obtained:

Patty Page—"Frankly, I like it. The morning seems longer and the afternoon shorter but it's so much nicer to get up when it's light than when it looks like midnight outside."

Pat Fraberta—"I sure like it. Why? SLEEP!!!"

Jacob Katz—"I'm more or less indifferent with slight inclination against the change. Under the new system I sleep a half hour longer and that's a half hour wasted."

Clet Joseph—"It's all the same to me except that I have an extra half hour in the morning now to work in the chemistry laboratory."

Jane Hayward—"I'm all for it. I get to sleep a half hour longer and I don't have to go to work so soon in the afternoon."

Mark Martin—"O. K. by me. I have my last hour classes and I get a kick out of seeing the others going until one."

Donna Charles—"I always get hungry before dinner time now, but I do get more sleep. I guess it all depends on what one likes to do better—eat or sleep."

Irma Lantz—"Wonderful! I don't have to get up so early and can eat a bigger breakfast."

Marion and Barbara—"We like it. It gives us more time to wash our breakfast dishes."

Kadzis Returns to Backfield for Title Clash

The Locker Room • • By Bill Roeder

Hey, whaddaya read?

A Norwich man with a sense of humor sent us a copy of the latest 'Guidon,' the Beat Vermont issue, in which exception was taken to some recent well-meant [illegible] from this corner. We are [illegible] several faults in our [illegible] up, deficiencies easily [illegible] but heretofore unpubli[illegible]

[illegible] forgiven, Norwich. Who [illegible] harbor a grudge? After [illegible]ed hard. You brought [illegible] up here, and, in the face [illegible] insurmountable odds, you [illegible] Vermont. You scored [illegible] once and a half, anyway. [illegible]ridiculously enough, you [illegible] lose game of what should [illegible] a complete, unqualified [illegible]

[illegible] your athletes played over [illegible]ends. They held Vermont to two touchdowns, only one by LaPointe. That single fete in a first half from a 6-0 Cat monopoly could extract no more than a 7 to 7 deadlock. They staved off repeated scoring threats in the late minutes of the last half. They allowed Bearden to succeed with only seven forward passes and then ever completed two of them. And certainly under-confidence didn't beat them.

All in all, Norwich, you proved yourself the second-best ball club in the state, not counting high schools.

Bury Middlebury

On the basis of Middlebury's game with Coast Guard, Vermont figures to win tomorrow by at least sixty-three points. But, as they say, you can throw comparative scores out the window, if there's one handy. This advice applies especially to such games as Army-Navy, Yale-Harvard, Michigan-Minnesota, and Vermont-Middlebury. (Are we kidding?)

The battered Blue and White, roundly cuffed by every opponent it has met, lodges in somewhat the same position as the Catamounts of a week ago. Middlebury can lose nothing in defeat tomorrow. By winning, however, the Panthers would nullify Vermont's thrashing of Norwich, turn the state series into a farce, and complete a successful Middlebury season.

To achieve such a shambles would obviously gratify Coach Sam Guarnaccia. He is building up to Vermont just as Fuzzy Evans built up to Norwich. Just before each of his first five games, Fuzz told the boys that he'd like to see them win. "But remember, we've still got Norwich ahead of us." Last week Guarnaccia conceded his game to the Coast Guard and withheld his regulars from play, storing them up for action tomorrow.

This ought to make things interesting. But, while Vermont is favored, we entertain no fears of overconfidence in the Catamounts. The folly of such a disposition made itself evident on Centennial field last week.

Aside: We can't lose.

Catamounts Choice Over Middlebury

Cat-Panther Grid Record

When the Cats face off against Middlebury tomorrow they will be out after their 50th victory since the opening of gridiron campaigns between the two schools in 1897. Vermont has piled up 32 wins against Middy's 14 and the two have pulled four ties out of the fire.

Here's the record:

Blue Seeks First Win In Year's Closing Tilt

[illegible] who [illegible] stopped the Hornets 14-13 last week end.

Pete Kmetz will be back in at halfback for Vermont, and Monk Meyers will shift back to quarterback slot leaving the wing [illegible] open. Norm Bearden and Ernie LaPointe at full back spots.

Vermont's attack is at top shape when they romp on Dexter Field tomorrow afternoon. Harry Parker appears to be the only man that will not get the go ahead signal for the opening kickoff. Parker who is suffering from an antagonized side tear, but will be replaced by Len Knudsen.

Red Murphy, a lad who gained his share of laurels with the fans and coaches against Mass. State, will be ready to do some heavy ripper work if necessary having fully recovered from a painful leg injury.

Middlebury played most of the reserves against powerful Coast Guard last week, and will produce an array of first string material against the Cats with the exception of Liam Feeney, ace right half back. Bob Zaremski, a sophomore who started at fullback against Connecticut three weeks ago, will fill out Feeney's position.

The Panthers would like nothing better than to knock the Cats off their stride and thus send the state gridiron championship into a three-way tie. Coach Sam Guarnaccia has been tutoring his charges through some hard blocking and tackling three past afternoons and has topped off the sessions with drills under the lights and board talks.

If La Pointe has a field day against Middlebury he'll have a chance to boost his ratings in ring record and possibly pull himself up the ladder from his present fifth place position.

Tomorrow will be the farewell appearance for two Cats at Centerfield. With new backfield selected fourth Saturday time, Phil Chamberlain and Bill Bryant will call it quits. Both Vermont captains have been four year men and have really played their prowess to the fans this season, especially in the dramatic upset of Norwich last week end.

It will also be the final curtain call for Middlebury's two captains, Lud Prokop and Bob Adair. Both these lads are linemen four year men and have been the main cogs in the Panther machine.

Adair has been watching most of the games from the bench this season because of injuries and will definitely not see action against the Green and Gold. Prokop, who has likewise been out of action several times in his four year career due to injuries, will start tomorrow.

Last week's end celebration against a powerful Coast Guard outfit spurred to Coach Andy Gustafson's that he had some potent power material in his ranks. What at this second string will do at least awaits last and is the season finale on the state grid card.

Fuzzy Evans just can't lose with dopesters. The Queen City chasing conqueror and scorer of Middlebury's pride has a record against all Green and Gold foes. [illegible] opened for 1:40 began.

Hundreds of students including band and student managers will be making the trip on special trains and autos. The game will be broadcast by station WJOY.

Wednesday, the second Vermont game to be played since the pre-war season.

Athletic Office Loses Miss Sheeran to Service

Popular Staff Member To Enter Women's Navy

The University of Vermont is losing one of its most familiar and best liked personalities to the armed forces tomorrow. Miss Margaret Sheeran, for the past 12 years Administrative Secretary of the Athletic Association, leaves to join Uncle Sam's forces. She will be a member of the Women's Reserve of the United States Navy. Sworn in on October 3, Miss Sheeran will journey to Stillwater, Okla., where at the Yeoman's School she will receive her basic training. Her absence will be hard felt by the Athletic Association and the many persons with whom she has been associated on this campus.

The youngest daughter of the late Peter and Ellen Birney Sheeran, of this city, Miss Sheeran came to the University as Ad. Secy. in 1930. A great sports fan her position has always interested her. Although her favorite sports are football and track she has been a loyal and constant supporter of all Catamount teams, sticking with them through victory and defeat. She can list as her intimate acquaintances many U. V. M. greats who have made history on gridiron, diamond, cinder track, and basketball court. Among these are the incomparable Frankie Taylor, greatest athlete in Vermont history, Bud Budavna, baseball captain, football standout, and hexathlon champion of a few seasons back, Boots Lawrence, gridiron standout now in the South Seas, Maj. Walker Robinson, Johnny Spaysk, last year's football captain and Harry Noyes, manager of football now in Australia, just to mention a few. She is also a close personal acquaintance of numerous college referees and umpires throughout this district and can set among her friends practically every college athletic official in New England.

Miss Sheeran has a large cabinet of cups accumulated during her sojourn here at U. V. M. Awards, cups, a large silver cup of elephants, banners and many other trophies are reminders of her work with various athletic teams of the University. Each year on their return from the annual Southern trip the baseball squad has presented her with a souvenir of the trip. These include pin trophies of almost every school played in the yearly trip but most treasured being those of the United States Naval and Military Academies.

Miss Sheeran's position in the University athletic office will be filled by Miss Dorothy Lyons who has been working in the position of secretary to Miss Sheeran during the summer months. Miss Lyons is also an experienced worker in the various activities of the campus.

The gap left by Miss Sheeran's departure will be filled by Walter Case of Bennington, formerly a U. V. M. student and manager here at school.

Frat Basketballers In Two Leagues

Intramural director, Archie Post, revealed today that in or around Dec. 1, an interfraternity basketball league would begin. In keeping with the all out effort for physical fitness, each fraternity will field two teams for league play. The top eight or ten men, of each fraternity team will be placed in the A-B league—to compete with teams of equal strength. The remaining men in each fraternity will be classed in the XY league, which is comprised of teams of less experienced men. The purpose of the two-fold league is to permit each and every man to compete in real basketball if he so desires. The basketball league, unlike football, will be a round robin affair with each team having a chance to play every other team in the league.

KS Gridders Lead in Finals

TEPs Trail at Half, 34-7, In Interfrat Playoffs

Rumor has it that the Kappa Sigma footballers are being considered for the "Interceptor Command." In an Armistice Day classic, the first half of the championship football tussle between Kappa Sigma outfit and the defending champions the TEPs was nothing more than an afternoon of interceptions for the mighty K. S.'s as they routed the TEP's 34-7 to end the first half of the encounter.

Playing before a packed house of hardy onlookers the K. S.'s started the fireworks in the very early moments of the game as Larry Kelly intercepted a TEP pass—[illegible] a pass would be tackless, and [illegible] calmly stepped and rifled a pass to [illegible] wide receiver, zigged down the [illegible] stripe.

Cagers Await General Call

All Jayvee Candidates To Come Out Monday

The squad of ten Vermont cagers will be substantially increased Monday when Coach Fuzzy Evans issues a general call to all candidates. It will be still further enlarged when, after a week's rest, basketball minded football players, such as Israel LaPointe, Norm Bearden, Mickey Cochrane and Don Murphy will report. All candidates are to report to varsity coach Dave Dagg and will be moved up to Evans' varsity squad if they show sufficient improvement and are needed.

Two short week practices will be held in the gym with the formal practicing at 3:00 and the scrimmage at 7:00. A schedule is being arranged with Burlington and Cathedral high schools for the use of the Memorial Auditorium floor. Evans hopes to begin the program on the Auditorium floor by December 1st.

Mercedes Director of Athletics, Lucy Cousineau has announced a change in the schedule of Lawrence University cancelling out the game of December 5, because of exams, but will be in Burlington on February 20 the afternoon of the Ides Week. On February 27, Dr. Howard Ferguson, former U. V. M. athletic Director, will bring the Boston Coast Guard team to Burlington for a game. Also a tentative set date has been arranged as to the opening with R. P. I., Cathedral, Green Mountain, Lovejoy Junior College, and the St. Michaels' quintet listed for the games each.

U. V. M. Graduate Honored in Britian

To Present Scroll to Bookmen of England

To Curtice N. Hitchcock, graduate of the University of Vermont in 1912 and member of the publishing house of Reynal and Hitchcock, has fallen the signal honor of carrying to the bookmen of the British Isles the greetings and good will of the bookmen of America. Mr. Hitchcock's mission is being sponsored by the Publishers' Weekly magazine and the Office of War Information.

The good will symbol, a scroll inscribed with an inspirational message written by Stephen Vincent Benet was presented by Mr. Hitchcock at a dinner in his honor at the Mansion House in London on November 3. The dinner was given by Sir John Laurie, the Lord Mayor, the Publishers' Association and the Associated Booksellers of Great Britain and Ireland. Among the guests were the Archbishop of Canterbury, Brendon Bracken, Minister of Information, and many prominent authors.

In his speech, Mr. Hitchcock proposed "an association of British and American book publishers to engage in the publication of a work or series of works which will contribute to the post-war organization of the world."

Curtice Nelson Hitchcock was born in Pittsford, attended school in Pittsford and in Lake Forest, Ill., graduating from the University of Vermont with Phi Beta Kappa rank.

In World War One, he was a corporal in the coast artillery and a member of the publicity committee of the Committee on National defense. Following the war he was for a time a member of the faculty of the University of Chicago.

He was with MacMillan & Co. and Appleton-Century publishers and is one of the founders of the firm of Reynal & Hitchcock.

Mr. Hitchcock is a brother of Lieut. A. Hitchcock, agricultural economist at the University of Vermont, and is a member of Delta Psi fraternity.

Stop Look Lucian At Classical Club

Lucian the Greek sophist and satirist a.d. 125-190 will be the topic of discussion by Professor Kidder at the Classical Club meeting, Tuesday, November 17, at 7:45, at Southwick. New members will be initiated according to the amendments to the constitution. It is hoped that all who can, will attend.

Gold Key Smoker Wednesday Night

The second in a series of Gold Key smokers will be held for freshmen receiving invitations tomorrow night at 7:30. Freshmen who received invitations are requested to note a change in room from the South conference room to Room 210 on the second floor.

The members of the sophomore honorary society promise cider and doughnuts, and entertainment with speakers and movies, and, of course, cigarettes.

Freshmen will benefit from these smokers, not only for the enjoyment but because the smokers give the Gold Key members a chance to look over next year's prospects for Gold Key.

WAAC Rally Held Here On Thursday

Large Crowd Present Seven Women Inducted

Thursday night, at the City Hall, seven Vermont women were enrolled in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps; this was the first public induction that has been conducted in this state. The inductees were: Mrs. Lillian Alexander, Barre; Miss Elizabeth Burbeau, Northfield; Miss Ida Butterfield, Springfield; Miss Audrey Lefrancois, Rutland; Miss Mildred Moore, Burlington; Miss Rose Spargo, Barre, and Miss Natalie Erwin, Newport.

Lieut. Margaret Knox spoke to the women on the duties of the WAACs and told some of the everyday happenings which take place, some of which are serious, amusing and weird, concerning the Fort Ethan Allen Band furnished the music and as U. V. M. girls sang a new WAAC song which had never been heard in public before. The singers were Therese Coderre, Beryl Chapin, Winifred Wilson, Joan Spaes, Ellie O'Brien and Carolyn Phelps.

The rally was a great success with a fair large attendance and it reflected a great deal of interest in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps was aroused.

4-H Meeting To Be Held at Waterman

Calling all U. V. M. 4-H'ers! There will be a U. V. M. 4-H party for all former 4-H'ers now in college at the Waterman Lounge, Wednesday, November 18 from 8:00 to 10:30 p.m. There will be greetings and remarks from President John Millis, J. L. Carrigan, Dean of the Agricultural College and F. I. Ingalls, State Club leader.

The Extension Staff here on the campus would like to meet you and it will give you a chance to meet the staff and other 4-H club members. A recreational period will be conducted by Miss Dorothy Plumb and Miss Frances Staples, County Club Agents in Caledonia and Caledonia Counties respectively.

The committee in charge is Helena Anderson '43, Reginald White '43, Ford Webster '45 and Dorothy Dan '46.

From November 16 until further notice, the Dean of Women will not have office hours on Wednesday and Friday afternoons except by special appointment. Students are asked, as far as possible, to come for conferences in the morning rather than the afternoons.

Cats Wallop Middlebury With Second Half Drive

Big U. V. M. Cheering Section Sparked By Presence of Vermont Notables

By Pete Rousseau

Vermont threw everything to the wind Saturday, and there was plenty of it.

The Cats completely corked up the theory that Ralph LaPointe was the only scoring ace they possessed, and simultaneously wrote the second half slump out of the books once and for all.

Two thousand shivering customers watched the Green and Gold surge in the second half to overcome a 7-6 lead held by the Panthers, and forge ahead to score an 18-7 victory, returning to the Queen City with the state championship in tow.

The Middmen were out for all they could get, and that was to beat Vermont, their traditional state rivals, and to boast at least one win out of their eight game schedule.

And it looked as though the Blue and White were headed in the right direction in the first canto. With a frozen field underfoot, and a chilled Middlebury cheering section shouting their lungs out, the Panthers kicked off to the invading Catamounts. Pete Kadzis, the Cats' freshman sensation took the boot on his own 15 yard line, and traversed up to the 32 before a board of Middlebury players closed in on him.

Military Ball To Have National Defense Theme

Saturday, November 28, from 8:30 to 12:00 p.m. the Catamounts will play to the Waterman gathering for the annual Military Ball. It will be a formal affair (this is maintained) with a National Defense theme. To create the National Defense atmosphere it is requested that boys wear their dress uniforms, girls wear defense stamp corsages and Champlain sabres will give a $5.00 defense stamp door prize.

The dance has been set at this time because the Thanksgiving vacation will begin at this week-end. In this way the service academy in Essex will be able to attend.

Many Reasons for Students Choosing College Nowadays

As you drive on in these days, we've past the campus of the University of Vermont you watch them. Throughout evening couple after couple, boy and girl, dark coats or blue. And perhaps you wonder what brought them all together under the watchful eye of General Lafayette and Ira Allen. Were they all born on the same day? Or was it because they were all from Vermont?

Well there are always that many reasons. In fact, Dr. Guy Bowker has collected them in a pamphlet that could encourage more students to consider Vermont the next time they choose. But there are many other reasons. A man named Raymond Cannon wrote a book "Among the Congress gentlemen" a few years ago and in it he says that the "Boys Going To College" brought a number of gentlemen to Vermont.

Some also become of the department of agriculture science and some because of the right looking maid at school. Others because Father or Aunt Emily or The Boy Next Door had come. Several wanted the dramatics and debating, and the rumor of others was influenced by athletics.

Courses of study attracted counted high, as did the prominent educators and others had been guests of the University for meetings of high school editors or Jr. 4-H Club "short weeks." And at Lake Waik. One happened to pick up a

"We Would Be Building" Theme of Vespers

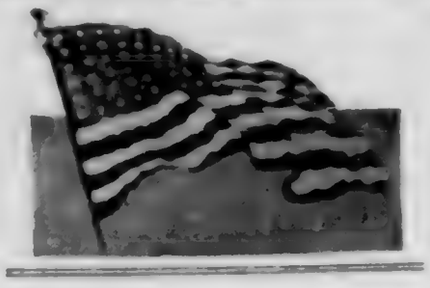
"We Would Be Building" was the theme of the Vesper Service conducted by the Y. W. C. A. and Y. C. A. in the Chapel last Sunday afternoon. Miss Norma Marston presided at the prelude, the "Cantabile" by Elgar. A recital piece by seven members of the class directed by Prof. Howard C. Bennett presented the service. The recital consisted of the following numbers: "The Glory of God in Nature" by Beethoven; "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen," Negro spiritual arranged by Burleigh; "God is Love" by Gounod; "Prayer in the Dunes" by Hook; "Let Us Now Praise Famous Men" by Vaughn Williams; "To Wednesday and To Hay Once Did Go" by Cornwall, ably accompanied by Dorothy Woodell Hoover '43, and the quartet, David M. '43, Hoover and Cecil M. Gordon Curtis Clark. The anthem "We Would Be Building" was produced by the choir of 35 members, Barbara Powers '43 gave readings from the poem. The meditation in the Hymn by Charles Read Kennedy.

Organ interludes were played by Miss Marston and the responses were given by Phyllis Robinson '45, Doris Squier '43 and Norma Carpenter '45.

The sermon closed with the third hymn of "We Would Be Building" by the choir and the congregation. The postlude was Handel's "Gavotte" by Miss Marston.

The meeting which was arranged by Instructor Esther Olive Hooper, Vermont Y. W. C. A. counselor, was directed by Penelope Easton '44.

Debt to France Theme Of French Club Meeting



The French Club met on Wednesday, November 11. Professor Bennett conducted the meeting. Prof. R. J. Dillon, a fellow faculty member and teacher from the French department, gave a talk on "Une Page de l'Histoire de France." Professor Bennett told about Le Petit Chaperon where the last meeting was held at.

The next meeting will be held on December 8. The topic is planning to give a French play some time in February.

Counter attack followed quickly in a frigorit letter to the Cynic. Reading between the lines it seems meant to realize that Student Government was established for many other things than finance.

Blood followed blood as Fortie read a brief communiqué from the battle front issued by Gen. Joe Corbett of the Student Government forces. This report, [illegible] to struggle through the strict [illegible] spoke of feeler movements on many fronts. Fortie began to feel that Student Government was a force on campus although not developed to anywhere near its capacity.

"What can be done?" asked Fortie. He soon found out that all his contributions would be cheerfully accepted in a small Suggestion Box. He has several to make.

For one thing he feels sure that more suggestions, cooperation and general all around interest would be shown by the student body if occasional mass meetings were held. At these meetings all business could be transacted in truly democratic style instead of having it done by a small democratically elected executive group. "After all," says Fortie, "interest is only kept alive by participation. I mean active participation and not at occasional referendum."

Furthermore, I hope that the officers we elect will use their initiative instead of continuing on beaten paths. Chapel programs have not been adjusted for increased interest. The need for cultural improvement has not been met. There [illegible] movies on the campus. I'd like to have [illegible] discuss the [illegible] at mass meeting. All phases of Student Government can be carried out as successfully as has the Social Committee carried out their portion.

Yes, a rather long speech for For T. Six, but occasioned by the downright interest of a newcomer, who wants to take part in what is going on, before he too becomes a part of the "Student Corpse."

Maybe after the war between Critical and Criticized is over, a new cooperative community will emerge. The charge: [illegible] officers of the Student Government.

Cat State Crown First Since '39 Tie

With the exception of the Cats' 13-7 win over Connecticut early in the season, the experts figured the Catamounts to football for the day. Thus, the statistically minded prognosticators figured but today that Vermont had clinched up a successful season.

With Saturday's defeat of Middlebury, the Green and Gold became undisputed State champions since 1939 when the Cats trounced the Panthers, but tied with Norwich for Vermont state honors.

Surprise Running Attack Almost Upset Evansmen

Cats Expected Passes-- LaPoint Keeps Record

For [illegible] Vermont might have thought the North Pole was one of the Porter Field goal posts. Everyone was freezing during the first half except the Panther team which was red hot.

A U. V. M. ROOTING SECTION and R. O. T. C. band arriving late at the first practice were greeted with a biting blast from the North which carried the Green-singing crowd over Middlebury but 7-0.

THE CATS had been practicing against a Middlebury air attack all week, only to be greeted with a devastating ground attack that passed only twice during the whole first half. Bobo Sheehan, Lenny Urban and a surprise package named Ray Lawrence, Phil Dunham ripped off many first many long gains for the Mid-men.

THE PANTHER LINE completely outweighed by the Green and Gold put up a great battle. Outstanding performances were turned in by two vets, Charlie Polcsin center and Dave Thompson right guard.

THE ONLY VERMONTERS who received an Middlebury cheering were the members of the U. V. M. band. During the half they gave an excellent performance and got a big hand from Middlebury for forming an M and playing the Middlebury Alma Mater.

ALTHOUGH MIDDLEBURY led 7-6 at the half, Vermont held the statistical edge leading in rushing 89-86 and in passing 65-0. Nevertheless they were plenty scared as is shown by the fact that no subs entered the game for the Green and Gold excepting Bushway for kicking until the third period.

LAPOINTE kept his record of scoring in every game by racking up the first six points for Vermont. His final total ...

Rate Vermont Over Georgia

Experts' Figures Give Cats 200 Point Edge

[illegible] Vermont [illegible] and Lee Georgia Tech ... would be ranked 198 points if they were to play Vermont. The calculations of the Cats 41 point win over Middlebury, when the Navy Pre-Flight Navy ... 38 point margin over Georgia Tech, figure it.

Middlebury, which has lost all games ranked 182 points better than unbeaten ranked Georgia. Middlebury was set back by Colgate 14-13, and Tech crushed the point wonder Duke last by Williams 47-14, or 26 points. So Middlebury is 21 points weaker than Williams. Since Princeton beat by Williams 13-6, a 12 point margin, 9-7. Middlebury figures to be 13 points weaker than Princeton. Princeton beat Navy 19-0, so Middlebury is 9 below Navy. Navy beat Penn 7-0 so Middlebury would 2 points above Penn. Penn beat Yale which beat Dartmouth, which beat Holy Cross which beat North Carolina State, which beat North Carolina which beat Wake Forest which beat Clemson which beat South Carolina which tied Tennessee which beat LSU which beat Mississippi State which beat Vanderbilt. Their accumulated margin is 187 points. Vandy rates on a par with Georgia in this system because both beat Kentucky by 7-6 counts. So Middlebury rated to [illegible] but don't you believe it!

Juniors To Succeed Benoit and Chesarone

It was a tired but jubilant band of Catamounts who scattered into the Middlebury Field House after last Saturday's thrilling win over the unbeaten but game Panthers, on bleak windswept Porter Field. Fuzzy's boys had plenty to be happy about, for Vermont had annexed its first State Championship in the long years. It was the cap to a season, a season in which the Green and Gold had proved without a shade of doubt that they were the top clovers in the state.

After the swarms of back slapping well-wishers and slant-eyed fans had been shooed out the locker, the Cats peeled off their togs for the last time this year and went about the business of untaping, showering, and getting into street clothes. From the gym they were hustled into cars, and drove to the Middlebury Inn for a steak supper. It was more of a testimonial occasion than simply an after the game meal. At the head table sat the entire athletic staff and the squad was distributed about the dining room. After the meal Manager Joe Corbett presented Miss Margaret Sheeran, who left Sunday for the Navy, a gold identification bracelet as a going away present from the entire team. Brief speeches were given by Miss Sheeran, Larry Gardner and other members of the athletic staff. Then the voting for next year's captain took place.

This year's Co-Captains Bill Benoit and Phil Chesarone have done a swell job during the past campaign leading the Catamounts through the best season in years. In fact the team liked the idea of Co-Captains so well that they again elected by ballot two players to the honorary post for next year. They are two men who have proved their worth through two years of heavy duty in the varsity line, tackle Paul Walgren and his running mate on the other side of the forward Dwight Eddy. Paul is well known to Catamount fans for his bruising hard hitting play of this and last year. He hails from West Hartford, Conn. where he prepped at Weaver Hall High School.

Dwight Eddy is the other captain. A native Vermonter, he comes from Hardwick and attended high school there. Having no previous football experience he has developed into one of U. V. M.'s best gridders. A big boy, five feet eleven inches and weighing 191 pounds, Dwight has no difficulty in taking care of himself and is well liked by the Hardwick product by his teammates.

Convocation Tues. 7.45 at Waterman

Student Government elections which were scheduled for today have been postponed until next Wednesday in order that a Convocation may be held on Tuesday night to explain the nature of the offices to be filled. At this meeting which will be held at 7.45 in the Waterman Building various members of Student Government will explain its aims and describe the program which it hopes to carry out. Students will have an opportunity to make suggestions and discuss problems. In order that the meeting may not be too long, it has been decided to close it promptly at 9.15.

Participate Now Upperclass Men!

Opportunities For Men In Athletic Activities

U. V. M. will soon embark on her second war year. As a result of the passing of the 18-19 year old draft law, a large majority of our upperclassmen will soon be serving Uncle Sam. With this in mind, the Men's Physical Education Department has inaugurated a program which is to provide our armed services with men who are not only sound in mind, but also in body.

Occasionally an upperclassman has stooped as low as to be seen in the gym. It seems, however, that they are attracted by the glamour and appeal of the Army, for they are always in the Military Office and not on the hardwood. Out of 227 upperclassmen, only 11 have signed for athletic work. It seems that Vermont seniors and juniors would rather sit and gab in the cafeteria, than do some thing constructive for themselves in the gym.

In spite of this lack of interest, Archie Post has prepared an extensive athletic schedule for upperclassmen. During the winter months there will be handball, tumbling, boxing, wrestling, and gymnastics for the few ambitious upperclassmen who come out. In order to try and induce those who are inclined to rest in easy chairs, to participate in the physical torture of athletics, there will be an Interfraternity Basketball tournament for those who are not experts, and therefore will not play in the regular tournament. There is on the fire the suggestion that the fraternities have timed competition over the obstacle course. Fat men please take notice: the whole fraternity will participate. A handball bear chart will also be posted, and a tournament may be run.

Wake up upperclassmen! Take advantage of this opportunity now while it is voluntary, for when you're in the Army you're told what to do. Sign up at the Men's Physical Education Office. The requirements are a Lodge towel, slip sneakers and gym pants. See you upperclassmen!

Wednesday Night Razz Dazz at Waterman

Come and celebrate Thanksgiving [illegible] Y. W. C. A. is sponsoring a Razz Dazz November 25 in the Faculty Lounge at Waterman. Dancing from 8 to 12 o'clock. Stag or Drag. Admission 10c per.

P. S. Razz Dazz means we'd love to have you come stag as well as with parties.

Football Men Will Receive Blankets

The annual Football Hop sponsored by Key and Serpent, men's Junior Honorary Society, will be held Saturday night November 21 in the Waterman cafeteria from 8.30-1.00. Music for the evening will be furnished by the Catamounts orchestra.

During the evening, blankets will be presented to twelve members of the football squad. This will include the senior lettermen and those juniors who because of the accelerated schedule will be graduating earlier.

Chaperones for the dance will be: Coach and Mrs. Evans; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Gardner and Mr. and Mrs. Fogg.

A reasonable admission will be charged and everybody is cordially invited and urged to attend.

Health Council Has Open Meeting

Dessert and Social Are Well Attended

The Health Council held a Dessert Hour last night from eight until nine at Southwick.

The Dessert was under the direction of Jery Anthony '45. Mint ice cream and cookies were served. The guests were entertained with songs by Shirley Lampman '45, accompanied by Alma Gaylord '44, piano selections, humorous skits, and a pantomime by Virginia Hunt. Entertainment was in charge of Dickie Leduc.

Dorothy Wimett '44, was in charge of invitations: Esther Gustafson '44, was in charge of publicity, she was assisted by Betty Powers '46.

All profit from the $.15 admission goes to the Health Council Fund, to help girls on campus who feel they are unable to afford eye, dental and other care. Money is lent to the girls, to be paid back at leisure time.

An open meeting of the Health Council was also held Thursday evening. Barbara Dunbar '43, president, led a discussion of health problems on campus.

Among the things discussed were: frequent colds, late hours for getting to bed, food habits, and ways to meet these problems.

Dr. Scriver to Speak To the Osler Society

Dr. Walter M. Scriver from Montreal will present a lecture to the Osler Clinical Society on Friday, November 20 at 8.15 p.m. in the Fleming Museum Auditorium.

Doctor Scriver will speak on the subject "Diabetes as a Quantitative Disease." He will illustrate his lecture by means of lantern slides.

Dr. Scriver is Physician to the Royal Victoria Hospital in Montreal and Assistant Professor of Medicine at McGill University Medical School. He is also a Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians.

A cordial invitation has been extended to all interested pharmacy medical students and nurses to attend this lecture.

"God—The Athlete" Topic at Collegium

Dr. P. C. Ladd will speak at Collegium Tuesday evening at 7:00. His talk will begin the series of discussions of the most pertinent themes in the "most known best seller" in the Bible. He will speak on "God the Athlete." Dr. Ladd is well qualified to speak on such a subject. He makes the Bible become an interesting and entertaining topic. Everyone is cordially invited to the talk and the social hour and refreshments served. Adm.

The Vermont Cynic

The Official Student Newspaper of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College

VOL. 68 NOVEMBER 20, 1942 NO. 18

Incoming news reports from Washington bring to light another fiasco taking place in our Senate. Opponents of a bill to abolish state poll taxes have filibustered for four days against this bill designed to allow Negroes to vote in the South. A small bloc of senators from the South are endangering our entire legislative process by attempting to prevent the using of an anti-democratic process at a time when it is under its severest test.

The American public after becoming thoroughly disgusted by congressional action over the past two years rejuvenated both houses of congress by electing a large number of Republicans. After the recent election the Democrats had very slight control of both houses. If the Democrats wish to maintain this domination, and it is vitally necessary that they do so in order to keep the war program functioning in full swing, they must avoid at all costs incidents such as the one which has occurred in Washington during the past week.

Among a plurality in the election it was for all out war. No candidate advocated anything less than an all out attack, to be continued until our enemies surrender unconditionally. Many successful Republican candidates complained because we were not hitting hard enough or preparing to hit him effectively. There were evidences that the voters were voting against the generals, admirals, diplomats and mistakes of the administration. Now these first three mentioned factors are being remedied by replacement but the latter can be improved only by their houses themselves or later by the voters. If the public does it there may be a split between the legislative and executive branches, a split which would be dangerous to our war effort. Congress must try to get the confidence and support of the voters if any kind of a workable system is to be established. To obtain this confidence and support they must refrain from such shocking performances as are now being enacted.

Patriotic "Windy" Stroyman went to Rutland in quest of a position with the Marine Corps. He says he must help out Uncle Sam in ways other than buying bonds and stamps.

Carl Goodman still contends that variety is the spice of life. Becoming a real Lothario, eh, Carl?

Clifford Joseph (the last name) returned from a few days' visit in Gotham in an interview with the press, Mr. Joseph declared that New York is gradually becoming dark. However, he added, there is plenty of light emanating from "Wine, Women, and Song."

The war has certainly not affected Murray Fisher and Herb Robinson as far as studies are concerned. These two boys can nbe seen pouring over Ec. 8 in the library immediately after classes are out, text-page 12 of the Boston Herald. Professor Willis' work on the economic staff was not in vain.

Jack Goldman is putting his pre-med course to practical use. Every week-end he counts tarsals and metatarsals, being employed by one of Burlington's up and coming shoe stores.

Herb Sedlis, ex-'44, has enlisted in the U. S. Signal Corps. Shortly he will enter the corps training school in Boston which will qualify him for a tech. sergeant's rating upon satisfactory completion of the intensive course.

Bud alias The Claw Lippman is doing sentry duty in front of Kresge's every Saturday night.

Virginia Itzkowitz celebrated, or should we say inebriated his birthday recently. The house gave him a pair of boxing gloves, and now he is looking for a bag to punch.

Gus Kunken still wants to know the width of a football field at its widest point. He also desires information as to how dark it is at six-thirty a.m., since he gets up at six.

Prof. Gene Fuchs has started a Clinic, and is disseminating, with a great deal of tact, information on delicate subjects.

Robert Shapiro '44, and Stan Felsenfeld '44, have been accepted at Columbia University School of Dentistry and New York University School of Dentistry respectively, and both advise that the women of New York and Maplewood keep off the streets at night, also respectively.

Ed O'Connell's jaunt through the vaunted Middlebury line in the closing minutes of last week's game is due to take its place among the spectacular feats of gridiron history. Just ask him.

Never a quiz to let circumstance get the better of him. Buddy Pierce reached new heights in a cafeteria episode the other day. When the sugar bowl he was making off with slipped out from under his coat and crashed against the floor, Bud wheeled indignantly and shouted "Who threw that?"

Reg Hunting '42, is visiting at home this week.

It was LaPointe again that tall afternoon, and the sporting public here on the hill began to wonder if the fabulous gridiron wizard would wipe out the record hung up by Frank Taylor, considered as the greatest gridiron star in recent years at Vermont.

Keeping up his scoring spree, Ralph crashed over for two more the following week, and the Cats went on to post their first win by upsetting Mass. State, 13-6. The other half of Vermont's sensational backfield combination hit the print that week-end. Norm Beaulieu, possibly one of the greatest pigskin throwers that the sons of Ira Allen have seen in many long years, combined with LaPointe to set up an aerial attack that was to set the state crown neatly on the heads of the Cats.

Bow to Union

The Dutchmen from Union, a team that the Vermonters had hoped to trample on the basis of their 14-13 win over Middlebury, turned the tables on the lads and the Cats wound up on the short end of a 20-12 score. Between mud, rain and a bad first half, the Cats were unable to overcome the lead that the Unionites had piled up in the initial two cantos. LaPointe continued his scoring ways however, and landed himself in the center of the sporting spotlight as the east's leading college scorer.

With a much needed two week's layoff under their belts, Vermont was victory bound when they met Trinity, and the Saints succumbed, 21-14. Again it was Beaulieu and LaPointe for the Green and Gold. But Norm took the scoring duties for the afternoon, clicking on two sweeps for touchdowns, his personal tallies in addition to a line of extra points.

The game Vermont really wanted to win the most was theirs. The ruling Cards had gone from Norwich scot-free against the Cats the following week. It was one of those story book affairs that you read about, and it was Beaulieu and LaPointe that set the stage and supplied the characters. Each crashed over for a touchdown. Vermont went wild!

Panthers Beaten

Winless Middlebury was the only obstacle in the Cat's march towards the state title, and it was just one week ago on wind-swept Porter Field that the Evans' tutored gridsters repelled a first-half ground attack, and opened up a ...

... Norwich, and Middlebury.

Now it is up to one of those better-not-to-be-forgotten seasons and keep your fingers crossed in hopes that the ancient gridiron sport will not go the way of most other intercollegiate sports.

Stress Fitness At Conference

Two Vermont Coaches Attend B. U. Meeting

More men have been killed as a result of fatigue than by shell fire, Army and Navy officials and New England leaders of physical fitness cited at a conference of the Regional Training Institute of Physical Fitness, held in Boston on Nov. 9, 10, 11, at the gymnasium of Boston University. Archie Post, Director of Physical Fitness and Larry Gardner, Director of Athletics, represented the University of Vermont at the meeting.

This conference, which was part of nine such programs to be held in the nation, is designed to standardize the war time methods of physical education. Devised by civil and military authorities, this series of conventions will train key persons who will establish state institutes of physical fitness. The armed forces leaders of the conference stated that physical education has been grossly neglected at schools and universities throughout the nation, particularly so now that we are at war.

In some respects, however, the conference was a bit ironical in that those present were ones who represented colleges which had already stepped up their physical education programs. In other words leading physical educators were trying to sell an idea to other physical educators who already had established or were interested in establishing a speed-up program for physical education, and many of the people who ought to know the ideas the conference had to offer were not present.

Some colleges that have stepped up their program are now holding classes five hours a week, instead of the former two hours, and have made physical education a four-year required course. The University of Vermont, however, is one of the few colleges remaining in New England which has not stepped up its physical education program in this fashion.

The armed services are asking for physical training for the boys who are planning to go into the Army, Navy, Marines, or Air Corps, and in this connection a naval officer who may not be identified said, "We are interested only in No. 1 guys. Obviously if the high school and college kids get the proper compulsory training—if they can be manoeuvered into the gym and out onto the athletic field instead of into the juke joints and frat house lounges—they'll be a damn sight better fitted for their duties with the armed forces than is the present high school and college crop."

Harlan Fiske Stone, Chief Justice of the United States, and Joseph Clark Grew, former ambassador to Japan received honorary degrees recently at Colgate University.

Cagers Open With Hartwick

Veterans Form Neucleus Of Catamount Squad

It won't be long now. Vermont has annexed its first state football title in years, and the Catamount gridders have hung up their cleats and called it a season. Centennial Field has been boarded up for the winter, and the sports spotlight has shifted to basketball. Informal practice has been going on for a number of weeks, with the lads whipping into shape and getting their eyes on the hoop. Last Monday, Coach Fuzzy Evans took over, and during the week the squad has been working out under his watchful eye. The Cats open December 4, against Hartwick College at the Memorial Auditorium.

Fifteen men have now reported to Coach Evans. The returning veterans Captain Bob Doherty, Larry Killick, and Milt Kaufman, of last year's championship crew, form the nucleus of this year's varsity quintet. These men form the forward wall, and Fuzzy is on the lookout for two dependable guards to fill the gaps left by graduation. Men who may possibly fill the coveted spots are Reno Conti, Tommy Clairmont, Jerry Dideriex, Gil Manheim, all of whom saw yeoman service last year. Dick Grosvenor who played a couple of seasons back is also out after a starting berth.

Next week will see the arrival of four members of the football squad, after a week of welcome rest. They are Norm Beaulieu, Chick LaPointe, Red Murphy, and Mickey Cochran. If Beaulieu and LaPointe can continue their spectacular passing game on the court as they did on the football field, Vermont should be facing one of the best seasons in years.

Sherry Fogg will soon start practice sessions with additional freshman material, for the intensive Jayvee schedule which has been arranged.

Ski Squad Works Out

Cross Country Drills Condition Candidates

There's no snow in Burlington as yet and the weather of this week at least has been comparable to Spring but don't let the weather man fool you. Winter is coming and has already arrived in some portions of the state. Up in the northern section there are already three inches of snow, and there's a foot on top of Mount Mansfield, which is not so distant from our own campus. Some enthusiasts were skiing on the upper slopes in Stowe last week-end, so get out those boards and wax 'em up. You'll be using them before long.

Although there is some doubt about the season the UVM Ski Team has already been working out, getting in shape for the months of snow to come. Conditioning has been the order of the day. Several of the lads have been running Cross Country, some as members of the club and others simply to get those leg and stomach muscles into shape. They are: Ernie St. Mary, Harvey Goodell, Bud Pierce, and Bob Goss.

Other veterans of this year's squad include Brud Sutton, Captain Art Patterson, and a freshman Doug Pierce, who shows considerable promise.

The schedule of meets is as yet undecided but M. I. T. may be added to the list if conditions permit.

Automobiles Come First

Austin, Texas — (ACP) — Modern America no longer considers "food, shelter, and clothing" the three basic necessities, but revises the list to read "food, shelter and automobile."

That, at least, is the conclusion to be drawn from statistics on family expenditures in nine Texas communities surveyed by the University of Texas bureau of business research. The average Texas family spends 25 per cent of its income for food, 14 per cent for rent, and 12 per cent for car expenses. Clothing comes in fourth with nine per cent. Average expenditure for education in Texas families is approximately $100 a year. The report shows that education costs the family with an annual income of $500 or less $20 a year, but jumps to an average of $262 for families whose incomes top the $5,000 mark.

Vermont Hill and Dalers Won 3 Meets, Lost One

Union Only Setback In Dual Engagements

The final track season for the 1941-42 season and perhaps the final one for several seasons ended with a bang and win over the Middlebury Panthers last Saturday. Led by Captain Bud Heyt the Green and Gold harriers turned in another impressive season which included a won and lost record in dual meets of three and one, a sixth place spot in the New England Intercollegiates and the winning of the Vermont state championship for the ninth straight year.

Opening the season against a strong Union team the Cats absorbed their one defeat in dual competition. On the following Saturday in the only home race, Bowdoin college fell by the lopsided score of 25-30, and two weeks later it was Williams the Ephmen going down 24-31. At the intercollegiate in Boston the Vermonters landed a sixth place spot among the best of competition that New England had to offer. And followed it up by turning back Middlebury's bid for the state championship by the perfect score of 15-48.

Captain Bud Heyt led the Vermonters across the finish line in every race, and in two of the races took a first place among all the runners. At Union he came near to setting a new track record over the Schenectady hills and dales. Following him in second place was the dependable Marty McLaren, a scorer in every race. Other scoring veterans who ran well throughout the season was Len Harrington, Ernie St. Mary, Johnny Corliss, Mule Crown and Butch Earley. Three freshmen, Dick Lepper, Frank Moran and Bob Morrison, freshmen broke into the ranks of the varsity and turned in very commendable performances.

Honorable mention is due Duncan Corliss, a senior, whom Coach Post wishes to congratulate on the fine spirit he has shown. Although he never has won a letter, Corliss has appeared at every practice for four years, trying hard to improve every day.

Johnny Corliss and Marty McLaren were chosen as next years co-captains, but because McLaren is to graduate in August, Corliss will be the leader for the 1943 team. Varsity letters were awarded to Captain Bud Heyt, Marty McLaren, Ernie St. Mary, Len Harrington, Johnny Corliss, Butch Earley, Mule Crown, Dick Lepper, and Frank Moran. Bob Gilmore was elected as manager for next year, and his assistants will be Roy Dantzow and Paul Fraser.

Cincinnati, Ohio — (ACP) — With the warning "Look out, it's dangerous," Dr. Ada Hart Arlitt, University of Cincinnati authority on child psychology and family life, calls attention to pitfalls in development of America's rising generation which may result from mothers of pre-school age children flocking into war industries.

The solution, Doctor Arlitt feels, lies in establishment of adequate numbers of well-directed day nurseries with which the employed feminine "soldiers in overalls" can leave their tots while they speed Uncle Sam's war production lines.

W. A. A. Notes

The W. A. A. held a short meeting in their room at Southwick on Tuesday, November 17. Jackie McCormick was elected to the office of freshman representative.

Nina Fratcie is working overtime in the Dance Workshop to create dances for Dec. Dec. and for the exhibition in February. The thirty members of the club find that dancing is fun but a lot of work for is limping a badge of club recognition.

Three Keep Fit classes are being conducted for sophomore women during the winter term. Each period has been divided into two parts with gymnastic exercises in the first half, and training in caring for sick people in the home during the second half.

Miss Phyllis Pollard, who has trained for a nurse at the Metropolitan Hospital in New York City, will teach the Tuesday and Thursday sections.

Mrs. H. B. Small of Burlington will teach the Friday section.

There is still time for women students to sign up for the Home Nursing course to be taught by Mrs. Leo Sullivan of Burlington.

A refresher course in Home Nursing will be given to all interested girls by Phyllis Pollard in the Health Service on Tuesday evenings, beginning November 17. Please contact Miss Cummings at the Physical Education Department or Phyllis Pollard in the Health Service.

Please watch W. A. A. bulletin for further notices.

VOL. 61 BURLINGTON, VERMONT, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 25, 1942 NO. 19

For what God has given America - - - Let us be truly Thankful

THERE IS A PRAYER we would utter now—as Thanksgiving comes again to America. A prayer we live and feel and know but cannot find the countless words—the million tongues and voices to repeat.

IT COMES FROM THE CENTURIES that have molded this nation—and made her great and strong. It comes from the canyons of towering cities . . . from the echoing quiet of countless village streets . . . from the roaring tumult of industry . . . and a fisherman hauling his nets.

IT IS THE HEART OF A NATION—giving humble thanks. For blessings we cannot measure. For gifts we cannot appraise. It is a people—saying in one reverent voice: "Thank God I live in America."

IT IS A PEOPLE AWARE, as never before, of the greatness of their nation. The wealth of her resources. The riches in her lands. The strength and courage and unity of her people. A people giving thanks for a nation built from a wilderness to limitless power. To stand firm against those who would plunder and steal and enslave. And thanking a beneficent God for His gifts.

IN A WORLD, LONG SUFFERING from the barbarism and cruelty of war—we have lived in a land of peaceful sky and earth. There has been no ceaseless horror in the heavens above us. No endless devastation to lay our lands and homes in waste. No despot rules that our children shall starve and die.

WE ARE FREE. Free, in a world of prejudice and intolerance. Free to live and speak and act and work and worship as we choose. Free to elect our own leaders. Free to live by the laws of our own making. Free to decide our own destinies. For this we give thanks—and pray that God may guide us in the exercise of this freedom—that others of the earth, now slaves, may share it. That in the end—they may again be free.

AMERICA GIVES THANKS, for the men who saw with clear, unflinching eyes, the nation to be. Who fought as we fight in the cause of freedom and humanity and brotherhood. And for those who now fight—knowing that history has given few men the privilege of fighting for so great a cause.

☆ ☆ ☆ ☆ ☆

THIS THEN, IS THE GREATNESS OF AMERICA. And in our prayer of thanks—there would be the voices of all who share this nation's glory. All who now work and save and fight as one—that no power, however great, may ever be allowed to assault or plunder this freedom that is our lives.

Military Ball to Feature Presentation of Coed-Major

National Defense Theme of Dance Climaxing Thanksgiving Week-end

The Military Ball will be held in the Waterman cafeteria from 8.30 to 12.00 p.m. this week Saturday. It is one of the most popular formal dances at the University and the Champlain Sabres, the Senior military honor society, has planned a very complete evening for all.

The National Defense Theme which will pervade the whole affair will be created by the defense stamp corsages which the boys are requested to present to the girls. These corsages are to be sold by Minute Girls who are helping in the War Bond and Stamp Drive and will be on sale from a booth in the Waterman Building Friday and Saturday, November 27, and 28. The spirit of the dance depends on the cooperation of all who attend; so let's do our part for the U. S. A. and make this Military Ball a true patriotic celebration. Lay down the law girls—Defense Stamp Corsages or else—

To help promote the National Defense theme the Champlain Sabres will give a five dollar defense stamp as a door prize. The tickets, numbered as they are, will be the reference by which the prize will be given away. The newly crowned Coed Major will draw the ticket with the lucky number, and the person who has the stub with the corresponding number will receive the prize.

As is customary at the Military Ball, the results of the election will be announced and the Coed Major will be presented. Candidates for this post have been nominated by the girls of the University. These nominations list the following girls for election: Ita Casey '44, Alice Needham '43, Elizabeth Denning '43, Janet Hackwell '43, Florence Curl worth '45, Natalie Spear '43, Joan Eldredge '45, Marjorie Smith '43. The entire R. O. T. C. Battalion will elect this year's Coed Major. The result of the battalion's selection will be kept secret until the Military Ball when it will be announced.

In the past years it has been customary for the R. O. T. C. members of all classes to wear their uniforms. This year due to a shortage of uniforms and materials some of the freshmen are without complete uniforms. As the dance is formal and a tuxedo or uniform if a corporate freshmen are advised to accept graciously and borrow what they need to complete their uniforms. If you cannot be able to borrow a tuxedo someone is always willing to lend his dress clothes for a small favor.

This dance is one of the gala social affairs of the University and one of the "musts" on the social calendar. It is hoped that each will not fail to come and join the festivities. The price has been held to $1.10 per couple.

The chaperons will be Major and Mrs. J. P. Simmons of the University of Vermont and Lieut. and Mrs. Parks of Fort Ethan Allen.

Proctor Page Speaks At 4-H Club Meeting

Wednesday night, November 18, a very successful party was held at the Waterman Building for all U. V. M. 4-H'er's. Appropriate greetings and remarks were made by Proctor Page, Assistant President of the University. J. E. Carrigan, Dean of the Agricultural College, and E. L. Ingalls, State Club leader. Winston Pierce '43 was master of ceremonies.

The recreational period of dancing and games was led by Miss Dorothy Plumb and Miss Frances Staples, County Club Agents in Chittenden and Caledonia Counties respectively. This was followed by the serving of refreshments.

This social gathering gave the students an opportunity to meet the Extension Staff on the campus and other 4-H Club members. The committee in charge was Helena Anderson '43, Reginald White '43, Fred Webster '45, and Dorothy Day '46.

Bailey Debate Cup Finals Coming Up

Four Teams Remain In Forensic Contest

The semi-finals for the Bailey Cup Freshman Sophomore Debate will be held during the weeks of November thirtieth to December twelfth, with the final debate the week after. H. A. Bailey, class of '14 and charter member of Tau Kappa Alpha, honorary debating society, donated the cup to stimulate interest in debating. Contests for the cup have been held every year except two since its inception. Last year the cup was won by the affirmative team consisting of John Pelagalli and Robert Norton. The topic selected upon for the contest debates is as follows: Resolved: That the United Nations should establish a permanent Federal Union with power to use and regulate international commerce, to maintain peace, to settle international disputes and to enforce such settlements and to provide for the admission of other nations which accept the principles of the Union. At the present, after the preliminary contests, four teams remain. They are:

Team No. 1—Mel Wechsler '45 and Lowell Russell '45, Junior Bowse '46 and Mel Lane.

No. 2—Phil Johnson '46 and Foster Dale '45.

No. 3—Donald Hackel '46 and Joseph Waterman '46.

No. 4—Paul Pascal '46 and David Egloff '46.

Presenting

[illegible] Thanksgiving vote For T. Six is going to talk turkey and maybe interview you a number of campus problems with you. Here goes several solutions.

Whenever Fortie decides that he wants to meditate without either a cup of coffee and a cruller or a [illegible] in the vicinity he goes to the [illegible] room. This room is the only place in the whole campus readily available to Fortie. As he wandered through the maze of the Waterman Building he noticed a large typewritten door marked "Student Lounge." Upon turning the knob gently so as not to disturb the Student Council there was revealed to his eyes long rows of examination tables with chairs of the straight back variety. Actually no lounge like. Looking even further Fortie decided that this room was indeed ideal for the purpose which is marked on the door. The object a comfortable, convergent place for student conversation, elimination of social talk in the library, re-conversion of the cafeteria to a quiet eating spot.

The next remark does not directly concern For T. Six but rather his cousins For T. Three and For T. Four Fours, though, makes it a habit to look out for the best interests of his family, and sees to it that they take the best advantage of their opportunities. The physical education courses offered to upperclassmen are to keep them in good physical shape for the fight to come. Only about ten men will be ready for the fight from U. V. M.'s two upperclasses.

Another suggestion from this corner - Sunday night is a barren spot in the social calendar. Much clamor has been heard for more speakers to address the student body, we have the time, we have the audience, but no speakers; we can see our movies on Tuesday night.

Fortie made his trip to the Dean's office to get his marks. The results were surprising, not to say shocking: he had figured it up rather differently. Fortie then realized what was wrong. An "A" from one professor is only a "C" from another professor. It is not thoroughly impractical to ask for a standardization of marks so that an equal amount of effort in any department rates the same mark. Courses like Bunk 125½ will thereby have to stiffen their requirements.

Poll tax or no poll tax, Republican or Democrat, Fortie will go to vote tomorrow. He will try to elect those men whom he thinks will do the job best. For T. Six, being new on the campus, will also attend tonight's convocation to find out more about Student Government. Good government depends on good leaders.

Bring on the turkey!

[illegible] the [illegible] which was [illegible] on the [illegible] [illegible] sports [illegible] [illegible] is going to [illegible] [illegible] year. [illegible] and subsidy this season have dropped the [illegible] game for the duration but in the proud relief of sport once at Vermont the Catamounts will be out there in the court at least for the 42-43 season. Next year it's a question mark at capers but let's make the best of the forthcoming schedule and enjoy it to the utmost.

The Green and Gold do all appear anxious to bring what should be one of the best seasons in years. Still over from last year's club Championship crew are those whopping ball players who should make the going pretty tough for U. V. M. opponents. You know who they are of course but we'll name them just the same. Larry Killick, Capt. Bob Doherty and Milt Kaufman, all of whom will be seen plenty somewhere on floor pay.

Gone from the lineup are Big Dick Kipp and fast wing Curtiss Red White now in the armed forces and it is Coach Lenny Ewing back to fill these important positions. With all the material on hand he should not be too hard pressed to do it.

Up to the [illegible] the coaching assignments are two fresh aces to date have shown considerable promise. They are George Henderson heralded as one of the best hoopsters to emerge from Pittsfield (Mass.) High school where they really turn out some real fast teams in several seasons, and Al Johnson, lanky court artist from Newton, Mass. Other leaders in the fight for starting berths are lads who have already shown their prowess on the U. V. M. boards. Small but lightning fast Rene Conti, smooth working Tommy Clairmont hawk-eyed Jerry Dulinsky and Cal Matheson, plus tall Dick Grosvenor who played ball two years ago and is making a comeback.

In addition to this fund of talent several football men reported yesterday to make Fuzz a very happy coach. Ralph LaPointe recently dubbed "Lobo" (The Wolf) by local sports scribes, has added his presence to the squad and when Norm Beaudoin joins the team in a few days Coach Evans' ecstacy should be complete. Both of these gridiron standouts have proved their worth on the court in high school and as freshman hoopsters and should add greatly to the effectiveness of the Cats. Don Murphy and Mickey Cochran have also reported and will boost reserve power no end.

Cherry Hogg has been holding nightly sessions with a large squad of freshmen and sophomore Junior hopefuls whipping the youngsters into shape as future Varsity material. A number of them have shown considerable promise and if they continue to improve may be slotted to the varsity to fill the quota of fifteen men.

The Green and Gold combine swings into high gear on the night of December 4 under the Memorial Fieldhouse lights against a strong Hartwick College aggregation. It's the start of a great season, so enjoy it. It may be the last.

Juniors and seniors may sign up for the special Gym classes for upperclassmen now. Sign-up sheets are in the Gym office. Members of the faculty may also sign up for the faculty classes.

At a recent meeting of the University Council it was voted that the dates of the Christmas vacation be those originally announced in the catalogue. The vacation will start following the close of classes Saturday, December 19, and students will report for classes at the regular hours Monday, January 4.

It is probable that the hours of meeting classes on Saturday, December 19, will be changed. Definite times will be announced later.

Stan Pike '42 visited at the house over the week-end. He is now a Naval Air Corps cadet.

Bob Stockwell '43, spent the week-end in Boston.

George "Pottsy" Little '43, announced his intentions of going out for the Delta Psi basketball team. He will train on Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Squid Hess and Howie Bryden have made plans for the Delts' informal dance. The "Collegians" from Barre are going to furnish the music.

Trio of Returning Regulars Forms Basketball Backbone

Killick, Senior Pair To Bolster Quintet

Leading this year's squad of Cat cagers, when they take the floor against Hartwick, ten days hence, will be three veterans, Capt. Bob Doherty, Milt Kaufman, and Larry Killick who if past records mean anything, should be the bright spots of another successful season.

Captain Doherty is a senior hailing from Meriden, Conn. Entering Vermont in 1939, he immediately made himself known in the athletic world with a stellar year as a freshman, being elected honorary captain at the close of the season. During the 1941 season Bob alternated at the forward position on the Varsity, and won his first letter. Coach Evans changed him over into the guard slot last year, and from this position his eagle eye made him the second highest scorer on the club. For this coming season it is possible that Bob may be called upon to move up into the center position.

Doherty has starred in many games during his three-year career, but two stand out among the rest. The first was his performance against Middlebury during his sophomore year when he scored twenty points to lead both teams in scoring and bring the state championship to Burlington, and the second was the game with powerful Rochester last year. Rochester was well on the way towards an undefeated season when they arrived in Burlington late in February and on the Vermont hardwood, due mostly to the efforts of Doherty and Kipp 42, they nearly lost it. The Green and Gold were within four points of winning, with Doherty and Kipp on a scoring spree. At this crucial moment however, both were called out on fouls and Rochester won the game.

The other two members of the veteran trio comprise the forward line of the Cats quintet. Milt Kaufman, a senior from Mountainsdale, N. Y. and Larry Killick a Burlington product now in his junior year. Both men were the regular starting forwards last year.

Milt Kaufman, although he reached the scoring column only twice to any extent last season scoring twelve points against Hamilton and eleven against Middlebury, was a terror on the defense, keeping the opponents in a severe state of jitters. His footwork was always fast and he had an uncanny ability for setting up plays. In short, he is a team player, helping his teammates and the team to victory.

Larry Killick was last year's leading scorer, and a member of the Vermont all state team. Averaging about thirteen points per game, he led the scorers in nearly every game. He began his career with B. H. S. where he made the Vermont high school all state team in his senior year and one year at Kimball Union Academy saw his playing improve a great deal. As a freshman he led the team in scoring and was elected honorary captain for the 1941 edition of the Vermont Kittens. In his sophomore year he stepped right into a varsity berth, started the opening game, and gave notice of things to come by scoring nine points for the nine minutes that he played.

As things stand now, it appears that these boys will be backed by those famous football stars, the Gold Dust twins, Ralph LaPointe and Norm Beaudoin in the other two open positions. These two added to an experienced squad of reserves should have another banner year, with a state championship flying at Vermont for the fifth straight year.

Walt Maurer Heads Quix Initiation

The Classical Club held a meeting for initiation of members Tuesday, November 17, at Southwick. According to the new rule, caused by the recent change in college curricula, membership is now open to those who have successfully completed a course in Latin I instead of the previous requirement of two years of college Latin.

The new initiates are Virginia Close '43, Catherine Walker '43, Anna Capen '45, Mary Harmon '45, and Marie Rolleri, '45. Initiation consisted of a quiz contest conducted by Walter Maurer, the president.

Following initiation a regular meeting was held during which Walter Maurer gave a resume of the life of Lucien, the Greek writer. Various members then read selections of Lucien's dialogues.

At the next meeting of the Classical Club a play will be presented. The public is invited.

Outing Clubers On 12 Mile Hike

Brownell Mountain, a little brook, somebody's cow and a gang of about 10 adventuresome U. V. M.-sters—put them all together and you get last Sunday's Outing Club Hike. The trip, estimated as the longest one yet, covered about 12 miles in all. Everyone brought his own lunch, and a grand time was had by all.

George Moody had the misfortune to fall in the brook! (He hasn't said whether he was goose-stepping or just stubbed his toe . . .) He is in the pink of condition now.

The Club is planning on an equally good time this coming week and hope more people will come.

Book Reviews

Once again the Billings Library has a fine selection of books to add to its collection. The four chosen for mention here are but a few of the fascinating acquisitions of the library. If you find appeal in the books reviewed here, why not come in and inspect more of these interesting purchases?

A Full Length Portrait

By Hesketh Pearson

Many books have been written about Shaw but the majority of them have been either critical or expository. Many have treated George Bernard Shaw as a playwright as a philosopher, or as a critic. This book does none of these things. In this work, Shaw is treated as a great personality. Here the interest is in the man himself. The author has made a vigorous attempt to "Boswellize" Shaw. The effort is a success.

Napoleon's Invasion of Russia

By Ernest Tarle

This book presents, for the first time, the complete story of Napoleon's invasion of Russia in 1812—and incidentally, offers some remarkable parallels to Hitler's invasion in 1941. There are portraits of dauntless guerillas, some of them women, who made life miserable for the Grand Army. There are vivid accounts of Napoleon, Murat, Davout, Alexander I, and Kutuzov. The accounts of the burning of Smolensk, the desperate battle of Borodino, and the conflagration of Moscow are especially startling.

The Book from Manuscript to Market

By Lucien C. Wilkins

Here is the story of the manner in which a book is made, of the changes and processes which represent the transition from the pen of the writer to the book in the reader's hand. We see the paper mills and forests which combine to form the exhilarating and book manufacturing businesses. We see the processes of paper making, of printing, of binding, and of contracts, of the relations between author and publisher.

To those who love books and those who love to them, this book will be welcome.

Sam Adams, Pioneer in Propaganda

By John C. Miller

Mr. Miller paints a portrait of Sam Adams as a patriot who was more responsible for American unity as often by real events as by the open rebellion of the Committees of Correspondence and other political devices. To this propagandist, Mr. Miller traces the influence which culminated in the Boston Tea Party, the Boston Massacre, and the revolt of the Sons of Liberty. The work is illuminating and will be read as the pattern for just such criticism of the personality of the propagandist.

Don Nutter and "Mouth" Pulleyn Give Unique Show at Phi Delt Informal

New "Spirit" Invades Gave Delta Psi Dance

Many of the fraternities on the Hill brightened Thanksgiving eve by giving informal dances, at the respective houses.

Phi Delta Theta had a unique presentation during intermission, when Don Nutter and Bob Pulleyn gave a lively demonstration of Kake Walk. Prof. and Mrs. Ladd were chaperones for the dance.

The nativity of a new spirit arose Thanksgiving eve in the Delta Psi house. The Barre Collegians furnished the music, as the Delts tripped the light fantastic in a gayly decorated ballroom.

The TEP house was also the scene of gala Thanksgiving celebration, with twenty couples attending the "Vic" dance. Len Kunken and Seymour Davidoff were in charge of the dance, and Prof. and Mrs. Doane were chaperones.

Decorated with its new drapes, the Phi Sig house in the person of 30 couples ushered in Thanksgiving by an informal dance. Prof. and Mrs. Newton were chaperones. Newton Goldman and Novy Seltzer were in charge.

Vacationers

The Rutland Railroad has asked us to let them know the approximate number of students who will use the railroad facilities in order to get home during the Christmas vacation, and without doubt the bus lines and Central Vermont Railroad would appreciate simiar information. Students, both in the three Academic Colleges and in the College of Medicine, who plan to use public methods of transportation must report to the Office of their Dean, giving the time and mode of travel home. To be of use this must be done before Wednesday evening, December 2.

This information must be given in writing on cards provided by the Deans' Offices. The cards will be ready for distribution after Tuesday noon, December 1.

Christmas Concert Sunday, Dec. 13

The sixteenth annual Christmas Concert will be given at the Ira Allen Chapel, December 13, Sunday at four o'clock.

This year the highlight of the concert will be "Christmas Cantata" written especially for the University choir and University orchestra by Dr. Richard Stoehr of St. Michael's College. It was written for small orchestra, chorus and instrumental and vocal soloists.

Other parts of the concert will be taken from Bach's Christmas Oratorio, Handel's Messiah and well-known Christmas carols.

Professor Howard G. Bennett will direct the chorus and orchestra. Mr. Michael Anselmo will be the concert master, and Miss Miriam Marston, the organist.

Graduate Club to Meet

The club meets on Thursday, December 3, in the north lounge at Southwick at 8 o'clock. Doctor Robe will speak on the subject "Austria Between Two Wars."

President Millis will speak in Chapel, Wednesday, December 2.

Muriel J. Hughes To Publish Book

Muriel J. Hughes, instructor of English, has a new book nearly ready for release by the Kings Crown Press of Columbia University. Miss Hughes has chosen a pertinent subject and her book, Women Healers In Medieval Life and Literature, shows that women in medicine are by no means a modern innovation.

From the days of the Abbess Hildegarde and earlier, women have been identified with the therapeutics—healing as physicians, as midwives, as nurses and as "old wives," old women versed in herbal lore. As early as the thirteenth century there is a record of a trial for malpractice in which a woman was the defendant.

Miss Hughes makes three divisions of her book, which she wrote in connection with her doctor's degree at Columbia University last year. She speaks of it as one third medical, one third historical, and one third relating to women healers, in medieval literature.

Library Receives 140 Rare Volumes

Include Editions Of Religious Note

A gift of 140 rare Latin, French and Italian books has been received by Billings library from the Rev. Vincent Ravi-Booth, D.D., of Bennington. The books, which are being catalogued as a special collection, are from the private library of Doctor Ravi-Booth's father, the late S. V. Ravi, of Rome, Italy, and consist primarily of titles on controversial religious subjects of the 16th, 17th and 18th centuries, the earliest being a copy of D. Joan Chrysostomi, In Sanctum Jesu Christi Evangelium, Parisis, 1543.

According to the library officials, the collection includes some interesting editions on Jansenism, Calvinism, the history of the Spanish Inquisition and several Latin Ecclesiastical histories dealing with the Church at Rome and her various controversies through the centuries. There are also editions of the classics, representative of the most noted European printers of those eras. A good example of the Elzever firm is Joannis Dallaei, De Imaginibus, Ex Officina Elzeviriana, 1642.

In a letter to Miss Helen P. Sheffield, head librarian at the Billings library, Doctor Ravi-Booth states, "My father was the founder of the first Protestant Church in Rome, established two years after Rome became the capital of united Italy, i.e., 1872 . . . During the many years he lived in Rome he prowled around second hand book stores, never missing a chance to buy an ancient book. Some of his books he bought from the library of Cardinal Barberini when it was sold at auction."

Vt. and Midd. Delegates Meet At Univ. of Hawaii

Mr. C. T. Bailey, class of '08, represented U. V. M. at the inauguration of President Sinclair of the University of Hawaii on October 21. Before marching to the amphitheater the delegates were lined up in two, and when Mr. Bailey's partner failed to show up, another man was assigned to replace him. Surprisingly, this man turned out to be Dean Storrs Lee, representing Middlebury College, and out of fifty or more couples, purely by accident, the delegates representing the two Vermont institutions walked and sat together.

There will be another Gold Key smoker soon. Watch for the date.

The Dept. of Music Offers Selections

Numerous Christmas Recordings Available

Down at 20 Williams street every day afternoon a group of students have been getting together for the sole purpose of listening to an entire work without interruption. They have used the records from the Carnegie collection and from the Department of Music collection.

Next Friday they will be listening to the Christmas part of Handel's Messiah. There is room for anyone else who wishes to listen. The special music hour is from 4.10 to 5.10. Although quiet is requested during the hour anyone may come and go when he pleases.

The Carnegie listening set has been repaired and is available from two to five every afternoon except Saturdays when it is available from nine to twelve and Monday and Friday evenings from seven to nine.

For a patent [illegible] for it takes a [illegible] to [illegible] a [illegible] to cure things around the campus. Fortie Six [illegible] its scars on the head. Just being a freshman he bit has thumb [illegible].

Since a year ago a great change, a great improvement rose up on one [illegible] campus. The great [illegible] from Coffee Corner and engineering building began, and the Waterman Memorial became the center of our activities and not activities. We wandered through halls reeking with odors of fresh paint, peeked into row upon row of empty, unfurnished [illegible] and heard the hollow cough of the University coffers. We wondered "Has the University received a white elephant?"

We know now it is a horse of another color. We sang songs sitting on the floor of the Student lounge. We moved what furniture that could be salvaged up from room to room, so everyone in the class could sleep comfortably. In the cafeteria examination tables lost their grimmer aspects when covered with oil cloth and couch's elbows.

We have watched this happen gradually—continued steady improvement. So when a freshman asks for love seats in the student lounge, our reaction is, "What do you want—egg in your beer?"

Time And House-Mothers Wait For No Man

Old Father Time has taken quite a beating around here lately. War time has fixed it so we're in the dark when we slapped down the alarm clock. So the University Council has put one over on the old man by making up a half hour ahead of ourselves. All of which has reason behind it but [illegible].

But in the meantime there are certain discrepancies. The library gets up early as usual and quits early. Maybe they'll be healthy and wealthy, but we students will never get wise at this rate. Not unless the powers that be get wise and synchronize the library with the rest of the campus.

Also the women. They get a much-needed half-hour beauty sleep in the morning, but no time in which to take advantage of it at night. With morning classes ending at the afternoon and afternoon classes encroaching upon the evening, a girl has to be a track star to have a decent social evening. Some simple ruling such as setting all house mother's clocks back a half hour would help a lot.

[illegible]

Last Sunday evening from 6 to 10 o'clock about 100 people enjoyed themselves immensely and at [illegible]. I was [illegible] apparent to be having a look at a good time at very little outlay for entertainment and started passing [illegible] around the [illegible] were there. I even ate at three [illegible] and I just wanted to say a word about who was there and why and what a success the whole affair seemed to turn out to be.

Not long ago as a student Government board meeting the problem of bringing students and teachers into a closer and "friendlier" relationship was discussed and it was decided that one solution of the problem would be to have an "open house" supper somewhere to which every one on campus would be welcome. Staff and Sandal women's [illegible] honorary society thought of a similar scheme at just about the same time. Well, with the go ahead signal from the Student Government, Staff and Sandal organized the initial "experiment" in making the suggested idea a reality and the Sunday night affair was the outcome. For the first occasion it was deemed advisable to send out special invitations. About fifteen members of the faculty representing the various departments, were present and about thirty five students, representing the Independents and certain organizations as well as the fraternities and sororities on the hill.

In an informal buffet style everyone partook of the plentiful and attractive sandwiches, tasty popcorn, fruit punch, and apples which Staff and Sandal so generously supplied. A small fee of fifteen cents was paid by everyone at the door.

It seems to me that this served as an ideal method both to know your own instructors better as "real human beings" and to make the acquaintance of professors whom you will never have in your particular courses. There were many little groups scattered about the room but the members of them were constantly changing. Everyone felt free to "circulate." In a number of cases some students met fellow students whom they had not known before. All sorts of topics were discussed. Professor Long was at one time in a group which included President Mellis in a confab over the second front. Prof. Aiken was noting the number of students who were polishing the apple chronically. Proctor Page was here, there and everywhere. Brad Fulton was telling an interested group about the Outing Club plans for the coming week end and another bunch was discussing the disastrous Boston fire. And so it went. Members of Staff and Sandal were everywhere at the right time helping with the serving, introducing people to each other etc.

Well there's probably an article about it elsewhere in the Cynic and I don't want to steal some reporter's thunder, but I just wanted to say that the thing looks like a swell idea and I hope it's continued. A lot of credit certainly ought to go to the co-chairmen, Priscilla Perkins and Iola Fletcher and to the other members of Staff and Sandal who put it over with such splendid success.

Yours truly,
JOHN CORLISS '44

Fraternity Notes

PHI DELTA THETA

This is social week. Strictly private.

Richard "the Chief" Flynn hung his pin.

Louis Bates Codding III lost his pin but the brothers are in doubt about it.

The informal dance had royal entertainment with D. J. Nutter cake-walking during intermission.

"Smiley" Benoit predicts a white Christmas.

Jack Williams is glad that the Pi Phis noticed his new car.

Link Bailey is expected back for "social week."

"Pop" Nutter just returned from the marriage of his daughter in New York City. It might also be added that his stud zoot suit was the rage of the party.

SIGMA NU

Due to increasing demand for conservation of resources, West and Bloomer are selling stock on a "rendering company" to be functioning on the third floor of the Lodge. They seem to have worked out a scheme for obtaining a large output from a "small investment." All contributions are gratefully received. Those with large dogs may contact "the boys" for information or compensation.

The Marzari-La Gray controversy was finally settled over the railing at the Tri Delt House.

Corbosiero has a car??

There has been much mystery over Delano's hurried trip to the President's office. We feel that perhaps the President was concerned over Red's failure to land a position. The mystery was increased when Red returned with a smile on his face.

Sigma Phi

"Chuck" Warner '46, spent another profitable week-end entertaining another headmaster at his former prep school. But the headmaster was not all he "entertained!"

"Available" Sam Vail '45, is available now only to Uncle Sam. P.S. He's 1-A.

Louie Hanson '45 and Joe Allen '44, wish to report that all is quiet on the Eastern front.

"Rube" Lawrence '45 has decided that he can be more valuable to the United States war effort than to college work. He has enlisted in the army and leaves December 3 for induction. "Rube" expects to be commissioned by coming

Four Teams Bowl On Interfrat Alleys

On Tuesday December 1, the interfraternity bowling league will pry off the lid when the ATO's meet the RDT's and SAE's oppose PSD's. Much interest, as in years past has been shown as each fraternity team has been practicing, either individually, or as a unit, conditioning themselves for the opening game.

The Sigma Nu's winners of last year's league, promise to display plenty of rolling power again this season. However, they will have to compete against some top flight teams that have developed since the last season.

The PSD's runner ups last year, will be out gunning for the coveted first place, which they nearly had within their grasp last year.

Again this year, the league will be run in round robin affair, with each team playing every other team at least twice during the season.

"Pop" Brooks, custodian of the alleys and a great friend of all who enter the portals of his realm, has announced that he expects a bigger and better season, lots of upsets, with many of the so called obscure bowlers, knocking off the top flighters.

A final word of caution, must be given to all those bowling this year. The foul line rule will be strictly enforced, a judge will be on hand to check this violation and any member not adhering to the rule, will be penalized. Let's try and observe the foul line!

La Pointe Takes Bride

Beaulieu Best Man At Star's Wedding

Ralph LaPointe, Chick to U. V. M. sports fans, took time out from basketball practice last Thanksgiving morning, to take himself a wife. Miss Cathryn Vila Maroney was wed to the Vermont athlete at the St. Stephen's rectory in Winooski with the Rev. John B. McGarry performing the single ring ceremony. The couple are both from Winooski and it was the culmination of a long romance. Of course it was only fitting that Chick's best man should be Norm Beaulieu, his running mate on this year's Catamount, State Championship football team.

Both bride and bridegroom are graduates of Winooski High School, class of 1940. Mrs. LaPointe is also a graduate of Burlington Business College.

After completing a brilliant athletic career at the school across the river, Chick betook himself to Vermont Junior College where he was a standout in three major sports: football basketball and baseball. He led the Blue and White to one of its most successful years in history especially on the gridiron, although he had never played eleven man football before in his life. Teaming up with Jim Fabiano, a Massachusetts lad, he showed some of the pass catching ability which was to later make him one of the best gridders in the East. Ralph also was a baseball wizard taking care of the V. J. C. hot corner with ease and slapping the apple out of the park all season.

As a freshman here at Vermont, Chick continued his winning ways. He was on all the frosh squads and led the Kittens to the winning of the State pigskin crown. During the summer he played summer baseball in Maine and several big-league scouts are looking his way as a good prospect after graduation.

This year Chick really came into his own as one of the athletic greats of U. V. M. His running, coupled with the bullseye passing of Norm Beaulieu, paced the slow starting Cats to the state crown and the unbelievable upsetting of the arrogant Norwich football steamroller. Lobo, as he has been called because of his twisting, wolf-like run, amassed a grand total of 67 points during the year to become one of the highest scoring backs in the entire country. He is also expected to be one of the mainstays of the forthcoming basketball quintet, which opens this Friday against Hartwick College.

After the nuptial ceremony a dinner for the bridal party was served at the home of the bride's parents. The couple will make their home at 109 Main Street, Burlington.

Evans Drills Conti In Forward's Place

The [illegible] squad of Vermont's [illegible] are [illegible] great things from [illegible] eager squad this season, but [illegible] how the Cats will [illegible] their [illegible] against Hartwick Friday night is [illegible] problem.

[illegible] Killick [illegible] practice [illegible] and [illegible] passer [illegible] be able to go. [illegible] have been out the past week with [illegible] troubles, but may not be fit [illegible] of the tough opening [illegible] team.

[illegible] the Lads [illegible] to work out as a team. Their passing attack is ragged and the scoring plays have not been clicking smoothly. All this together with Killick's possible absence [illegible] a not too rosy picture.

Just what Hartwick has cooked up in the way of fancy court work remains a mystery. The invaders will be sporting a new coach.

It looks at this point as though Rene "Little Man" Conti would get the call to team up with Milt Kaufman at the forward slot if Killick stays on the bench. The former Spaulding High School performer has played a lot of ball in pre-season practice sessions, and is also a hold over from last year.

Capt Bob Doherty and Milt Kaufman will be the only two seniors appearing with the Cats Friday. Doherty with three seasons of sensational play behind him will be set to start on a scoring spree such as he fleeted in last winter as a converted eagle-eyed guard.

Teaming with Lou at the other guard spot will be Ralph LaPointe, most recently given honorable All-American rating by the Boston Post.

LaPointe produced plenty of top rate ball playing with the Frosh last winter, and in addition, was a standout at Vermont Junior College two seasons ago. Chick's flashy play should add plenty to the potential scoring power of the Evansmen.

Norm Beaulieu will round out the Vermont five, taking over the center spot. Norm has had plenty of experience on the basketball floor having played with the state championship Spaulding High School some seasons back, and donning the freshman colors last winter.

On the sidelines, but ready for plenty of action will be experienced Tom Clairmont, a varsity member of last year and a former Burlington High School court star. Also up from last season's varsity will be Gil Manheim, and Jerry Didinsky.

A couple of freshmen have also been added to Evans' not-to-be forgotten list. George Henderson, a ball handler out of Pittsfield, Mass., was rated as one of the best ever to emerge from the school, and another Bay State lad, Al Johnson had fair to develop into two of the Cats most promising dribblers.

Announce Changes In Cage Schedule

With Trinity definitely out of the picture, Vermont's athletic directors were today looking [illegible] to fill in January 29. Negotiations between Arnold College and Vermont are in progress now, but as [illegible] official announcement is to the former's publication no definite [illegible] has been made.

In addition to Evans, Brandon College has dropped its engagement with the Cats.

President Millis Speaks On Faith

"Faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen" (Hebr. 11-1) was the topic of President Millis' speech in the chapel last Wednesday morning. One hundred and thirty-four persons and the choir heard him say that there is faith in physics, social science, and democracy as well as in religion. Said President Millis, "The sons of our Alma Mater who are dying for democracy are evidence of our faith in democracy."

"Hark, Now, O Shepherds," a Moravian Melody, was the choral anthem. The audience joined in singing "Faith of Our Fathers" and in reading together the responsive reading "The Source of Wisdom and Knowledge." Miss Natalie Marston rendered appropriate organ music.

Intrepid Hikers Brave Mansfield

Outing Club Members Smother Forest Fire

Several hardy members of the Outing Club braved the blizzards of Mt. Mansfield last Sunday. The party visited the Cave of Winds and proceeded from there to Taft Lodge, where, after much difficulty, they finally succeeded in building a fire. After sitting around the fire and singing for some time, they left the lodge in the afternoon and started back, taking the route over the highest point of Mt. Mansfield. Darkness, heavy snow, and a terrific wind caused the hikers to miss Sunset Ridge, their intended trail. Finally arriving at Stevens Trail, one of the members caught sight of a glow in the distance. The glow turned out to be a tree whose top had caught on fire, spreading flame to nearby brush. While the boys chopped off the top part of the burning tree, the girls put out the smaller fires with snow. After reporting the incident to the local fire warden, the group continued their journey down the trail, returning home quite late.

Convocation to Mark Pearl Harbor Tragedy

December 7, the first anniversary of Pearl Harbor, will be marked on the University campus by a special convocation at 10.30 in the morning. The hour program on that day will begin at 7.30 a.m. as it does regularly on Wednesdays.

The program which will be held in the Chapel will mark the observance of our first year of war both as a nation and as a University. It is expected that the University service flag, being made by the Home Economics Club, will be on display for the first time.

All members of the R. O. T. C. unit will be in uniform on December 7 and will be expected to attend the convocation in a body. The Color Guard unit will take part in the program, as well as the University Choir. A brief address is to be made by the President.

The meeting of the women of the faculty which was to be held Friday evening, December 4, has been postponed to Thursday evening, December 10, so that those who wish to attend the Community Concert will be able to do so.

First In Series of Suppers Great Success

Last Sunday evening, the first in a hoped-for series of faculty-student suppers was held at Southwick. Sponsored by Staff and Sandal and headed by Pussy Perkins and Julia Fletcher, the supper turned out to be a grand success.

Many of the University's celebrities, including President Millis, Dean Swift, Dean Simpson, and professors from each of the colleges, were present. They mingled informally with the students, chatting about current events, the weather, and apple polishing.

For this first supper, invitations were sent out for representatives from each sorority, fraternity, and the Independents. However, a general invitation to all students will be extended for the next supper which is planned for Sunday, January 10, 1943, again under the direction of Staff and Sandal.

This is certainly a wonderful chance for all students to become better acquainted with the University's directors, professors, and instructors, besides having a good time (It's really possible, just ask John Corliss or any of the others who were present last Sunday). This may be the long-awaited solution to the problem of promoting better relationships between the faculty and students here at U. V. M.

The supper is strictly informal, so, boys why not drop in with your dates on your way to the movies Sunday evening. There will be plenty of time to make the first show as the supper is from 5 to 6. Hope to see you at the next supper—will I?

U. V. M. Debates Bates and Plymouth

Jake Katz and Phil Robinson represent the U. V. M. debating team at Plymouth Teachers College in New Hampshire and at Bates College in Maine.

At Bates the Vermonters will face one of America's best college teams. Vermont will take the negative of the question: "Resolved: That England [illegible] at once guarantee complete independence to India, fully effective not later than 10 years after the close of the present war—Allied victory assumed."

On December 10, representatives of the debating team will go to Boston and on December 17 a group will go to New York.

There will be meeting of Staff and Sandal next Thursday, December 10, 8.00 p.m., at Southwick.

Five Men, Two Women Have Excellent Marks

[illegible] members of the senior class [illegible] two girls last Wednesday [illegible] the enviable honor of being elected to the Vermont Alpha Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. The elections were made on the basis of excellence in scholarship throughout [illegible] college course and in both general character the new members being H. Nelson Browne, Jr., G.S.; Llewellyn M. Jones, G.S.; Helen M. McLean, C.T.; Russell Marshall, E.E.; William A. Pierce, L.S.; Mrs. Faith K. Prior, H.Ec.; and Oliver F. Swift, G.S.

The fact that they attained their position during the fall of the year constitutes a distinct honor in itself since a higher average is required than for membership in the spring.

All seven have been outstanding students throughout their four years in one way or another and definite assets to college life. Browne is affiliated with Lambda Iota fraternity and has been active in interfraternity athletics as well as a constant upholder of the Dean's list.

Jones of Swanton is a member of Sigma Nu, has put in valuable time on the Cynic staff and as a member of U. C. A., Le Cercle Francais, A. R. C. and other clubs. Freshman camp director his sophomore year and S. C. M. Regional Delegate.

Marshall, who comes from Adams Mass., has been an active member of the electrical engineers elected vice president by the club his junior year.

Pierce of Londonville is a member of Gold Key his sophomore year, is connected with various clubs, among them Le Cercle Francais and John Dewey Club, has been promoted to position of business manager of the Cynic staff and achieved the Howard Freshman host prize.

Swift, a native of Burlington, is a member of Delta Psi fraternity, was assistant manager of track his junior year and has been particularly active in the musical organizations, namely R. O. T. C. Band and University Orchestra.

Both girls are members of Alpha Chi Omega sorority. Miss McLean of Johnson being a staunch supporter of the W. A. A. besides showing scholastic prowess. She is treasurer of W. A. A. Council and a member of All Sports Club, honorary women athletic society and active in Y. W. C. A.

Miss Prior of Vergennes transferred from Pratt Institute at the end of her freshman year and is an active member of Newman Club and Home Economics Club, as well as President of Blanchard's, women's honorary literary society and Omicron Nu honorary Home Economics Society.

The group will be initiated on Tuesday, December 8 following which there will be a banquet in their honor.

At a public meeting following the dinner President Theodore A. Distler of Middlebury College will speak on "Barriers." All who are interested are cordially invited to be present for this address.

Sorority Girls Hold Big Dance Saturday

All the sororities on the hill together with their pledges will join in the annual Intersorority Dance Saturday night, December 5. Sponsored by Pan-Hellenic the dance is under the direction of Jean Blume '43, chairman, "Dee" Welsh '43, Esther Gustafson '44 and "Margo" Benoit '43.

[illegible] case of inclement weather the [illegible] will be held [illegible] from Fort Ethan Allen. Chaperones for the affair will be Prof. and Mrs. Leonard Prof. and Mrs. Carpenter and Miss Mary Jean Simpson. This dance, which will be strictly informal [illegible] in the cafeteria from 8:30 to 12:00 [illegible].

Canterbury Club To Organize This Sunday

Canterbury Club, the College group for Episcopal students, will meet next Sunday, December 6, at 7:30 p.m. in the Parish House. A short meeting will be held following Church at which time the business meeting at which the election of officers will take place. Other matters of organization will be discussed along with a service project which the group hopes to begin, soon. All Episcopal students and any other who are interested are cordially invited to attend.

Training as volunteer nurses' aides is open to University of Michigan women students in a new course.

Lee-ones George Little and Sam Otis are grateful for poor service. Because of it, they had left the Coconut Grove at nine thirty pm just a half hour before the fire.

John Baxendale has repaired the part of the House that fell apart the other night. He was ably assisted by Fred Boardman, the "Flying Tiger."

The celebration at the Delt House after Military Ball is quite a fine affair.

Former Senator George E. "Spook" Little took his place among the greats of the nation—Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln—when he was inaugurated as new president of Delta Psi on Monday, November 30. Little thus fulfilled the expectations and hopes which his parents have always held for him, and also proved that old Americanism "Anyone can become president." The oath of office was administered by Chief Justice Frank R. Scott assisted by Associate Justices Corse and Egan.

Pledge Bill Worthen had a difficult time locating a spot in which to sleep in the hall among followers the informal last Wednesday. Bathtubs flew when he was carried from several proclaimed tragedies.

Foundation Favors War-time Debate By Announcing Radio Prize Contest

By William F. Pierce

[illegible] annual presentation of [illegible] an opportunity for [illegible] of the [illegible] to [illegible] the [illegible] Foundation [illegible] the [illegible] Foundation supports the contest [illegible] because [illegible] seem [illegible] [illegible] this [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] debating worthwhile [illegible] war. In this question the American Economic Foundation gives an emphatic affirmative reply by announcing its annual National Intercollegiate Radio Prize Debate.

In the colleges the war has brought changes that have altered profoundly the academic atmosphere. Long summer vacations are no more. The festivities of Commencement week have disappeared and organized amusements have been retired to the background. The period of student residence has been shortened by a third. Courses, more concentrated in subject matter, impose a heavier schedule on the student. Hard work and intensive preparation for patriotic service are the rule.

War demands of all, student and citizen alike, discipline, prompt obedience to official authority, instant action without deliberation or discussion. But the colleges are training the leaders of tomorrow's world and the young men and women in them should and must develop the ability to think clearly and constructively. Vitally important for the nation is it that its college-bred citizens gain sound ideas about public problems and express them with a cogency that carries conviction. For such training public speaking in debate is the best and most effective instrument and every college program should include it.

In the judgment of the American Economic Foundation the question selected for this year's debate is of supreme importance. Vast economic and industrial changes have been made for the war and a tremendous economic and industrial readjustment must follow the peace. In this post war period the youth of today will be building his or her career. No one else has a stake of such overwhelming importance in that coming time of peace as the young man and young woman in college halls today. What are their future opportunities to be? Under what economic system will their life's success be best built up? To be specific—"SHOULD AMERICAN YOUTH SUPPORT THE RE-ESTABLISHMENT AFTER THE WAR OF COMPETITIVE ENTERPRISE AS OUR DOMINANT ECONOMIC SYSTEM?" That is the question selected for this year's debate.

Frat Bowlers Open Tourney

Favored Squads Win In First Round Play

The interfraternity maple spillers launched forth on the first edition of the 1942-43 season, Tuesday, with pre-game favorites starting the season successfully.

A steady A T O team, led by Bob Bennet, downed a comparatively weak Phi Delt team, 6 to 1.

In an afternoon encounter, Phi Sigma Delta shut out the S A E's, 7 to 0.

The T E P's found a little satisfaction in drubbing the Kappa Sigs, 7 to 0, who beat them in interfraternity football finals this year.

A favored, Sigma Nu outfit continued its winning ways of last year in shellacking a pitifully weak Owl five, 7 to 0. As expected the champs showed plenty of form and they promise to make it a real battle for this year's laurels.

The Independents fell victims to Delta Psi, dropping a 6 to 1 decision to the boys from Summit Street.

The Faculty got off to a good start but slumped considerably in the waning frames, and a powerful Sigma Phi aggregation bounced through to win 7-0.

Incidentally, Phil Robinson stepped out of his rôle as sports writer last night, and turned in the high single and doubles score for the league so far.

A new Faculty league rolls them down the alley Monday night. So far four teams of five men each have been formed. If anyone else is interested in entering the league, please contact "Sherry" Fogg.

Catamount Harrier In Marathon Run

Friends and fans of Bud Hoyt, captain of the 1942 edition of the Green and Gold harriers, will be interested to hear that the blond speedster of the hills and dales is turning into a creditable marathon runner. He began his first practice session last Saturday by running home to Milton for the week-end, a distance of about 18 miles. Bud clocked an unofficial time of two hours and fifty minutes, which is miraculous going considering this was his first crack at a long distance. He wore the regulation track suit for his jaunt, and other than being very tired and a little sore he finished without injury.

Pres. Homer P. Rainey of the University of Texas is touring cancer hospitals of the East and Midwest to obtain information for a state cancer research project.

Green Mountain Postpones Contest with Jayvee Five

Opener Delayed, Fogg Continues Preparations

The Vermont Jayvees first tilt of the season, a prelim against Green Mountain Junior College, scheduled for tonight, has been cancelled. Coach Jack Hefferman, of the Greenies has been ailing of late and felt unable to bring his lads to town for the encounter. Despite this disappointing news Sherry Fogg's group of hoopsters have been working out steadily this week in preparation for the next contest a bit later on in the season.

Sherry has cut his squad down to twenty men, after two weeks of looking over the prospects. Plenty of court talent has made itself apparent during this time and the Kittens should be headed for a successful year. Among the leading contenders for the first five are footballer Mickey Cochran, Bill Flanders, a promising freshman from Island Pond, Len Harrington, cross-country standout, and Al Wees, veteran of a year of college ball. Ray Massucco, another Frosh, who hails from Bellows Falls, has had plenty of court experience and has been exhibiting plenty of basketball savvy on the gymnasium boards.

There is no lack of height on the club, a number of the lads towering six feet or more. Several other men retained by Coach Fogg are, Eddie Andrews, Goldstein, Fraser, Krupp and Pribula.

Bombs To Cause Quake

Pocatello, Idaho—(ACP)—Two professors at the southern branch of University of Idaho have advanced the theory that extensive bombing of Japan might cause displacements that would set off devastating earthquakes. They are C. A. Lee and A. L. Lillibridge of geology and mechanical engineering departments.

"Bombings themselves won't cause earthquakes, but there is the possibility, how actual or remote I don't know, that vibrations set up by continuous bombings might result in changing earth pressure which normally wouldn't occur for years," Lee explained.

If faults that cause earthquakes in the island were almost at the "shifting point" repeated bombings might be the right factor to set off a quake, Lee said.

State Fives Begin Play

Norwich, Middlebury Open Case Seasons

The long grid knell that heralded the Vermont sports season when the last football game was played off on frigid Centennial Field three weeks ago will be disregarded with a mighty bang this week-end as the three Green Mountain colleges tip the covers off their respective basketball schedules. Middlebury opened against Hartwick last night. Vermont meets the same foe this evening, and Norwich rolls into high gear against a Fort Ethan Allen combo tomorrow P M. All the clubs are unknown quantities, at this writing, and just who will upset who is purely a matter of conjecture.

Despite the fact that they dedicated a football game this year, Middlebury may come up with a basketball quintet good enough to erase the marks of the disastrous pigskin season. Led by Captain Freddie Lapham of this city, the Panthers boast a veteran lineup. Bob Adsit and Earle Bishop, football co-captains hold down guard and forward posts respectively. Johnny Cadwell, Pittsford Vet, fills the other back-court spot. Mac McGarry, Rutland, is center, and Lapham teams up with Bishop at forward. The veteran Panthers, lettermen all, average over six feet and have an average weight of 176 pounds. A pretty rugged crew which may put plenty of kinks into U. V. M.'s hopes for another state title this year.

Over at Northfield Vermont's little Siberia, the Norwich Cadets are still recuperating from the drubbing which the Catamounts handed them on Centennial Field last month. Nevertheless the Horsemen hope to get revenge, at least in some measure when they meet the Cats on the court sometime after Christmas. Never a worldbeater at the hoop game, the Maroon may come up with a Tarter, but prospects now do not appear very bright. Capt. Don Maynard has been benched indefinitely, due to a knee injury incurred on the football field. Most of the talent is green and untried. New Coach Leon Sheppard may have a big headache guiding the Horsemen this winter through their stiff lineup of games.

As for Vermont things are looking up despite Larry Killick's injured shoulder. The Cats may be headed for a great year so—here's hoping.

Large Audience To Crowd Chapel

Professor Long Will Direct Xmas Carols

From what we hear from our St. Michael's friends there's going to be quite a crowd down from there to hear our Christmas vespers Sunday afternoon. It seems that they are especially interested in hearing Doctor Stoehr's Christmas Cantata. Of course this means that those who plan to listen to the concert in comparative comfort will be on hand while there are still seats available. At any rate, the Michaelmen are going to hear the performance of an extraordinary composition, exciting in its contrasts and bold in its rhythmic content.

At present we are wondering who is going to take care of the Christmas caroling this year. It would seem that Professor Long is the logical person, he having been one of the leaders last year. Now that it has been announced on the University social calendar, let's see some action.

Last Friday afternoon there were several on hand to hear the selection from Handel's Messiah; this Friday afternoon Tchaikovsky's Nutcracker Suite will be played. It was written with the Christmas season in mind with especial emphasis on the toys.

Several of the birdmen on campus who are waiting for some decent flying weather have been taking advantage of the Carnegie Room lately. The Music Department wishes to emphasize that they are more than welcome to use these facilities. The range of music includes everything from Gregorian chant to Duke Ellington.

Painting by Di Credi Is Shown in Art Gallery

A Tondo painting by Lorenzo Di Credi is on exhibition in the Art Gallery of the Fleming Museum. The subject of the Christmas painting by the 16th century artist of the Renaissance is "Madonna, Christ-Child, and John the Baptist." The painting will be on exhibition for the month of December.

Rabbi Stern to Speak at Chapel

Well-Known Writer Will Also Address Classes

Rabbi Henry J. Stern of the Emanuel Temple, Montreal, is to be the speaker of tomorrow's chapel program. Rabbi Stern is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati and Hebrew Union College. By traveling in Europe and the Near East, he has made himself familiar with political, social, and economic conditions. He is the author of "Judaism in the War of Ideas" and "Jew and Christian." This week's "Chapel Chimes" is to be published by the Methodist group.

Rabbi Stern will also speak in the Old Testament class at 12.00 on the subject of Hebrew prophets. Visitors are welcome.

The speaker for the chapel program on Wednesday December 16 is to be Rev. Mrs. Webster of Burlington. Associate Secretary of the Vermont Congregational Conference.

Will all D. A. R. Good Citizenship Girls of past years please contact Louise Shutler. Telephone 3056.

The Truth About Our Aviators; New Students Arriving Daily

Even now, after all these months of seeing various types of uniforms around the campus, knowing that the Northeast Airlines Company is giving instruction of some sort to aviators, many of the University students do not know yet exactly what is being accomplished and how it is being done in the aviation school. This situation really ought to be remedied. After all, we do practically live with the fliers, and most certainly a great many of us eat our meals with them in the Waterman cafeteria. We should all know the fundamentals, at least, of why they are here and what they are doing.

Every week now an airplane arrives in Burlington. The exact number is being closely guarded as a military secret. The training which they receive here is for primary instruction. Due to safety factors attendant to this school, the maximum number of hours in the air which any flier can have is well over one hundred. Aviators are allotted point of standards of the armed services. Army, Navy, and Marine Corps as well as C. P. T. (Civilian Pilot Training) students. That explains the letter-grouping system of airplane numbers.

Northeast prepares students for blind flying which is, flying solely by instruments and without any outside assistance. All Northeast commercial pilots must have an instrument rating and although many of the students at the school do not intend to become airline pilots, they receive an instrument rating for use in some other line of aviation. In addition to blind flight practice the students take a transitional course in twin-engine or multi-motor equipment.

The administrative make-up of the school is a point of distinct interest. Many people have been heard asking who is at the head of the entire project, or if run under government control and various other questions which have often been left unanswered or perhaps have been answered incorrectly.

At this point there is nationally no government control. Northeast Airlines are a prime contractor to the Civil Aeronautics Administration and as long as they do many jobs the government does not interfere. This condition is somewhat unique in war time when it is a good indication of Northeast's competence. There are being C A A regional directors added

Christmas Vespers and Concert to be Held Sunday

Doctor Stoehr will Present His "Christmas Cantata" Assisted by Student Soloists

On Sunday afternoon the Ira Allen Chapel will be the scene of the sixteenth annual Christmas vespers. The University Choir under the direction of Howard Bennett, head of the music department with Miss Marion Snyder Marston organist and members of the University Orchestra, Michael Anselmo, concert-master, will present a concert of Christmas music the chief work of the afternoon being the "Christmas Cantata" by Dr. Richard Stoehr of St. Michael's College. The cantata was written expressly for the University musical organizations.

Several well-known soloists from the student body will be heard during the course of the afternoon. Theresa Cadorette '43 and Philip Robinson '45 will be heard in Doctor Stoehr's "Christmas Cantata from Handel's Messiah Doris Squire '44 and Shirley Lampman '45 will sing the familiar "He Shall Feed His Flock" and "Come Unto Me", Robert Goss '44 will be heard in the recitative "For Behold Darkness Shall Cover the Earth" and the aria "The People that Walk in Darkness"; and Marjorie Southworth will sing the French Christmas carol "Sleep Little Dove."

For the concert the University Choir has been augmented by students members of the faculty and townspeople to about seventy-five voices.

The orchestra plays an integral part in the concert in that the cantata calls for much more effort on its part than does it from the chorus. Several townspeople and faculty members have taken time from their busy lives to practice for many hours with the student members. Due to the nature of the composition the orchestra has been reduced for this concert. Again as was done for the Lenten Easter concert last spring the services of Miss Flora Beecher Strickland, harpist, of Montreal have been secured.

Following is the orchestra personnel: First violins Nelly Herrmann '43 Edwin Colodny of Burlington. High school Gordon Douglas of Burlington. Clarinet Joseph '43, Marie Turrell '44 second violins, Mrs. Mary Whitney Bowen of Bur-

Essay Contest Open to Students

Prize Awarded To Best Thesis On Constitution

Announcement has been made of the Percival Wood Clement Prize contest which awards a prize of $500 to the writer of "the best thesis in support of the Principles of the Constitution of the United States of America, as established March 4, A.D. 1789, and the first ten Amendments thereto." The contest is open to undergraduate men and women students of the junior and senior classes of most of the New England colleges and universities, enrolled in curricula leading to a bachelor's degree. Among the colleges included in the contest are Amherst, Bates, Wesleyan, Tufts, Colby, M.I.T., Dartmouth, Middlebury, Harvard, Radcliffe, Trinity, U. V. M., Yale, Williams, Norwich, and Maine.

Any undergraduate may submit an essay of not over three thousand words, neatly typewritten upon one side of 8½ x 11 sheets. The sheets should not be folded and the outside sheet should contain only the title, the date, and an assumed name. Each essay must be accompanied by a sealed envelope containing on its outside the title and assumed name and within the real name, college and home address of the writer. Enclosed must be a statement from the Registrar of his college that he is duly registered in the junior or senior class of one of its undergraduate curricula leading to a bachelor's degree. It is recommended that competitors limit their essays to some particular phase of the entire field that they may do "adequate justice within this limit."

The prize of the aforementioned sum of two hundred dollars will be awarded by a board of judges consisting of the Presidents of the University of Vermont, Yale University, and Williams College. In case of failure to agree, award will be made by the President of Columbia University.

Essays for consideration in 1942-43 must be submitted not later than April 1, 1943, to President Mellis chairman of the committee. Report will be made by the Trustees of the Clement fund to each of the colleges included in the contest of the name and college of the winner.

It is hoped that a large amount of interest will result from this announcement and that a number of competitors will submit manuscripts.

Thrift Shop Offers Bargains At Token Price

The season for formals and Christmas parties is here when one's enjoyment of the is greatly augmented by a new dress. Why not drop into the Thrift Shop in the north wing of Waterman before the afternoon and select from the bargains which are offered there something to give your wardrobe the pick up that all wardrobes need at the time of year. If you don't find just what you want to wear there will be someone on hand to advise you how to make over or combine a last year's model so that it will look as if it were copied from Vogue. The prices are taken from you and all the money will be used to help the fine cooperation with needy customers. The response and generous cooperation are for one day in the week. All who have to give apply at the office of the Dean of Women for the sale.

Aviators Dance At School Party

Novel Entertainment Made Dance a Success

Wednesday night in the South Waterman cafeteria society U. V. M. girls welcomed a large number of Northeast aviators to a dance which was sponsored by the local Pan Hellenic Society. Those who attended had a very fine time. The dance was quite unique in that both the men and girls had the privilege of cutting in on the center of a dance. This was used to advantage by both sides. There were no wallflowers, as dances and favors were passed out to those present and a contest was held each hour to be able to have guests in accordance with the Earlier in the week report it was necessary that the dance under the direction of Peggy Pollard '45 was put up 1943 to enable the girls to be safely home by 11 P. M. This was the only change in the affair preceding which was uncontested.

Miss Mary Jane Lawson, Professor Lawrence of the Chemistry Department and Miss Constance Wood of the University of Connecticut acted as the patrons at the dance. George Jean Holden with his band, a recent and an addition furnished the music. On the dance committee headed by Peggy Pollard were Margot Dimond and Jane Hollister.

"Lucky Green" is not the only thing that's gone to war. Swing has descended the bandstand for the duration and fewer recordings of the real hep-jive are being released. Today there is a big demand for music pertaining to the war effort. (Rosie the Riveter).

Lan Sacett, artiness of shuffle rhythm, has now completed his band with the addition of seven violins. No recordings of the new combo have been released as yet, but enthusiasts may hear him on the CBS network at 11.30 p.m.

Harry James still heads the popularity list in Martin Block's "Make Believe Ballroom Time," WNEW 10.00 p.m. Nice going Harry, "Keep 'em Sawing."

Benny Goodman comes back into the spotlight with Artie Bernstein leading out with a swell rhythm section. Get a load of the Columbia release of "On The Sunny Side of the Street," with Peggy Lee on the vocal. Goodman is now at the Hotel New Yorker, and this week he opens up at NYC's "Paramount."

Gene Krupa is reported to be in the "Windy City." His most recent outstanding release is on a Columbia, "Deliver Me To Tennessee."

Glenn Miller is now taking Army life as a serious matter. After his brief training at the Army routine, he'll be known as Capt. Miller. Incidentally Glenn has a brother who is now forming a band of his own. Watch for recordings.

Benny Carter has recently released a new recording written by Benny himself. The name is "My Favorite Blues" and waxed on a Bluebird. Benny did a swell job of arranging for the tune. Opposite side has good dance tune, "Midnight."

Remember Stan Kenton at "Frank Dailey's Meadowbrook" in August, well Stan has grooved a twelve inch Decca of "The Gamblers Blues." Listen for the trumpet and the sax breaks.

Jimmy Dorsey made a swell arrangement of "Daybreak." Bob Eberle does the vocal. Decca did the waxing job.

Well this worn-out needle needs changing so until next time "Goodbye" by Goodman.

Faculty Joins Fitness Drills

Three Classes Added To Athletic Program

With the inauguration of the new faculty athletic program the University of Vermont has taken a broad step forward in the field of physical fitness. Not only do the students have to be physically fit but also the faculty, for it is there job to see that the students make the most of their short stay in college.

Every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, at 5:15 in the gymnasium athletic classes are held for the faculty. All sports in season are available. Those now available are volleyball, handball, basketball, and gymnastics. Here is an excellent opportunity for the faculty to indulge in the physical torture called athletics.

The turnout for these classes has been quite large, however, the Athletic Department would like to see more members of the faculty out. Your muscles will groan and your backs will ache Professors, but the pride in your athletic achievements should wipe away the anguish. You will look better, feel better, and be better. That paunch will disappear, and there will be a spring in your step reminiscent of the time, years ago, when you walked with your best girl. Just think, you can be young and gay once more. The whole faculty will be at the next period won't you? For further details inquire at the Athletic Office.

S N Bowlers Rout Phi Delts

TEPs Advance, 7-0, Over Phi Sig Pinmen

The "fraters" of the TEPs, eked out a narrow win over a Phi Sigma Delta bowling team coming through by four pins to defeat their opponents 7-0. H. Stroyman, at home as much in the bowling alley as on the gridiron scattered the maples effectively to attain a high 120 for the winners.

Last champs of '41, the Sigma Nus displayed a little of their old spark and power, in copping their second win downing the Phi Delta Thetas 7-0. It proved to be an easy win, as the winners were out in front by 68 pins. Norm Boyden displayed his talents to a great advantage, and in doing so took high single with 112.

In this week's meets the SAEs once defeated, will be pointing for their first win, when they clash with ATOs in a Monday encounter.

The Kappa Sigs and the Independents will square in a Monday engagement. Each team has been defeated in its initial start, and will be gunning for its first scalp, in this meeting.

DELTA PHI EPSILON

Estelle Berkson '44, passed Chocolates Monday to announce her engagement to Cpl. Norton Josephson of the United States Army Signal Corps.

Dr. Robert Franklin Poole, president of Clemson College, was graduated from Clemson in 1915. He is an internationally known plant pathologist.

ATO's Crush Sig Courtmen

Kappa Sigs, Delts, Sigma Nu's Triumph

[illegible] ATO team expanded the top off of the Intrafrat basketball league Friday afternoon when they trounced Sigma Phi 30-8, in the League A game. Bennett topped the afternoon's scoring with five baskets for the winners. Sigma Phi's eight points went to Walt Brown, Lake Hardin and Bill Styles with Brown scoring four.

Saturday afternoon saw the opening of League B, when the Kappa Sigs barely eked out a determined Phi Sig team 18-16. Behind, 14-8 at the half, the boys from Pearl Street put on a last half drive that held the Kappa Sigs to four points, while they scored eight. The scoring was evenly divided between the members of both teams.

Two other games Saturday confirmed the League A competitors with Delta Psi winning handily over the Phi Delts, 27-19, and Sigma Nu taking the SAEs into camp 28-19. In the Delta Psi game Dick Conrad and Monty Kelley walked off with the scoring honors bagging ten and eight points respectively. Grossman scored ten for the losing SAE's in their game, but the combination of Bloomer, West and Reed nullified his work.

In next week games the Independents of League B take on the Owls Saturday afternoon. League A's games take place Wednesday afternoon with Sigma Nu lined up against the Phi Delts and on Saturday when the defeated Sigma Phi's and the SAE's face off at 1:45. At 2:45 the Delts and the ATO's, two previous winners, will be out for the coveted first place position.

Winter Teams Doubt Status

Ski, Hockey Squads Encounter Difficulties

[illegible] Paterson this year's ski team captain is looking forward to a doubtful season of skiing after the Christmas holidays. Art and his merry men have been working out in the gym, in preparation for the tentative meets, but as yet, they are not sure that "la guerre" will permit transportation (tires and gas)—to and from their practice slopes.

In addition to last year's team members, Art Paterson, Bob Goss, Bud Pierce, Ernie St. Mary, Brud Sutton the squad will be bolstered by some new prospects in Doug Pierce and Charley Plumley.

Unless adequate transportation can be provided, the ski team may disband for the duration. Let's hope that conditions favor these winter stalwarts and permit them to display their wares again this year.

The hockey team's future is still in doubt also. An appropriation has been made for the maintenance of the squad, but to date there has been no meetings of the interested members. The team was formed last year after several seasons' layoff, and it had a fairly successful season. Returning veterans include "Bish" McGill, Dave Tuholski, "Whit" Switzer. If those who hope for a U. V. M. hockey team do not meet and discuss the where's and why's, another great winter sport will be put on the skids on the Vermont campus.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

Virginia Crocker recently attended the Army-Navy game.

Harriet Woods '42, announced her engagement to Misty Rice '42.

Virginia Mitchell who went home about a month ago because of illness will not return to school this year.

A tea dance was held at the house Saturday afternoon in honor of the pledges. Marjorie Southworth '43, and Tony Darling '43 were in charge.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt recently was initiated as an honorary member of Phi Beta Kappa at Radcliffe College.

Classical Club to Stage 'The Captives'

"The Captives," a play by Plautus will be staged in the English version by eight members of the Goodrich Classical Club at Southwick, Wednesday evening, December 9, at 8:15 o'clock. Under the direction of Mrs. L. M. Franklin assisted by Prof. J. F. Bailey of the Classical department, [illegible] in richly colored gowns suited to bright colored tunics and white clothed captives will reenact a street scene in Aetolia and bring back to us the Business of a day in Ancient Greece.

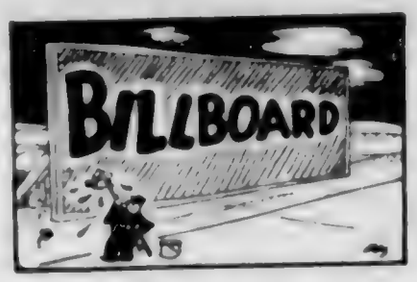
A fine Shakespearean quaintness of thought and expression runs throughout the play together with a number of attractive characters, scenes and situations.

One of Hegio's sons has been taken prisoner in a battle with the Eleans, the other was stolen by a runaway slave and sold when he was four years old. The latter, in his great anxiety to recover the captured boy, bought up Elean prisoners of war, and among these that he purchased was the son he had lost many years before. The son having exchanged clothes and names with his Elean master, secured the latter's release, taking the consequences himself. The master of his returned, bringing Hegio's captive son, and along with him that runaway slave, whose disclosures led to the recognition of the other son.

The cast of characters is as follows:

Ergasilus, a parasite — Margaret Fake, '44
Hegio, an old gentleman — Mary Perry, '44
Slave Overseer, belonging to Hegio — Gertrude Sherman, '44
Philocrates, a young Elean captive — Jean Davison, '44
Tyndarus, his slave, captured with him — Vesta Stevens, '45
Aristophontes, a young Elean captive — Mary Butler, '43
A Page, in the service of Hegio — Ruth True, '44
Philocleomus, Hegio's son — Zelda Hower, '44
Strategonus, Hegio's slave — Beatrice Thomson, '45

In this play," says Plautus, "you have no vicious intrigues, no love affair, no supposititious child, no getting money on false pretences, no young spark setting a wench's true without his father's knowledge.



"Plautus finds few plays such as this which make good men better."

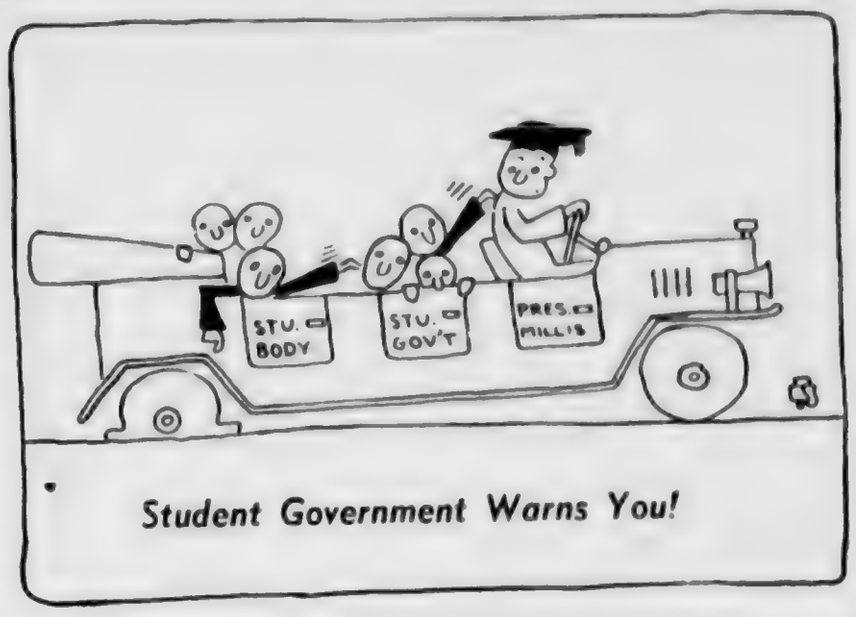
Student Government Reports to You

President of Student Government Outlines the Duties of a Campus at War

War Council Planned Under U. V. M. Students To Coordinate War Work



[illegible] a year student government at U. V. M. has thrived. It was born [illegible] idealism, hope, and cynicism and has matured through a year which has been [illegible] with a University crisis and the national crisis which we all face. It is not merely a Vermont project set up to alleviate all the problems of the U. V. M. campus but should be and is a governmental unit which is as much a part of the American constitution as the Bill of Rights. Tomorrow's leaders are today's students; their abilities rest in their preparation to become leaders. Each and every student at U. V. M. is a potential leader and should guide his or her capabilities in the channels which will best help this nation, our nation, in every crisis with which it may be confronted. The most insignificant duty we may be asked to fulfill is a part of the foundation of our democracy and should be discharged with as much regard and diligence as is asked of our nation's leaders. Duty to God and Country is duty to our associates, our campus, and to ourselves. It is all a part of our great system of life, and infinitesimal act as integral as life itself.

Participation in campus affairs should be the desire of every student. It should be our aim to better ourselves, our university, our state, our government, even the world itself. Most organizations function because of the efforts of a few—student government must not. It must function because of the efforts of all, no matter how great or small those efforts may be. Do something! No doubt some will criticize; some will praise but keep in mind the adage—"To escape criticism, Do nothing; Say nothing; Be nothing."

Within the next month Student Government will attempt to organize a War Council. Most of the schools all over the country have organized such bodies and are doing their part in civilian aid to the country's military aims, morale and internal benefit. The functions of such a council are innumerable. Coordination of all war activities on the campus is the prime purpose of the body. Probable activities such as the following are included in the function:

1. Salvage collections.
2. War stamps and bond sales.
3. Defense protection—student air raid wardens, blackouts, fire drills, etc.
4. Student war relief drives.
5. Defense discussion program—on issues in the war and post-war world.
6. War workshop—knitting, bandage rolling, surgical dressing, etc.
7. First aid instruction.
8. Student curriculum committee to study curriculum changes brought about by war.
9. Service to service men—activities in the armed services where near campus; also collection of books, etc., for soldiers.
10. War social programs.

These and many more problems can be dealt with by a war council as a service to the government, the campus and to individuals. Such a movement needs co-operation and it is the duty of every student on this campus to give that co-operation when the time comes. Be able to answer the question, "What have I done to win the war?"

Student Management of Activity Fee Is Job of Financial Committee

Social Committee Handles Calendar

One of the most successful phases of Student Government this semester has been the efficient organization and work of the Social Committee. With Bill Roeder as chairman, a committee composed of June Hoffman, Marguerite Benoit, Priscilla Perkins, and George Little has done much to further the interests of social life here at U. V. M. The social calendar had previously been in the hands of Dean Swift and a committee of faculty members. Thus, the new committee found quite a task on their hands last semester when they met to discuss and formulate plans for social activities of the fall term. In doing this, the five members of the committee tried to keep in mind those organizations who had not previously sponsored dances and other socials. As a result of this, Gold Key, Sophomore Aides, the French Club, and the Faculty-Student Council took part in this semester's social events.

Upper classmen will recall that in past years, many of the organizations were confused as to which dance would be held on which Saturday night. The Social Committee has done away with this inefficiency by handing to Dean Swift on the twentieth of each month a copy of the following month's events. These are checked and double-checked so that scheduled dances take place at a definite given time. The committee, itself, gave a "Vic" dance two months ago at which approximately $35 was collected to be used in sending CYNICS to service men. In addition to seeing that there is some social event every Saturday night, the committee has also included plays and Friday night dances on its calendar.

The key to the success of this new venture of Student Government is probably the fact that the members of the committee are a cross-section of the student body and thus, they know what the students want. In addition, student suggestions and petitions are always welcome. Through this system, the return of bean suppers was brought about, and men's informals were abolished. The committee has moved the Pan-Hellenic Dance

Thirty-five dollars down . . . a receipted bill . . . ocasional glimpses of some higher authority doling out allotments with a lavish hand. These few words sum up the total of the student body's previous consciousness of finances and their management on the campus.

With the advent of Student Government at the University of Vermont came a new idea, that the students themselves could and would manage their own money affairs.

When the organization of this government was already functioning, when other committees were already well on their way towards definite accomplishments, the financial committee found itself faced with a problem which might well have been expected, due partially to lack of information and partially to apathy or lack of interest. It was all very well that the members of the committee assign themselves the task of learning the details of the financial system, that they set themselves studiously to plan out a workable budget or plan of expenditures; these things they could do by themselves. Yet student cooperation, a positive essential, was lacking, and progress was correspondingly retarded.

Gradually however, things began to take shape and the organization began to function. Professor Prentice, member of the faculty formerly in charge of student financial matters, very ably assisted the Student Government Financial Committee in starting their work. The committee consists of Julia Fletcher '44, treasurer, Howie Vreeland '43, and Bob White '44. It was their job to familiarize themselves with the tasks which were to be theirs in the future, and to start the ball of student managed finances rolling. Another person who has willingly and ably aided in initiating the Student Government move has been Mr. Kennedy of the Accounting Office, who has given unselfishly of his time.

The first step consisted of studying old records of expenditures of the many campus organizations and from these, plus the budgets or requests submitted by each group, to decide just how much each club or society would need for the present year. Then these figures had to be reviewed with the total income available in mind, and treated accordingly. Many clubs had funds remaining from previous

The Challenge

Out of all criticism and ignorance there arises the story of a Student Government at work. It is our government, the one which you did not support.

But the job was begun and the reconstruction will continue. It will be done by people who do not look for excuses in a war or in an accelerated program; there are always those who never give up.

Student Government reports. That must be an answer to many a critic. The executive committee as well as all the various sub-committees on student activities began less than a year ago to destroy everything that was only living in name and to rebuild a new student-world on the ghostly ruins. The Social Committee went to town and gave us a workable social calendar. The Religious Committee began to investigate all spiritual activities on the campus in an effort to include every student in some kind of religious education. The Pep Committee gave us dances, suppers, and sings. Other committees did their share. It is true that a few committees failed but even they will find their place in due time. Above all, however, there is the executive committee, meeting week after week, trying to find new ways to help, entertain, and satisfy the students.

Student Government reports and its report is on these pages so that everyone can see what has been done; so that everyone can realize how much more must still be done.

Student Government is on its way. The students must travel on the same road to assure success. The goal is already in sight, however far away it may be. It is a campus where students run all their affairs without having to ask for outside help all the time. It will be a campus on which all students will speak up in a constructive effort to improve their own four years in school and the years of the students to come. The goal is distant but the march has begun.

Student Government has reported. Where it leaves off you must continue. State your demands, come to meetings, co-operate in all activities and Student Government will be the force you always have wanted it to be.

It is hard to construct in times of war, but the job must be done and we must ask the students for their support, however hard it may be for them.

Suggestion Box For Student Wants

Here it is at last, a way by which the student ideas, suggestions and criticisms may be brought out in the open and everyone can know them and discuss them. Where is the box? An answer to that is probably not necessary, but for the books we shall give an explicit answer as to the whereabouts of said box. As one goes down the flight of three stairs just before entering the cafeteria, he may see on the right hand side of the door through which he must walk a box on which is lettered, Student Government. Beside this box is a large poster on which there is a man [illegible] pointing to the box. His mouth is open very wide and from these issues one word "Hey!" This is a gentle reminder to make those interested persons put their complaints, ideas, and suggestions in the box where they will be noticed and heeded. The suggestion box we hope will eliminate shop talk and gripe sessions, since Student Government will solve the problems. Perhaps without the usual stu

U. V. M. Student Government—Birth And How It Grew

Enthusiastic Student Group Revised And Ratified Constitution

In the beginning of the 1941-42 academic year the first real beginnings toward a Student Government on this campus were made. Out of a spontaneously organized outlet for student expression, the student forum, grew the nucleus of a plan of action. Campus problems and wants of all sorts were set forth in a special "Wake Up U. V. M." issue of the Cynic. Boulder and Mortar Board Societies took it from there. The far-sighted leaders of these organizations spent many hours of real work in carefully drawing up a tentative constitution. Johnny Spasyk '42, was the leader of a convocation which was well attended by an eager student body on December 13, by special permission in the Ira Allen Chapel. The tremendous turn-out then and the numerous suggestions which came in from various sources demonstrated student interest in really bringing a democratic government to the University. After another mass meeting, the first four articles of a revised constitution were ratified with a few changes at a convocation at which 400 students made their choice known. In a spirited debate of further issues of importance the undergraduate body adopted fully the constitution at a convocation on February 9. More than 24 petitions each bearing the names of at least 100 students were submitted to the first nominating committee which was made up of the deans of the three colleges and members from Boulder and Mortar Board. Election of the four officers and 10 members of the executive committee took place on March 16.

The initial meting of the new executives took place on March 24 when Johnny Spasyk presented the ideas which had come out of the student opinions at convocations and as the result of conferences and discussions with President Millis. The members of the executive committee tried to meet the demands for action on var

Athletics Aspect Has Possibilities

Up till now, no work has been done by Larry Kallock and the members of the Athletic Committee of Student Government, nor has any been planned for the future. It was thought that the reason for this failure to function lay in the fact that the duties that would have ordinarily been allotted to the Athletic Committee were being taken over by the University Athletic Council.

To hear this out Larry Gardner was contacted to see if the Athletic Committee had made any effort to cooperate with the Physical Education Department. It was discovered that no member of this department had been approached by the Student Athletic Committee in spite of the fact that there was no lack of work to be done.

According to Larry Gardner, the committee should have been in charge of forming the Hockey Club of securing a skating rink, and of helping out in skiing and Outing Club activities.

It must be concluded either that the Athletic Committee is incapable and should be changed, or that there is not enough for them to do, in which case the committee should be abolished.

3. To approve the requisitions of all student organizations and to forward them to the Accounting Office.

Article VI—Elections

Section I—System of Nominations

Officers shall be nominated by a Nominating Committee composed of the dean of women, the three deans of the undergraduate colleges, three members of Mortar Board, and three members of Boulder. Members from the honorary societies shall be chosen by their respective organizations. Additional nominations for officers may be made by a petition of one hundred and fifty members at the U. V. M. Student Government to the Nominating Committee.

Nominations for the Executive Committee, except officers, shall be made by petition to the above Nominating Committee, such petitions to be signed by at least one hundred members of the U. V. M. Student Government.

Candidates shall be in good standing in the University.

Section II—System of Election

Elections shall be held under the supervision of the head of the political science department and members of Mortar Board and Boulder. Election shall be by plurality vote.

Article VII—Recall

Any officer or committeeman may be recalled by a three fourths vote in a meeting of the U. V. M. Student Government. A meeting for this purpose may be called by a majority of the Executive Committee and must be called by the Executive Committee when petitioned by fifty students.

Article VIII—Referendum

Matters considered of sufficient importance by the Executive Committee may be submitted to the U. V. M. Student Government for approval or rejection.

Article IX—Initiative

Proposals which have been rejected by the Executive Committee or have not received their consideration may be brought before the U. V. M. Student Government for consideration upon submission to the chairman of the Executive Committee a petition signed by fifty members. At such meetings the vote of the U. V. M. Student Government shall be final.

Article X—Amendments

Section I—Proposal

Amendments may be proposed by a petition signed by fifty members and presented to the chairman of the Executive Committee who shall call a meeting of the U. V. M. Student Government to consider such amendments.

Section II—Publication

The proposed amendments must be printed in the CYNIC at least one week before said meeting.

Section III—Adoption

A two-thirds vote of the members present at such meeting shall be necessary for the adoption of the amendment.

Cultural Program Series Coming Soon

For quite some time it has been the wish of Student Government to present on this campus a broad cultural program. However, nothing was done about it until today as it was very uncertain whether the student activity fund could support such a program.

It has been found [illegible] there will be enough money [illegible] cultural program this year on a [illegible] basis. The dates for two events are set and Student Government feels that both programs will be very interesting to the students.

The first in the series [illegible] Far East (particularly [illegible] James Young, a former Far [illegible] of the International News [illegible] is known to have a very [illegible] vescent personality that will appeal to the whole campus.

Our second guest attraction is a young woman from the Abbey Theatre, Dublin, Ireland, who does character sketches. The quality of Miss Murroughe's work is [illegible] prove interesting to all.

The dates are February 9 and 16, respectively. The [illegible] free and it is for you!

How about it? We still have dates open for us?

President Millis on Reserve Corps

To the University of Vermont Men

There appears to be considerable confusion in the minds of many University of Vermont men concerning their relation to the armed services. Recently I have had the opportunity of talking to officers of both the Army and Navy as well as to persons concerned with the coordination of educational institutions and the armed services. Though no announcement has been made of the final plans for utilization of colleges for training centers for the Army and Navy, nevertheless certain facts are now clearly established.

With the new powers allocated to the War Man Power Commission all voluntary enlistments of men within the draft age are stopped. Student who were in the process of enlisting in one of the reserve corps prior to December 5th may complete such enlistment provided such is done before December 15, 1942. No definite information is available concerning just when any or all of the reserve corps will be called, but the most informed opinion seems to be that they will not be called immediately nor in mass, but rather will be incorporated in whatever programs the Army and Navy work out for training selected groups in the colleges and universities.

There have been absolutely no changes in the directives to the local draft boards with reference to deferment for students in selected classifications. Students in Medicine, Pre-medicine, Engineering, Chemistry and Physics will continue to be deferred since critical shortages of trained personnel exist in these categories.

It is now clear that both the civilian and military officials wish a system which amounts virtually to total selective service. Hence it is desired that students now in college remain at their studies until they are called for duty or are sent to some particular group either in this or some other institution.

There is also apparently some misunderstanding concerning the regulations of the University of Vermont relative to refund of tuition in case a man is inducted in the armed services through the operation of the selective service or calling of one of the reserves. Should a person be called for duty near the end of any semester, the faculty will make every effort to enable the student to complete the work in the time available so that he may receive credit for the entire semester. Should the student be called at a time which would make that impossible, he has a choice of two options, the establishment of a credit in the University's books for all tuition paid which will be available at any time a student wishes to return to college, or a cash refund of tuition fees paid.

The leaders of the armed forces obviously believe that the experience received in college is highly significant as a preparation for military service. Therefore, it is encumbent upon every man in college to get the most from his present experience and to thus have the finest possible preparation prior to the time he is called to active duty.

Sophomore Aides Sponsor Barn Dance

This Saturday evening the Sophomore Aides are sponsoring an old fashion barn dance to be held in the cafeteria of the Waterman Building. This is going to be the real thing with square dancing to the tune of a four piece hill billy orchestra and a caller. In between the square dancing there will be regular social dancing by records.

Marge Anthony, chairman says this dance is patriotic to the nth degree, and the girls may wear blue jeans or slacks.

The decorations will be extremely clever and will carry out the theme of the dance. Dancing will be from 8:00 to 12:00 midnight. Everyone is invited.

Girls Invite Boys To Exciting Dance

Sorority girls and their men crammed the Waterman cafeteria Saturday night in one of the most exciting dances of the college year. Down from Fort Ethan Allen came a band complete with a red hot trumpet player, to set the stage for the evening.

School spirit ran high all evening evidenced by the singing of college songs at intermission. High spot of the evening was the two Conga lines, led by Peggy Durfee '44, and Ben Vail '45. Many and varied were the individual interpretations to this dance. A fashion note for the women is the predominance of red wool and white wool dresses to be seen.

Chaperones for this grand dance were Prof. and Mrs. A. E. Nuquist, Prof. and Mrs. Fred Carpenter and Dean Mary Jean Simpson. Thanks and bouquets go to Jean Blume '43, "Dee" Welch '43, Esther Gustafson '44, and "Margo" Benoit '43, for making this annual Pan-Hellenic dance such a great success.

Dr. Raab Speaks To Unitarians Sun.

Dr. Wilhelm Raab of the University of Vermont Medical College will speak on "Austria Between Two Wars" at the Channing Club of the Unitarian Church on Sunday evening, December 13, at 7:00 p.m. A native of Austria, Doctor Raab lived in Vienna during those critical years from 1918-1940, and speaks from first hand experience.

Carol singing and refreshments will follow the talk. College students are cordially invited to attend.

Dr. Ladd At Collegium

Collegium will meet at the College Street Church this Sunday at 7.00. Doctor Ladd will give the last of his very interesting and helpful talks on the Bible. Refreshments, carol singing, and social hour. Let's come, everyone.

Sophomore Aides' coffee hour this Sunday at Southwick from 2.30 to 3.30. Everyone is invited.

Recess Extended: Leave on Time

In view of [illegible] University Council has voted to extend the Christmas recess by one day. The members of the Junior and Senior classes in the three academic colleges the Recess will begin Friday, December 18 at 11:0[illegible] a.m. [illegible] and Freshmen in the three academic colleges the recess will begin [illegible] December 19 at 11:0[illegible] a.m. The [illegible] will end for Juniors and Seniors Monday, January 4 at 8:0[illegible] a.m. for Freshmen and Sophomores Tuesday, January 5 at 8:0[illegible] a.m. The Faculty also [illegible] Saturday, December 18 and 19. The following will be the schedule of morning classes:

Morning Session	[illegible]
First hour	[illegible]
Second hour	8:40 to 9:2[illegible]
Third hour	9:40 to 10:[illegible]
Fourth hour	10:40 to 11:0[illegible]

Afternoon classes [illegible] will meet at the usual hour.

Classes in the College of Medicine will meet at the usual hours [illegible] Saturday, December 18 and 19. Christmas Recess in the College of Medicine for all classes will begin Saturday, December 19, after the close of morning classes and end Monday, January 4 at 8:00 a.m.

The above dates and hours should be carefully noted to avoid unnecessary absences.

The University Council took this action in view of the fact that the Rutland Railroad and the Central Vermont Railway as well as the bus lines felt that they would be unable to handle traffic if all students were excused on Saturday and returned on Monday, January 4. The railroads asked that we encourage students to take other trains than the noon trains on these two days since they believed there would be more accommodations available on the night trains.

Juniors and Seniors who use public methods of transportation will be expected to leave town not later than Friday evening or by Saturday evening or Sunday trains. The whole purpose of extending the holiday will be defeated if Juniors and Seniors leave on the Saturday noon trains or buses.

The attention of all students is called to the rules concerning absences immediately preceding or following recesses. University Regulations II, 4 b. Student desiring excuses for absences must submit their requests in writing to their Dean not later than Tuesday, December 15 at NOON. No excuses will be granted except for imperative reasons. The citing of trivial reasons will simply result in waste of time.

Religious Life Committee Has Taken Strides as Advisor to Groups

[illegible] Religious Life Committee suggested Student Government discuss the [illegible] action in order that all [illegible] activities, of any nature other [illegible] be curtailed during Chapel [illegible].

[illegible] a challenge to the Executive [illegible] of the Student Government in [illegible] a suggestion dropped into the [illegible] box in the Cafeteria by the [illegible] Life Committee after its meeting [illegible] December 2.

The challenge is the first step in a [illegible] program to make the U. V. M. [illegible] more appreciative of religion, under the guidance of the Religious Life [illegible] according to Marjorie [illegible], chairman of the committee. Fully [illegible] the lack of interest in religion [illegible] campus, it is the aim of the committee to arouse the student body gradually to be more aware of their religious [illegible].

No panaceas for campus ills, no revolutionary plans or radical changes are offered by the committee made up of Wendell Harvey, Jacob Katz, John Corliss, Faye Lippman, Mary Germain, and Marjorie Witham, chairman, in full realization of the long, hard task ahead of it and its successors, has started a drive that will continue through future years as long as religion and its teachings will have their proper place in U. V. M. [illegible].

[illegible] the Religious Life Committee [illegible] confident of accomplishing this [illegible] by driving every single person [illegible] on the very next Wednesday. The [illegible] has only an executive function. [illegible] is done through the organized [illegible] groups on campus, like Newman [illegible] Foundation, Y. M. C. A., and [illegible]. Decentralization was agreed to [illegible] policy at a recent joint meeting [illegible] Senate and Student Committee [illegible] Dec. 1. The individual student [illegible] encouraged to attend the [illegible] organized group of his [illegible] direction of the committee will [illegible] advisory capacity to these [illegible] the groups in interfaith [illegible] provide publicity for the [illegible] groups.

[illegible] will gradually lead the [illegible] a better religious life by [illegible] own efforts towards that [illegible].

[illegible] to both faith and inter- [illegible] are recognized by the committee religious life will be [illegible] by a spiritual awaken- [illegible] individual student but also by [illegible] of all the students of [illegible] brotherhood, submerging [illegible] differences of each faith in a [illegible] the essentially basic [illegible].

[illegible] Week, during which the [illegible] dedicate itself to the Inter- [illegible] being planned under the [illegible] Religious Life Committee [illegible] 19 through 26. The program is still in the process of preparation, three committees are working. The publicity committe is under Phil Robinson, Jake Katz, and Mary Germain, the meeting committee is under Penelope Easton, Seymour Baum, and Patricia McCormack, and the community committte is under Wendell Harvey, Faye Lippman, and Marjorie Witham. These committees are working hand in hand with the Interfaith Council. A proposal is now being considered to extend Brotherhood Week outside of the campus to the entire city; hence, the community committee. Further details will be published in the CYNIC as plans materialize.

The snowball which has been set rolling by President Millis hasn't been stopped. It is growing as it rolls on. The president's interest in the University's religious life has been taken over by a guiding body of six representatives of the faiths on campus. Already they have organized successful chapel programs, including Rev. Stanley Jones' popular sermon several weeks ago. Under earnest and intelligent leadership, they are working to fill the long vacant gap in the spiritual life of the campus.

Theirs is the job to keep the ball rolling until the average student has become an unofficial member of the Religious Life Committee. There is much to be done, but there is every evidence that the leadership offered is capable.

Theme Clinic Conducted By English Department

The English Department has been conducting a theme clinic as a part of their attempts to teach students to express themselves coherently and intelligibly in their mother tongue.

Up to the present, only freshmen have been taking their problems to the doctors of the English Department, but the clinic is open to upperclassmen who have reports and themes which have involved them in difficulties. Problems of organization of material that ugh to grammar will be attacked at these sessions which are every Friday evening from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. in the English office in Old Mill.

Pep Committee Runs Campus-wide Events

The Pep Committee of U. V. M. Students exists for the purpose of promoting school spirit through campus-wide activities like Pep Rallies, Block Dances, the annual Hobo Day, Bean Suppers, and special events that may arise during the year.

The first presentation of the Pep Committee was a Block Dance last spring that was held in the parking lot outside Waterman. A public address system furnished the music. Because of the large turnout at this dance, the committee expects to hold more Block Dances this spring.

Two of the Football Pep Rallies this fall were put on by the Pep Committee, assisted by the college cheerleaders. The committee was responsible for the addition of girls' cheerleading, an idea which will be continued during the basketball season.

The campus sings, which, although are not the work of the Pep Committee, have done much to promote spirit and interest in campus affairs.

The Bean Supper, held during Open House Week-end this fall, is the biggest undertaking of the Pep Committee this year. The supper was attended by 1,000 members of the faculty and student body. As well as the supper, which was arranged by Miss Underwood's staff, the committee's entertainment included songs by the "Fire-Eaters," twirling by Sis Warden, cheerleading, a short talk by President Millis, and a parade of contestants in the Hobo Day Contest which was staged to build up spirit for the Norwich game.

The future plans of the Pep Committee include a cheering squad for basketball games, a Clean-up Day for the campus, a possible Sadie Hawkins Day, and an assistance committee for the purpose of helping other organizations with publicity for their activities.

Carolyn Brown '44 is the Student Government Representative on the Pep Committee.

Suggestion Box

dent shop talk general level of students' conversation will be more intellectual. Well, it's an idea anyway!

Some of the suggestions so far have been constructive, some destructive. Here are some examples of the more constructive ones:

1. Candidates for various school officers should have something about them, their capabilities, etc. in the CYNIC preceding the election, since many people, because they don't know the candidates, don't vote.

2. How about a central Lost and Found Department? (This was suggested three times.)

3. Could all organized activities other than those of religious nature be curtailed during Chapel?

Here are a couple more. Destructive, Constructive? or What? You decide.

There was one very strongly put the essence of which was as follows:

1. Could we change the managers of the cafeteria and have some good food?

Evidently the two undersigned of this suggestion were not at the student convocation at which President Millis gave a very fine explanation of the conditions under which the cafeteria works.

However a definite student committee now composed of Student Government officers has been assigned to investigate the cafeteria question.

2. Where is the Student Government Constitution?

May I gently suggest that it was printed in the CYNIC prior to this time. If you didn't see it then, please see Marilyn Eisner, Pi Beta Phi House, Tel. 3083 and she will show it to you and maybe even read it to you.

There doesn't seem to be room enough to write about the suggestions here today. We would like you to know that some of these suggestions will be brought up in a Student Convocation (to be held soon), some are being attended to by committees and still others have already been done. Each one is under the attention of Student Government.

All members of Le Cercle Français, except those who came last Wednesday, are asked to come to Southwick, Tuesday, December 15, at 7:30 o'clock to try out for the two French plays which will be given in February.

Faculty Members Approve Work of Student Leaders

Administration Feels In Due Time Much Good Will Be Accomplished

[illegible] U. V. M. Student Government has been in effect and has completed a great deal of help from the faculty, we have wondered how the student body feels towards its accomplishments and duties. Here are the sentiments expressed by a few members of the faculty.

Miss Sylvia Hemenway of the Library Economics Department feels that the student Government is doing well but will be [illegible].

Miss Lawrence, Dean of Women, said the U. V. M. Student Government is [illegible] although Student Government seems at times to be [illegible] the students, who seem to have no responsibility, to the classes and expect miracles of them. Dean was the first many to express the need. Girls in the student body seem to respond more to Student Government than boys. Co-education is particular by at [illegible] at Student Government Convocations. Perhaps this is due to experience of girls in Student Unions.

In spite of the lack of co-operation Miss Lawrence is impressed by the actions of Faculty Student Council and the forming of a future cultural program for the benefit of the students.

THE VICE PRESIDENT, MR. PHELPS PAGE has expressed these sentiments: The Student Government organization can and should be a vital force in the life of the University. Its organization can and should be the clearing house for all student problems, plans and procedures. It will not succeed however unless and until the student body gives the organization freely of its time, energy and thought. It will be just as good and just as effective as the students themselves make it.

PROF. DANIEL CARROLL, feels that the Student Government is a splendid idea and its possibilities must be developed. For having been so recently organized, he feels that it is making progress.

PROFESSOR DOANE, who has worked with the Student Government with other faculty advisors feels that the Student Government has a two fold purpose: to prepare college students to take responsibilities later in life and to assume the immediate responsibilities that fall within its sphere of action. It can administer affairs affecting students only where enthusiasm, loyalty and esprit de corps are involved. The greater the willingness to bear one's share in decisions affecting the common good, the greater will be the success of the system. The Student Government organization shows that youth is accepting a major share of responsibility for its conduct.

Brotherhood Week To Be Observed

Interfaith Council and the Student Government Committee on Religious Life are making plans for the observance of Brotherhood Week the last week-end in February. The principal event will be a convocation at which there will be three speakers—a Catholic priest, a Jewish rabbi and a Protestant clergyman.

Three sub-committees have been appointed to make arrangements. A meeting committee composed of Seymour Baum, Penelope Easton and Jacqueline McCormick, a committee on publicity composed of Mary Germain, Jacob Katz and Phil Robinson, and a committee on community relations composed of Wendell Harvey, Faye Lippman and Marjorie Witham.

The above committees are working in conjunction with the New England regional office of the National Conference of Christians and Jews. The secretary of this office, Herbert L. Seamans, will be on the campus in January to help in carrying the plans.

Functions Handled By Administration

Committee Has No Chance To Co-operate

It appears that however successfully some parts of the Student Government have functioned to date, there are other cogs that have failed to click.

One of these has been the committee for Freshman Orientation.

But the facts do not show a lack of interest on the part of the student members in this case; rather, a usurpation of power by the administration itself.

It seems that the committee of freshman orientation was set up to guide the freshmen in their three day pre-class schedule on campus, having nothing whatsoever to do with freshman camp.

Previously these freshman activities had been supervised by Prof. R. M. Collier and associates. As soon as Student Government was created, the duties of Collier and his staff reverted to this committee, but here another story enters which took all the power away from the students, leaving them with exactly no function in the entire set-up.

The office of Director of Admissions was set up under the head of Heath K. Riggs, and Riggs proceeded to assume the duties of the freshman orientation program.

As far as the facts and figures would lead us, it must be assumed that the Director of Admissions was set up in business for the express purpose of directing freshman activities, thus leaving no need for supervision by a student committee.

According to committee members, functions of their post were never exactly clear, and after Mr. Riggs assumed responsibility for this freshman activity, there was no real need for them.

Also committee heads maintained that they would have been glad to assist, but that "no jobs were passed out."

Just where everybody stands on the freshman orientation committee at present is debatable, but one thing seems clear, they are serving in name only at present, and either should be dissolved or be given some work to do to justify their existence.

The rehearsal of the Christmas-Easter chorus on Saturday, December 12, will be held in the Ira Allen Chapel at 2.00 p.m.

years, the total of which were deducted from their allotments this year. The entire sum of the student activities fees ($35 per), this year amounting to $37,149.67, is included in these allocations.

The entire report on just how these affairs of figures were finally decided was published in detail in last week's CYNIC. In that report, compiled by John Fletcher and her committee, are many interesting facts, to be observed between the lines. That these important facts are not easily read by every student is apparent.

The financial committee therefore in an attempt both to inform and to make the necessity of cooperation more apparent to the students, has invited any student to drop in at the scene of financial management, 244 Waterman, at any time during office hours; the visitor will be shown anything and everything which he may wish to know, about his own affairs actually. Office hours are on Tuesday afternoon from 2.15 to 5.00 and on Wednesday morning from 8.30 to 9.00 and from 11.00 to 12.00.

The way in which the committee handles all financial matters is easily explained. Either a requisition or an itemized bill is presented to the treasurer of the Student Government by the organization treasurer. This statement of needs is approved by the treasurer and forwarded to the Accounting Office, where it is entered on the books against the account of that particular organization. All that remains is for the organization to receive the required funds from the Office of the Cashier. All money which is received as income by the groups under the plan is turned over to the cashier. Thus the cashier serves as a bank for the organizations under Student Government, with the financial committee as trustee or guardian.

The financial committee during its short tenure has had frequent occasions to carry on business through announcements printed in the CYNIC. The importance of these announcements to the whole scheme cannot be overemphasized. Treasurers of all the organizations which are utilizing the Student Government plan for handling their finances add greatly to the functioning of the committee by watching for and complying with these notices.

President John S. Millis approved in accordance with the Student Government Constitution the allocation of the Student Activity Fees for the college year 1942-43 as follows:

Groups of Singers Will Cover Campus With Four Leaders

Plans are complete for the annual Christmas caroling which is headed this year by Alfred Amee '43, who has scheduled it for Thursday night. Participation is open to all who are interested, and it is hoped that about 100 students will respond.

Based upon the hope that 100 students will respond, the campus has been divided into four sections and a group of about twenty-five will cover each section. Group One, which will include the area around South Willard Street, will stop for wassail at the Tri Delt house. Group Two will visit the frats and dorms on College, Main, and Williams Streets and will wet their whistles at the Alpha Chi house. Group Three will spread out on Pearl Street and campus points north and the girls at Dresser Cottage will hold open house for them. Group Four will cover South Prospect Street and Redstone campus and they will quench their thirsts at the Pi Phi house.

Leading will be Bob Goss '44, Alfred Amee '43, Phil Robinson '45, and Mr. Long of the faculty.

About ten-thirty, all four groups will meet at Southwick where they will be entertained by the Mortar Board girls, Helena Anderson '43 in charge.

War Relief Supper To Be Held Thurs.

Tri Delta Effort To Support Russian Drive

Attention Students! Next Thursday night the Tri Delts are planning a Russian war relief supper which will take the form of a campus Christmas party. All of us, of course, know about the statewide campaign which Professor Dean and Mr. Long have been conducting. Success has attended this drive all over the state, and now, is the chance for the University to do its part in showing gratitude to the Russians for the grand job they are doing in this war.

The Russian War Relief, Inc. is a national organization operating from New York City. The purpose is to distribute aid directly to the Russian people. Over five hundred of the most distinguished Americans in every walk of life are represented as backing wholeheartedly their effort. Among them are such people as Pearl Buck, author, Charles Chaplin, producer and actor, Katherine Cornell, actress, and many others.

The most important aspect of the aim of their drive is the effort to obtain medical supplies very much needed by the Russian army. For instance only one dollar will deaden pain during one operation; two dollars will sew up 2 wounds; five dollars will help get the necessary equipment for a minor surgical operation, and so on up. Thus even the smallest contribution will directly aid in saving a life and thus definitely help in winning the war. So far the Russians have proved themselves the worthiest of allies. It's our turn to show them in every possible way.

Chapel Is Crowded For Annual Christmas Concert

Orchestra, Choir and Soloists Combine in Excellent Concert

Distinguished Composer

Dr. Richard Stoehr

... the [illegible] "O Come O come Emmanuel" to the enthralling ... Cantata, "Behold Shepherds Keep Their Flocks" by Handel's Messiah, to the faint dying notes of "O Come All Ye Faithful" the augmented University Choir held spell-bound an audience of over 1,000 people in the Ira Allen Chapel Sunday afternoon.

Under the able direction of Prof. Howard Bennett head of the music department, the members of the choir and the University Orchestra with Michael Anselmo, concert master, effectively presented the Christmas Cantata which Dr. Richard Stoehr of St. Michael's College wrote for the University musical organizations. The audience were captivated now by the fear and anxiety now by the excitement and joy now by the glory and love portrayed in the work. Theresa Coderre '43, and Philip Robinson '45 rendered their solos in the Cantata very effectively.

Prof. Raymond A. Hall, University chaplain read selections from the Scriptures. The German melody, "Lo, How A Rose E'er Blooming," was sung as a response by the members of the choir.

Robert Goss '44, was heard in the recitative "For Behold Darkness Shall Cover the Earth" and the aria "The People that Walk in Darkness" from the Messiah.

The French Christmas carol, "Sleep, Little Dove" was sung by Marjorie Southworth '43.

Doris Squire '43 and Shirley Lampman '45, sang "He Shall Feed His Flock" and "Come Unto Me" from Handel's Messiah.

The Madonna Adoring the Child with the infant St. John and the Angels by Lorenzo di Credi was suspended on the gray background of the platform. This painting of the Italian Renaissance was loaned to the Fleming Museum by the Metropolitan Museum of New York City.

Miss Natalie Marston as organ accompanist rendered the Christmas Chorale by Pachelbel as prelude and Rhapsodie on Christmas Themes by Gigout as postlude.

Lt. Boney Lipsky Reported Captured

First U. S. Airman To Fall To Nazi Hands

Lt. Clarence "Boney" Lipsky, pilot of the first Flying Fortress to be shot down in a big raid over France is alive and well in a German prison camp. He was first reported killed in action.

"Boney" graduated from U. V. M. in 1939. While in college he was active in student affairs, member of Gold Key, Key and Serpent and held military honors.

According to information received by his mother, the lieutenant is the first United states airman to fall into Nazi hands.

On September 6, Lipsky went on a raid over occupied France. Enemy interceptor and heavy bombardment set the giant bomber on fire. With flames leaping from the fuselage, wings smashed and motor missing, Boney continued on his course keeping in formation until he dropped the bombs over his objective—airplane factories.

According to Col. Frank Armstrong, his squadron leader, Lipsky kept his ship flying until several members of his crew had parachuted to safety. Then, "still giving hell with his ship guns, though the plane was entirely out of control, Lipsky shot earthward out of sight."

Mrs. Lipsky was then notified that her son was missing. Last week he received the second notification stating that the International Red Cross had received word from him that he was safe.

Redstone Campus To Hold Formal Dinner

... and Mrs. Wells Pyle and Mrs. Millis, and Dean Simpson will be guests at the annual formal Christmas dinner at Robinson Hall this evening. As is the custom a male quartet will sing Christmas songs during the dinner. This annual formal dinner is an old Christmas tradition on Redstone campus, and one of which all Redstone girls are proud.

Square Dancing at Waterman Saturday

The good old fashioned square and round dancing that was held in the Waterman Building Saturday night, under the direction of the Sophomore Aides, went over in a big way for all those attending. The hall was tastefully decorated with crepe crepe[illegible] and milk pails with the main feature of the decorations a huge scare crow in the middle of the floor. Frank Thompson's jazz orchestra provided music for the dancing, and the leader used the "Public Address System" of calling the dances.

Margery Anthony was in complete charge of arrangements for the dance, with Shirley Needham in head of the decoration committee, Marjorie Bolan of the ticket committee, and Ruth Jordan in charge of chaperones. With the combined efforts of all the Sophomore Aide members the evening was a great success.

Miss Wesby, Professor and Mrs McKee, and Professor and Mrs Morton were chaperones for the dance.

The Cynic

I am replying to the article which appeared in last Friday's CYNIC in which the writer states that "the office of Director of Admissions was set up under the head of Heath K. Riggs, and Riggs proceeded to assume the duties of the freshmen orientation program." It further states that "so far as the fact and figures would lead us it must be assumed that the Director of Admissions was set up in business for the express purpose of directing freshman activities, thus leaving no need for supervision by a student committee."

Evidently no investigation into the facts of the situation was made by the writer of this article. The freshman orientation program was not planned by the Director of Admissions but rather by the Senate Committee on Student Personnel. The Director of Admissions is not even a member of this Senate Committee. The Committee on Student Personnel planned this orientation program and transmitted it to me through the chairman for publication in the "Freshman Preliminary Days" the publication of this leaflet has been a function of Registrar's Office for several years, for which I have the responsibility. Some of the minor details of this program were left to me by the committee. These details were concerned with the assigning of rooms and the securing of help for the execution of the program. There has been no "unsurpation of power" by the Director of Admissions in this matter; rather I have carried out the work that has been assigned to me to the best of my ability.

May I humbly suggest, before any more personalities are involved in this matter, that a combined meeting of the Senate Committee on Student Personnel and the Student Committee on Freshman Orientation be held with the President of the University as soon as possible for a clarification of the duties and responsibilities of each. I am certain that a cooperative arrangement between the two committees can be worked out.

Sincerely yours,
HEATH K. RIGGS
Director of Admissions

Prof. Metcalf Addresses Club

On Thursday evening, December 3, Prof. A. F. Metcalf, Chairman of the Department of Psychology, spoke on "The Use of Psychology in Warfare" at the regular meeting meeting of the John Dewey Club.

Professor Metcalf spoke of some of his personal experiences as an officer engaged in psychological work at Fort Devens in the last war. The chief uses in World War I made of psychology were the use of group intelligence tests such as the Army Alpha in order to help to classify recruits quickly and accurately for the jobs which they were best fitted to fill, the use of psychology in aviation, and the use of psychology in the rehabilitation of soldiers returned from the front, especially shell-shock victims. Professor Metcalf then pointed out that after the Armistice psychologists were not included in the standing American Army as they were in the German Army which, although it was composed of only 100,000 men, by the use of psychological methods of selection and training, was capable of being rapidly expanded into a powerful war machine with the standing Army as the nucleus of the enlarged Army of the Reich. Thus the speaker forcibly stressed "the use of psychology in warfare" and by implication stressed the need and usefulness of having trained psychologists in our Army after this war.

At this meeting twelve new members were initiated: Jane Collins, '44; John Corliss, '44; Patricia Fowell, '44; Betty Hawkinson, '44; Lloyd Hazen, '44; Llewellyn Jones, '43; Ione Lacy, '44; Farnham Little, '46; Hilda Lund, '43; Peggy Palmer, '44; Shirley Wedge, '44; and Sylvia Wellwood, '44.

Fort Chaplain Addresses Newman Club Today

At services on Wednesday morning, December 16, 1942, the Newman Club will have as its guest speaker Father Murphy, chaplain at Fort Ethan Allen. Father Murphy's talk should prove very illuminating and helpful to the men on campus who are planning to enter the armed services soon. A graduate of Notre Dame, Father Murphy is familiar with college students and should prove a very interesting speaker.

At a meeting of the officers and executive board plans were made for a Communion breakfast before mid-years. It was also decided that committees would be formed to organize the students in groups to see Father Cassidy privately. It is hoped that the students will cooperate with this new arrangement.

Larry Gardner and Joe Corbett To Be At Smoker

On Thursday night in the student lounge Gold Key, sophomore men's honorary society will hold the last in its series of smokers for freshman men.

The speakers for the occasion will be Larry Gardner, Director of Athletics, and Joe Corbett, President of Student Government. A medical student, agent for a lumber company in the State of Washington will, present a very interesting technicolor movie showing the history of lumber from the sawing down of the tree to the presentation of the finished product to the public.

There will be community singing for which the new campus sing books will be used, and refreshments will be served.

Delta Psi wishes to announce the pledging of Daan Zwick '42.

Sig Bowlers Score Twice

Owls, Phi Delts Bow-- Sigma Nu Beats ATO

In a postponed encounter, the Sigma Phis, tripped a weak Owl spillers 5-2. The winners had plenty of consistency filling in their weak spots to good advantage. Browne, of the Owls, made it somewhat of a moral victory by taking high single with 114 and high double with a 207. Brud Sutton featured for the winners with a 109 string.

The Sigma Nu's, continued their winning ways by shutting out the ATOs 7-0. Again Harry Packer and Ed. Boyden sparked their team; Harry with a great 125 and Ed with the high doubles 228. The champs are yet to be stopped and they promise a great battle for top honors this year.

In a close match, the Phi Sigma Delta squad eked a win over the Independents, 6-1.

J. Machanic bowled a great game for the winners, taking high double with 232, Luna, mainstay of the Independents, came through with a high single of 125. The pin fall was close. The Phi Sigs having 1006 and the Independents, a close 1000.

The Sigma Phi team won by the "proverbial" skin of their teeth, 6-1, in a match with the Phi Delts. Al Wees, copped high single with 118. The Sigs had to be content to take 219, for high double. The Sigs have yet to go down in defeat, but they have dropped considerably since their first win. They must come back fast, or they will be soon a second best squad.

In this week's matches, the SAE meet the Sigma Nus, and the Owls take on the Delta Psi in a Tuesday match. On Wednesday the IEPs tangle with the Independents, and the ATOs clash with the Sigma Phi.

All members of Le Cercle Français, except those who came last Wednesday, are asked to come to Southwick, Tuesday, December 15, at 7.30 o'clock to try out for the two French plays which will be given in February.

Sigma Nu, ATO Win On Court

Leaders Stay Unbeaten-- SAEs Win First, 27-16

Vermont has been fast and furious in the gymnasium court these past few days as the fraternity quintets battle it out for supremacy in their respective leagues. Some really good ball has been displayed by several of the combines and rough and tumble action has featured most of the tilts thus far. Partisans of the game have been on hand whenever games are scheduled to direct on their favorite clubs.

The Sigma Nu hoopsters exhibited a fine passing game and several hawk-eyed shots last week end as they took measure of the Phi Delta Theta stalwarts, 31-13. Working the ball through the Phi Delt defense the Sigma Nuers piled up the score with ease. For the winners Roy West dunked in the most tallies with 13 points to his credit. Bob Bloomer was close behind with eight and Wright netted six. For the Blue and White foot baller Bill Bennett was high man with six markers.

On Saturday afternoon the SAE five took the floor against the Sigs and emerged some forty two minutes later with their first victory of the season, 27-16. The Summitt Street lads showed plenty of court savvy despite a rather ragged passing game. Lanky Dick Grosvenor was high scorer with eleven points while Bud Pierce, dapper SAE forward brought up the rear with six counters. For the much trampled but game Sigma Phis, freshman Ronnie Page topped the roster with eight. The SAE lads showed much improvement over their first appearance and may prove a real threat to league leaders.

In the day's nightcap, the ATO powerhouse loosed a second half blitzkrieg to trample the Delta Psi quintet 23-12. Leading by only one point at the half way marker the ATO five moderated so far this year turned on the heat in the third and second quarters to down the valiant but outscored Delts. Slam-bang action featured the tussle as both clubs surged up and down the floor. Monk Martin took scoring honors with twelve points, while Ellis netted six. Dudley Davis and Stu Haven played great floor games for the losers and Spook Little exhibited some spectacular shooting. Bicoulous and Chesarone were also outstanding for the ATOs, as was freshman Frank Sugrue.

Evansmen Face Strong Tufts and Providence Fives

Jumbos and Friars Among East's Best

[illegible] week [illegible] of the [illegible] against [illegible] Coach [illegible] Evans' [illegible] squad will have [illegible] games [illegible] Christmas [illegible] coaching [illegible] ground to [illegible] by more [illegible] hours' [illegible] sweat.

The Vermont five [illegible] Tuesday [illegible] and will [illegible] play [illegible] Medford, Mass., against a [illegible] powerful Tufts outfit.

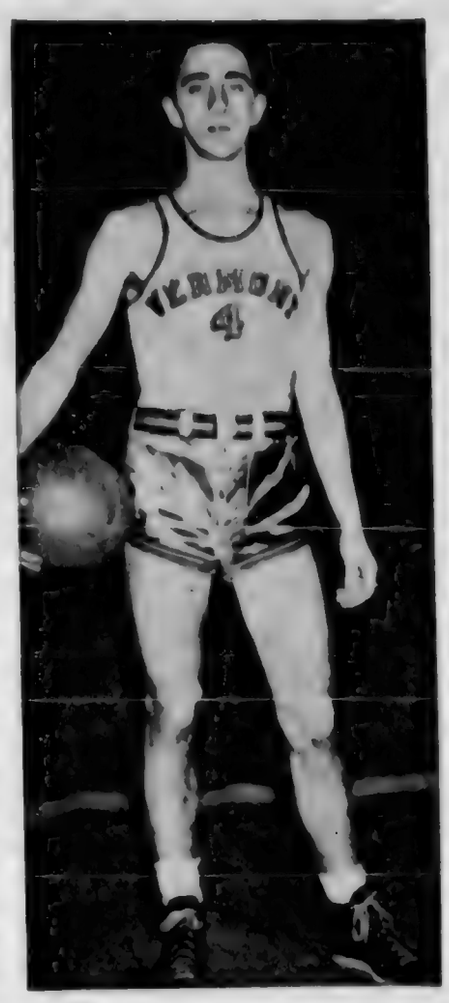
The following night they [illegible] the [illegible] to the state of Rhode Island meeting Providence College at Providence. The Friar team, Providence are rated as one of the best basketball outfits in the east and will be set to give the Evansmen [illegible] hour of court work to boot.

Saturday's 38-36 thriller over Williams proved beyond a doubt to the many die hard followers of the Vermont hoopsters that the club has the makings of one of the best fives in some years.

Squad Intact

With Lanny Killick finally recovered from a painful shoulder [illegible] the starting assignment at forward, LaPointe, Beaulieu and Doherty the Cats will be clawing for their fifth win [illegible] the northern New Englanders a few nights hence.

Although Milt [illegible] only five counters through the netting against Williams his [illegible] passing, [illegible] and clutch shooting won the game for the Cats and will render him a potent force against Tufts and Providence.



Although Red White saw a lieutenant in the Marines, dropped in the deciding basket as a 17-18 year senior. Lanny a year ago, it was the point making of Killick and Beaulieu that prospered for the Cats victory. Milt chalked up two double markers while Larry rang up a total of twelve points.

Friars New Foe

On their southern swing Dick Senior's Vermont record [illegible] against M. I. T. and was set back 48-38. This year the Providence Five will fall in for the engineers and shape up as an unknown quantity other than the name they have set for themselves here in the east.

Thanks to Doherty, LaPointe and Beaulieu who did some real service off the backboard against Williams, the Green and Gold saw no possession of the ball, a good share of the time which may prove a deciding factor against the fast and clever playing of Tufts and Providence.

In addition to Lanny [illegible] Mike [illegible] and George Anderson have seen a lot of action at Vermont, their games to date [illegible] will be important cogs in the Cats machine on their week end jaunt.

Larry Killick Cat forward who is setting the scoring pace for his team for the second year. The talented shotmaker netted 13 points in the win over Williams and is expected to lead the Vermont offensive against Tufts and Providence.

Vt. Debating Team On New York Trip

Rutgers and Brooklyn To Play Host Friday

[illegible] meeting [illegible] of the [illegible] will [illegible] of Vice Pres[illegible] this week [illegible] 44 and John Kerr [illegible] 44 will [illegible] Friday, December 18 against Rutgers University and Long Island University. The debates will take place at 2:30 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. respectively. The subject [illegible] Resolved: That [illegible] 44 and John Rankin 44 will uphold the affirmative side of the question.

Each team will take the affirmative on the question of Resolved: That the United States should establish a permanent federal union with power to [illegible] and regulate international commerce, to maintain a police force to settle [illegible] disputes and to enforce such settlements and to give aid for the admission of other nations which accept the principles of the union." [illegible] know what they have given the public to [illegible] the two [illegible] look [illegible] formative side of the question.

To [illegible] these debates the Vermont team held its own against tough opposition.

This will be the end of a semester of much debating. Vermont met two college teams on its own campus, while it made four trips to debate eleven colleges. The successful arrangement of all these trips is entirely due to Mr. [illegible] Flowers, debating coach, who is already making plans to send out his teams against any opposition during the second semester.

Rehearsal For Those Interested in Caroling

[illegible] those interested in Christmas caroling should [illegible] Music Studio in Old Mead [illegible] Wednesday night. One rehearsal will be held Wednesday at 4 p.m. in the practice rooms. Those who cannot attend this rehearsal but who still want to go may do so by meeting at the student lounge at 7 on Thursday night.

CANDIDATES WANTED FOR RIFLE TEAM

Candidates for the rifle team report at the military office before Wednesday December 16. Freshmen are eligible for varsity competition.

The military department is starting an intensive program of instruction. For the rest of this semester and well into the next semester, up-to-date training films will be shown at least once a week. It is evident that visual aid in instruction is worth a great deal more than lectures. These modern films are sure to help a lot. The first one was shown Wednesday evening December 9.

The military department is in a position to accept for enrollment in the Enlisted Reserve Corps, a limited number of outstanding juniors and seniors who graduate not earlier than May 18, 1943, and who have a high academic standing in scientific or specialized courses which render them of particular value to the government in the war effort. A limited quota of men who prior to the present have not been able to be accepted may also be enlisted. All men interested should report at once to the military department to be considered and entered before December 15 when all enlistments terminate.

Monsieur Lanou French Club Guest

Eminent Frenchman Gives Views on Politics

[illegible] Mrs. E. F. [illegible] were hosts [illegible] meeting [illegible] the Alliance Francaise and [illegible] a discussion on contacts between [illegible] and the French language. The speaker was to [illegible] Frenchman Monsieur Pierre de Lanux, who presented his interpretation of the French character, politics and outlook today.

M. de Lanux has traveled widely in the past few years addressing groups interested in international affairs all over the United States and many foreign countries. He was in charge of the Office of the League of Nations for a number of years. He has known most of the leaders of the French government since that time. At present he lectures three times a week at Middlebury College on Contemporary Civilization, the course formerly given by Prof. Waldo Heinrichs, now in the Air Force.

In an informal discussion M. de Lanux demonstrated the individualism of his people by saying that where there is one Frenchman there is one political party; this figure multiplied by the millions of French people can give some idea of the problems confronting those who govern France. The speaker assured his audience that there was never a question of the disloyalty of the leaders of France, to his mind. Marshal Petain, in his opinion, has hurt the cause of France by being at the beginning so much respected by his own people that they didn't realize that he was merely acting under Hitler's orders. One tremendous fault of the French army which proved most fatal was the backwardness of her leaders, who were not converted to the necessity of mechanization of the arms and it was they who were responsible for the quick fall of France. Their troops fought well and 200,000 of them were killed, that number being third highest among the losses of the countries at war, exceeded only by the losses of China and Russia.

It lies within the power of the French people to come back to their position of importance in world affairs. Time and again in the past the nation has seemed on the verge of extinction, only to unite and rise again. It will be so once more. The same characteristics of a Frenchman which cause him to dispute the wisdom of the leaders of his own government will prevent the conquerors from imposing a lasting domination over him. Thus reasons M. de Lanux.

A permanent speaker personally informed to speak for France, M. de Lanux left an impression of super understanding of the problems and of the possible solutions to France's present situation. It may well be that he will play one of the chief roles in the reorganization of France when the time comes.
